The critical point in the history of every prisoner is the day he leaves prison. In this connection the Salvation Army is doing a magnificent work in furnishing employment for the ex-convicts and steadying them in their efforts to regain their social equilibrium. So says the final report of the National Prison Congress.

NIPPED IN THE BUD.

Mr. Hamar Greenwood on Canada and Imperial Defence.

LORD HAMILTON'S REASONS.

Why Late Secretary of State For India Resigned From Cabinet—The Scotsman on Chamberlain's Scheme as Viewed by Working Men—Staffordshire Potteries Favor Fiscal Proposals.

London, Oct. 23.—(C.A.P.)—Hamar Greenwood, addressing the York Liberals at a demonstration last night, repeated the statement that there had been a scheme on foot in Canada to contribute to a huge scheme of admiralty construction for Imperial defence, but it was dropped through the cooling loyalty of the French-Canadians.

Chamberlain Goes Ahead.

London, Oct. 23.—(C.A.P.)—The Scotsman says: "The fact that Mr. Chamberlain moves from success to success is the most remarkable feature of the situation. Outside of the party politician there is no real hostility to his scheme. Nowhere is there a show of a sign that the workmen of the country are opposed now to his fiscal policy. Mr. Chamberlain hints that the general election will not come so soon as the prophets predict, and he promises during the interval to educate the country.

Mr. Ritchie says that on Dec. 12, at Croydon, he will make a complete answer to Mr. Chamberlain.

Potteries Pledged.

London, Oct. 23.—The Staffordshire potteries at a largely attended meeting pledged themselves yesterday to further the fiscal proposals of Mr. Chamberlain.

Miners Oppose Chamberlain.

London, Oct. 23.—Representatives of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain held a conference in London yesterday to consider Joseph Chamberlain's fiscal proposals and passed a resolution to the effect that in their opinion any change in the fiscal policy of the country would be detrimental to its general interests.

LORD HAMILTON'S REASONS.

Why Secretary For India Resigned From the Cabinet.

London, Oct. 23.—In an address to his constituents at Ealing, Lord Geo. Hamilton, late Secretary of State for India, has given for the first time his version of the recent Cabinet resignations. He said that at the Cabinet meeting on the last day of the Parliamentary session Premier Balfour produced a program which included preferential tariffs and the taxation of food.

The Cabinet adjourned that day without reaching a decision. After the meeting on September 14 Lord Balfour, then Secretary for Scotland; C. T. Ritchie, then Chancellor of the Exchequer, and he agreed to place their resignations in the hands of the Duke of Devonshire, then Lord President of the Council, who would present them with his own.

It was not until Sept. 16 that Lord George Hamilton learned of Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's resignation, and that the Duke of Devonshire had retained his office. He declared Premier Balfour treated the members of the Cabinet, other than the Duke of Devonshire, unfairly.

With regard to the general fiscal policy Lord George Hamilton declared that a tax on food with limitations. He said also that he believed thoroughly in retaliation that would give the country a better chance for the negotiations of reciprocity treaties. He thought no member of the Cabinet would have resigned on such a proposition. He said the present propaganda was protection pure and simple.

CONFESSION SIGNED BY LYNCH.

Admits His Guilt in Smuggling Chinese Into the U.S.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Oct. 23.—Immigration officials of the American Soo believe they have uncovered a plot by which it was intended to smuggle Chinamen into their country by the wholesale. On Monday last they arrested Jack Lynch and two Celestials, who had been smuggled across the river below the city, and who were on the train at Dafter Station out from the Soo bound for Chicago. Lynch yesterday signed a written confession showing that parties in the Canadian Soo and Toronto were implicated in the scheme. He further confessed that he had been engaged in smuggling opium at Buffalo.

The Next War Scare.

London, Oct. 23.—A despatch to The Daily Mail from Yokohama says the Government has issued an official denial to a published statement that a preliminary mobilization order has been issued to the Japanese army. There is considerable belief in local circles, continues the correspondent, that this denial is merely technical.

Out For Her Husband.

London, Oct. 23.—(C. A. P.)—Mrs. Lyttleton's fiscal campaign during her husband's illness has called out admiration from both parties. A Leamington canvasser remarked: "The successful candidates of the future are those who take to bed and send their wives to do the work."

Government Appointments.

Ottawa, Oct. 23.—The Government have appointed F. T. Congdon Governor of the Yukon and William I. Walsh, H. W. Newlands and O. H. Clark, Dawson City, to be King's Counsel.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. Galway a Naval Base.

London, Oct. 22.—(C. A. TO PLACATE CANADA

Suggestions in London As to What May Be Done.

GREATER SELF-GOVERNMENT

The London Times on Mr. Aylesworth's Strong Protest—A Most Minute Discussion of the Whole Treaty Question—At Liverpool, He Said the Award Was Rather Compromise Than Judicial.

London, Oct. 23.—(C. A. P.)—The general opinion in London holds to the belief that Canada, in view of the adverse decision on the Alaskan matter, can now ask the British Government for all she wants.

The suggestion is being widely made that the United States should concede the two islands she obtained in the Portland Canal in return for the concession by Canada of the rest of the United States' case, or the concession of the Canadian case regarding the boundary line in return for the acquisition of Pearse and Wales Islands by the United States.

Another suggestion is that Canada should receive nearly the whole of the territory arbitrated in return for a British sacrifice in another part of the world.

The cost of the recent arbitration is estimated at close to $400,000. Canada spent nearly $200,000 in preparing the case and in fees to British lawyers.

The United States' expenditure was about $100,000.

Mr. Aylesworth's Dissent.

London, Oct. 23.—The Times yesterday morning published the dissenting opinion presented to the Alaska Boundary Tribunal by A. B. Aylesworth, K. C., one of the Canadian commissioners. It is dated Oct. 17, and takes up three columns in The Times, and is a most minute discussion of the whole treaty question, and a recital of Mr. Aylesworth's reasons for disagreeing with the majority. It concludes as follows:

"I have merely to say that the course the majority of this tribunal has decided to take with regard to the islands at the entrance of the Portland Channel is, in my humble judgment, so opposed to the plain requirements of justice, and so absolutely irreconcilable with any disposition of that branch of this case upon principles of a judicial character, that I respectfully decline to affix my signature to their award.

(Signed) "Aylesworth."

Will Demand Greater Powers.

Liverpool, Oct. 23.—Before leaving here yesterday A. B. Aylesworth, K. C., one of the Canadian commissioners to the Alaska Boundary Tribunal, said in justification of his refusal to sign the award:

"It was more of a compromise than a judicial decision. Its effect will be that Dominion goods traversing the disputed territory must pay high tariff duties to the United States. The Canadians feel so keenly on this subject that, although there will be no cry of separation, they probably will demand a larger power of self-government in order to prevent in the future a repetition of such decisions."

Leave Bargaining to Canada.

London, Oct. 23.—(C.A.P.)—Douglas Sladen suggests that England should give the Bahama Islands to America in exchange for the territory desired in Alaska. He advises that Englishmen had better leave bargaining to Canadians, who have local knowledge which the English have not.

Canada Advised to Hold Fast.

London, Oct. 23.—(C.A.P.)—James Reddan, the chief expert of the British Foreign Office in the Venezuela arbitration, declares that after a most careful study of the discussions of the Alaska Boundary Commission he is of the opinion that Canada should not give way on the question nor accept a compromise decision.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE

In Store for Those Who Doubt.

When you read that a sufferer of many years' standing has been completely restored to health by using Smith's Cure-all, you are inclined to doubt the statement and, in fact, have no belief in it whatever. The reason for this is that so much is claimed for the Cure-all it is impossible for anyone to believe it; if the advertiser confined his claims to the curing of one disease, as do the proprietors of Pyramid Pile Cure, readers would have much more faith in published testimonials. Those familiar with this great remedy know that testimonials as to its merit may be relied upon implicitly, also that the cures brought about by its use are little short of marvelous. The genuineness of the testimonial here given is vouched for and is but one of thousands received:—

"I wish to write you and tell you what your Pyramid Pile Cure has done for me. I have been troubled with piles for the past five years and used every remedy that was recommended to me. While some would give me relief for a while they never have cured. I was so bad this summer I could not get up or down without pain; could not attend to my household duties. Finally I got a 50-cent box of your Pyramid Pile Cure at the druggist's and it is now two months since I used the last of the box, and have had no trouble since. I can say it is really and truly a good remedy.

"I am so thankful I tried it as I know it has cured me, and if at any time I should have any such trouble again I would use it at once. Since I am cured I have recommended it to my friends, whom I know to be afflicted as I was, and I know they will use it too. I am so thankful I ever learned of your cure." Mrs. F. Hutt, 400 2nd street, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists for fifty cents a package, or will be mailed to any address upon receipt of price by Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich. Write this firm for their book describing the cause and cure of piles.

Fell From a Bridge.

Chatham, Oct. 23. — Wednesday night Jos. J. King, an aged farmer of Dover South, met with a fatal accident near this city. He had been on a visit to his son, and in crossing the bridge over the big Government drain he is supposed to have been overtaken by a weak spell, to which he was subject, and fallen off the bridge, striking his head and receiving wounds that caused his death. The body was not discovered for some hours, when it was found with the feet in the water.

Jailed For His Speech.

Ottawa, Oct. 23.—Joseph Malhiot, a drygood clerk, was sent to jail yesterday morning by Magistrate O'Keefe for one day for contempt of court. Malhiot was witness in a stealing case, and refused to give his testimony in English, although it was clearly demonstrated that he could speak that language well. He insisted on speaking French, and will have a day in jail to meditate on it.

Two Out of 14 Saved.

Newport News, Va., Oct. 23.—On the Nova Scotia schooner John K. Kirkman, which arrived here last night, are two seamen of the crew of the Gloucester fishing schooner J. L. Williams, which went to pieces on a reef off Cod Light in the storm last Friday morning. They are probably the only survivors of the fourteen men on board when the schooner struck.

A. W. Robb Nominated.

Toronto, Oct. 23.—At the South Bruce Liberal convention held yesterday at Formosa, A. W. Robb, editor of The Walkerton Telescope, received the nomination.

Mrs. Charles H. Spurgeon Dead.

London, Oct. 23.—The widow of the Rev. Charles H. Spurgeon died yesterday.

His Maternal Grandma.

A devoted father after a day's absence was met by his two little sons. "Have you been good boys?"

Silence.

"Have you been good boys?"

"No, papa; I called grandma a bad word," said five-year-old, turning scarlet.

"Is it possible? What did you call your grandma?"

"I called her a human being."

The father, with mighty effort, maintained his gravity and closed the scene decorously. "I must forgive you for once, but remember if you ever call your grandmother a human being again I shall have to spank you."

Did as He Promised.

During the civil war there was one conscription fakir who made thousands of dollars before the authorities restrained him. This rascal would send letters broadcast, wherein he said he would communicate for $3 a sure means of escaping the conscription. Letters inclosing two dollar notes poured in on him, and in reply to each letter he would send a printed slip reading, "Join the nearest volunteer regiment."

Colds are quickly cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It acts on nature's plan, loosens the cough, relieves the lungs and opens the secretions, effecting a permanent cure. Everywhere the people are coughing. The sudden changes of temperature at this season of the year give rise to coughs and colds which need only to be neglected to develop into

Bronchitis or Pneumonia.

The mere mention of coughs and colds suggests to most minds the advisability of using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

Not that this is the only treatment for such ailments, but because it has time and again proven its superiority by curing not only coughs and colds, but also bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, asthma, pneumonia and even consumption in its earlier stages, when other remedies seemed of no avail.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is a great favorite with mothers, both because of its extraordinary soothing and healing properties, and because children like to take it.

Many a child has been saved from bronchitis and consumption; many a life has been spared by the timely use of this great medicine, and prudence suggests the wisdom of always keeping a bottle at hand in order to prevent serious and fatal developments of coughs and colds, and to quickly cure croup, which so frequently comes when least expected.

Like most preparations which have attained a world-wide reputation and enormous sales, Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has many imitations.

Be careful when buying. Refuse substitutes which do not possess sufficient merit to make a reputation for themselves. Insist on seeing the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase on the bottle you buy.

MRS. LLOYD.

Mrs. J. W. Lloyd, Albion street, Belleville, Ont., states:—"In the beginning of last winter I took a very severe cold accompanied with a bad cough and was almost laid up for a time. I tried several remedies but with indifferent results. On the advice of a friend I got a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and found that it relieved the cough at once. By the time I had taken the one bottle my cold was gone and I can truthfully recommend it as a splendid remedy for coughs and colds."

Mrs. J. Provost, Renfrew, Ont., writes:—"My boy, fourteen years of age, had a very serious cold on his chest last winter, and I was afraid he was going to die. He coughed nearly all the time and spit up blood. We had given up all hops of cure when we heard of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. After using one bottle he was greatly improved, and I can certify that two bottles completely cured him. I know of no medicine which acts so promptly and I gratefully recommend it to others."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine

Is sold by all dealers at the advertised price of 25 cents a bottle, family size, three times as much, 60 cents. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

☞ To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous Receipt Book author, are on every bottle of his remedies.

Startling Revelations.

It frequently happens that people suffer for years from kidney derangements without knowing the cause of their backaches, aching limbs and other bodily sufferings. Suddenly the truth is revealed to them that they are the victims of serious kidney disease and in imminent danger. There is no remedy that gives such prompt and lasting relief for every form of kidney disease as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are positively effective even in the most chronic cases.

EXCELLENT PROGRAMME FURNISHED LAST NIGHT.

St. John's Girls' Guild Gave an Old Time Social.

A Number of Young Persons in Costume —The Affair a Marked Success.

The Old Time Social given last night in St. John's Sunday school room, under the auspices of the Girls' Guild of that church, was attended by a large number of persons, who gave the usual evidence of being well pleased with the programme, and the manner in which it was carried out. What added a touch of uniqueness to the scene was the presence of some twenty young folk in costume, representing the olden times, who were the source of considerable interest as well as amusement.

The programme opened with a vocal solo by Miss Corey of Petrolea, entitled, "Good Bye, Sweet Day," which was well rendered. What were perhaps the most interesting selections of the evening were the piano solos by Miss Wilhelmine Gumpricht, who displayed a freedom of action and correctness of ear such as only musicians of a high order can boast. Miss Gumpricht was encored on each occasion.

Miss Mary Rush, accompanied by her sister, sang, "O Dry those Tears," and should be proud of the splendid reception accorded her. As an encore she gave "Till then, Dear Heart." During the evening the All Saints church male quartette sang "Stars of the Summer Night," "The Story of a Tack," and "Juanita," all of which evoked unstinted applause. The quartette is composed of Rev. W. L. Armitage, and Messrs. J. Legg, R. H. Shepherd and Jas. Browne. Their execution was neat and precise and the tones well sustained. A vocal solo which evoked almost deafening applause was "Anchors Weighed," sung by Mr. J. Laurence. It is a song in which he can be heard to perfection, being especially suited to his voice. As an encore, which was demanded, Mr. Laurence gave "Bonnie Jean."

Miss O. White gave a recitation entitled "The Fox's Tail." As an amateur Miss White gave a selection which would have been a credit to anyone of her class. The Misses Margaret and Charlotte English gave an instrumental duet, which was accorded an enthusiastic reception. The piece was the "Chariot Race," from Ben Hur, the rendition being most vivid. Miss Margaret English, who leaves on Monday for Detroit, was presented with a beautiful bouquet of flowers.

The other selections on the programme were Chorus, "Old Black Joe," by those in costume; a vocal solo, "Loch Lomond," Miss Ruth Dawson, and a recitation by Miss Edna Canniff, the evening being brought to a close with refreshments. The social element, which was the original intention, was largely subordinated to the entertainment feature.

The young ladies of the Guild, not having other opportunity, wish through the Examiner, to acknowledge the gallant kindness of the young men who assisted them, and to thank very cordially those who contributed to so excellent a programme as was presented.

FACULTY AND STUDENTS TO BE HERE TO-MORROW.

School of Practical Science Annual Trip Will be Made Here.

The students of the School of Practical Science, Toronto, accompanied by about twenty members of the Faculty, will be in town to-morrow on their annual visit to an industrial city, this year Peterborough being the place chosen. The whole party will number probably 250 persons, who will arrive by a special train leaving Toronto at 7 a.m., and reaching here at 10 o'clock, via Port Hope. The train will stop at the Canadian Cordage Company's works, where the majroity of the visitors will leave it to visit the Cordage Works and the Canadian General Electric Company's establishment. A portion of the party will visit Lakefield to inspect the Cement Works, and those who intend doing so will not stop at the works mentioned but will come into the town at once, and before going to Lakefield will visit the lift lock and the Cereal Company's Power House and dam.

The main body of the students, however, will not visit these places until the afternoon. The whole company will take luncheon at the Oriental Hotel at 12.30, after which those who intend visiting Lakefield will take the train at 1.30 for that town. Those remaining in town will be taken around to the different industrial establishments and public works in carriages provided by the town, Mayor Roger and Ald. Rush having been given the pleasant duty of entertaining the visitors on behalf of the town. The lift lock will probably be the first point visited, and Mr. Rogers, the engineer in charge, will explain the working to the students. After this the Cereal works, the Cereal dam and power house, the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company's works, Peter Hamilton agricultural works, and other manufactories, will be visited.

The special train will leave here at 9 p.m., for Toronto. As an especially cheap rate has been secured from the railway company, there will doubtless be a number of visitors in addition to those coming from the school.

MR. AND MRS. McGREGOR TENDERED A RECEPTION.

Pleasant Affair at No. 291 Reid Street, the Residence of Mr. J. H. Symons.

At the residence of Mr. Jos. H. COUNTY COUNCILLORS AT GANNON'S NARROWS.

Official Opening of the New Floating Bridge.

The Visitors Were Entertained by the Harvey Ladies—Trip Made to Buckhorn Where the Bridge was Inspected.

Perhaps no public work has ever been undertaken in the County, that has proven of more benefit to those affected by it, than the recently erected floating bridge at Gannon's Narrows. To appreciate the great benefit which this bridge will be to the residents of Harvey township one has but to ask anyone living in that section of the county. When the ferry was established there, some years ago, it was considered a great convenience, as indeed it was, but even this was a doubtful benefit, because of the fact that there were times during certain seasons of the year when the ferry could not be operated. In the spring and fall and during a storm it was useless, and instances are quoted of persons driving from Peterborough to Harvey, and when they reached the ferry, but two miles from their destination, were forced, because the ferry could not be operated, to return by way of Buckhorn, to reach their objective point, an extra drive of over 30 miles. When these facts are stated, it will be quite easy to believe that those living in the township, the residents of which the bridge will convenience, will feel highly elated at the action of the County Council in providing this means of easy communication with Peterborough. Although the bridge has been open for traffic since August, the official opening took place yesterday, when a visit was paid to it by the members of the County Council, the party being in charge of Mr. Geo. Fitzgerald, chairman of the Committee on Roads and Bridges. The party left Peterborough driving to Chemong, where the yacht, "Lady of the Lake," owned by Mr. W. R. Kelly, with Mr. Smith Kelly as captain was boarded and a pleasant sail enjoyed to the Narrows. Those in the party were, Robt. Crowe, Warden; G. W. Fitzgerald, chairman of the Roads and and Bridges Committee; Councillors E. A. Peck, T. J. Johnson, T. M. Hunter, R. Shaw, W. T. Curtis, W. T. Buck, D. Maloney, and R. P. Watt, County Clerk. Besides the members of the Council there were Messrs. R. J. Munro, G. Elliott, J. J. Lundy, W. R. G. Higgins, T. E. Bradburn, E. M. Elliott, R. B. Rogers and representatives of the Peterborough daily papers.

On arrival at the bridge the party was met by a large gathering representing the residents of the township of Harvey, who showed their appreciation of the efforts of the County Council in their behalf in an unmistakable way. The bridge was thoroughly inspected by the Council, and officially declared open by Chairman G. W. Fitzgerald. Mr. Boyd, of Bobcaygeon, brought a party down from that town in his handsome yacht to be present at the opening ceremonies.

Although the bridge has already been described in these columns, a few facts relating to it may not be amiss. It is 1,375 feet long, with a swing sufficiently long to allow all craft sailing the lakes to pass through. Three piers have been built as anchors, and the substantial construction of the bridge is ample evidence of its stability. The cost of the structure is placed at $5,100, although it did not in reality cost that amount. A quantity of old timber, which had previously composed a portion of the bridge at Chemong, was used in this bridge. This is valued at about $2,000, so that the actual cash outlay will be in the neighbourhood of $3,100. To meet this grants were received from both the Dominion and Provincial Governments to the extent of $1,000 each, which was supplemented by a grant of $300 from the Township of Harvey, so that the actual cost to the county will be an inconsiderable one. The bridge was built by day labour, the engineer in charge being Mr. W. O'Leary, under whose guidance the work was expeditiously executed, and as the examination yesterday showed the structure is a substantial one. The supervision of the work, however, was done by Mr. G. W. Fitzgerald, under whose department the bridge is. Mr. Fitzgerald attended to the buying and had a general charge of the construction, and the result is a completed work of a satisfactory character.

An interested spectator at the opening yesterday was Mr. William Trenham, who 27 years ago built the first bridge at Chemong, and who was on hand yesterday to signalize the opening of the Gannon's Bridge, providing for the purpose of christening it, a bottle of elder-berry wine.

As an expression of the appreciation felt by the residents of Harvey, at the great convenience afforded them by the construction of the bridge by the council, the ladies of the township provided, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fulton, within a few hundred yards of the bridge, a sumptuous dinner for all the visitors. Some of the party distinguishing themselves by a somewhat large capacity for chicken pie, and the other dainties provided by the bounty of the ladies. Those to whom the thanks of the visitors for providing and serving the dinner, are due are: Mrs. Robt. Shaw, Mrs. Jas. Coons, Mrs. Robt. Fulton, Mrs. J. Edmison, Mrs. J. Smith, Mrs. Arch. Wilson and Misses Ethel Coons, Annie Smith, A. Smith, L. Wilson, Aggie Wilson, Belle Wilson, Flo. Wilson, Jennie Shaw, Mary Tedford, Martha Stevenson, Sybil Stevenson, Maggie Weir, Lizzie Smith, Miss Shearer and Miss Foote. It was a noticable fact that when the time came for departure some of the young men in the party evidenced a decided disinclination to leaving the scene of such pleasing associations.

On the return journey, a trip was made to Buckhorn, where the bridge was inspected. This structure is in such a condition that a new one will have to be built in a short time, and in the meantime, repairs will be made to it, to ensure the safety of passengers over it. It is believed that the Government will find it necessary in the near future to build a new dam at this place, and the proposition is to utilise the piers of the dam on which to build a bridge. Some repairs to the present structure, will, however, be made in the meantime.

From Buckhorn, the party returned to Chemong, where the conveyances were in waiting, and Peterborough was reached about 7.30, the result of the trip being to convince the members of the Council that in building the bridge a work had been accomplished which will be to the lasting benefit of the township of Harvey.

RUGBY.

The Wellesleys and the Victorias will play the scheduled game in the Intermediate O.R.F.U. at Toronto, to-morrow.

* * * *

The game in the City League to-morrow afternoon between the Rough Riders and Britannias promises to be the most interesting in the series thus far. The Rough Riders are now in the lead for the championship and should they win the game to-morrow can hardly be headed off. It is by no means an assured fact, however, that they will come out of the contest to-morrow victors, the Britannias by their decisive defeat of All Saint's last Saturday, have shown that they will have to be reckoned with in the running for the championship, and may prove the obstacle over which the Rough Riders on their march for the championship may stumble. It will be a good game in any event and will be well worth seeing. It will be called at 3 o'clock. The teams will be practically the same as in former games.

The game will be called at 3 o'clock sharp in order that it may be concluded in sufficient time to allow a game between the St. John's Choir Boys and the Rough Riders II to be played.

* * * *

In the Junior series of the City League the St. John's Choir Boys will play the Rough Riders II to-morrow afternoon at the Oval at the conclusion of the senior game.

* * * *

The standing of the teams in the the League is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	Tied.
Rough Riders	1	0	1
Britannias	1	1	0
All Saints	0	1	1

The following is the line up of the Junior Rough Riders— Full back, Lang; halves, Ackerman, Burnet and Wood; quarter, Cahill; snap, Hatton; wings, Perks, M. O'Brien, Sheffield, Sager, Hope and Wilson.

HOCKEY.

THE EXODUS TO PITTSBURG.

Ottawa, October 22. — G. M. Sixsmith, who has been visiting his parents in Ottawa for a month, left today for Pittsburg, where he will play hockey this winter. Mr. Sixsmith and his brother A E., were the stars of the Pittsburg League last winter. It is rumoured that several other Ottawa boys will go to the Smoky City before the snow flies on the same errand as the Sixsmith brothers.

Hockey club managers are reminded this early that no team is successful that cannot boast of at least one red-headed player.—Toronto Star.

It is rumoured that "Reddy" McMillan of Cornwall, will be found in the Belleville line up this winter. McMillan is a splendid player, and would prove a strong addition to any team.—Port Hope Guide.

GOUGH BROS.' GREAT AUTUMNAL OPENING.

It Was Also an Eye-opening to the Delighted Public.

Introducing Them to a Mastodontic Display of Splendid Clothing.

Gough Bros. the Wonderful Cheap Men—the Kings of Clothers are always to the front—always on top. Revolutionary Turk and Bulgar may hold the international boards, the perfidious Alverstone's cringing surrender may be forgotten. Thrones may rise and totter.

"Men may come and men may go,
But Goughs go on forever."

And they went the limit last night. "Did you drop in at Goughs' last night?" "No?" "Then you missed the great chance of your lifetime. Last night was Gough Bros. great autumnal opening—one of the most important events in regard to your winter clothing needs — that ever made the town stare. The whole place was a blaze of light, a parterre of flowers and resonant with delightful music. Every shelf, table, counter and "coign of vantage" was upholstered and piled high with samples of the most magnificent stock of clothing, hats, boots and shoes and gentlemen's furnishings ever kept from the rain by a single roof. Dropping in was like an entry into fairy land—only everything was solid reality—solid values in solid clothing, solid throngs of admiring people and above all Gough Bros. solid with the wise public in search of the biggest values for the least money."

It is not worth while to enter into details—one can't write a book in a daily paper—but the visitor on entering encountered a beautifully decorated triple shop, brilliantly lighted, and decked with palms and flowers, and an array of goods of bewildering values and artistic effectiveness. The lower floors could not contain the show—it bubbled up into the second floor where there was another most effective display of goods to be noted later.

To begin where all people who rise, begin at the bottom—of the human ladder—the boot and shoe department on the first floor demands attention. This is in charge of Mr. Wm. Shea, late of Toronto, and the display made proves that Gough Bros. Shea can make as good a "show" as Shea of Toronto The display was beautiful and effective, and doubtless much of the fine taste shown is due to Miss Minnie McCormack in charge of the ladies' boot and shoe branch of this department; by the way, the only department in which Gough Bros. cater to the debilimentary needs of the gentler sex, and the way they walk into the ladies' affections in regard to foot wear is explained by the splendid and tasty stock on hand. Everything in this department is new and "up-to-date." The slaughtering sales during the summer cleared out all old goods, and Gough Bros. fall and winter stock of boots and shoes is new and unsurpassable.

To go to the other extreme, the hat and cap department, in charge of Mr. Jack Gorham, is replete and complete with the latest shapes, styles and fabrics.

These always well stocked stores of Gough Bros. were never fitted with so fine a stock of men's suits and overcoats. The perfection reached in ready-to-wear clothing is simply surprising and the tailor can hardly understand how such splendid work can be turned out at the prices and Gough Bros. stock, is a revelation of the best that can be provided in this line—quality, highest; style, latest; prices, lowest; value, greatest. The boys' and children's clothing stock is also superbly complete and attractive. Mr. J. C. T. Lang is the presiding genius of this department.

Nevertheless, the department of tailored ordered clothing still caters to the prejudices of those who prefer to be particular and exclusive in dress, with a magnificent stock of Scotch and other tweeds. With Mr. Duncan Cameron, the veteran marksman, who always hits the bull's-eye when he aims at a fit, it is no wonder that this department was never before so busy.

Gentlemen's furnishings, through the medium of Mr. J. McFadden, challenge the admiration of all who want the best and tastiest in this line, and the immense stock meets the demands of every taste.

The up-stairs display revealed an idea of the possibilities of Gough Bros.' winter stock of over coats and fur coats. The firm has never before gone so extensively into fur goods, which include a grand line of overcoats in every variety of fur used for such purposes, and also a full line of fur caps for men and boys. This branch of the display was beautifully arranged, and is the result of the taste and judgment of Mr. W. S. Merrell, who with Mr. J. A. Tully, has general oversight of the establishment, and keep the mercantile machinery in good running order, and the provision they have made for the winter will keep it humming Merrelly.

The autumn opening last night was a splendid success. Coming and going, throngs of people came, saw, and admired the grandest, best and cheapest display of goods ever got together by Gough Bros., and there is no need to say anything more.

The managerial team — and they are spankers to go — Messrs. Tully and Merrell, not only provided a tasteful display, which represented their care for the substantial clothing needs of the public, but their good taste and thoughtfulness was shown in providing for the pleasure of the people.

Mr. J. H. Cobb, the florist, attended to the elaborate floral decorations, in evidence in every part of the stores, in his usual capable manner, using in the process about three score of beautiful and varied decorative plants.

A very loud word of commendation is due the orchestra, which liberally furnished capital music during the evening. The quality of the music and its general excellence was marvellous, when it is remembered that the orchestra was an emergency one, and that the several members never rehearsed or played together before coming upon the platform. When they did so splendidly under such conditions great things can be expected from full rehearsals together. The members of the orchestra were Miss Lottie. Bell, Keene, violin; Mr. Leonard Halley, clarinet; Mr. Richard Broderick and Mr J. Butcher, flutes; Mr. Arthur Seward, cornet.—and a fine, round mellow tone he brought out; Miss McCabe, pianist, and her good work was helped by the use of an excellent—as they all are—Owain Martin piano, kindly provided by the Martin & Stanley Piano Company.

ST. PETER'S T. A. S. DEBATING CLUB.

A New Organization Formed in Connection With the Literary Society.

A debating club has been formed in connection with the Literary Section of the T.A.S. and judging by present prospects the new club should meet with abundant success. Already considerable enthusiasm has been manifested in the project, and a strong set of officers has been elected. The first meeting of the newly formed club will be held on Wednesday evening, Nov. 4th, and the intention is to hold fortnightly gatherings, when debates will be conducted on live topics. The first one will be on the question of Woman Suffrage, the subject being "Resolved that women should have the same privileges in voting as men." The affirmative side to be taken by Messrs. F. R. MacPherson, W. Donovan and Quinn, while Messrs. J. Begley, D. Holland and B. Blastora will take the negative.

President—Mr. B. Blastora.
Secretary—Mr. J. P. Bryson.

Five Cases Before County Police Magistrate Edmison To-day.

Before County Police Magistrate Edmison this morning, three men from Ashburnham, two Fox brothers and a third, named Maher, were fined $10 and costs each, amounting to $15.25 each, for creating a disturbance at a dance held about Thanksgiving Day. Hugh McKinley was also given a hearing and remanded until Monday.

Thos. Maher of Downeyville, was arrested by Constable Meddy, on instructions from High Constable Cochrane, on a charge of stealing $115. He was brought from Omemee this morning by Mr. Cochrane, and given a preliminary hearing, being remanded until Monday at 11 o'clock.

COAL IN THE BIN.

Cubic Contents of a Ton of Coal of the Different Kinds.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — In answer to "Inquirer," who asks information regarding the measurement in cubic feet of a ton of coal, I beg to submit the following as a correct answer. Of course it is assumed that the "ton" is a good honest ton—not a load of coal with a big St. Bernard dog, or a fat teamster, thrown in.

Pea coal runs 35 cubic feet to the ton; nut, 34 cubic feet; stove and egg, 33 1-2 cubic feet; grate coal, 32 cubic feet.

I trust that this will give "Inquirer" the information he desires. The size of the bin he will need is a simple matter of arithmetical calculation.

Yours truly,
ANTHRACITE.

We have also many other styles at $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, $2.25, $3.00, $4.00, $5.00, in Wrapperette, Sateen and Cashmere, in Black and pretty shades.

We are showing a splendid stock of Winter Mantles. See them.

GOUGH'S Good Clothing

Is the Kind to Wear.

But don't confound good clothing with high-priced clothing. Some dealers may tell you that they sell as good, but a comparison will prove the fallacy of their claim. Come and see for yourself—be your own judge.

We want big business this month. To do it, and bring crowds here, we've made startling reductions throughout the entire store. A general slashing of prices is the order.

$7.00 FOR MEN'S SUITS

As fine and stylish and good looking suits in every particular as others are selling at $10. Better made than theirs at that price. And when you come right down to it, the making is what counts in clothes, as it does in a house or a watch.

$10.00 FOR MEN'S SUITS

We never had such a big season with $10 suits. Probably its because we never had such a big variety at that price. The coat with its high, broad shoulders is perfect fitting. You have no idea how popular it is.

$12.50 FOR MEN'S SUITS

We give as much attention to these suits as the average tailor does to the order made—and the chances are nine in ten that ours will fit better, wear longer and give all round satisfaction.

$15.00 FOR MEN'S SUITS

We are fortunate this season in having a better lot of fifteen dollar suits than we thought it possible to offer for that money. How smart the coats are. If any other store can duplicate a suit like it for $19, it is giving value for the money.

"MUSICIAN" WRITES.

Discussing the Subject of Church Choirs.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, I have been, and am still, much interested in the correspondence appearing in the Examiner from time to time in reference to church choirs and church music. I have been for some time more or less actively associated with church choirs, and am led to the conclusion that many of the criticisms and comments regarding church choirs are more or less justified. I am glad this discussion has arisen, for I believe it will do much good. Some of your correspondents seem to have a mistaken idea, those writing in defence of choirs, as for example, the letter of yesterday, signed "One of the Criticized." I believe from what I have read that all the writers, though they disagree in details, have the same object—the improvement of church choirs and, consequently, of church music. That, I know, is my object. I wish to refer to one point not yet touched upon. I refer to a practice which leads to discourage the really capable and effective members of a choir, and that is the practice of pitchforking new and inexperienced singers upon the force of a choir, without reference to their training or capability as singers. This is done through the insistency of influential members of the congregation, who fancy that it would be nice to have Johnny or Mary in the choir, not because they are fitted for the position, but because they themselves have influence or pull enough to get places. When such new additions are, without preliminary training, or knowledge of music, put into a choir, they are apt to sing with a good deal more zeal than good effect. The music, if at all complicated, is made a mess of, and the really effective and capable singers, have to share the blame of failure, brought about solely by the intrusion of raw material, without preparation or training of any kind. This is very discouraging to trained singers, and in some cases has been known to result in their withdrawal. A good singer is sensitive in a double sense. To be placed alongside a crude singer, serenely screeching, with all the confidence of ignorance, is disgusting, to say the least, to musical sensibilities, and then to be blamed in addition, for the inevitable results, is more than the good singer should be asked to stand. Few choir leaders have the courage to insist on their new singers taking a certain amount of training before being given the responsibility of singing in the choir in public. Ministers have to undergo training, and even a blacksmith must serve an apprenticeship. It is only singers that are born ready to sing in choirs, and need no training. This is, to my mind, one of the reasons of the difficulties in regard to choirs singing well. I mean these remarks in all kindness. Choir singers should know that I, as well as no doubt the writers of other letters, and members of all churches, appreciate the sacrifice choir singers make. My object in writing this letter is to help them and to give the really capable singer a good chance. Officials of churches should remember that choirs to be effective must have adequate training and assistance — must have practical sympathy and practical encouragement. Capable choir leaders or trainers should be employed, decently paid, and given sufficient authority to permit them to decide who is to sing in the choir, and when a proper stage of training has been reached. A choir, like an army without discipline, is a mere musical mob. Members of churches should study to understand the choir question, and give choirs the help they need, and then they will not find fault, except from malice, for there will be little or no fault to reasonably object to.

Yours truly,
MUSICIAN.

A COSTLY BLAZE AT LINDSAY.

Lindsay Post.

The Flavelle Milling Co's large elevator had a narrow escape from destruction by fire this morning. Had it not been for the heroic work of the fire brigade and the employees of the mill and elevator the building would have been totally destroyed, together with machinery, and thousands of bushels of grain. About 8 o'clock smoke was seen coming out of the cupola on the top of the building and a minute later a blaze was visible. An alarm was promptly turned in by Mr. Dan Scully from the box at the corner of Caroline and Queen streets, and in a few minutes the brigade was on hand with half a dozen men. They, together with the employees, and a score of citizens, soon had a stream playing from the interior of the building. More hose was needed, and this necessitated Driver Bell making a trip back to the fire hall, but before he returned, Frank Hutton came along with the hook and ladder truck. A couple of ladders were soon put in position, and a stream was playing on the blaze from the outside, but as a strong south-west wind was blowing it didn't seem to have much effect.

The one stream playing inside the building wasn't sufficient to quench the flames, which by this time were spreading, so a second stream was added and in less than fifteen minutes the fire was under control, but it took some time to extinguish the flames completely.

When fire broke out there was one hundred and twenty pounds to the square inch of water pressure, but as some thought the water pressure wasn't sufficient Superintendent Begbie gave orders to increase the pressure to one hundred and forty pounds.

The damage to building, machinery and contents will amount to several thousands of dollars, the loss on grain alone will be over $20,000. The capacity of the elevator is 85,000 bushels; 50,000 bushels are in the building at present, and this is more or less damaged by water as thousands of gallons of water were poured into the building, filling the big bins full.

The Flavelle Company's loss, we understand, is covered by insurance, several insurance companies being interested. The cause of the fire is a mystery, but it is supposed to have started from an over-heated box in one of the shafts. About fifteen or more G.T.R. box cars were on the siding near the elevator, some being loaded with grain and others empty waiting to be loaded. The shunter and her crew with Mr. J. Irwin, trainmaster, were quickly on hand, and the cars were removed to a place of safety. Both Mr. J. D. Flavelle and Mr. Wm. Flavelle were out of town to-day, Mr. J. D. Flavelle being in Toronto, attending a meeting. A message was despatched and he will arrive this evening. About a dozen men were employed in the elevator, and although it will be closed down for a few days the men will not be thrown out of employment but will be given work at the Hurley elevator, Messrs. Flavelle & Squier having acquired that property a month ago. Too much credit cannot be given to the firemen and employees for their good work in fighting a very difficult fire, and one which threatened the entire building.

I know a good thing when I see it. The Snowshoe Tobacco Tags are worth money, and as I want to get a valuable present for them, I will allow you in trade 50 cents per hundred for all you have, can get, or buy. Alive Charles LeGros.

PRESS INVASION OF NEW ONTARIO.

Faithful and Accurate Account of How the Canadian Press Association Reached New Liskeard—Picturesque Scenes by the Way.

(Concluded from yesterday)

Hospitable North Bay.

While the construction camp dinner was in progress, Mayor Mackenzie of North Bay, invited the party on behalf of the corporation and citizens of North Bay to a banquet in the evening at the Pacific Hotel. The time was fixed at 9 o'clock, and as the excursion train reached North Bay about 6.45, the time was spent by the visiting scribes in getting acquainted with the town. The hospitable citizens had given them its freedom if not in a formal way in one much appreciated—they devoted themselves to their service. They are all proud of their town, and the pessimist has no place there. The inhabitants number about 4,000, and they are all alert and wide-awake, as becomes the middle distance folk between the front and the great clay belt people. They are business up to the hilt, and effete forms find no favor, although in a social sense they do infinite credit to their forbears. The banquet was of the most generous description as to menu, and every pressman present regretted his inability to finish his turkey. These details may seem to be puerile, but they furnish in themselves hints of the life up north, in what we are pleased in old Ontario to call the backwoods. They indicate a people living on the fat of the land, and they set forth the fact that the social instinct flourishes 227 miles due north of Toronto. After all human nature is the same there as here, and conditions are to the bright and glowing pioneer spirit only stepping stones to a higher civilization.

The Press.

Of course, the chief toast of the evening was the Press. To men who habitually sink themselves to place others in the blinding light of publicity the experience was novel. But they rose to the occasion and the representative mouthpieces of the "Fourth Estate" performed their duty in replying with conspicuous ability. Wide in range, the local atmosphere they imparted to world-wide truths, confirmed the North Bay folks in their previous proud opinion of their pen-pushing visitors.

Standing between the great body politic and the pressmen, although now one of the press gang himself, was Rev. J. A. Macdonald of The Toronto Globe. His charming personality, with its keynote of optimistic sunniness, snugly fitted the niche between the formal press replies and the more general talk of the rank outsider. A brilliant speech with a unique ending, and it is with the ending that we have to do. Appreciating the public view, he had had so intimate an experience with the members of newspaper staffs in the six months since his press novitiate began that he could speak to the mixed audience candidly. While of them, he could still say that his view was as yet of those without the pale of the Fourth Estate, and his deliberate conviction was that the newspaper men of Ontario were not only highly conscientious in the discharge of their duties but that they were animated by a spirit of public self-sacrifice that could be found in no other body in the world. His thought was crisply expressed, and found an echo in the heart of many a hard-working journalist and the cheers of those who recognized him as a true middle-of-the-road man between the parties gathered within sound of his voice. It was a sublime truth that he uttered, and those who witnessed during the tour the painstaking desire for accuracy and full information that possessed the scribes will testify to its appositeness.

Mattawa and Temiskaming.

If you turn to the map in the first column, you will see the C.P.R. line that the party went over east from North Bay to Mattawa, 46 miles, starting at 6.50 a. m. Wednesday, Sept. 23. That is the way the settlers get north at present, until the Government railroad is finished. Mattawa, "The Meeting Place," in the Ojibway tongue, was a Hudson's Bay Company's post a hundred years before the foundation of the town, and is celebrated as headquarters for obtaining graceful Algonquin birch-bark canoes at $1 per running foot. Here the Indians used to change their canoes, but the modern Mattawa impresses itself upon the visitor's sight as a village having as distinguishing characteristics a long white bridge spanning the Ottawa River, which is usually full of logs, white log houses and a white church of cathedral pretensions to architecture.

Zig-Zag All the Way.

Turn again to the map. The line looks straight from Mattawa to Temiskaming. It runs between the tea-colored swirling waters of the Ottawa River and the high Laurentian painted and veined granite hills which separate the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec. There is not a straight mile of road to Temiskaming 39 miles away to the north. It is zig-zag all the way. The outlook from the train of the train itself reminds one of a kitten playing with its tail, and some of the curves through the everlasting granite and the sinuosities of the river are so sharp that cow-catcher and rear platform of the train seem at times to be perilously near to each other. All this of course lends to the picturesque. At one of the most pronounced of these the photographers made a sun-picture and a little further on another of a magnificent waterfall with the pressmen incongruously placed in raging waters. Lunch was served at Lumsden summer hotel at Temiskaming on the Quebec side, and then embarkation on the palatial steamer Meteor of the Lumsden line to sail away to New Liskeard at the head of Lake Temiskaming, 90 miles further north.

Lake Temiskaming.

The author of Lorna Doone would find his nature vocabulary hard put to it for words to describe the scenery of this expansion of the Ottawa River, so named from the Ojibway for "deep and shallow waters." It is one long dream of ever-varying color. Five hundred feet on both sides rise the superbly forested hills. Here and there, more commonly on the Quebec side, peeps out the dark-red granite. The lake itself varies in width from one to seven miles, and one is never out of sight of the brilliantly-hued shores. The Meteor, on which the party made the trip over the lake, is one of seven steamers of the line and is equipped with every modern convenience, so that the creature comfort provided made it "always afternoon." Shortly after leaving Temiskanning one of the short, sudden thunder storms for which the district is noted began. New beauties were thereby disclosed. Vivid lightning, the veiling of the hills in mist, with cloud-forms of the most vivid and changeable order, formed pictures that impressed themselves in that corner of memory that never forgets. Meanwhile the steamer is traveling at the rate of 13½ miles an hour, and ere long the storm is passed, and the vivid splendor of the autumnal foliage again makes itself felt.

Of Historic Interest.

Mr. John Lumsden of the steamer Meteor, and Sheriff Varin of North Bay, proved veritable gold mines of information concerning the various points of historic interest as they passed in review before delighted eyes. Two-thirds of the way up the lake it contracts to a mile at Laperriere Bay, and here the white buildings of Fort Temiskaming, a hundred and eighty years old, delapidated and out of repair and with no stockade now as in old Hudson's Bay Co.'s days, are sighted. Opposite is the Oblate Mission and O. M. I. dating back probably 200 years ago. Around it is the French-Canadian town of Ville Marie and after a longer stretch the new yellow-boarded houses of the village of Haileybury shine forth in all their garishness, softened somewhat on this Indian summer day by the indescribable mistiness of the season.

Town of New Liskeard.

A most excellent supper was served on board the Meteor, and then all hands went on deck to witness the wearing in of the boat through shallow waters to the Town of New Liskeard. It was quite an experience to those who had not seen anything of the kind before. The channel for some distance is a dredged one, marked at intervals by evergreen bushes as buoys and little sticks with lanterns on them. On either side of the steamer men sound the channel and report to the captain. Finally the Wabis River is entered, a long, thin, ditch-like river that one feels one could jump across in an emergency. Many of the principal residents of the town were on the wharf to receive the press party, and there was a great aggregation of the small boy et. al., for the arrival of the steamer is an event in this frontier town of the great clay belt. The welcome was most enthusiastic, and left nothing to be desired.

Everyone was glad to meet Mr. Southworth, the Government's Director of Colonization, because they felt as if he were a living link of potency connecting them with old Ontario with its resources and the New Ontario of boundless possibilities, of which he knows enough to make several books.

Got to Work at Once.

The shades of evening had fallen before the scribes were all quartered in the two principal hotels of the town. There was no supper to get, and the work of interviewing the oldest and the youngest settler began at once. The experience was a novel one, for everybody approached was willing to talk. One thing stood out in fast colors, the settlers were nearly all from Old Ontario, and their language was that of every day conversation as one hears it at home. Indeed, one of the first specimens to be put through the press sweat-box was a picturesquely clad young fellow, who afterwards proved to be a second-year student at Toronto University who had been back near Abitibi with a surveying party, but who had got hurt and had to come back to civilization. He was out for his vacation. His opinion was not of the most flattering description, but the results, rather than the details of some two hundred interviews the writer managed to get, will be incorporated in a single article of this series. Another, however, a settler of four years' experience, gave testimony of a different character, entirely favorable for the most part, bearing the brand of a satisfied experience, and it will be my endeavor to give these varying statements their due weight.

Many Men of Many Minds.

It was wonderful to note the different methods of the members of the press party in approaching this portion of their work. One man, who had been interviewed for his experiences in the new country by no fewer than eleven of the party, told me that the questions asked by each one varied as much as day from night. They were for the most part pertinent, but they were always in the line from which the questioner anticipated the greatest difficulties and drawbacks to be overcome. This is good. It will work for a vast fund of independent information about New Ontario. It will not be of the order Rut, and it may take a year or more before the information gleaned is fully assimilated and given to the public. But as it is in the special line of thought pursued by the particular newspaper man, it will some day come out when its story will illuminate the situation and make for the progress and welfare of the great province in which our lot is so happily cast.

BOOK COVERS.

All of the Cloth For Them Is Made From Cotton Fabric.

All of the cloth used in the binding of books is made from cottin fabric, yet one would not say so on seeing the finished product. Some of it looks exactly like coarse linen. Other styles have an appearance of the finest kind of silk, while others have various sorts of finishes that look like leatheret, canvas, watered silk and a thousand different designs.

When the cloth comes from the mills it is treated in various ways to prepare it for the dyeing process, which is the most important. Different kinds of sizing are used in the different grades, and after this is done it is ready for the color machines.

These are really the same sort of machines that calico is made on. They are built of great steel rolls or cams that are heated to a high temperature by means of live steam passing through them constantly. The cloth passes through boxes filled with the aniline color that the cloth is expected to be colored with. This is mixed with a starch paste and is spread evenly all through the cloth.

The latter then continues through the steam heated cams and is finally rolled up at the back of the machine in a heavy roll of the desired color. The different finishes are given in a second process. The cloth is passed through very heavy and massive steel rolls which have been engraved with the design that is wanted. Fine lines running diagonally across the cloth will give a silk effect, and there are many other impressions that may be stamped on in this way.

TO FEEL JUST RIGHT

The Stomach Must be Right—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Make the Stomach Right—Testimony of H. Hutchison of Chatham.

The stomach's work is to provide the different parts of the body with the food and heat they need. If this is not done the body becomes starved and cold and weak.

Consequently if you are feeling useless you know that your stomach needs help.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets give the stomach the right kind of help. They digest the food and the stomach rights itself naturally. Then the body gets the food it needs, and energy and vigor return. H. Hutchison, Chatham, Ont., is one of the thousands who have proved that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure Stomach Trouble of any stage. He says:

"I had suffered for a long period from Dyspepsia until a short time ago a friend brought me a box of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and from the very first I got relief.

"I keep them by me, and any time I feel my food is likely to disagree with me I just take one or two of them and feel no more effects of Indigestion."

Camel Carriages.

Camel carriages are not common conveyances in most parts of India, but on the great trunk road leading to Delhi they are frequently to be seen. They are large, double story wagons, drawn sometimes by one, sometimes by two or even three camels, according to their size. Iron bars which give them a cagelike appearance were originally intended as a defense against robbers, and the carts were probably also used for the conveyance of prisoners. "The most picturesque 'property' of the Punjab government," says John Lockwood Dipling, "is a huge char-a-banc to which is harnessed a team of four or six fine camels with leopard skin housings and gayly attired riders." Neither camel nor bullock carts commend themselves much to the western traveler, but in out of the way places the latter are often found very useful.

Took Him at His Word.

In the year of 1063 the forces of King Alfonso VI. attacked the Moors and drove them out of Madrid. In this connection there is a legend that the Segovians, who were allies of Alfonso, had been checked by the snows in the mountain passes of Fuenfria and were therefore late in overtaking the main body of the army, which had sat down before Madrid. "Sire," they inquired of the king, "where shall we camp?" "Inside the city," returned Alfonso, with a sneer, being angry with them because of their tardiness. They took the king at his word, carried the walls and the next morning the banner of Segovia was floating from a turret of the gate of Guadalajara.

Taet.

"Laura," said Mr. Ferguson, "this is Mr. Klippinger of Harkinsville," the town where I used to live. He's the editor of the Echo. I was telling him we had the files of his paper for the last ten years. I'll show them to you, Mr. Klippinger. They're"—

"Why, George," interrupted Mrs. Ferguson, with a mechanical sort of smile, "I ought to have told you, but—but they're under the dining room carpet."

She Recognized Him.

Two little girls were playing in front of a city dwelling when a strange man went by.

"That man is an undertaker," said one of the little girls.

"How do you know?" asked her companion.

"Oh, because he is the man who undertook my grandmother."

Just His Luck.

"I long to go about doing good," said Mrs. Henpeck.

"Don't hang back on my account," replied Mr. Henpeck wearily. "I know a woman who will come to take care of the children for her board and clothes."

Then she flared up and wouldn't go.

Pleasures.

"Pleasures," said Uncle Eben, "is a good deal like mushrooms. De right kind is fine, but you has to be on de lookout foh toadstools."

Everything is possible, but without labor and failure nothing is achieved.

MEN OF THE MOMENT

SKETCHES OF THE RETIRING MEMBERS OF BRITISH CABINET.

Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, Who Began Public Life by Decorating Birmingham and Now Seeks to Cement a Wide-World Imperialism on Ties of Material Interest—Rt. Hon. Charles T. Ritchie and Lord George Francis Hamilton.

The Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain was born in Birmingham in 1836, and his first work of public nature was as Mayor of that city for three successive years. In that capacity he practically recreated the place, applying business methods to its administration, and leading the fight which gave the city its own gas and water systems, parks, schools, baths, libraries, art galleries and the great Midland Institute, its splendidly-paved streets, and comfortable workingmen's homes; in fact, he is largely responsible for making Birmingham what it is today—a model city. His work in this direction caused him to be regarded on his first election to the House of Commons in 1876 as a Radical of the Radicals. In 1880 when Gladstone overthrew Beaconsfield and the Jingoes he became President of the Board of Trade, and in 1885 he was a member of the first Gladstone home rule Cabinet, which he was afterwards accused of wrecking. A friendly biographer, Mr. S. H. Jeyes, deals with that incident, in effect, as follows: "I cannot support any scheme for the creation of a Dublin Parliament, said Mr. Chamberlain, in substance. Very well, replied Mr. Gladstone, enter my Cabinet and you shall have 'unlimited liberty of judgment and rejection' on any scheme that may be proposed. I will do so, retorted Mr. Chamberlain, on condition that I may withdraw if your Irish bill does not suit me. And so he became President of the Board of Trade again. Mr. Gladstone proceeded with the preparation of his great home rule bill. He took no one into his confidence but Mr. Morley, the Chief Secretary for Ireland. All knowledge of what the measure was to be was sedulously concealed from Mr. Chamberlain and the rest of the Cabinet. When at length the bill was completed and its provisions revealed to the Cabinet, it was found to contain exactly those provisions to which Mr. Chamberlain had said he could never give his assent. There was nothing for him to do, therefore, but to exercise that 'liberty of judgment and rejection' which Mr. Gladstone had promised him. He reminded Mr. Gladstone of the understanding on which he had entered the Cabinet, and then resigned his place. As an honorable and honest man he could have done nothing else. This Mr. Gladstone himself fully recognized, and he publicly, in the House of Commons, bore witness to the fact. Such was the episode which led his foes to fix upon Mr. Chamberlain the name of Judas. It would be at least as appropriate and truthful to call him Abdiel."

Mr. Chamberlain's later career, as Colonial Secretary, a position which he has filled with eminent success since his appointment in 1895; in the role of peacemaker in South Africa, after the war he was charged with bringing about, and later as the exponent of closer union between the mother country and the colonies, involving a sweeping change in the fiscal policy of the former, are matters well known to and fresh in the minds of the public.

Rt. Hon. Charles T. Ritchie.

Of the Right Hon. Charles T. Ritchie, who resigns the position of Chancellor of the Exchequer, "Ex-Attache," said, in part, at the time of his appointment:

Charles Ritchie is a Scotchman by birth, though a Londoner by education and business training. He was born at Dundee, but was educated at the City of London School, on leaving which he went straight into business as a member of his father's firm, which is now under the direction of Sir James. Yet, he looks neither a Scot nor yet a City of London merchant, but with his swarthy complexion, his flashing black eyes, and turned-up moustache, suggests rather a Spanish don, or, as his political foes declare, the old-time pirate of the Spanish main. He is extremely aggressive, not to say pugnacious, does not hesitate to speak out his mind, can be exceedingly peppery when aroused, and is quite as ready as Joseph Chamberlain to assert himself when he considers that there is a disposition to ignore him. Yet he is possessed of considerable charm of manner, and, while President of the Board of Trade, displayed the most remarkable tact in dealing with labor disputes, which he managed to settle in a satisfactory manner by bringing to bear on the issues involved his great commercial experience and commonsense business notions. The late Queen Victoria displayed quite a remarkable liking for him, and her successor shares these sentiments towards the new Chancellor of the Exchequer, who, while lacking, perhaps, the classical graces and culture of those of his colleagues who have graduated with honors from Oxford and from Cambridge, nevertheless is a true courtier, in that he knows how to avoid in his dealings with his Sovereign either too great subserviency or excessive independence of demeanor. His administration of the Home Department has been a conspicuous success, and thoroughly justifies his appointment to the post of Minister of Finance of the vast British Empire, and few of the holders of that office have given rise to so little popular criticism.

Mr. Ritchie was born in November, 1838, and was first elected as member of Parliament for St. George's-in-the-Tower Hamlets in 1874, representing that constituency until 1885, when he was elected for St. George's in the East, but since 1895 he has represented Croydon. He was Secretary to the Admiralty, 1895-86; President of the Local Government Board, 1886-92; Secretary of State, Home Department, 1900-2, and in 1902 he was appointed Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Lord George Hamilton.

Lord George Francis Hamilton, Secretary of State for India since 1895, the least prominent man of the trio of British Cabinet Ministers who recently resigned, is nevertheless regarded by many in Britain as a capable and painstaking Minister. He represented Middlesex from 1868 to 1885, and since the latter year has continuously represented the Ealing Division. He was Under-Secretary of State for India from 1874-78; Vice-President of the Council, 1878-80; First Lord of the Admiralty, 1885-86 and 1886-92; and was appointed Secretary of State for India by Lord Salisbury in 1895. On that occasion Mr. G. W. Smalley, the famous journalist, wrote of him: It was supposed that Lord George Hamilton, who was First Lord of the Admiralty during Lord Salisbury's last two Administrations, would resume that office. He was an efficient First Lord and author of a scheme of naval defence which insured the steady increase of the navy and the maintenance of Great Britain's naval superiority. . . . But Lord Salisbury for some reason preferred that Lord George Hamilton should be Secretary of State for India. That, too, is an office which he knows well, for he was Under Secretary for four years, 1874-1878. It is a great post. It means the

LORD GEORGE HAMILTON.

Government of two hundred millions of Great Britain's Oriental subjects. Lord Randolph Churchill held it for some months. Sir Henry Fowler, oddly enough, was pitchforked into it last year, knowing probably as little of India as any capable man in public life, yet soon mastering his new business and fairly astonishing the House of Commons by the ability with which he discussed Indian finance, one of the most abstruse subjects in politics. Lord George Hamilton, at any rate, has served his apprenticeship to India, and his abilities have the advantage of a genial nature behind them, no slight advantage in public life.

Naval Encouragement.

Admiral Watson always prohibited swearing on the vessel where he happened to be, and if any luckless officer enforced an order from the bridge with an oath he was called upon for a private interview with his superior. But another matter in his squadron troubled the admiral. His was the flagship, and yet her men were sometimes the last to finish the execution of a command to carry out a maneuver. One day when the seamen were behind in getting down from the rigging he called a captain to him.

"Why is it," he asked, "that here on the flagship, where we ought to be the quickest, the men are behind the other ships?"

While the officer was seeking for an inoffensive reply a volley of oaths came floating across the water from the captain of the nearest ship.

"Well, you see, admiral, our men don't get the right kind of encouragement, sir."—Exchange.

Ireland's Wonderful Linen.

Whether or not Ireland is the finest country in the world for growing flax, it is beyond dispute the finest in the world for bleaching linen, an operation which requires from six to eight weeks, according to the nature and weight of the fabric. Nowhere else can the snow white finished fabric be turned out to rival the Irish bleach. France, Belgium, Germany and the United States have all entered into competition and retired unsuccessful. The quality of the water, the climate and the inherited experience of the Irish bleachers must all contribute to the result, which has had abundant practical demonstration that Ireland now occupies and has always occupied the first place in the whole world for bleaching and finishing linen.

The "Life Plant."

There is a creeping moss found in Jamaica, in Barbados and other islands of the West Indies which is called the "life tree," or more properly the "life plant." Its powers of vitality are said to be beyond those of any other plant. It is absolutely indestructible by any means except immersion in boiling water or application of a redhot iron. It may be cut up and divided in any manner, and the smallest shreds will throw out roots, grow and form buds. The leaves of this extraordinary plant have been placed in a closed airtight dark box, without moisture of any sort, and still they grew.

WHERE OLD HATS GO.

Clerk Tells of Unique Scheme For Making Cigar Money.

"Needn't send that old hat home," said the customer as he placed the newly purchased derby on his head. "It's too shiny around the edges, and it would just take up room in the closet."

The customer walked out of the store and the clerk turned to a friend.

"That means cigar money for me," he said, "and I smoke good cigars at that. In most stores it wouldn't do me very much good, as all the discarded hats are given to the drivers of the delivery wagons. But here the house allows the clerks to have the hats, and as result we make a little extra money. About once a week the bushelman comes around to the store looking for old hats, and when I give him all I have collected he pays on an average of 15 cents apiece for them.

"After the bushelman has made his rounds he takes the hats to a shop on South street, and there they are taken apart. The silk ribbons and bands and sweatbands are removed and the hat given a thorough cleaning and new material and trimmings put on. When it is all fixed up it is extremely difficult to tell it from a new hat, and in many cases it will sell for as high as $2. When you can buy a hat for 15 cents, clean it for about 5 cents, put 25 cents' worth of leather and ribbon on it and sell it for a dollar or more, you see where the profit comes in, don't you?"

The "Show" and the Showy People.

"Society" in England is divided into two classes—show people and showy people. To the first "society" belongs; the second are anxious to belong to "society."

Of the former there are comparatively few. It is a feature of the times that there are very many of the latter.

The show people are those who, because of their position, their popularity or their abilities, have attained prominence and are more or less associated together in the social life of their period.

The showy people, without the position, the popularity or the abilities, strive to become prominent by display, extravagance, eccentricities or self advertisement. Their carriages are painted in the most glaring color; they are dressed expensively even on ordinary occasions; they are tireless and tiresome in their endeavors to appear to be associated with "society;" their life may be described as one of continuous deceit and disappointment, and they take offense on the least provocation and are implacable in their vindictiveness.—London Truth.

The Actor's Mouth.

The actor's mouth is essentially facile and not infrequently it exhibits a tendency to turn to one side or the other. This is due, in part, to its being constantly used to express emotion and also to the peculiar but no less well recognised fact that when the mouth is somewhat crooked a greater effect can be produced than when it is opened quite straight. Example after example could be cited, but for obvious reasons names may not be mentioned. At one time it was considered the mark of the low comedian, for nearly every one of them had a mouth twisted either to the right or left as the result of "mugging." Some of the most serious actors—even those with a reputation for beauty—could, however, be pointed to as possessing the same characteristic, which has also been observed with not a few opera singers of the first rank.—London Tatler.

Sex Peculiarities.

A man will run as fast as he can to cross a railroad track in front of a train. Then he will watch it till it goes out of sight. Then he will walk leisurely away. He seems to be all right and probably is. That is a man.

A woman in a street car will open a satchel and take out a purse, take out a dime and close the purse, open the satchel, put in the purse, close the satchel and lock both ends. Then she will give the dime to the conductor, who will give her a nickel back. Then she will open the satchel and take out the purse, put in the nickel, close the purse, open the satchel and put in the purse, close the satchel and lock both ends. Then she will feel for the buckle at the back of her belt.

Wonderful Bird Musicians.

Mr. George Henschel tells in Nature of a musical feat by a canary-bird, which, he says, seems to him so wonderful that he should consider it incredible if he had not, with his own ears, heard it, not once, but dozens of times. A bullfinch had been taught to pipe the tune of "God Save the King," and a young canary learned it from him. Finally the canary became so perfect in its mastery of the tune that when the bullfinch, as sometimes happened, stopped after the first half a little longer than the proper rhythm warranted, the canary would take up the tune where the bullfinch had stopped, and finish it. This happened when the respective cages containing the birds were in separate rooms.

How long will it take the man to mend the sack if he does not stop the leak? To attempt to nourish the body when the stomach is diseased is like trying to fill the sack with the hole in it. When the stomach and other digestive and nutritive organs are diseased, there is a constant loss of nutrition. Enough is eaten but the body loses flesh,—plain proof that the food eaten is largely wasted because it is not digested and assimilated.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It stops the leaks by which nutrition is lost, and enables the building up of the body by the nutrition derived from food. The gain in weight proves the cure.

"Three years ago I was taken sick with what the doctor called nervousness and indigestion," writes Mrs. Warren E. Parker, of Orange Street, Nantucket, Mass. "He gave me medicine for the trouble, but I could not eat even a little toast or oatmeal without suffering severely. In a few months I began to have distressing pains right in the pit of my stomach. I called the doctor again and he said I had catarrh of stomach; gave me medicine but it did not do any good. I lost 28 pounds in three months. I then commenced taking Dr. Pierce's medicines and soon began to feel better. I have taken six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' two of 'Favorite Prescription' and six vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets. I have gained ten pounds. Can eat everything."

New York, Oct. 23.—Boston, A director of A.C.P. says, "We are in this copper biz to stay. It is a fight to a finish. There can never be any compromise. Our mines will remain closed until Boston & Montana case is definitely decided once and for all. No one knows what to expect in hands of Montana courts, but all that we ask is justice. ACP stockholders will not lose in end because of this shut down. A representative of the Heinz side says, "These last two decisions are severe blows to ACP people. We welcome shutting down of their mines. Our production will be greatly increased meanwhile, especially since we have right to operate mines

New York, 1.30 p. m., Oct. 23.—There were very few supporting orders in the first hour, but a good deal less disposition to take aggressive position on long side than there has been in past four days. Standard Oil brokers were used in places and there did not seem to be much stock pressing anywhere. Buying of ACP by H. A. Harrison and A. A. Houseman was, of course, credited to Lewisohn, as it was, no doubt, meant to be, but they seemed to be getting stock without very much difficulty. Some western selling in places, noticeably in Union Pacific and Probably Rock Island. Western houses are rather bearish. People's Gas looked as if covering of shorts had left its position in market technically weaker.

Towns on G. T. R. Will Ask C. P. R. to Change Main Line.

Meeting Held Yesterday at Bowmanville to Consider Question—Resolution Passed.

The towns along the main line of the G.T.R. between Cobourg and Whitby are feeling the need of increased railway facilities, and an effort is being made to induce the C. P.R. to change the route of their main line from Ottawa to Toronto in such a way that these towns will be given connection with it. The proposal is to have the present line deflect at Springbrook, a station near Havelock, in a southerly direction, to touch the towns mentioned. A conference of the Mayors of the different municipalities affected was held yesterday afternoon at Bowmanville, presided over by Mayor Floyd, of Cobourg.

After the matter had been discussed at considerable length a resolution was passed, the substance of which as supplied the Examiner by Mayor James, of Bowmanville, is to the effect that the convention, representing the several municipalities of Sprinkbrook, Campbellford, Warkworth, Cobourg, Port Hope, Newtonville, Newcastle, Bowmanville, Darlington, Oshawa and Whitby, by reason of the large increase of business in these towns and municipalities, both in regard to freight and passenger traffic, consider that the time has arrived when a determined effort should be jointly made to improve our transportation facilities, and that a strong deputation from this meeting be appointed to bring the matter before the C.P.R. Company, with a view to ascertaining the possibilities of connecting the above towns with their system, and that the Councils of the different municipalities appoint a committee to act on a deputation to interview the C.P.R. authorities with a view of inducing said company to build a line connecting their system with the municipalities mentioned. The committee to meet at an early date at a place to be called by the Chairman to decide on what action shall be taken in approaching the C.P.R. officials.

These towns are now trying to secure what Peterborough already possesses, the benefit to be derived from having two lines of railway connecting them with the market centres, and it is stated that there is a determined effort to be made to secure this from the C.P.R. if possible.

Should the C.P.R. accede to the request of these municipalities and change the route of their main line as suggested it would place Peterborough in the position of being on merely a branch line, because, with the exception of Peterborough there is on the line between Springbrook and Toronto no town of any considerable importance, while those that are asking connection in this way are, the majority of them, stirring manufacturing towns, this is especially true of Cobourg and Oshawa, and, in fact, from all of them considerable local business would be secured. But, with the increasing volume of business which the C.P.R. does with Peterborough, it is hardly probable that this town will be sidetracked, although the request of the towns mentioned above for connection may be granted by running a branch line.

AT THE GARRISON DINNER.

Sir Frederick Borden on the Best Kind of Imperialism.

Montreal, Que., Oct. 23.—The garrison dinner last evening to Sir Fred Borden was a splendid success. The Minister made a rousing speech, in which he said: "The Canadian nation, like any man of self-respect, must be prepared for attack, and there was, he added, no better way to make attack impossible than to be always ready. The people of Canada, Sir Frederick said, owed it to the Empire to be always in readiness, and he also declared that no money Canada voted for military purposes should be handed over to the War Office or Admirality, but the expenditure should be controlled at home. This, he said, was the best kind of Imperialism."

For an Awful Deed.

Southampton, Eng., Oct. 23.—The two Croatians, giving the names of Taparac and Kebear, arrested on board the American Line steamer Philadelphia here, appeared before the Southampton magistrates yesterday and were remanded at Low street Police Court for extradition on the charge of murdering S. T. Ferguson, a railroad contractor, at West Middletown, Pa., Sept. 25, who was blown up by dynamite placed in the roadway.

Quick Witted.

When Mrs. Isabella Bishop, the well known traveler, was in the United States she had at least one funny experience. She was riding in a car in Chicago and felt her pocket being picked, but said nothing at the moment. Presently along came the conductor to collect his fares. When he reached Mrs. Bishop she quietly remarked: "This gentleman," turning to the thief, "will pay. He has my purse."

He paid, and she got back her purse.

WHERE SALISBURY LIES.

Former Premier of Britain Buried Without Pomp or Ceremony.

Without any of the pomp and circumstance of State ceremony, the body of the late Marquis of Salisbury was interred at Hatfield in the private burial ground of the Cecils. The polished oak coffin contained another of lead, and it needed some 10 or 12 of the stalwart workmen employed on the Hatfield estate to carry so heavy a burden out of the house to a wheeled bier for conveyance to the churchyard, a few hundred yards distant. In the procession behind the bier walked Viscount

BURIAL PLACE OF THE CECILS AT HATFIELD.

Cranborne, the Earl of Selborne, Lord Roberts, Lord Edward, and Lord Hugh Cecil, Lady Guendolen Cecil, Mr. Balfour, the Marquis of Exeter, and the Marchioness of Londonderry. Amongst the old retainers who closed the procession was the late Marquis's valet, Mr. James Bishop. At the little private burial ground were waiting the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishops of Rochester and Colchester, and the Rev. Lord William Cecil (rector of Hatfield). The paths were lined by townspeople, mostly in deep mourning and all the men bareheaded. As the procession moved along the Archbishop's voice could be heard reciting the Burial Service. As the white-robed choir boys at the head of the procession entered the church the organ pealed out and the congregation joined in the hymn "Abide With Me," as the mourners filed into the church. The coffin, on which had been placed a large cross of white flowers and a single wreath, was carried to the foot of the channel steps and placed on leaf-covered trestles. After the service the body was borne out of the building to the strains of the Dead March in Saul. The interment took place in the tomb of the late Marchioness of Salisbury, the Bishop of Rochester reading the committal sentences, and the Archbishop giving the blessing. As the mourners quietly dispersed a muffled peal was rung on the church bells.

It was the wish of the family that no floral emblems should be sent, but several were received, including a beautiful crown from the King of Portugal. The flowers on the coffin were the offerings of their Majesties. The King sent a wreath of lilies and other white flowers, with orchids and gardenias. It bore the inscription:

"As a mark of deepest regard, greatest respect, and sincere friendship, from his Majesty the King."

The Queen's wreath was in the form of a cross, and consisted of roses, lilies of the valley, orchids, and various choice flowers. Attached to it was a card with the words:

"To the memory of Lord Salisbury, universally loved and mourned as one of England's best and greatest statesmen.—From Alexandra."

Beneath this inscription the Queen had written two touching lines of poetry:

"We think at first that home is heaven;
We learn at last that heaven is home."

These wreaths—and these only—lay above the oaken coffin as it was placed on a wheeled bier at Hatfield house, to be taken to the place of sepulture.

While the burial of Lord Salisbury was taking place at Hatfield a memorial service was held in Westminster Abbey.—Lloyd's Weekly.

FOOL PROOF ROWBOAT.

Unique Device to Prevent a Skiff From Capsizing.

The man who rocks the boat is to be found in all communities and in all ages, and his pranks will continue to figure in current history until boats are fitted with some means of preventing his dastardly work. The cut herewith reproduced shows a device of automatic action to prevent the sinking of the small boat under these or similar circumstances. Fastened to the gunwhales of the craft on either side is a collapsing pocket, held normally in close relationship with the sides of the craft, but in case of the boat being rocked violently either by accident or design these things act of their own accord to prevent the capsizing of the boat.

As the position of the craft is disturbed from the proper one the weight attachment on the pocket on the lower side causes it to expand and fill with air, and as soon as this pocket touches the water the farther progress of the boat to destruction is arrested and the boat prevented from filling.

THE COUNTRY NOW WANTS MORE POWER

Canada Requires Enough to Make Our Own Treaties.

Sir Wilfred Laurier's Utterance on the American Boundary Award—Latter Revealed an Unsatisfactory State of Affairs—The Opposition Leader's Criticism.

Ottawa, Oct. 24.—The note of national pride, but not of jingoism, was sounded yesterday when Canada's Parliament discussed the award in the Alaska boundary case. That we suffered injustice with respect to the Portland Channel was admitted, and there was indignation that the hands of the country were tied in regard to our powers of dealing with foreign countries. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's speech was one of the strongest and most effective of his many addresses touching Canada's national aspirations. He would not pass judgment offhand on the action of Lord Alverstone, from whom at the time of his appointment he had every faith we would receive justice. The award, however, revealed an unsatisfactory state of affairs.

Present Powers Not Sufficient.

"So long as Canada remains a dependency of the British Crown," said Sir Wilfrid, "the present powers that we have are not sufficient for the maintenance of our rights." It was important, he added, that we should ask the British Parliament for more extensive powers, so that we might deal with such matters in the future in our own way. The fact that Canada's answer in respect to the reference was not awaited before the treaty was signed was a circumstance upon which Sir Wilfrid and other speakers dwelt at length with regret and disappointment. Sir Wilfrid concluded in a dignified manner, saying that while we had lost something we had not lost all, and that it now behoved us to take steps to connect the Yukon with the rest of Canada by communication over our own territory.

Mr. Borden's Contention.

The Opposition leader, Mr. Borden, suggested that if there had been three Canadian Commissioners the result might have been more advantageous to Canada, and said that when Canada's wish for arbitration was not granted they should have withdrawn from the negotiations.

Mr. Bourassa, who opened the discussion, upheld Lord Alverstone as having to follow the case as presented to him and said the mistake arose from the conditions governing our relations to our own territory.

Mr. Gourley delivered an inflammatory speech, in which he said Canada's strategic position was such that even with our small population we could defeat the United States. The House concluded its work, and prorogation will take place at 11 o'clock to-day.

When the House met there was a thin attendance and a thin order paper. Mr. Henri Bourassa rose to speak on the Alaskan boundary award, but Sir Wilfrid Laurier gently intervened, and said they should finish the business before them first, in order that the Senate might finish their consideration thereof in good time.

Col. Thompson's bill to extend the power of loan companies was made a Government order and passed through its final stages.

The balance of the estimates were concurred in.

Several Bills Dropped.

A supply bill to the amount of $26,000,000, covering the appropriations voted, was then introduced, and Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick announced the abandonment for the present of the proposed amendments to the criminal code having reference to cigarette smoking, prize fights, etc. He said that discussion had shown the proposed amendments did not go as far as the House desired. He had not been able to give these amendments the sound consideration which they deserved, owing to pressure of business, but there must be another session at a very early date, when the whole matter will be taken up. The bill was then dropped.

Mr. Prefontaine's bill to amend the act respecting works constructed in navigable waters and Mr. Charlton's bill to amend the elections act were also dropped. Mr. Borden asked the reason for the withdrawal of the latter measure. Sir Wilfrid Laurier pointed out that the chief provision of the bill was one for compulsory voting, which did not meet the views of the House. There were other provisions which he would like to have seen adopted, but they had been poorly drafted in the opinion of the Minister of Justice, who, however, had not time to improve them. Hence the bill must go over for the present.

BATHED IN BLOOD.

Mysterious Affray at Midnight in the City of Hamilton.

Hamilton, Oct. 24.—A stabbing affray about which there is much mystery and blood took place at 11.15 last night. Tom Murphy, a young fellow well-known about town, staggered into the Osborne Hotel. There was a long gash in his leg and he was covered with blood. At his heels followed another man, who was stabbed in the chest. They asked the clerk to telephone for the ambulance, and then sank in a heap on the floor.

In a few minutes another wounded man came tottering in, crying imploringly, "For God's sake, take me in, too."

The three were bathed in blood, which poured out on the hotel floor. They were put in the ambulance and hustled off to the City Hospital. And "mum is the word," they whispered to each other as they were being driven away. The police believe there was a fourth man, who escaped.

The names and addresses the three wounded men gave are: Joe Walsh, 82 East Wood street; William Murray, 256 Wellington street, Toronto; Thomas Murphy, 527 North James street.

The police traced the blood stains to the place on York street, just above Macnab street, that used to be known as the Harmony Club, and which is an alleged gambling resort. It is supposed that the row took place over a game of cards. The police found Robert Murphy, the proprietor, trying to scrub the stains off the floor of the club-room.

Walsh, the Toronto man, is stabbed in the back; Murray, in the chest, and Murphy in the leg. All three will likely recover.

TOWN VISITED BY SCIENCE STUDENTS.

280 Students of the School of Practical Science Here.

Inspected Industrial Works and Manufacturing Establishments—Side Trip to Lakefield.

The students and members of the Faculty of the School of Practical Science, Toronto, to the number of about two hundred and eighty, arrived in town this morning by special G. T. R. train, on their annual visit, which Peterborough this year is being favoured with. This is a positive admission that by the most intelligently informed minds of the country, this town is recognized as being among the most important industrially of any in the province. This trip is made every year to afford the students a means of personally inspecting the plants of the most progressive and extensive manufacturing companies, and the fact that Peterborough has been chosen this year, is one of which all citizens should feel proud.

The train arrived this morning about ten o'clock, by way of Port Hope, and the majority of the students, including practically all those in the Mechanical and Electrical Engineering Departments visited the works of the Canadian General Electric Company, also those of the Canadian Cordage Manufacturing Company. About one hundred, however, remained on the train, which conveyed them to Lakefield, where the plant of the Lakefield Cement Company was visited by the students in Mining and Civil Engineering.

A luncheon was served to the visitors at the Oriental and Snowden and they were then taken in charge by the Reception Committee, consisting of Mayor Roger and Ald. Rush, and a visit to the various public works and industrial establishments in town, including the lift lock, Cereal Company's dam and power house, the different foundries, and mills, etc., was made, the town providing carriages for the conveyance of the students and Faculty.

Mr. R. B. Rogers, superintending engineer of the Trent Valley Canal, showed the party through the lift lock, explaining the workings of this magnificent piece of engineering. The visitors expressed great surprise at the magnitude of the works, and declare that the trip has been a great education to them. The entertainment provided by the town council also has evoked surprise and pleasure on the part of the students, who are unanimous in their opinion that the trip this year will prove of almost inestimable value to them in the future work in their various professions.

The Faculty of the School is represented by President Loudon, of the Toronto University, Principal Galbraith, of the School, Prof. C. H. C. Wright, Prof. L. B. Stewart, Prof. Rosburgh, M. Bain, and Mr. McG wan. Other members of the University Faculty accompanying the party are Mr Chance, Dr. Kendrick, and Dr. Miller. Mr. Dill of the City Engineering staff, Toronto, and Mr. J. J. Boll, editor of the Canadian Engineer, are also in the party.

A number of the graduates of the School are now employed on the teaching staff, and those who in that capacity were in to-day's party were Messrs. McMillan, Ardagh, Price, Wass, Shipe, Parsons and Maryiott.

The School will tender a dinner at the Oriental Hotel to-night at which the town council will be the guests of the students and Faculty. The members of the Engineering profession in town will also be present.

The special train will leave for Toronto at nine o'clock to-night, although many of the visitors will doubtless remain over Sunday with friends here.

UP IN MUSKOKA.

Premier Ross Makes Another Powerful Speech—Whitney Fathers Gamey.

Huntsville, Oct. 24.—The curling rink here was packed last night to the doors with an enthusiastic audience of young and old, who cheered to the echo the utterances of the speakers at a meeting in the interest of Dr. J. W. Hart, the Liberal candidate in the Muskoka bye-election. Hon. Geo. W. Ross was the principal speaker of the evening, and those who had the privilege of hearing him will remember for many years the stirring address given by the Premier. Mr. Ross spoke at some length and made a comparison of the records of the two parties in Provincial affairs. He pointed out that not only had Mr. Whitney and his followers failed to bring forward any definite policy, but had by opposition done their utmost to retard many forward movements inaugurated by the Liberal leaders.

Whitney Fathers Gamey.

Bracebridge, Oct. 24.—Mr. J. P. Whitney, the leader of the Conservative Opposition, made his first appearance in this riding last night, and declared his belief in the truth of Mr. Gamey's charges, which seem to have formed a large part of the campaign. The member for Manitoulin, who has been stumping the country, has left for the Soo, but Mr. Whitney, without going into details, gave the audience to understand that he endorsed Mr. Gamey. The meeting was held in the Town Hall, which was crowded.

London Man Murdered.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 24.—The dead body of John Dew, a bachelor, who had worked at odd jobs about the shipyards at Wyandotte for the past year, was found yesterday in bed in his cottage there with a hole in the temple, that looked as though it was made by a hammer. The bedclothing was soaked with blood, and it is believed that Dew was the victim of a murderous assault. He was a native of London, Ont.

For Inciting to Anarchy.

New York, Oct. 24.—Armed with a warrant sworn out by Secretary Cortelyou of the United States Department of Commerce and Labor, four immigration inspectors with several secret service detectives and a number of policemen went to Murray Hill Lyceum last night and arrested John Turner, an Englishman, on a charge of inciting and promoting anarchy in violation of the alien labor laws.

Killed by Strikers.

New Orleans, Oct. 24.—At Waco, Tex., a street car operated by non-union men was fired at from ambush Thursday night by the striking street car men. A sympathizer and Henry Hay of Bridgeport, Conn., the motorman, were killed instantly.

Explosion Kills Woman.

Cumberland, Oct. 24.—An engine exploded here yesterday and a piece of it flew 500 yards and killed Mrs. Babbett, who was working in her kitchen.

Historian Lecky Dead.

London, Oct. 24.—The Right Hon. William E. H. Lecky, the historian, died here of heart disease Thursday night. He was born in Ireland in 1838.

UNITED STATES SENATOR THURSTON,

INTERIOR OF THE UNITED STATES SENATE CHAMBER.

Ex-Senator John M. Thurston, of Omaha, Nebraska, is one of the most prominent and influential men in the country. He made the speech nominating President McKinley at the St. Louis convention, and was made permanent Chairman of this convention. He was also made Chairman of the convention that renominated the late President McKinley at Philadelphia. He was appointed by President McKinley to be Chairman of the St. Louis Exposition Commission.

Washington, D. C., April 6, 1901.

"I have used Peruna at various times during the past year or two with most satisfactory results.

"It entirely relieved me from an irritating cough—the result of excessive effort in the presidential campaign, and I am a firm believer in its efficacy for any such trouble."—Jno. M. Thurston.

Catarrh has already become a national curse. Its ravages extend from ocean to ocean.

More than one-half the people are affected by it. It has become such a serious matter that it has passed the boundaries of the medical profession and become a national question. Senators are talking about it; Congressmen are discussing it.

They are not only considering the extent and chronic nature of the disease, but the possibility of finding a national remedy to meet this national calamity.

The catarrh remedy, Peruna, seems to be the main expectation in this direction.

Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, devised the remedy, Peruna, over forty years ago, and the remedy as a catarrh cure has been growing in favor steadily all these years.

It stands to-day before the nation as a thoroughly tested, accurately scientific internal remedy for catarrh. There are practically no medicinal rivals in the field.

Peruna is not a local application or temporary relief, it is a permanent cure. Peruna is a systemic remedy. It eradicates catarrh from the system. It cures catarrh wherever located. Its cures are radical and lasting.

Fritz Vollmer, President Schwabischer Saengerbund, Chicago, in a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., says:

"My voice was so badly affected from catarrh that I was afraid I would lose it entirely. I read of some of the wonderful things your Peruna would do and thought it advisable to try some myself.

"I am pleased to state that in a very short time I was cured."—Fritz Vollmer.

THE LATEST OF MR. GAMEY

The desperate means to a disgraceful and dishonourable end which a man of perverted moral capacity will adopt, are brought to light in the case of Mr. Gamey, by a statement given out by Mr. Crossin, who was a partner in the piano business with the member for Manitoulin. It will be remembered that Mr. Gamey could not make certain entries that he had made in his bank book agree with his statements, and the means that he adopted to make the testimony favourable to himself is now positively known. He, according to the statement, made a determined effort to make Mr. Crossin believe that both he and the bank clerk had made a mistake in the date of the entry and when he failed in this he adopted another means of accomplishing his desperate purpose. The date in the cash book was altered from September 11 to August 21, and the entry of $900 was blotted over. The change had been so clumsily made that when it was shown to one of Mr. Gamey's lawyers, the latter told what he thought of the plotter. Afterwards Gamey apparently came to the conclusion that proof of his dishonesty were too apparent and he tore two sheets out of the cash book, thus destroying evidence of the change in the entries. It was necessary also to tamper with the deposit slips, and when this had been done the conspirator made his hurried trip to Buffalo. When he returned he refused to explain his tampering with the deposit slips on the ground that a criminal charge might be laid against him.

A bolder sample of conspiracy to shed dishonour upon a man, respected in public life, has never been known, and it is sincerely to be hoped that no such dishonesty will ever be seen again. When Gamey was giving his evidence, the flimsiness of his charges was so apparent that his political friends became disgusted with him. The trial concluded, however, they took him to their arms again, and sent him through the country on his tour, in which he has occupied himself in evading public issues, denouncing the Government and the commissioners who investigated the charges that he preferred against Mr. Stratton. The Opposition can hardly hope to have people believe that they were unaware of the rascality of the man who was heralding their cause. He was the central figure in their campaign; and miserable and contemptible a man as he was, he was given full scope, and allowed to address gatherings on behalf of the Conservatives. This is something that Mr. Whitney and his colleagues must explain before they can ever hope to gain any sort of prestige in the eyes of Ontario electors.

It is not pleasant to believe that Gamey has had the support of the whole of the Conservative party in his disreputable transactions, but it is difficult to understand how they can countenance his appearance on their behalf. Gamey is a moral leper, whose political career is enough to turn a decent man away from both him and those who support him in his conspiracies. His advent into political life was a sorry moment for the Conservatives. In their anxiety to have the Ross Government thrown from power they were apparently ready to encourage and abet any scheme, no matter how indecent, so long as it was effective. It may safely be assumed that they did not expect developments that have taken place and that their hope was in having the episode threshed out in the House. Before an impartial tribunal they were not able to carry out their desires, and the untruthfulness of the charges were disclosed all too soon for them. It is an ineffaceable stain upon their party that they allowed Mr. Gamey to remain within their fold, and to appear as their representative working in the interests of "political purity." He is a creature who should be loathed by all who have any desire to see the political history of the province kept clean, and it is to be hoped that the Conservative leaders will now see their mistake in permitting him to be one of their foremost lieutenants.—Brantford Expositor.

MESSRS. WHITNEY AND GAMEY.

The mistake of Mr. Whitney's life is his present political association with Mr. Gamey, a man who is discredited, and who, although he may temporarily serve a party purpose, is bound to be thrown aside by the people as soon as popular curiosity concerning him has been gratified. They want to see the man of whom so much has been heard. It is a curiosity similar to that which induces multitudes to travel to view the scene of a crime, and which, in earlier times, made public executions popular sights. But the people of Ontario have no inclination to follow Mr. Gamey as deputy-leader of the Conservative party. And it is to this position that Mr. Whitney is raising Mr. Gamey by practically putting the Muskoka election in his charge, and by advancing him as the leading attraction at party gatherings.

Not to mention the Liberal estimate of Mr. Gamey, and judging him solely as he is viewed by all intelligent Conservatives, the man is an impossible associate for anyone who aspires to leadership and a place in public confidence. The opinion among Liberals is that Mr. Gamey is the most genial and spontaneous prevaricator who ever wagged a tongue. Conservatives, predisposed to think ill of Mr. Stratton and to believe all they can of the charges made by Mr. Gamey, are unable to form an opinion of Mr. Gamey that is much higher than that held by the Liberals. The Conservatives say that, notwithstanding the finding of the commission, they believe Mr. Gamey was bribed, that he meant to stay bought until the job got to hot for him, whereupon he made an exposure, but jumbled truth and fiction together in order to make himself out to be a hero. The Liberals say the man lied throughout; the Conservatives say he out lied during ing the half of his story which dealt with his own motives and conduct. Half the people disbelieve practically all the story he told on oath; all the people disbelieve half of it.

And this man, wholly blind to any moral deformity in himself, goes about the country vein as a peacock of the morbid curiosity which he excites. His "fame" delights him. He admires himself as one of the leaders of his party, and prizes his celebrity, as though he had won it by honest worth. His former business partner, Mr. Crossin, has just issued a statement declaring that Mr. Gamey altered the office books to make the date when he paid in $900 correspond with the story he told of having received money from Mr. Stratton, although he really had the money nearly a month earlier than the day when he said he received the bribe. Mr. Whitney accepts this man into political partnership, exalts him before the country, and debases all the standards of public life.—Toronto Star.

HERE IS A WILD YARN.

What Stuff Some Yankee Papers Feed Their Readers on.

(From Syren and Shipping.)

Montreal is being greatly benefited by the judicious work of her leading railway and steamship operators in maintaining in Albany, Buffalo, and New York a body of discreet lobbyists well supplied with gold, whose business it is to raise the mischief with the friends of the New York State canal improvement measures. This body of sagacious Canadian business men has turned in $200,000 in boodle to buy voter against the Canal Improvement bill, and has arranged to transport many carloads of men from different Western points to vote in this State on election day against the canal bill. There is nothing slow about the acute men who manipsalte Canada's great transportation lines. They know that the legislation in New York State is settled by the weight of dollars, and they realize that a few hundred thousand dollars spent against the project to enlarge New York's canals is a mighty good investment that has already, from the results of the past ten years' boodling, netted the ports of Canada $50,000,000 clean to the good in the exports of grain, lumber, and cattle trades.

FARMERS AND PREFERENCE.

(From the Farming World.)

But the Canadian farmer is not selfish in the matter (the British preference,) as some of our citizens, notably the manufacturers, are inclined to be. While perfectly willing to take advantage of any and every preference that may come his way, he has always shown some consideration for the other fellow, and will continue to do so. If a tax on food products will mean sacrifice and hardship for the common people of the Old Land, the Canadian farmer is quite willing to have things remain as they are and fight for a share of Britain's trade, as he has done in the past, by sending forward only honest and high-class products. He has met in England's markets the products of the whole world, and in the majority of cases more than held his own, and is prepared to do so still. Such is the stuff of which the Canadian farmer is made.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.

Unknown Man Killed by a Train in Hamilton Friday Night.

Hamilton, Oct. 24.—A horrible railway accident occurred here last night. None knows how it happened or who the victim was. Shortly after a long freight train pulled slowly past the Humber street station of the T. H. & B., from the east, a man's hat was found at the corner of Hunter and Hughson streets. Little pieces of clothing and flesh were scattered all along the track in front of the station, through the tunnel. The crew who took the train into the Aberdeen yard at the west end of the city were not aware of the mishap until notified. With the police they made a thorough search of the train and the track, and up till a late hour were unable to find anything but shreds of flesh and clothing. The bits of clothing found would indicate that the victim was a tramp who probably got caught in the wheels while trying to jump off after stealing a ride into the city. It was either that or else it was some one in reduced circumstances, who threw himself under the cars with suicidal intent.

RHEUMATISM CURED.

A Right Way and a Wrong Way to Treat the Trouble.

Liniments and Outward Applications Cannot Cure—The Disease Must be Treated Through the Blood.

Rheumatism is one of the most common ailments with which humanity is afflicted, and there are few troubles which cause more acute suffering. There is a prevalent notion, also, that if a person once contracts rheumatism it is bound to return in cold or damp weather. This is a mistake; rheumatism can be thoroughly driven out of the system, but it must be treated through the blood, as it is a blood disease. Rubbing the affected joints and limbs with liniments and lotions will never cure rheumatism, though perhaps it may give temporary relief. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured more cases of rheumatism than perhaps any other disease except anaemia. These pills drive the rheumatic poison out of the system by their action on the blood, and the trouble rarely returns if the treatment is persisted in until the blood is in a thoroughly healthy condition.

As an illustration of how even the most aggravated forms of this trouble yield to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the case of Mr. J. J. Richards of Port Colborne, Ont., may be cited. Mr. Richards says:—"About three years ago I suffered from a most severe attack of rheumatism. I could neither lie down nor sit up with any degree of ease, and I am quite sure only those who have been similarly afflicted can understand what agony I endured. I put myself under the care of an excellent doctor but got no benefit. Then I tried another and still another, but with no better results. By this time I had become so reduced in flesh that friends hardly knew me; I could not move hand or foot and had to be turned in bed in sheets. The pain I endured was something awful. Then I was urged to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking a few boxes there was an appreciable change for the better; the pains began to leave me, and my joints began to limber. I kept on taking the pills until I had used a dozen boxes, by which time every trace of the trouble had disappeared. I firmly believe that had it not been for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I would have been a rheumatic cripple for life."

These pills not only cure rheumatism, but all other blood and nerve diseases, such as anaemia, indigestion, kidney troubles, neuralgia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, etc. The genuine pills always bear the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper around every box. Sold by all medicine dealers at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, or sent by mail, post paid, by writing to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

NOW FOR THE RAILWAY.

Toronto Globe.

The United States have pressed their advantages and claims to their full extent. They have demanded and received their pound of flesh, and for ourselves we have no disposition to complain. The whole matter has been undisguisedly a game for the trade and incidentals of the Yukon. They have played their trump cards, and if there are no more to be laid down, they have won. Has Canada still a card to play that will deprive them of their victory, even while it is in their grasp? There can be no doubt that a railway from a Canadian port into Dawson City would be of this nature. If the Canadian port were the only port of entry for the Yukon Territory all the conditions would be reversed. Canadian vessels would then be alone competent to play between all the ports, Dyea and Skaguay suffer a sharp decline, and the railway would be hung in the air. One need only ask what the Americans would do if the boot were on the other foot to be guided as to what our course should be.

Squeezed by the Trust.

Montreal, Oct. 24.—The trade is considerably exercised here over the demand of the American Steel Trust upon the Canadian manufacturers. Some time since the Canadians agreed to take all their supplies from the United States Wire Company, but they found, however, they could purchase cheaper in the British and German markets. For this they were taken to task by the American Company that had undertaken to keep American nails out of Canada. A new agreement has been forced on the Canadians, and they will pay the difference in price, viz.: $2 a ton to the Americans.

Child Fatally Burned.

Hamilton, Oct. 24.—Edith Pearson, a 3-year-old daughter of John Pearson, 117 North East avenue, was fatally burned yesterday afternoon. She had been playing with matches with several other tots. Her clothing caught fire, and she was terribly burned about the face, back and limbs. At a late hour last night the physicians feared that her recovery was impossible.

A Most Important Move.

Paris, Oct. 24.—M. Muravieff, the Russian Minister of Justice, and president of the Venezuelan Tribunal, at The Hague, is quoted as follows. "The French-British Arbitration Treaty is the most important and pacific move since The Hague convention. I am certain that the example of the signatories will be followed by other nations."

WILL STRAIN CONNECTION.

British Weekly Papers Sympathize With Canada—Aylesworth and Jette Say Alverstone Broke Faith With Them.

London, Oct. 24.—With the exception of The Saturday Review, the weekly papers in their comments on the decision of the Alaska Boundary Tribunal, adopt fairly impartial views and decline to believe that Lord Chief Justice Alverstone was actuated by other than honorable and judicial motives, or that he was guilty of the breach of faith charged against him.

The Saturday Review, however, declares that: "One more betrayal of the same nature will strain the Imperial connection to the breaking point," and congratulates Mr. Chamberlain upon his being out of the Government on such an occasion.

All the weeklies sympathize with Canada. The Spectator believes that after momentary expressions of annoyance the Canadians, being a sensible people, will realize that they are as much bound by the decision as they would have been had it been wholly favorable to them.

ALVERSTONE MUST ANSWER.

Aylesworth and Jette Say He Broke Faith With Them.

London, Oct. 24.—The Outlook says that there is no ambiguity about the allegation made against Lord Alverstone by Sir Louis Jette and Mr. Aylesworth, who expressly declare that Lord Alverstone joined them in the view that the Canadian contention as regards the Portland Channel was "absolutely unanswerable," yet in the face of this alleged prior agreement of view Lord Alverstone at the last moment appears to have abandoned his British colleagues. This is the vital point, and it is lamentable that occasion has ever been given for the allegation, at the moment when the good-will and confidence of the colonies have become of high consequence to us and the Empire, and that Lord Alverstone should have allowed the memoranda of the Canadian commissioners to go before the world without an explicit answer. Such a charge is most disconcerting, but an answer there must be.

A Remarkable Record.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for over thirty years, during which time many million bottles have been sold and used. It has long been the standard and main reliance in the treatment of croup, yet during all this time no case has ever been reported to the manufacturers in which it failed to effect a cure. When given as soon as the child become hoarse or even as soon as the croupy cough begins, it will prevent the attack. It is pleasant to take, many children like it. It contains no opium or other harmful substance, and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

NOT IN NIGHTGOWN

Would Secretary Wyndham Carry On the Fiscal Battle.

IN ACCORD WITH THE PREMIER

Declares Mr. Chamberlain to Be "The Man Who Has Seen the Lack of Wisdom of the Nation Entering Lists Without Arms and Without Armors"—Points to American Tariff.

London, Oct. 24.—Chief Irish Secretary Wyndham, whose declaration on the fiscal question has been awaited with considerable interest, which has not been diminished by his successful land bill fight, spoke at Dover last night. He announced himself as thoroughly in accord with Premier Balfour and Joseph Chamberlain in fiscal matters, and he paid a tribute to the former Colonial Secretary as "the man who has seen the lack of wisdom of the nation entering lists without arms and without armors."

The meeting was enthusiastic, although the mention of Mr. Chamberlain provoked some interruption. Replying to the disturbers, Mr. Wyndham declared that Mr. Chamberlain was still of the party, if not of the Government; that he had gone ahead to reconnoiter the path for the Unionist army, and that he had resigned in order not to commit the Unionists to follow him unless they were convinced of the wisdom of his course.

Mr. Wyndham said the American tariff of 1896 was the greatest protectionists tariff ever introduced in the history of the world, and that its results refuted the declaration that protection killed the industry and the energy of a country. This had also been proved, he continued, by recent history in France and Germany.

In conclusion, Mr. Wyndham said he was not a protectionist but a champion of free trade; he was willing to fight for it, but he declared that to discard the armor of retaliation was to enter the contest in a nightgown.

LORD DEVONSHIRE PRESIDENT.

Of Free Food Leagues, Which Oppose Mr. Chamberlain's Policy.

London, Oct. 24.—At a meeting held last night in Westminster, of the Parliamentary Committee of the Unionist Free Food Leagues, the Duke of Devonshire was unanimously elected president of the league, and Lord Goschen, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in the second administration of Lord Salisbury; Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, who occupied the same office from 1895 to 1902, and C. T. Ritchie, who resigned as Chancellor of the Exchequer this fall, were elected vice-presidents. The meeting approved the issue of a manifesto, setting forth the views of the league.

Briefly, this manifesto expresses the willingness of the league to consider, in a friendly and loyal spirit, any definite plan the Premier may submit to Parliament. It criticized adversely and at considerable length, however, Joseph Chamberlain's proposals, and declares they would include all the disadvantages of the Imperial zollverein with none of its gains, and tend to prove disintegration rather than the union of the Empire, while leading inevitably to a policy of protection.

Further Break Up.

London, Oct. 24.—The Chronicle says: "The break up of the Unionist party is advanced a further stage by the manifesto published by the Unionist Free Trade League yesterday. It is striking the large number of leading Liberal-Unionists it contains, such as Devonshire, Goschen, North, Brock, Peel, Avebury and men prominent in business and banking worth."

Cavendish a Convert.

London, Oct. 24.—Victor Cavendish, heir to Duke of Devonshire, who recently was appointed financial secretary to the Treasury, speaking at Derby last night, made some interesting revelations. He said he did not like the idea of retaliation, but now he believed it was necessary to defend British trade.

Canada Will Leave Britain.

London, Oct. 24.—(C.A.P.)—The Chronicle publishes a letter from a business man, who says that the librarian of one of the big Canadian public libraries told him: "You've got to have protection here or we'll leave you. We can't fight the Yanks on the present basis. Canada is the most prosperous section of the Empire, and we are not going to be tied permanently to people who don't understand things. Chamberlain is the only man who understands the seriousness of the situation."

Preference No Good.

London, Oct. 24.—(C.A.P.)—The Scotsman marshals an array of figures showing the experience of Canada. It indicates that the British juto and line trades could not directly benefit to any appreciable extent by a colonial preference.

Colonies Satisfied.

London, Oct. 24.—Frederick Cawley, M.P., says: The colonies would be perfectly loyal without the imposition of a preferential tariff. They have secured many advantages from the Mother Country and are perfectly satisfied with the present state of affairs.

Fiscal Policy at Cambridge.

London, Oct. 24.—(C. A. P.)—Sir Gilbert Parker opens the Cambridge University Union debate on Nov. 3 on the fiscal policy. The event is anticipated eagerly, for Parker is credited with knowing more of the inside history of Chamberlain's scheme than any other man in England.

Earth Rival to Marconi.

Rome, Oct. 24.—A new system of wireless telegraphy, in which the earth is used for the transmission of waves, invented by Dario Campana, a young Italian, of Leghorn, was tried successfully at that city yesterday. A company is being formed to exploit the system.

Surveyors in Danger.

Toronto, Oct. 24.—Fears are being expressed that a number of Government survey parties in the Lake Abitibhe region may be frozen in. Oct. 15 is considered a late date to work. If unable to use steamers for transportation they will be in hard straits.

Dropped Dead.

Brantford, Oct. 24.—Thomas Shaw-Cross, while at work in the Massey-Harris blacksmith shop yesterday, dropped dead of heart failure about 5 o'clock, without uttering a word about being ill.

City Overdrawn.

Chatham, Oct. 24.—It is said that the auditor will discover a big deficit in the city finances. It is expected that it will be found that the city has an overdraft of $50,000 against it.

Canadian Apples in London.

London, Oct. 24.—(C. A. P.)—The Nova Scotia Government's display of winter apples in the Crystal Palace is creating much interest among British fruiterers, and the public. The exhibit is tastefully arranged, and the big court is filled with apple scent. Some Blenheims measure a foot in circumference. The Hon. Mr. Drysdale, who himself has 200 barrels for export, says the export tariff this year is over half a million. Barrels of Nova Scotia Ribstones fetched yesterday twenty shillings against the usual eighteen.

Startling Revelations.

It frequently happens that people suffer for years from kidney derangements without knowing the cause of their backaches, aching limbs and other bodily sufferings. Suddenly the truth is revealed to them that they are the victims of serious kidney disease and in imminent danger. There is no remedy that gives such prompt and lasting relief for every form of kidney disease as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are positively effective even in the most chronic cases.

The Victory Nearly Sank.

Portsmouth, Eng., Oct. 24.—Nelson's old flagship, the Victory, was nearly sunk in Portsmouth harbor yesterday morning by the battleship Neptune. The battleship Hero and some minor craft was also damaged

39 out of 40 Get Well

Who Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative

A Month on Trial.

And that is just what I give.

Not a penny expense to you if my Restorative fails.

With me, it is simply how can I get the sick to use Dr. Shoop's Restorative that they may find out for themselves—without risk—what my prescription can do.

If the sick all knew what I know of this remedy, then no offer like this need be made. But some do not. Some may never have even heard of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. And it is to just such that I make this appeal.

I am enthusiastic. My enthusiasm is due to knowledge—to actual experience obtained in hospitals and at bed-sides with this prescription. I must reach those not well. I must bring to them the help they desire, that they, in turn, may make known to other sufferers what Dr. Shoop's Restorative has done and can do. And to do this quickly, and without delay, I give to everybody—everywhere—an opportunity to use my remedy a full month on trial.

My past records show that I have failed in only one case out of 40 where this month test was made. Just think of that; 39 paid and paid gladly, and the fortieth had no expense, That is a record I am proud of.

Those who know about my Restorative—who have used it—care nothing about my "month's test." They keep it in the home constantly, as a safeguard. When an off-day comes, a few doses set things right again. To them it is an insurance against serious attacks—against continued illness.

How to Secure Trial Treatment

Write me, and simply ask for the book you need. A postal will do, or sign the coupon. Then I will arrange with a druggist near you so that you can secure six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Restorative to make the test. Send me no money. You deal with your druggist, remember. Use the Restorative a full month, then decide. If it succeeds, the cost to you is $5.50; if it fails, I will have the druggist bill the cost to me. Could anything be more fair?

To delay, means to forget. Write now, while you have it in mind. This is important.

ANOTHER LETTER ON MUSICAL SUBJECTS.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — The music rendered by church choirs is a fair subject for consideration — and fair consideration means criticism—not necessarily ungenerous or unfair, but candid and kindly. Church choirs should not resent this, nor should they blindly charge critics with being ungenerous and lacking in charity.

If it is a fact that the music is inferior, it cannot be urged that because it is voluntary it should be taken and continued as satisfactory. The question is should greater excellence be aimed at, and, if so, how is this to be attained?

To go to the root of the matter — good singing can only be had from good singers; good singers are educated, trained singers. People who have good voices and great capabilities must be educated — or they will not be good singers. I know singers are conceited and touchy—and the less their attainment the greater their conceit. It is only when cultured they look back and shudder at their former conceit. They are now modest and eager to learn.

To know the notation, and to be able to read readily, is very important, but that is not all. To sound the do, ra, me, fah, is mechanical song, or in an instrument, but that is not music. The notes are a guide only. There must be soul in the song, and so it is said, the musician "interprets the music." If the musician has not studied the piece and made it his own, so that he can render it without sounding a note, he is no musician. Many great artists practice on a dummmy instrument, but there is music in their soul though the notes speak not, and then, when called on to sing or play, there is expression, passion, soul, which moves the hearer, and the chords within respond as the strings of an Aeolian harp to the passing airs.

The young singers in the ordinary choir have little musical education. They have not been developed as to lungs, throat, chest. They don't know how to breathe, nor yet have they learned that the voice is not in the throat, but in the body. They gasp and strain and scream—not of malice but simply for the want of instruction as to the more excellent way. Now, how is this to be mended? There is only one way. Get competent teachers, men who are themselves highly educated in music, who will begin at the beginning and let the choirs sing only what they can do with some degree of excellence.

The church is no place for vulgar show. Crude singers are always wanting to tackle difficult music, they rush in where angels would fear to tread. They go it ram-stram, nothing can stop them; they are rough riders, they get there—but, oh, the havoc! Such music is not edifying, it is not worshipful, and as part of the service it is a failure. The intention is good, they do their best, and if they fail they probably don't know it. What is the remedy? Better musical culture. Surely a great town and centre like Peterborough should secure in our midst some one who would set up a better standard. Could not some arrangement be made by which the Toronto College of Music could open a branch here—sending down one or two able teachers. They could procure church organs as a help and their classes would enable them to secure a good living. I throw out the suggestion, perhaps it may bear fruit.

Unfortunately our School Trustees, some years ago, dismissed the valuable singing master we had and now there is no musical culture in the schools. This perhaps accounts for the present low standard of musical culture in the town. The pupils have learned and forgotten something of hygiene and physiology, etc., but that which would have sweetened their lives—God's beautiful gift—is left uncultured. Pity, 'tis, 'tis true.

"CLIO."

Note—Another letter on the above subject is held over till Monday.

MASTER HORSESHOERS

Will Hold Next Annual Convention in Peterborough.

Hamilton, October 23rd.—The Ontario Branch of the Master Horseshoers' Association elected the following officers this morning: J. G. Stewart, Brantford, president; C. W. Andrews, Barrie, and G. W. Cook, Hamilton, vice-presidents, and R. B. Hill, Peterborough, secretary-treasurer. The convention will meet next year in Peterborough.

PLEASANT CONCERT BY THE 57TH BAND

Given in the Opera House Last Night to a Fair Audience.

Bradburn's opera house was fairly well filled last night on the occasion of the first band concert of the season given by the 57th Regiment Band, and the audience was well pleased with the quality of the programme presented. The acoustic properties of the opera house have been considerably improved by the removal of the scenery, and it now makes a first-class music hall. The band, under Mr. Gliddon's leadership, rendered a more than usually attractive programme, which apparently was fully appreciated by the audience. Some of the principal numbers were Suppe's overture, "The Poet and Peasant," Reminiscences of Ireland," by Godfrey, "The Forge in the Forest," and a novelty selection, "The Coon Band Contest," played for the first time before a Peterborough audience, and it immediately won the approval of the musical taste of the audience.

Mr. Gliddon was generous with his recall numbers, and combined pleasingly a programme which appealed to the lovers of both the classical and the popular.

An especially enjoyable feature of the concert last night was the presence of the All Saints' Male Quartette, who assisted in the programme, giving two numbers, and responding to an encore in each case.

The selections given by the quartette, composed of Messrs. J. Legg, J. Browne, Rev. W. L. Armitage and R. H. Shepherd, were:

"Song of a Summer Night," and "Juanita," and the repeat numbers were "The Story of a Tack," and "Fishing."

It is hoped that arrangements may be made which will enable Mr. Gliddon to give a series of these concerts during the winter season.

GREAT ENNISMORE APPLES.

An Evidence of the Fertility of the Island Township's Fertility.

Twelve apples, the aggregate weight of which is 14 1-2 pounds, and four barrels more of the same size off one tree, is what Mr. Peter Flood, of Ennismore, reports to the Examiner. The tree that bore this remarkable yield is an eight year old Wolf River, the fruit being of a late winter variety, and of excellent flavour, as is not usually the case with fruit of this size; the apples remain well preserved until late in the winter, in fact their flavour is the richest in March. The Wolf River apple is a variety originated in Wisconsin, but adapts itself readily to the climate of this country. Mr. Flood states that he has grown apples of this variety which measured 17 1-2 inches in circumference, but the average is 14 or 15 inches. If Mother Eve should stray along into Ennismore—"this Eden of the west,"—she could not be greatly blamed for sampling one of Mr. Flood's mountainous apples.

ANNUAL MEETING OF SOCIAL BIBLE CLUB.

Y. M. C. A. Club met and Elected Officers for the Year.

The fourth annual meeting of the S.B.C., of the Intermediate Department, was held last evening, and was attended by a goodly number of enthusiastic members.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

Director—J. B. Mann, assistant secretary Y.M.C.A.

Vice-Director—Harry Mann.

Sec.-Treasurer—W. E. Martin.

Organist—S. Yelland.

Programme Committee — N. Darling, B. Bell, C. Barrie.

Social Committee — H. Mann, W. Elliott, Roy Turner.

Executive Committee — Officers and chairmen of committees.

In the future all new members will be received by vote and initiated, the form of the latter to be decided by the Executive Committee.

The club meets every Friday evening; Mr. J. B. Mann is leader of the studies on "The Humanity of Jesus."

FUNERAL OF MISS O'BRIEN

Took Place This Morning and was Largely Attended.

The funeral of the late Minnie O'Brien this morning was very largely attended, attesting to the esteem in which she was held by her many friends. High Mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock in St. Peter's Cathedral by Rev. Father John O'Brien; the funeral proceeding to the Roman Catholic Cemetery where interment took place. A large number of vehicles containing friends of the deceased followed the remains to their last resting place. The relatives of the deceased have the sincere sympathy of the community in their sad loss.

T. A. S. Entertainment.

An entertainment will be given in the T.A.S. Hall on Monday evening, October 26th, to consist of stereopticon views and a lecture by Rev. Dr. O'Brien. There will also be a musical programme. ws

A PROMINENT CITIZEN REMOVED BY DEATH.

Mr. Dalton Ullyott Died After Three Years' Illness.

Has Been Identified With Business Enterprises for Many Years—Extensive Lumberman and Director of Ontario Bank.

A gentleman who has long been prominently associated with the business life of the province, died in Peterborough this morning. Mr. Dalton Ullyott, until his death a Director of the Ontario Bank, and a number of years ago a prominent lumber dealer, having interests in properties in different parts of the province, died at his residence, 303 Brock street, after an illness extending over a period of three years. His condition was not considered serious, however, until quite recently, when he showed signs of increasing weakness, gradually sinking until he died peacefully this morning, about nine o'clock.

Few men were better known or more highly respected than the late Mr. Ullyott, and by his extensive business connections he made a wide circle of friends.

Born in Yorkshire, England, in the year 1823, the late Mr. Ullyott, removed to Canada when a young man, about 16 years of age. He remained in Montreal for some years, later going to Port Hope, where he embarked in the milling and grain business, conducting for a number of years a very successful enterprise. About 35 years ago he acquired a business in Fenelon Falls, and in company with the late R. C. Smith, of Port Hope, operated a large and successful saw-mill and lumbering industry. He also bought the mill at Harwood, owned by Mr. A. H. Campbell and conducted it along with his Fenelon Falls mills. He also became identified with the Midland and North Shore Lumber Company, and was one of the largest shareholders in that prosperous concern.

After living in Fenelon Falls about four years, he removed with his family to Peterborough where he lived until his death. A number of years ago he retired from active business, gradually disposing of his various mills, and has lived a quiet life, during his later years. He was elected a director of the Ontario Bank, and retained his position on the Board of that financial institution until his demise.

The late Mr. Ullyott was married on January 1st, 1850, to Miss Catherine Bigelow, of Newcastle, and by this marriage five daughters survive him: Mrs. J. W. Fitzgerald and Mrs. G. G. Gladman, of Parry Sound; Mrs. D. J. Lundy, Mrs. Geo. Rubidge, of Peterborough, and Mrs. Stapleton, of Toronto. One daughter, the late Mrs. Cunningham, died in Fenelon Falls some years ago.

Some years after the death of his first wife Mr. Ullyott was married to Miss Eva Ludgate, daughter of the late John Ludgate, who survives him.

Mr. Ullyott was a life-long Liberal, but owing to the state of his health during the last ten years has not been identified with political activity. He was a man of substantial worth of character, and his very large circle of friends will learn with sincere regret of his death.

Funeral from the late residence, 303 Brock street, on Tuesday, October 27th, at 2 o'clock, p.m.

THE CHURCHES.

ALL SAINT'S CHURCH.

There will be special services on Sunday, observing the "Intercession for Sunday Schools," which is called for in the Church of England throughout the world. The rector will speak at all services, the morning subject being, "A Foster Parent." The evening subject, "The Children for Christ." At three o'clock a Sunday school service will be held in which the orchestra will take part and to which the congregation is invited. The subject will be, "A disciple of Jesus."

CHARLOTTE STREET CHURCH.

Missionary anniversay services will be held to-morrow. In the morning the Rev. James Henderson, D.D., of Toronto, will preach. In the evening the Rev. John Scott, D.D., missionary from Japan, will conduct the service. Special offerings will be taken on behalf of the Missionary Funds of the church. All are welcome.

The following will be the music at the Charlotte street church to-morrow:—

Morning — Anthem, "Praised be the Lord Daily," W. Smallwood; solo, "The Gentle Shepherd," by J. H. Adams, Miss C. Bellegham; solo, "The Lost Chord," Sullivan, Mr R. N. Jolliffe.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

Services as usual at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday school and Bible classes at 3 p.m. Rev. J. A. Wilson will preach at the morning service and Rev. Dr. Torrance in the evening.

Mr. A. L. Davis will sing at St. Paul's church to-morrow evening.

ST. PAUL'S MISSION.

Rev. Dr. Torrance will preach at the morning service at 11 o'clock, and Rev. J. A. Wilson in the evening at 7 o'clock. Sunday school and Bible class as usual at 3 p.m.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST.

To-morrow will be missionary day in the George street Methodist church. Rev. Dr. Scott will preach at 11 a.m. Dr. Scott has been a missionary for years to the Japanese. Few men are better qualified to give information regarding the wonderful little kingdom, and its brave people than Dr. Scott. His long residence there has made him familiar.

Rev. Dr. Henderson, the eloquent missionary secretary of the Methodist church will preach in the evening at 7. All who heard Dr. Henderson at his last visit to Peterborough will doubtless be anxious to hear him again. Collections and subscriptions in aid of the missionary fund. The choir will render music appropriate to Missionary Day. All are welcome.

Mrs. P. A. Kerr will preside at the George street organ in the absence of Mrs. Mowat.

Y. W. C. A.

Mrs. H. P. Kennedy will address the Gospel Meeting to be held on Sunday afternoon at 4.15, and Mrs. Williamson will sing. All young women are welcome to join in this weekly service.

FOOT MANGLED BY THRESHING MACHINE.

Mr. Andrew Kerr, of Marmora Township, Injured.

From an accident which occurred yesterday morning about eight miles north of Pontypool, Mr. Andrew Kerr lost a limb. Mr. Kerr was assisting at a threshing, when, falling from a scaffold overhead, his left foot was drawn into the rapidly revolving cylinder of the machine, and very badly crushed and mangled. The injured man was cared for as well as possible and Dr. Young, of Peterborough was sent for. On his arrival Mr. Kerr was conveyed to Pontypool station and brought to Peterborough, arriving here late yesterday afternoon. He was taken to the Nicholls Hospital where the injured member was amputated by Drs. Young and Carmichael.

Inquiry at the hospital to-day gives the information that the patient is doing as well as can be expected, and is resting easily, no immediate danger being anticipated. Mr. Kerr, who is a married man, has the sincere sympathy of his friends in his injury.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

Letter From First Reader of Peterborough Church.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

As the inquiring thought is being aroused as to what Christian Science teaches concerning the "Doctrine of Atonement," "Everlasting Punishment," etc., kindly allow me space to say that these subjects are thoroughly defined in our regular church services by the highest authority on Christian Science, that is by the Bible, and Science and Health with key to the Scriptures, by Rev. Mary B. G. Eddy, which are the ordained preachers of all Christian Science churches.

The subject for consideration to-morrow, October 25th, is "Everlasting Punishment," and all are welcome to come, hear and judge for themselves. We, in no wise, try to force our doctrine upon anyone, but leave everyone free to judge and accept according to the light he has. If you will pardon me for taking so much of your valuable space, I shall extend a special invitation to the gentleman who questioned our lecturer last Sunday, to attend our service to-morrow. We are always glad to have the inquirer with us, and those who think for themselves, even though they differ from us on many points. Thanking you for your valuable space, I remain,

Yours respectfully,

GENERALLY SPEAKING

THERE IS NEED, apparently, for action on the part of our Aldermen and others charged with the responsibility of protecting the interests of Peterborough. In yesterday's issue of the Examiner is a report of a meeting held at Bowmanville whose object, if successful, threatenes to bring serious loss to Peterborough. The meeting represented action to secure the deflection southward of the C. P. R. main line which now passes through Peterborough, in order to serve the towns mentioned. The proposal is to deflect the C.P.R. line from a point between Havelock and Tweed—Springbrook—a station on the Centray Ontario Railway about two miles south of the junction with the C. P. R. This would practically sidetrack Peterborough and place it on a branch line of the C.P.R., if indeed the line from Havelock to Toronto should not be closed. There are good reasons why this should not be done, and the question is would the C.P.R. entertain the idea of entering into competition with the G.T.R. by a parallel line, such as the new route would practically be, for a hundred or so miles. The Grand Trunk, with its double track, would be a serious competitor on the front, while the sidetracking of Peterborough would throw the whole of the trade and traffic of Peterborough upon the Grand Trunk.

IT IS DIFFICULT to believe that the C.P.R. will entertain the proposition seriously. Our trunk lines have spent millions in order to shorten the distance between main points, to improve grades and provide all possmeasures to shorten runs. The deflection of the line mentioned would add very largely to the through mileage of the C.P.R. without, it seems, any countervailing advantage. The towns on the proposed new route would not yield traffic to make even a branch line compensate for the loss of the trade of Peterborough, divided as it is with the Grand Trunk as would also the trade with the southern towns. Taken at random a few figures show that, measured by customs receipts — representing imports—the trade of Peterborough is many times greater than that of all the chief towns to the south combined. For the year 1902 the customs duty collected at Peterborough totalled $147,393. The customs duties collected at Cobourg, Bowmanville, Oshawa and Whitby combined totalled only $67,089, less than half that of Peterborough. Will the C.P.R. sacrifice the trade of Peterborough for that of a few towns of antediluvian importance, but now with less than half the trade of Peterborough? This is bound to increase, while that of the others may remain stationary or become receding? With a bare possibility of the change being made it becomes our authorities to take prompt steps to do all that is possible to checkmate the move of our southern neighbours, or at least ascertain if it is seriously intended. To business men the loss of one of our railway's services would be a serious matter. As it is now, there is at times a congestion of traffic, and what would the result be if the whole burden were thrown on one line. Even with two lines in operation there is often delay from inability through excess of freight, to receive goods promptly.

IN CONNECTION with the idea of Peterborough's commercial importance, it may be noted that, not only is the customs revenue, representing commercial and transportation activity, more than twice as great as the towns mentioned above, but it is rapidly growing. Thus the total customs revenue collected at Peterborough, for the year ending June 30th, 1903, is $213,626, an increase over 1902 of $66,232, or nearly as much as the total collections of the four frontier towns for 1902. The figures for these places are not available for 1903. The contrast is, however, sufficiently great to show that the superior commercial importance of Peterborough, and its superior ability for supplying freight traffic for a railway, will make the C.P.R. pause before they exchange a certainty of good traffic for the doubtful traffic of comparatively moribund commercial centres. This, is assuming that the line from Havelock west to Toronto will be removed south to the frontier towns.

THEN, A MILITIA re-organization is proposed, and Peterborough being in a central position, as regards eastern Canada, especially, would make a splendid site for the proposed Aldershot, that is to be established in connection with the militia re-organization. There has been a proposal made that a central depot for military stores should be established in Peterborough. These proposals are not at all visionary, and it might be well for our Aldermen and Board of Trade to work up the ideas suggested as possible of fulfilment. If they succeeded we should have both a positive advantage of the location of these establishments here, and also have a very strong additional reason provided why the G. P. R. would not find it advantageous to entertain the proposal of the frontier towns.

ANOTHER EVIDENCE of the industrial and commercial importance of Peterborough is the fact that today we are honoured by the presence of the Faculty and students of the School of Practical Science, Toronto, which makes annual excursions to great industrial and commercial centres. Last year they went to Niagara Falls, the centre of perhaps the greatest engineering operations now in progress anywhere. And that Peterborough should be selected this year is a great compliment. And the wisdom of selection will doubtless be fully justified. The faculty and students will see much to interest them and they will have the benefit of a hospitible and courteous reception, a matter of great importance especially since it is stated that they did not receive any excess of courtesy on their excursion last year.

THE VALUE of courtesy cannot be over estimated. Courtesy and kindness and politeness are about the only investments costing nothing, which yield large returns. Our Aldermen and others in setting an example of courtesy in their treatment of outsiders are examples greatly needed in Peterborough. A lady interested in moral movements complained yesterday of the lack of good manners and rudeness, of especially, parcel and delivery boys. They will rudely bang at doors and without removing the cap or any form of salutation, coarsely and flippantly blurt out the inquiry, "Does Smith or Brown, or Jones, live here?"—no prefixing of the ordinary title of courtesy "Mr." or, in the case of a widow lady, "Mrs." This is comparatively a small matter, except that it indicates a deplorable lack of parental training and indicates the spirit of irreverence for elders and superiors so deplorably prevalent. Disrespect for authority and our elders, shows invariably a disrespect of divine authority and its demands. This lack of parental control and reverence accounts for the great amount of youthful depravity in these days. As result note the appearance in the police court of lads for robbing freight cars, some of them hardly as high as a coach wheel; note also the instance of a mother being compelled to bring her incorrigible boy to the police court for discipline — a lad who committed forgery when he was seven years old. Defective parental training and bad home influences are the foundation of a large amount of our vice.

IN VIEW OF THIS, the action of some Christian ladies, as announced in yesterday's issue, to organize classes for Bible study, is a hopeful sign. It shows that all women are not given over to social frivolity, and the consequent exclusion of home training, whose results fall upon the children thus neglected.

NOW, AS TO MUSIC, which is in the air these days — or is it discord? At any rate, the church choir controversy raging in these columns, has drawn attention to musical matters. The splendid programme of the band last night is another evidence that there is abundant musical talent in town. Another evidence was afforded at Gough Bros.' opening on Thursday night, when an emergency orchestra — brought together for the occasion — furnished music of a very superior character as to execution and finish, and demonstrated that the "made in Peterborough" idea is practicable—that for the most ambitious local social functions, there is no necessity of going to Toronto for an orchestra. Then, any one who hears our church choirs on Sundays knows that there are scores of good voices and much musical talent. The effective development of the musical resources of Peterborough, is a live and timely matter.

WRAPPERS

Our Wrapper Department is a very popular one in the Bee-Hive. We always pay special attention to all those little details which, though small in themselves, yet go to make up a comfortable, stylish and attractive Wrapper.

We are showing a Wrapper for One Dollar with full flounce, wide skirt, prettily trimmed, making a neat garment for

We have also many other styles at $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, $2.25, $3.00, $4.00, $5.00, in Wrapperette, Sateen and Cashmere, in Black and pretty shades.

We are showing a splendid stock of Winter Mantles. See them.

GOOD FUR ADVICE

We have no hesitation in advising the purchase of Furs NOW as prices will not be any lower this year.

Besides, this is the best time to make selections, because our stock is very fine and complete—never before so large and varied.

You Should Attend to the Fur Question Right Away.

There is better service now than later on—new Furs of every sort are here to make garments of any style and kind, right in our own workrooms.

Bear in mind that we have thoroughly experienced furriers in our employ all the year round, and guarantee all work.

If your old furs need remodelling we can do it to suit you perfectly.

COUGH'S Good Clothing

Is the Kind to Wear.

But don't confound good clothing with high-priced clothing. Some dealers may tell you that they sell as good, but a comparison will prove the fallacy of their claim. Come and see for yourself—be your own judge.

We want big business this month. To do it, and bring crowds here, we've made startling reductions throughout the entire store. A general slashing of prices is the order.

$7.00 FOR MEN'S SUITS

As fine and stylish and good looking suits in every particular as others are selling at $10. Better made than theirs at that price. And when you come right down to it, the making is what counts in clothes, as it does in a house or a watch.

$10.00 FOR MEN'S SUITS

We never had such a big season with $10 suits. Probably its because we never had such a big variety at that price. The coat with its high, broad shoulders is perfect fitting. You have no idea how popular it is.

$12.50 FOR MEN'S SUITS

We give as much attention to these suits as the average tailor does to the order made—and the chances are nine in ten that ours will fit better, wear longer and give all round satisfaction.

$15.00 FOR MEN'S SUITS

We are fortunate this season in having a better lot of fifteen dollar suits than we thought it possible to offer for that money. How smart the coats are. If any other store can duplicate a suit like it for $19, it is giving value for the money.

OBITUARY.

The Death of Edith Hartley Russell Aged 17 Years.

It is with sincere regret and sympathy that the Examiner chronicles the death of Edith Hartley Russell, a girl but 17 years of age, and the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Russell, of Quebec, who passed away at the residence of her grandmother, Mrs. Hartley, 52 Murray street, at about 9 o'clock this morning, the cause being peritonitis. The deceased, who has for the past year been at the Ursuline Convent, Quebec, has been in town for about two months. During her residence in Peterborough, practically the greater part of her life, she was a general favourite with the younger generation as well as the older ones, with whom she came into contact. It seems a pity that one with so sweet a disposition should be taken away at such a youthful age.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from 52 Murray street to the Little Lake Cemetery.

Sudden drops of temperature are impossible in the home heated by hot water. Stove fires die out, hot air furnaces heat unevenly, and the hot air switches to other parts of the house leaving the remaining rooms cold and drafty. But with the heating system of the in connection with Oxford Radiators an even, steady circulation of hot water is kept up throughout the house. Each radiator is diffusing the same temperature of heat in sufficient quantities for the size of the room.

The illustration below shows that the distance from the fire to the first surface is less than in any heater made, and the water has a shorter distance to travel, thus a more equal temperature is maintained in the water of the several sections.

STEVENSON.

So Limp He Looked as Though Just Fished From the Sea.

He was tall, thin, spare—indeed, he struck me as almost fantastically spare. I remember thinking that the station draft caught him like a torn leaf flowing at the end of a branch. His clothes hung about him as the clothes of a convalescent who has lost bulk and weight after long fever. He had on a jacket of brown velveteen—I cannot swear to the color, but that detail always comes back in the recalled picture—a flannel shirt, with a loose necktie bundled into a sailor's knot, somewhat fantastical trousers, though no doubt this effect was due in part to their limp amplitude about what seemed rather the thin green poles familiar in dahlia pots than the legs of a human creature. He wore a straw hat that in its rear rim suggested forgetfulness on the part of its wearer, who had apparently, in sleep or heedlessness, treated it as a cloth cap. These, however, were details in themselves trivial and were not consciously noted till later. The long, narrow face, then almost sallow, with somewhat long, loose hair, that draggled from beneath the yellow straw hat well over the ears, along the dusky hollows of temple and cheek, was what immediately attracted attention. But the extraordinariness of the impression was of a man who had just been rescued from the sea or a river. Except for the fact that his clothes did not drip, that the long black locks hung limp, but not moist, and that the short velveteen jacket was disreputable, but not damp, this impression of a man just come or taken from the water was overwhelming.—William Sharp in Pall Mall Magazine.

A Limited Edition.

There is a paper published in London called the Anti-Top Hat. It depends for its circulation not upon subscribers, but upon the will of an eccentric old man who hated the conventional form of headgear with a hatred which he carried beyond the grave. He fought the "stovepipe" hat while alive, and when he died he left his nephew $2,000 a year on condition that he edit and publish a monthly paper devoted to ridiculing the "top hat." The nephew accepted the legacy and the responsibility and issues his paper regularly, though he confines each edition to three copies, one for himself and one for each of the old man's executors.

A True Canvasback.

A good story is told of John Astley, a fellow student with Sir Joshua Reynolds in London and in Rome.

While walking in the Campagna Reynolds and some other students took off their coats, but for a long time nothing would persuade young Astley to take his off. At last he was prevailed on to do so, and the cause of his unwillingness to comply with the wishes of his friends was then revealed by an oil sketch of a waterfall painted on the back of the artist's waistcoat.

The Mother of Pearl Industry.

The center of the mother of pearl industry is Singapore. The shell oyster is six to ten inches long, the larger ones weighing as much as ten pounds. It is found on hard bottom channels between islands, where the current is strong. In gathering it a diver takes with him a bag of coir rope a fourth of an inch in diameter, made in large meshes, which, while suited for holding the shell, does not impede his traveling along the bottom.

REV. JOHN M'DOUGALL.

Fine Picture of the Northwest Missionary Who Delighted Toronto Church Circles During Recent Visit.

There are some men who absorb the West. There are others whom it absorbs. Most of the transplanted Easterners rave about space and ozone. Here and there you find a man on the prairie who, in a sense, is space—is ozone. To him there is no East; the sun rises in the West. He has known three kinds of pemmican and the unreadable soul of the red man; can himself be a red man, if he chooses; for with the Indian he is eloquent, before an audience of his fellow white men somewhat tame and ordinary. Yet he carries that unecclesiastical breeze, as though you heard it in the spruces up the banks of the Saskatchewan, or saw it blow the smoke of tepees.

Such a man is the Rev. John McDougall, Superintendent of Indian Missions under the Methodist General Board, one of the hand-full of living white men that have hunted the prairie buffalo.

Now, the writings of most missionaries on the West are about as native to the prairie as patent medicine pamphlets are to a pipe-organ solo by Guilmant. They usually estimate the population-hungry basin of the two Saskatchewans, reaching from the Rockies to Hudson's Bay, by the number of Indians who take sacrament. To read such literature engenders the "tired feeling." To hear McDougall describe a buffalo hunt is a tonic. No—I should not care to read it. Like most greenhorns, I expected word-painting and weird half-tones. McDougall's story was sheer outline, as matter-of-fact as a clothespin on your nose. There was no analysis, no lurid portraiture of blood, smoke and glazing eyes, simply rollicking masses of exuberant life, the rampant jolting of almost cosmic hunger against boundless beef—outlined by one who was in it. The story was about fifteen minutes long. It contained half a million acres of primeval prairie, a few thousand buffaloes, a hundred Indians on ponies and a huge red death on the grass under the smoke, with a huge red feast in the camp after it. Most of the words in it might have been found in a tale as simple as that in one of our school books, "I See An Ox." Which makes you wonder how such a picture would look painted in the words of Cutliffe Hyne or Frank Morris.

What the swamps and karroos of Africa were to Livingstone, the unwritable sky-spaces of the prairie are to McDougall—a life-experience. In a pipe-organ solo he might not be able to tell you the pedal notes from the vox celeste in the echo. On a prairie hill at five miles you will see a blurr of dots where he will pick out the horses from the cattle. The father was frozen on the prairie with his gun across his breast in the snow. The old-timer on the train between Calgary and Edmonton will point you out almost the exact spot of that tragedy in a coulee where the roses bloomed this summer among the bunch-grass. The prairie of today is as deeply real to the son. From Fort Macleod to Hudson's Bay and from Rat Portage to the Peace River is the parish of McDougall, just as it is of Father Lacombe, and as most of it was to Evans and the late Presbyterian, Robertson. And if you have never traveled that country off the railroad, and would know how it felt in the blood during the decade after the McDougalls went there, read "The Great Lone Land," by Col. Butler.—Kodak, in Toronto News.

A BLESSING TO CHILDREN.

"From the fulness of my own experience," writes Mrs. Samuel Hamilton, of Rawdon, Que., I can say that Baby's Own Tablets are an indispensible medicine in every home where there are infants and young children. They speedily relieve and cure all the common ailments incident to childhood. In fact I think the Tablets are a blessing to children."

It is such sincere, honest words as these that has made Baby's Own Tablets the most popular medicine with mothers all over the land. The Tablets can be given to all children from the tiniest weakest baby to the well-grown child, and where they are used you find only healthy, happy children in the home. You can get the Tablets from any dealer in medicine, or they will be sent by mail at 25 cents a box by writing to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

The Boys In Gray.

A question often asked, according to the United Service, is why the army cadets at West Point wear a gray uniform, while the uniform of the army is blue. The origin of the distinction dates back to the war of 1812-14, when the commissary general of the army could not procure the blue cloth required for General Winfield Scott's brigade, and so they were clad in gray. So distinguished was the conduct of that brigade at Lundy's Lane and Chippewa that when, after the war of 1812, a reorganization of West Point Military academy was made, out of compliment to General Scott and his brigade the uniform of the corps of cadets was changed from blue to gray.

WARWICK CASTLE.

No county in England is more beautiful than Warwickshire, or contains more celebrated towns and castles. It is a splendid domain, lying in the heart of the land, and everywhere filled with great historic interest and association.

The country is very beautiful, with narrow lanes and low thatched cottages, and a green freshness, only to be seen in England, where the climate, too moist perhaps for human beings, is capable of giving a wonderful luxuriance to trees and turf. As a favorite author has written: "Here is a soil so rich and pure that even in its idlest mood it lights itself up with flowers."

Famous Warwick Castle.

The road from Kenilworth to Warwick leads again theough avenues of trees and shady lanes, and it is not long before the towers of one of England's greatest castles appear above and through the trees. The structure is built upon high rocks and looks down on the River Avon, winding its peaceful way along through a green and fertile country. Over the river a picturesque bridge is thrown, from which a beautiful view of the imposing castle may be had.

It is uncertain when the town of Warwick was founded, but, referring again to the "Domesday Book," it is found recorded there as a borough of 200 or 300 houses. The streets of the town are quaint and narrow, and an old Norman archway guards the entrance.

In the time of William the Conqueror the Earldom of Warwick became one of importance, and the long line of earls began. The town was more than once visited by royalty, as King Henry III. occupied Warwick with his army before seizing Kenilworth Castle. The cortege of Elizabeth, too, remained several days before going on to visit the Earl of Leicester at his castle.

Warwick has an interesting church and a quaint old market place, and there are many legends connected with the town. Guy of Warwick is its most famous hero, and the old stories of his deeds are now considered history by the chroniclers. His battles were many and his prowess great, but after a time he returned to Warwick, where his wife, the daughter of the earl, had long been waiting for his coming. Undiscovered by her, he lived near by, at Guy's cliff, as a hermit, and, unknown to all, depended on her bounty. Finally, when about to die, he sent their wedding rings to her, begging her to come to him, to say farewell.

Contents of the Castle.

The Castle of Warwick is one of the finest in all England. The entrance is through beautifully wooded grounds, where stately trees, and turf like velvet, are seen on every side. From different points of view the castle shows its varied aspects, each one impressive in its own special way. There are several high, irregular towers, which add much to the beauty of the castle, and of these Caesar's tower, at the south, is very interesting. Near it is a reservoir of great size, used to store a water supply for the castle.

At certain hours of the day the massive doors of the great pile are open to the public, and only the living rooms of the family are closed. The broad hall, with its heavily carved chairs, and masses of ancient armor on the walls, is very handsome and impressive, and its many doors lead to the great dining and drawing rooms, and other state apartments of the castle.

There are several celebrated paintings in these rooms, and the Warwick vase, of pure white marble, and large enough to hold 163 gallons, is carefully treasured within the building. The vase, which is an antique, was discovered at the bottom of a lake, near the village of Hadrian, in Tivoli, and sold to the Earl of Warwick, who had it transported to England.

The grounds of the castle are very attractive, and fine views are seen on every hand. A number of beautiful peacocks are allowed to wander about a certain part of the estate, where they spread their feathers and sometimes utter their harsh, discordant notes. Among these handsome birds a lovely white one is conspicuous, so tame that it will readily come to strangers to be fed.

The Castle of Warwick and the extensive grounds give an impression of dignity and repose which is almost unequalled, even in England, the land of history and calm, unbroken progress. And the whole County of Warwick, with its stately trees and fields of brilliant flowers, its gardens and its well kept cottages, seems but a beautiful setting for the castles and historic places it contains.

Needed No Text.

A story in the Scottish-American runs that some Paisley weavers were speaking about their ministers when one said that it was wonderful how much his minister could bring out of Scripture. He had known him to preach several sermons from one text.

Another said his minister surpassed that, for he had preached six sermons from the shortest text in the Bible.

"But that's naethin' to my wife," said the third. "She's been preachin' to me for sixteen years frae nae text at a'."

His Talent for Talk.

The Duke of Argyll tells this story of Winston Churchill, which shows that the talent for talk developed young in the author and member of Parliament.

Some years ago he visited Harrow and, noticing a boy running around the cricket field all by himself, asked what he was doing it for.

"That's Lord Randolph Churchill's son, and whenever he talks too much we make him run three times around the cricket field."

A Fine Morning.

Provost Daniel, the recently elected head of Worcester College, Oxford, some years ago when he was proctor of the institution made a swift retort to an undergraduate who had to pay an unwilling call upon him. "A fine morning, sir," remarked the undergraduate, wishing to establish genial relations. "A five shilling fine morning, I'm afraid," said Mr. Daniel.

We Offer $1,000

For a Disease Germ that Liquozone Can't Kill.

On every bottle of Liquozone we publish an offer of $1,000 for a germ that it cannot kill. We do that to convince you that liquid oxygen does kill germs.

Any drug that kills germs is a poison to you and it cannot be taken internally. Liquozone alone can kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. It is the only way known—the only way one can conceive of—to destroy the cause of any germ disease.

Kills With Oxygen.

Liquozone is simply liquid oxygen—no drugs, no alcohol in it. It is the discovery of Paull, the great German chemist, who spent 20 years on it. His object was to get such an excess of oxygen in staple form into the blood that no germ could live in any membrane or tissue.

Oxygen is life to an animal—the very source of vitality. It is the essential part of air. Its effects are exhilarating, purifying. It is Nature's greatest tonic. But germs are vegetables, and this excess of oxygen—the very life of an animal—is deadly to vegetable matter. Liquozone charges the blood with such an excess of oxygen that no germ can live where that blood goes. We spend 14 days in making each bottle.

for the American rights to Liquozone—the highest price ever paid for similar rights on any scientific discovery. Before making the purchase we tested the product for years through physicians in the most difficult germ diseases. We proved that Liquozone does what nothing else in the world can accomplish, and that the results are unvarying.

A discovery that could command such a price is something you should know, if you need it. We are doing our part by supplying the first bottle free. Will you do your part by requesting it?

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.

THE HARD PATH.

The Path that leads to a Loaf of Bread
Winds through the Swamps of Toil,
And the path that leads to a Suit of Clothes
Goes through the flowerless soil,
And the path that leads to a Loaf of Bread
And a Suit of Clothes is hard to tread.

And the path that leads to a House of Your Own
Climbs over the bowlder'd hills,
And the paths that lead to a Bank Account
Are swept by the blast that kills,
But the man who starts in the paths to-day
In the Lazy Hills may go astray.

The Twelve Jurymen.

A prisoner is tried by twelve of his fellow countrymen. This custom is a thousand years old, and we get it from the Vikings. The Vikings divided their country up into cantons, which were subdivided into twelve portions, each under a chieftain. When a malefactor was brought to justice it was usual for each chieftain to select a man from the district over which he ruled and compel him to try the prisoner, the verdict of these twelve men being declared by the judge to be final.

WEALTH FOR YOU BECAUSE HEALTH FOR YOU.

Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder

Only 50 cents for bottle and tube, and is worth—as much as your life is worth. Catarrh kills thousands through colds, bronchitis, pneumonia and consumption, and Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder cures all of them when other prescriptions have failed. It will relieve colds and catarrh and cure headache in ten minutes.

FRED H. HELB, Jr., the well known distiller of Railroad, York Co., Pa., states:—"I have had catarrh of the head and stomach for two years in the worst form. I tried all the medicines I ever heard of, but without relief. I used two bottles of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. It cured me entirely, I am now a well man."

In thirty minutes Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart will add strength to that organ. Feeding the body by a full supply of blood it fills life with the old time vigor. 11

I. C. BRAND

By EDWARD MARSHALL

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

Lieutenant Phillips, U. S. V., had been inspecting government property out in the corral, but the heat had driven him into his tent, which was pitched just on the edge of a coffee plantation.

It was at the time when our government was withdrawing from Porto Rico the vast number of horses, army wagons and other transportation paraphernalia which had been necessary during the war. Inspection duty is only given to men who are thoroughly trustworthy. Especially is this true in Porto Rico. There were large quantities of government property there after the surrender, most of it in good condition. The planters thereabouts, who had lost a season's crops through the war, were anxious to cheaply re-equip their plantations with wagons, horses and mules. It was because the honest gentlemen had a tendency to offer "inducements" to inspecting officers to condemn good property, which the planters could afterward buy for a song at the auction, that especial care was used in the selection of inspecting officers. Lieutenant Phillips was one of the elect.

On such government property as is condemned the "I. C." brand is placed. "I. C." means inspected and condemned. It is not wise for a civilian to have in his possession any property which bears the mark "U. S." and does not also bear the mark "I. C." Both are stenciled in black paint on tentage canvas, blankets and such like, burned into the bodies of wagons and other wooden articles, and branded on the flanks of horses and mules.

Lieutenant Phillips kept the irons in his own possession for fear they might be used unscrupulously. He carried them, with their brazier still half full of hot coals, to the rear of his tent so that what little breeze there was would blow the heat away from him. Then he removed his heavier garments.

It had been a hard day for the lieutenant. Early in the morning he had been chief witness at a court martial which had convicted an American soldier of having cruelly treated his wife, a beautiful Porto Rican girl. The accused, Luigi Aramado, was a swarthy fellow of Italian parentage.

Lieutenant Phillips remembered with discomfort the fierce look the man had thrown at him as, handcuffed, he had been led away to the guardhouse. But, although the lieutenant had the pink cheeks of a girl and never a suspicion of a mustache upon his upper lip, he had a reputation for fearlessness.

Before he settled down to sleep he released from the ventilated box a pair of little lizards. They are of the variety called chameleons and can be easily tamed by any one who will occasionally give them a sip of sugar and water, a few flies or some other dainties dear to the heart. Many of our soldiers in Porto Rico so tamed them, and Lieutenant Phillips was among their number.

When he finally lay down on his camp cot they took their stations, one upon his pillow, one upon his chest. They knew instinctively that he did not like to have them on his face, for whenever they trespassed on this territory he moved restlessly, but their presence near his face was quite sufficient to keep most of the flies away.

While the lieutenant was making all these preparations for his siesta there was an unpleasant eye watching him through the open space left by the lifting of the back flap of the tent. The eye was in the head of the man whom the lieutenant had given evidence against that morning. Luigi Aramado had escaped. Below the eye, but wholly hidden in the bush, there were two hands, and in one of them there was a knife. The man was waiting until the lieutenant should fall asleep.

The tent's flaps moved lazily in the sleepy breeze. Now and then one of the little lizards made a lightning dart, and a fly had perished. The lieutenant slept peacefully. Everything was as it should be when noon approaches in the tropics.

Still the figure crouched, watchful and silent. At length the man crept forward till he was full in the tent; then he stopped and drew from his blouse a tiny vial. He was near enough to have used the knife, but he evidently had other purposes. Perhaps he wished to gloat over his victim before the blow fell. His glance had fallen upon the brazier and the branding irons.

Slowly and noiselessly he rose to his feet. It was a mistake, for it startled the lizards. Disobeying their training, they scampered over the face of the sleeper.

It half woke him, and he looked up lazily, but before he could more than catch a glimpse of the evil eyes and gleaming blade, before he could halloo for help, the man flung himself upon him and in the lieutenant's nostrils entered the deadly fumes of chloroform. Then he lost consciousness.

The Italian raised himself cautiously—the stupor might be feigned. But a moment's scrutiny relieved his fears In a twinkling he had bound the lieutenant hand and foot and thrust a gag into his month.

"Killing wouldn't be enough," the desperado muttered fiercely. "I'll mark him for life, so I will."

The lizards meanwhile had darted up on the canvas of the tent. They had done all that they could in waking the lieutenant. They could not fight for him.

And while the lizards watched with their beady eyes the intruder thrust the irons into the brazier. The lieutenant's eyes were open now, for the force of the opiate was spent. The desperado turned and caught their undaunted glance.

"Pig of a lieutenant!" he said viciously. "It is now I who have the power. I will wait until the irons heat, then we shall see what we shall see." And he kicked the helpless figure before he turned again to the brazier.

As he watched the metal turn from black to gray and flush into redness, a cruel smile disclosed his fanglike teeth.

"'Tis most ready, my lieutenant," he said tauntingly.

Noiselessly the tent flap swayed, as if moved by a gentle breeze. The man's back was turned. He was too intent on the brazier to see a slight figure which slipped through the aperture. It was Ysabel, his wife.

The girl's eyes dilated with horror as she glanced from the bound lieutenant to the deadly preparations of his enemy. Then with a little movement she snatched the pistol which lay on the table. At the sound the man at the brazier turned and found himself looking into the barrel held in her steady hands. He was a coward, and he quailed before her.

"Take those ropes off," she said imperiously in her musical Spanish, pointing to the lieutenant's bonds. "If you do not I will shoot you."

There was a tremor in her voice, but her eyes were unflinching.

The lieutenant watched her, fascinated. Her husband, sullenly accepting defeat, began to untie the knots. At length the captive was released and the two stood silently before her. Both seemed overawed by the beauty and fearlessness of the woman.

Still pointing with her pistol, she cried:

"Now, go—go—go, Luigi, and never come back again." Without a word the desperado obeyed.

When the tent flap fell behind him the pistol dropped from her trembling fingers and she leaned against the table as if for support.

"Was it wrong to let him go?" she said appealingly. "You would have killed him if he had stayed, and I could not have stood that. I—loved him—once." There was a sob in her throat. "Now he will never dare to come back again. I shall be free from him. You will let him go for my sake?"

As the lieutenant glanced from the irons from which she had saved him to her pleading face he could not but consent. Yet, as she, too, disappeared behind the coffee bushes, he heard her choking sobs.

"The way of a woman is hard," said the lieutenant.

THOS. HOOPER

That old copybook maxim finds its most forceful application in the waste of vitality, which is called "burning the candle at both ends." A woman is often tempted beyond her strength by domestic or social demands. Some day she awakens from this waste of strength to the woeful want of it. She has become weak, nervous and miserable.

For weak, nervous, run-down women, there is no better tonic and nervine than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It restores the appetite, quiets the nerves and gives refreshing sleep. It cures local diseases peculiarly womanly which undermine the general health. It makes weak women strong, sick women well.

"No doubt you have forgotten me, but after you read my letter you will remember me," writes Mrs. Annie E. Moring, of 926 9th Avenue, S. W., Roanoke, Va. "In the year 1897, I wrote to you for advice, which you gave me free of charge. When I wrote to you I was a wreck; I could not walk straight for pains in my abdomen; could not sit down, lie down, or get any ease at all. I had what was called the best doctor here, but did not get any better until I went through a course of your medicine. I took eight bottles each of 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and ten bottles of the 'Pleasant Pellets.' I tell you the medicine made a cure of me."

Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Casting a Statue.

Stiglmayer, a German goldsmith in the first part of the last century, having an ambition to attempt larger works than any he had accomplished, went to Naples in order to see the casting of Canova's statue of Charles III., but was denied the sight of certain secret technical processes. Stiglmayer found them out for himself nevertheless and as soon as he went home made his first experiment on a statuette of Venus. Many delays occurred, and the excitement increased as the end drew near. By some mistake one of his assistants poured his molten metal into the air hole. Then the casting came to a standstill.

"The crowd of lookers on," writes the poor founder in his diary, "stood first dumb about me and then slipped out one by one and left me with my pain."

In a month a second casting was begun and failed. With unbroken courage he began the third cast, and on Christmas eve the metal was again poured in. It ran into the mold and spurted joyfully out at the air hole.

"Our joy knew no bounds," he declares. "We raised a loud cry of joy and embraced and kissed each other. Pasquale, the helper, kissed the head of Phidias coming out of the broken form and burned his mouth, for it had not had time to cool."

The Sign Was Ruinous.

A member of the colored race who presides over the destinies of a barber shop in West Philadelphia is looking for a former customer who recently played a rather mean joke upon him. The customer in question was shaved regularly at the colored man's shop, and the proprietor held his opinion and advice in good regard. One morning the boss of the shop wanted a new and high toned sign to hang over the door, and he appealed to the aforesaid customer for an idea. The customer's wit was ready, and several days after the following sign was discovered hanging from the shop: "Tonsorial Abattoir."

The next day the regular customer passed the shop and noticed the following over the door: "Barber Shop."

The proprietor is waiting for the regular customer, and the regular customer is waiting for a little collection of excitement to blow over.—Philadelphia Press.

Knew His Fate.

"Silas, my lad," said the grocer to his new assistant, "who bought that moldy cheese today?"

"Mistress Brown, sir," was the youth's reply.

"And the stale loaf we could not sell last night?"

"Mistress Brown, sir."

"Where's that lump of rancid butter that the baker refused?"

"Mistress Brown bought it, sir," was the answer.

"And the six eggs we could not sell a week since?"

"Mistress Brown— Are you ill, sir?" asked Silas, as the grocer turned green and groaned.

"No, no! Only I'm going to tea at the Browns' tonight," replied the unhappy man as he wiped the perspiration from his face and sank into a chair.—London Tit-Bits.

Thackeray's Mustache.

In a note on Samuel Laurence's portrait of Thackeray—that representing the novelist's face in full—the Illustrated London News of Oct. 13, 1855, says:

"It is not, we must confess, altogether true to his present appearance, for it wants a recent and becoming addition to the upper lip in the shape of a black mustache that contrasts most admirably with a head of silver gray, but it is like the man and will be welcome to his many admirers."

The reference here to the mustache is interesting for the reason that every portrait of Thackeray, with one exception, represents him with a clean shaven upper lip, the exception being Maclise's pencil drawing of the famous "Titmarsh," which, however, belongs to a much earlier date—viz, about 1840—and in which there is just a suspicion of a mustache. Presumably the hirsute appendage of 1855 was merely a passing fancy, which the razor speedily disposed of.—Notes and Queries.

What He Was.

A man of letters—of poor physique—recently knocked a policeman down and is still at large to tell the tale. It was on the bank of the upper Thames, where a notice bids "Pedestrians to enter the towing path by the roadway." The man of letters, however, knew the short cut and took it, running into a huge Berkshire constable. "See that notice board?" remarked the constable, blocking the narrow path. The man of letters looked, considered, and replied, "But you see I'm not a pedestrian." The constable considered him from his hat to his boots and back again. "Why, what are you then?" he asked. "I'm a Congregationalist," said the man of letters. The constable dropped.—London Chronicle.

TWO WOMEN.

There are two women whom well I wot
And one is clever and one is not.

One labors, her livelihood to gain,
With a "really almost masculine brain,"
And the skilful work from her ready pen
Has won applause from the world of men;
And the labels she wears in the social mart
Are "brilliant" and "witty" and "keen" and "smart."

And one just gets, by the sunniest smiles
And the most transparent of feminine wiles,
The things she wants from her own liege lord,
By whom she is petted and quite adored;
And if there are other much coveted ends,
She has always a host of obliging friends
Who are then delighted to be of use
To "such a dear little helpless goose."

There are two women whom I well wot,
And one is clever and one is not.
—Beatrice Hanscom.

A One Sided Rule.

Once when P. T. Barnum was taking tickets at the entrance of his circus a man asked him if he could go in without paying.

"You can pay without going in," said Barnum, "but you can't go in without paying. The rule doesn't work both ways."

The law which all rascals believe should be enforced to the last letter is the statute of limitations.—New York World.

QUOTATIONS ON THE WALL STREET MARKET.

Skepticism With Regard to Bank Statement.

The Fluctuations of the Leading Stocks —Market Letters.

To-day's stock market was almost absolutely stagnant until bank statement was published. The apathy of the situation extended even to Amalgamated Copper which fluctuated within range of 1-4 p.c. in first hour. Jersey Central rose 3-4; Panhandle 1, and Twin City, 1 1-8. Car Foundry Preferred declined sharply. Otherwise the fluctuations were extremely trivial and presented irregular changes from last night. There was no important news to influence operations. The bank statement caused a slight increase in activity and prices were bid up all around. But the improvement did not extend beyond fractional gains. Before the end the market began to reflect decided skepticism with regard to clearing house figures at all representing the actual monetary movement and conditions of the week. A sagging tendency was developed with particular pressure indicated in steel preferred and some Gould stocks. The movement was wholly professional, however. The tone at the end was dull, but fairly steady.

I understand there is another bull pool in SP. This is one of the best stocks to keep long of. It is not a fake pool gotten up for the purpose of unloading on the members, but a pool headed by Harriman interests. You will not be very far wrong in buying SP no sale, every point up or down. It should not go much below 40, and may advance to 46. I believe that the market will close strong to-day if it is weak before the bank statement is announced. On the other hand some quite good judges look for a weak market until Monday.—Ridgeley.

"KITTIE D" MUST BE GIVEN BACK

Decision of the Admiralty Court in Illegal Fishing Case.

(G. N. W. Despatch.)

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 24.—Judge Hodgins, of the Admiralty Court, has decided that the U. S. fishing schooner, "Kittie D." seized in Lake Erie, near Dunkirk by the Dominion Government steamer "Petrel," for illegally fishing in Canadian waters, must be given back. The evidence is so conflicting, the Judge says, that the doubt must be to the benefit of the "Kittie D."

POLICE COURT.

A Big Haul of Boys Charged With Breaking Into C. P. R. Cars and Stealing.

At the Police Court last Saturday, Ed. Shephard, Ed. Scully, Thos. Jones, Firmus Laplante, Thos. Collins and Michael O'Brien were remanded until to-day on the charge of breaking into a C.P.R. car on October 4th, and stealing three caddies of tobacco and three baskets of grapes. They all pleaded guilty and this morning were remanded until Tuesday. To-day Ed. Shephard and Thos Jones were charged with stealing twelve bottles of whiskey from a C.P.R. car on August 21st, and Thos. Jones, Michael O'Brien, Firmus Laplante, Jos. Scully, Wm. and Fred Collins, Sidney Brewer, Bert Hartley and Thos. Monzies were charged with stealing candies from a C.P.R. car on September 5th. Shepard and Jones did not plead to the charge of stealing whiskey, and were remanded until Tuesday, while Wm. and Fred Collins and Jos. Scully, who pleaded not guilty to the charge of stealing candies, were given their freedom on promising to appear for trial on Tuesday next. Thos. Menzies and Sidney Brewer, who pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing candies, were allowed to go on promising to appear on Tuesday.

COLLEGE DESTROYED

Ridley, at St. Catharines, Burned to the Ground Sunday.

ROLL CALL OF THE STUDENTS

Showed That None of Them Were Lost in the Fire, Though Many Had Narrow Escapes. Were in their Night Clothes and Had Lost Much of Their Belongings— Loss $42,000.

St. Catharines, Oct. 26.—A fire that just missed being a frightful holocust visited Ridley College "Upper School" in the early hours of yesterday morning, and despite the utmost efforts of the firemen, aided by scores of citizens, completely destroyed the building.

Had the discovery of the fire been delayed a few moments longer there is not a doubt that the escape of the 62 pupils, 4 teachers, 13 female and 3 male servants, who were soundly sleeping in the college, would have been cut off, and the loss of life would have been frightful. By good fortune, however, the alarm was raisjust in time to permit of the escape of every individual, although not one got out without a greater or smaller loss of clothing, books and other personal effects, pupils and servants lost everything, except the few garments which were hastily donned in the hurry and excitement following the discovery that fire was raging in the front of the building and was spreading with amazing rapidity to the rear apartments.

Many of the boys made their exit, clad only in their night clothes and dressing gowns, snatched irrespective of ownership from their pegs, in the dormitory, and carrying what books they could under their arms. Most of the teachers lost everything they had in the building.

But the female servants were the heaviest personal losers. They all lost their clothing except such as they wore, and all their other effects, and, in some cases, their money was consumed. One girl, who has been in the service of the college for fourteen years, and who from time to time invested her earnings, to the amount of $500, in the purchase of a piano, violins and other musical instruments, on which she had no insurance, found herself yesterday morning the owner of her night clothing only.

It was just ten minutes to three o'clock Sunday morning when a pupil, Jas. McKinnon, of Buffalo, was awakened by the reflection of the fire shining on his face as he lay sleeping in his bed in the dormitories which were situated in a rear wing of the buildi He jumped up and gave the alarm, calling Prof. H. C. Griffith and Night Watchman Disher, and after considerable difficulty all the pupils and servants were aroused. The boys hurriedly donned such garments as lay nearest to hand and under the direction of Mr. Griffith filed out and formed up on Yate street. Here Prof. Griffith called the roll and found that all the pupils were present.

Meanwhile an alarm had been telephoned to the central fire station and also to the police station. There was some delay on the part of the brigade in responding, and the fire had burst out in a dozen places when they arrived. The pupils were sent to the assistance of the firemen and worked like heroes.

The fire had its origin in the "trunk room," an apartment in the front or main portion of the building devoted to the storage of the pupils' trunks, and which is always kept locked.

The college buildings were fortunately isolated from any of the dwelling houses in the locality, though a number of frame residences stand near by, and on the roofs of these men were busily engaged with hose and buckets, wetting the shingles and extinguishing the fast falling sparks. A willing bucket brigade prevented the spread of the fire beyond the limits of the college grounds.

But in the main portion of the college building, in which the conflagration started, which was a four-storey structure containing class rooms and sleeping rooms, the flames had it all their own way.

In half an hour nothing remained of the two main parts of the big pile, except the walls, which confined a glowing, fiery mass, from which the flames spouted out over the top of the brick work.

One corner of the building, which was topped by a mansard roof, above which was the bell tower and a narrow wing running eastward from the main building, did not so quickly ignite as the remainder of the structure, and after the most strenuous work the firemen succeeded in saving the first named part, and the gymnasium and female servants' quarters, which were in the narrow wing.

During Sunday afternoon the walls fell in in several places, to the imminent danger of hundreds of men, women and children, a continual stream of whom flowed to and from the ruins all day.

The pupils found accommodation in the homes of citizens who reside in the vicinity. The building was valued at $34,000, the furnishings, etc., at $8,000 additional, making the loss, exclusive of the pupils' effects, $42,000. It is impossible to say with certainty just how much insurance will be recoverable. The two schools, upper, which was destroyed, and lower, which is situated in a different part of the city, were insured in the North British and Mercantile Insurance Company for about $18,000, and it is estimated that about $20,000 to $22,000 of this amount will be recoverable on the buildings burned yesterday morning.

It is the intention of the directors to rebuild, but in a different location.

Best Test is the Tone of the Press of the Dominion.

WARNING TO GREAT BRITAIN

Premier's Speech Criticised by Several London Papers — Treaty-Making Demand Somewhat Unwarrantable and Impossible—Opinion in Canada Sized Up by Daily Mail's Correspondent.

London, Oct. 26.—(C.A.P.)—A Canadian writing to The Express says: "Let not English statesmen deceive themselves. The attitude of the Canadian people as represented by the tone of the Canadian papers concerning the Alaska case is an infinitely better test of Canada's attitude towards the Motherland than her sentiment at the time of the South African war. The Anglo-Saxon over the seas has not lost the fighting blood of his ancestry, and what would Canadians not sacrifice to uphold their own continent of British North America?" After declaring that the social claims, social prestige and immense wealth of the United States and the adroit manipulation of men affected the verdict and that Canada should possess treaty-making powers, the writer adds: "The machinery binding the self-governing colonies to the Motherland is as antiquated, insufficient and absurd as a hand loom compared with a new machine, driven by electric power."

Criticising Sir Wilfrid's Speech.

London, Oct. 26.—There has not been much comment thus far on Premier Laurier's expression of regret in the House of Commons at Ottawa on Friday at the fact that Canada did not have treaty-making powers. The headlines refer to it as a striking and "remarkable" utterance.

The St. James Gazette argues that "the demand is somewhat unwarrantable and impossible so long as Canada is dependent for external defence upon the Mother Country," and expresses the belief that the Canadian aspirations for greater independence would be most practically realized by working for the institution of a federation throughout the Empire."

The Globe is outspokenly critical. It says Premier Laurier's "present indiscretion; to call it no worse, if it stood alone, might be charitably attributed to a momentary gust of unpariotic impulse; but, on previous occasions similar ill-considered language has slipped his lips, and is calculated to cast doubt on his loyalty and devotion to the British Crown."

A Diplomatic Majuba

London, Oct. 26.—(C.A.P.)—Edgar Wallace, The Daily Mail's special correspondent in Canada, wires: "Winnipeg regards the Alaska verdict a diplomatic Majuba. In British Columbia the feeling is so bitter that it is impossible to predict the result. The award puts the question of a preferential tariff in a new light. England must take some decisive step to wipe out the unfortunate incident."

The Fisheries Modus Vivendi.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 26.—It is thought probable in official circles here that Canada, owing to the dissatisfaction over the result of the Alaskan boundary arbitration, will denounce, the modus vivendi, respecting the Atlantic fisheries at the close of the present season. The effect of this step, if taken, will be to deprive American fishermen of the right to enter Canadian waters to transship their catches, hire crews, or purchase bait. It is thought that Canada will invite Newfoundland to join in this policy because of the action of the American Government on the Bond-Hay treaty.

BOUNDARY NOT FIXED.

Commission Decided the Possession of Headwaters of Inlets.

Washington, Oct. 26.—Maps purporting to give the new Alaskan boundary as determined by the Alaskan Boundary Commission are of no value whatever, according to officers at the State Department. The Boundary Commission, by the terms of the treaty creating it, had no authority to decide upon a line. It was competent only to interpret the treaty of 1825 in the light of contemporary maps and documents. It could determine only what the framers of that treaty intended, and the decision had to be made without reference to present day conditions.

Not a foot of American territory was lost in the great stretch from the head of Portland Canal to Mount St. Elias, where Canada laid claim under the interpretations of the treaty to 25,000 square miles of land, which we retain. In fact, the United States gets considerable territory which it did not claim, in that it will be found necessary in laying down a practicable boundary to run the line more than thirty miles inland from several promontories in the deeply indented coast. The important point, however, was not the amount of territory involved, but the possession of the headwaters of the inlets.

M'BRIDE'S SUPPORTES.

Report That Houston and Wright Have Deserted the Premier.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 26.—A report is published by the Liberal organ that having refused one of the vacant cabinet positions, John Houston, Conservative, elected at Nelson, has alienated his support from the government, with Harry Wright, Conservative from Ymir, following him. This would make both parties even and precipitate a crisis as soon as the legislature convents. Premier McBride denied the report.

Irish Universities Bill.

London, Oct. 26.—Secretary Wyndham has drafted an Irish Universities bill for next session, making a national university out of Trinity College, Dublin; Queen's College, Belfast, and a Roman Catholic college to be created in Dublin.

Drowned in a Well.

Dauphin, Man., Oct. 26.—Peter Tardiff, a young man living with his widowed mother near Sterose, fell into a well and was drowned. He is supposed to have committed the act as a result of being ill with typhoid fever.

New Zealand and the Navy.

Wellington, Oct. 26.—A naval defence bill was Saturday introduced in the New Zealand parliament providing for the payment of an annual sum of £40,000 towards the maintenance of the Australasian Squadron.

To Try Wireless Telegraphy.

London, Oct. 26.—(C.A.P.)—De Forest's wireless telegraph system will be tried by the postoffice authorities between Holyhead and Howth near Dublin.

MUSKOKA AND THE SOO.

Mr. Smith Makes Complete Denial of Mr. Montague's Bribery Charges.

Sault Ste. Marie, Oct. 26.—The final Liberal rally of the campaign was held Saturday night. Speeches were made by Hon. J. M. Gibson, Hon. Richard Harcourt, Mr. James Conmee, M.P.P., and Mr. Smith, the candidate. The building was crowded to the doors, notwithstanding that the Conservatives were holding a meeting in the skating rink, with Mr. R. R. Gamey as the chief speaker. Mr. Smith took occasion to deny in every particular the charges made against him on Thursday night by Mr. Montague, the principal one being that Mr. Smith had offered Mr. Montague the sum of $500 if the latter would refrain from opposing the Liberal candidate.

Mr. Stratton at Huntsville.

Huntsville, Oct. 26.—Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary, addressed a meeting here Saturday night in the curling rink on behalf of the Liberal candidate, Dr. J. W. Hart, in the bye-election. Coming on the night following the appearance of Premier Ross and Dr. Hart, it would have been no surprise if a small meeting resulted, but the rink was crowded, and the meeting was one of the most interesting of the series that has been held in the riding. Mr. Stratton was given an ovation when he rose to speak. After devoting a good deal of time to a discussion of the public questions of to-day, he dealt with these subjects in such a manner as to impress everyone present with his grasp of public affairs and his interest in the welfare of the Province. On the Gamey question, he said: The Conservatives of Ontario had found a policy at last, and that policy was abuse of the Judges and glorification of Gamey—abuse of the ablest and most upright Judges on the Bench in this or any other country.

ELECTION OF MINISTERS.

Lord Stanley and H. Arnold-Forster Re-elected.

London, Oct. 26.—Lord Stanley has been re-elected without opposition on his appointment as Postmaster-General to represent West Houghton in Parliament.

Belfast, Ireland, Oct. 26.—H. Arnold-Forster has been re-elected to represent West Belfast in Parliament on his appointment as Secretary of War, defeating Patrick Dempsey, Nationalist, by the rather meagre majority of 245.

Duck Hunter Killed.

Rochester, N.Y., Oct. 26.—Albert A. Brock, 20 years old, of this city, was instantly killed Saturday afternoon by the accidental discharge of a shotgun while hunting in a boat on Irondequoit Bay. He seized the muzzle of his gun and pulled it toward him. The trigger caught on the seat ahead and sent the load of duck shot into the left side of his head.

130 Miles an Hour.

Berlin, Oct. 26.—Amid the intense excitement of a vast crowd, consisting largely of experts, the Siemens electric train yesterday achieved the record speed of 207 kilometres, or about 129⅝ miles per hour, beating the record of the last previous trial by six kilometers.

GAMEY.

(Ottawa Free Press.)

While an attempt is being made by a section of the Conservative party to repudiate Gamey, it should not be forgotten that until he became utterly discredited, before the close of the investigation, he was the popular idol of the entire party, who hailed him as the champion who was to tear down the flag of Liberalism in Ontario and so besmirch it with mud and filth that the people would rally round it no more.

Mr. Whitney, the Conservative leader in Ontario, still accepts his services and gives countenance to the slanders which he has uttered against the Chancellor of Ortario and the Chief Justice of the King's Bench.

Whatever may have been Gamey's relations with some of the Government agents, or even with Mr. Stratton, he can hardly appear in the eyes of honest men as other than a mendacious adventurer. That such a man should appear as the advocate of the Conservative candidate for Muskoka, and use his vile tongue to slander the judges, feed his vanity, excite rustic curiosity, is a disgrace to the party whose cause he espouses.

The story now told by his former partner, Edward Crossin, backed up by statutory declaration and supported by the entries in the books themselves, that Gamey sought to induce him to deliberately falsify the books of the Company for the purpose of trumping up evidence against Mr. Stratton, and that when he refused Gamey falsified them himself, will excite no surprise after what is already known about the man.

The partnership between Gamey and Crossin has now been dissolved and the latter makes a clean breast of the whole proceeding in connection with the mutilation of the books of the Crossin Piano Company and the payment of $900 by which Gamey was to have sworn Mr. Stratton's reputation away.

It is greatly to be deplored that the fair fame of Ontario public men, which once stood so high and clear, should be tarnished by a person of the Gamey type; and that he should be allowed to pose as the deputy leader of the Conservative party, even if election crowds are morbidly curious about the sight of him, is a fact that the better elements of the party will regret, and, it may be hoped, resent.

"ALASKA EPIGRAMS."

A lady reader of the front page of "Saturday Night," sends the following "Alaska epigrams:"

The Lord gave and Lord Alverstone hath taken away; blessed be the name of Lord Alverstone.

The Eagle may be expected to get the Lion's share; but it has taken the Beaver's also.

If Uncle Sam would possess our land, let him have our waterways likewise; if he compel us to give him a mile, let us bestow upon him our Pacific coast into the bargain.

The quality of arbitration is twice blessed; it blesseth England that gives and Uncle Sam that takes.

God save the King! But who will save Canada?

Faithful are the wounds of a Boer; but the kisses of a Commission are deceitful.

Lord Alverstone maketh a cheerful giver.

"Thou shalt not arbitrate," is the last and safest commandment of all.

England expects every Commissioner to do his Canadian

And now abideth these three: Ashburton, Alverstone and Aylesworth, and the greatest of these is Aylesworth.

Startling Revelations.

It frequently happens that people suffer for years from kidney derangements without knowing the cause of their backaches, aching limbs and other bodily sufferings. Suddenly the truth is revealed to them that they are the victims of serious kidney disease and in imminent danger. There is no remedy that gives such prompt and lasting relief for every form of kidney disease as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are positively effective even in the most chronic cases.

GAMEY FILTH IS POLITICAL OFFAL.

So says Toronto Saturday Night and as Such Should be Repudiated.

Toronto Saturday Night, which does not always agree with the Liberal way of looking at things, has the following on the Gamey incident: "The people of Ontario, all on account of a couple of bye-elections, are being asked to regale themselves with another dish of political filth a la Gamey. It is surely time for some let up on this everlasting re-hash of the offal of politics. The deeper we dip into it the worse it smells. Everyone, so far as I can discover, is heartily sick of Gamey as the chief political pudding on the table. There must be more important and palatable things awaiting our attention further down on the menu card. If the Conservative cooks have not enough good taste or judgment to throw this stale and frowsy dish into the garbage barrel, the Liberals cannot be blamed for their efforts to dispel the stench with Orossin affidavits and other unpleasant but necessary disinfectants."

S. M'GREGOR MISSING.

Clothes and Valuables Found on Lake Shore at Oakville.

Oakville, Oct. 26.—Yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock, while Arthur Felan and Norman Tyrell were strolling through the fields of the Swann property on the Lake Shore road they discovered on the ground a coat and a vest, a silver watch, a gold chain, and a pocket book containing a bank book with the name D. McGregor, of the Merchants' Bank, Galt, with $289 to his credit. The last deposit was made on Oct. 5.

In the pocket book was a calling card. On the back was written "Tired of life." The spot where the clothing was found was a gully, near the lake. The boys searched the bushes nearby, but was unable to discover any traces of the missing man. It is supposed he must have been drowned. His watch was stopped at 1 o'clock.

Later developments show that D. McGregor has been boarding at Mrs. Walsh's, Rosedale Farm, opposite the Swann's for the past three weeks, and left there last Monday morning for the first train, and has not been heard of since. He leaves a wife and three children, who are still at Rosedale Farm.

Mr. McGregor was at one time manager of the Bank of Commerce at Galt.

RIOTOUS RAILWAY LABORERS.

Italian Navvies Fight With Policemen at Winnipeg City.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 26.—A pitched battle between the local police authorities and a gang of fifty Italian navvies who are working for the C.P.R. occurred at Portage la Prairie about noon Saturday, and during its progress some fifty shots were fired, while the air was also thick with stones, clubs and other missiles.

As a result of the fracas, Detective William Cox is severely wounded, having been hit with a huge stone on the head, and injured in the back and leg by flying debris. Three of the Italians have been safely lodged behind the bars, and more arrests are expected. The men were allowed to remain in their boarding cars last night, and further arrests will be made to-day.

The trouble arose over an attack made by the Italians on their foreman, named MacDonald, who was Saturday night slugged by a gang. Attempts were made yesterday to arrest the ring-leaders when the battle between men and constables occurred.

ONLY A SUGGESTION.

But it has Proven of Interest and Value to Thousands.

Common sense would suggest that if one wishes to become fleshy and plump, it can only result from the food we eat and digest, and that food should be albuminous or flesh-forming food, like eggs, beefsteak, and cereals; or in other words the kinds of food that make flesh are the foods which form the greater part of our daily bills of fare.

But the trouble is that while we eat enough and generally too much, the stomach from abuse and overwork, does not properly digest and assimilate it, which is the reason that so many people remain thin and underweight; the digestive organs do not completely digest the food forming beefsteak and eggs, and similar wholesome food.

There are thousands of such who are really confirmed dyspeptics, although they may have no particular pain or inconvenience from their stomachs.

If such persons would lay their prejudices aside and make a regular practice of taking after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, the food would be quickly and thoroughly digested, because these Tablets contain the natural peptones and diatase which every weak stomach lacks, and by applying this want the stomach is soon enabled to reach its natural tone and vigour.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digest every form of flesh forming food, meat, eggs, bread and potatoes, and this is the reason they so quickly build up strengthen and invigorate thin, dyspeptic men and women and children.

Invalids, and children, even the most delicate, use them with marked benefit, as they contain no strong, irritating drugs, no cathartic, nor any harmful ingredients.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the most successful and widely known of any remedy for stomach troubles because it is the most reasonable and scientific of modern medicines.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by every druggist in the United States and Canada, as well as in Great Britain, at 50 cents for complete treatment.

Nothing further is required to cure any stomach trouble, or to make thin, nervous dyspeptic people strong, plump and well.

GOVERNOR'S SPEECH

ONLY A FEW MEMBERS WAIT

To Abolish Hansard—Sir Richard Cartwright's Remedy For Protracted Sessions—Western Members Complain of the Length of Parliament—Topics Dealt With in the Speech From the Throne.

Ottawa, Oct. 26.—Parliament was prorogued Saturday morning after having been in session for 227 days The weather was raw and cold, and little interest was displayed in the closing ceremonies. Few members were present and the corridors of the House presented a deserted appearance, which was in marked contrast to the bustle and life of the past seven months.

The House held a short session at 10.30.

Miles of Railway Added.

Mr. Fielding read a statement showing the mileage of railways aided in the several provinces, as follows: Ontario, 1,652; Quebec, 1,986½; Nova Scotia, 637½; New Brunswick, 500; Manitoba, 164; Northwest Territories, 2,147; British Columbia, 1,082.

Mr. Boyd entered a protest against the practice of summoning Parliament at so late a period of the year. Mr. Jabel Robinson joined in the protest.

Mr. McCreary endorsed the protest against the late period of summoning the session.

Mr. Borden said the House should be called earlier in the year, and Government measures should be brought down as early as possible.

A Practical Suggestion.

Sir Richard Cartwright concurred in the desirability of shortening the session. He hoped they would not have another session of such length. The speeches should also be shortened. He believed a practical step towards that object would be the abolition of Hansard. (Hear, hear.) It would be impossible to meet in December, but Parliament ought to be called early in February if possible.

At 11.15 the Commons were summoned to the Senate, where His Excellency sat enthroned.

Speech From Throne.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate:

In relieving you from further attendance after an unusually long and laborious session of Parliament, I desire to convey to you my best thanks for the assiduity you have shown in the discharge of your onerous duties. The session now closing will long be remembered not only for its great length, but also for the many useful and important measures that have been enacted, all tending to advance the prosperity of the country.

The unprecedented number of private and public bills that have been passed during the past session may be taken as evidence of the great industrial development that is going on throughout the Dominion.

A steadily expanding revenue has enabled my Government not only to materially reduce the debt of the Dominion, but also to submit for your approval numerous grants for useful public works in addition to liberal subsidies for the extension of our railway system, which contributes so largely to the development of our country.

In view of the flow of immigrants now seeking homes in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories and the rapid increase of products requiring facilities to reach the markets of Europe via Canadian ports, and in order to promote the settlement of the great areas of agricultural, mineral, and forest lands still untouched in the older provinces, my Ministers considered it essential to obtain authority from Parliament for the construction of a second trans-continental railway, the eastern division of which should serve as a common railway highway from Winnipeg to the maritime ports of Canada. It will be the duty of my Ministers to proceed immediately with the necessary surveys so that the work of construction of that portion of the line which extends from Moncton to Winnipeg may be prosecuted with all possible speed.

The act authorizing the transfer of the powers heretofore exercised by the Railway Committee of the Privy Council to a permanent board of commissioners who will have supreme control over the administration of the railways of Canada will, I have no doubt, be hailed with much satisfaction.

The difficult task of readjusting the representation of the people in the House of Commons in accordance with the British North America Act on a basis open to fair criticism has been accomplished in a manner that I trust will prove satisfactory to the electorate.

The subsidy granted by Parliament for the establishment of a line of steamers affording direct connection with France will, I have every reason to believe, result in a largely increased trade with that country.

The amendments to the law relating to the naturalization of aliens will have the effect of removing the disadvantages under which Canadians desirous of returning to their native land hitherto labored, and will also materially facilitate the naturalization of the many settlers seeking homes in Manitoba and the Territories.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

I thank you for the liberal provision you have made for the public service.

Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate:

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

In taking leave of you, may I express the hope that the sacrifices you have been called upon to make by an attendance on this protracted session may be rewarded by the reflection that your labors have been productive of great benefit to the Dominion

JUDGMENT FOR THE KITTY D.

Petrel Had No Right to Seize This U.S Fishing Boat.

Toronto, Oct. 26.—According to the decision of Judge Hodgins in the Admiralty Court on Saturday morning, the Dominion cruiser Petrel, of the fisheries protective service, had no right to seize the American fishing boat Kittie D. last July for, as was alleged, illegal fishing in Canadian waters in Lake Erie It was held that the Kittie D. was not in our waters, and the boat is to be restored to its owners at Dunkirk, N.Y. A suit for damages may follow. There was a difference of four miles in the calculations of the Petrel and the Kittie D. officers, each claiming that the boat was two miles south and north respectively of the boundary line.

LONDON SHOPLIFTERS.

Elaborate Means for Watching Customers Who Are Light of Hand—How They Are Treated When Discovered.

Though there is every appearance in all the great London shops that the public is to be trusted implicitly, says the London Daily Mail, an elaborate and carefully organized system of espionage prevails to circumvent the designs of the peripatetic thief and the marauding kleptomaniac.

The invisible detective, whose office is some unsuspected gallery in the ceiling, whence from artfully designed peep holes in the molding he can survey the whole establishment, is the most successful foil to the shoplifter. But there are only a few shops so structurally designed that surveillance of this kind is possible. Some of the jewellers' treasure palaces are guarded in this manner, and, to make assurance doubly sure, no attendant is without his satellite, who keeps a wary eye on the cases of gems exposed to the customers' inspection standing at the salesmen's elbow while he is showing them.

At all periods a careful watch is kept on those dress establishments that are pervaded by women, but more especially at sale time, for it is then that covetousness overwhelms mortality most easily, and the crowded state of the shops favors the picker-up of unconsidered trifles. A manager of one of the largest establishments in the metropolis says it is in those departments that are not spacious that pilfering principally goes on, and that in them detective supervision is always most acute.

By Pre-Arranged Signs.

Every shopwalker and counter attendant is in effect a detective, but there are some professionals who assume the guise to hide their real position. It is the duty of every attendant when he is suspicious of a customer to call the attention of the detective to her, not blatantly, but by prearranged sign. The detective then keeps the suspect under her immediate eye. In the large emporiums where women chiefly congregate the most efficient, because least conspicuous, detectives are women, either employed as shopwalkers or as customers.

When an attendant misses or thinks he misses something, or notices disturbing signs of thievery he speaks to the detective, who, as an elegantly garbed customer, seats herself in a position commanding a good view of the suspect and makes her purchases like any other woman, all the while gathering data upon which to proceed. The disguise assumed by the shop detective differs day by day.

If there be one result less desired by the shop proprietor than another it is to convict a kleptomaniac. Prosecutions do not forward business. The proprietor's policy is to prevent pilfering by every conceivable means. Hence a blind eye is turned to what is theft in embryo, and the wretched shoplifter caught in the act of purloining a blouse under cover of her waterproof is asked whether the article may not be sent home for her. To the bulging umbrella or the gaping handbag the detective alludes with an apology, fearing that madam has inadvertently incommoded herself with something that fell from the counter.

First offenders are often cured by narrow escapes such as this from falling into the abyss that leads to the dock, and gladly pays for the experience in coin of the realm as if they had all the while meant to purchase instead of to purloin the goods. Leniency of such a kind seldom fails to lead the trespasser back into the paths of rectitude, but when it does the manager's office is made the scene of more serious negotiations, on which it is well to draw the veil.

Considering the immense population of London and the ease with which beautiful objects can apparently be taken in the great shops, the detectives find their talents called but seldom into play, probably because their system of surveillance is so capitally organized and carried out.

Ribbon Fish.

Charles F. Holder, the naturalist, believes that what people see in the ocean and mistake for sea serpents are really ribbon fish. This curious deep sea fish often grows to a large size. Dr. Andrew Wilson of the University of Glasgow, chronicles that Lord Norbury, while trawling in the Firth of Forth one day hauled up a ribbon fish which when stretched upon the deck of the ship, which was of forty tons burden, was longer than the vessel, or sixty feet in length. Says Mr. Holder: "The fish is literally like a ribbon. Those handled by the writer were beautiful diaphanous creatures, clear and jellylike. The color was silver tinted with blue and splashed with black tigerlike stripes. The forehead is very high, and from the top of the head rises a series of dorsal spines, eight in number, a vivid coral in color, which when erect resembles pompons of a red mane, giving the fish a most fantastic appearance."

LYTTLETON ELECTED

His Former Majority Reduced by Over Six Hundred.

IS REGARDED AS A WARNING.

Free Trade Press on Result of Bye-Election—Means Nation Will Not Have Food Tax—Much Spade-Work Remains to Be Done—Chamberlainite Newspapers in Jubilant Tone.

London, Oct. 23.—Colonial Secretary Lyttleton (Liberal-Unionist), has been re-elected a member of the House of Commons from Warwick and Leamington with a majority of 190. At the last election Mr. Lyttleton secured a majority of 831.

Press on Election.

London, Oct. 24.—(C.A.P.)—The Mail says: "The somewhat unsatisfactory result of the Leamington election in which Secretary Lyttleton's majority is reduced by 841 gives evidence, we think, that the country has not yet been sufficiently educated to the change proposed by Chamberlain's plan. Since the scheme was first announced in Leamington, Chamberlain's own district, all his admirable organization was at work."

The Graphic says: "The Leamington election shows that much spade work remains to be done by Chamberlain's followers, but it comes too soon to afford a trustworthy indication of what the nation's final verdict will likely be."

The Chronicle says: "The Leamington figures were received by Conservatives with blank astonishment. The result is a rebuff to the policy of the Government, and particularly to Chamberlain."

The Standard says: "The result of the Leamington election is the first warning that the country will not have its food taxed, and if Chamberlain's policy is carried out some other proceedure will have to be discovered. Chamberlain is flooded with letters asking for amplification of his speeches, and says he can do nothing until he further consults the trades interested and the Governments of the colonies."

The Post ascribes the diminished majority in Leamington to the grievances of dissenters with the Education Act, and asks, where the tide of popular opinion is which is sweeping away the party that laid sacrilegious hands on free trade?

The Telegraph declares: "Cobdenites have availed themselves of the opportunity of appealing to Caesar and have been handsomely defeated. Leamington in 1885, when nearly all boroughs of England went Tory, sent Peel as Radical to the House of Commons with nearly double the majority received by Lyttelton yesterday. It is manifest that protection of our colonies against any attempt to penalize their efforts in favor of commercial relations with the Mother Country is an essential preliminary to all negotiations within the limits of the Empire."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

The Late Phil May.

Where May will be placed by the ultimate verdict among the great English humorists it is scarcely for us to prophesy whilst the turf is not yet green on his grave; but the virtue of simplicity is, in all the arts, the quality surest of wide acceptance. May's humor and his pathos were alike primitive and elemental. Laughter and tears were equally at his command. His fun was youthful and rarely tainted by cynicism, his pathos was instinctive and unsentimental. He was not the poet of low life only; his was the pervading spirit that envelopes every class and breed of men. His Chinamen and his "niggers," his Australian bushmen and his "West End" children, were as living as his "'Arrys" and his "'Arrists." May's invention rarely descended to pantomine, although in one notable instance. "The Parson and the Painter," he was funny without foolishness, just as he could be grotesque without ugliness.—George R. Hackett, in The Pall Mall Magazine.

The Sense of Loss.

The late R. H. Stoddard was fond of constrasting the English and the French workingman, to the great advantage of the latter. One of his comparisons dealt with the death of Dickens.

"A short time after Dickens died," he would say, "a friend of mine visited the scene of his last hours and, in search of Dickensiana, stopped in a neighboring inn. He spoke of the novelist's demise to the waiter. 'A great loss,' he said.

"'A great loss indeed to us, sir,' the waiter agreed. 'He had all his ale sent in from this house.'

"Contrast with that," Mr. Stoddard would exclaim, "the answer of a waiter to whom on the afternoon of Mirabeau's death a guest said, 'A fine day.'

"'Yes,' the waiter answered; 'it is a fine day, but—Mirabeau is dead.'"

A Soft Pack.

A soft pack is the most effective method known for alleviating inflammation and getting rid of irritation in rheumatic gout. To afford relief every night a piece of flannel should be applied. This flannel should be saturated in brine and then wrapped around the affected joint or joints. The flannel should then be covered with a rubber or oil silk bandage. Both should be kept on all night.

THE SMOKERS' ROOM

WHERE MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS GO TO "SMOKE UP."

Where My Lady Nicotine Holds Sway Over Canada's Legislators—The Favorite Old, Ill-Smelling Pipe of the Oldsters Holds the Brave Parade Cigars and Their Habitues in Awe in This Sleepy Den.

One of the best places to study human nature is the smoking-room of the Canadian House of Commons. It is such a cunningly hidden little room, so remote from the maddening crowd, so quiet and sleepy, that you might almost stumble over it without seeing it. It is a lost, Lotos-eating island in the high seas of human endeavor that surge all around. It wouldn't be fair to chart it on any plan for fear some noisy roysterer might come along and break its tradition of silence and introspection. It is very jealous of its customs, this little oasis of poppies, where the smoke is always curling in blue wreaths to the ceiling.

Here My Lady Nicotine holds gentle sway, her devotees worshiping her with incense of every sort from Canadian shag to Cuba's choicest leaf; using all sorts of thuribles from the short stemmed Irish cuddy to the stately churchwarden. Some of them, many of them indeed, affect briar-root pipes, strong, full-flavored bowls endeared to their owners more by the earnestness than the sweetness of their odor. The younger members who have not gotten beyond the stage of always being on dress parade burn cigars and cigarettes which exhale fragrance like a Chinese Joss Stick.

No doubt this is a grateful savor in My Lady Nicotine's nostrils, but, all said and done, she prefers the rank, ill-smelling pipe that the oldsters cherish. It reaches her, I have no doubt, when fancy perfectos fail, just as the widow's mite influenced high heaven when more ostentatious largesses fell short. At any rate, there is an understanding that the smoking-room is the place for the pipe, for the juicy, wheezy, foul, but favorite old pipe that you are ashamed of being seen with on the street—the kind of pipe, in short, that a man carries in his pocket to "smell-up" his clothes, but brings out finally when he is alone with nature. The smoking-room says to the member who is itching to dig up something that ought to be smoked in a gas-house, "Here you are welcome. Fear not, but trot out your odorous abomination with the petrified dottel and the acrid solutions of a year: fill it with tabac Canadien, and light it with a blue sulphur match. Be at your ease. Cigars are only tolerated here. Make a fog that you can cut. Pipes are the thing, and all kinds get the glad hand except the hookah, which is Oriental and effeminate." And the harassed member, disgusted with doubtful Havanas and suspicious domestics, falls in with the invitation and smokes up like a pavement furnace mending a hole in the asphalt.

The Old Tobacconist.

This land of Nod and garden of the Hesperides is bestowed in a tight little corner between the private room of the Finance Minister and the entrance to the library. Thus it is in touch with the present and the great thought of the past, without being oppressed by either. It seems to partake of the nature of both, the general atmosphere being, as it were, a contemplative liveliness, a subdued, reflective gaiety which requires few words for expression. In the far corner is a tobacco caninet, and with it an ancient Pistol who has come down from the period before Confederation. This quaint old fellow parts his scanty hair clear to the nape of his neck, dressing it carefully over his ears lest some loud word should penetrate there and jar the quietude he has lived in for a generation.

He has never been seen to smoke himself, and very rarely does he ever sell anything from the old tobacco box. When he does, it is something of a ceremony. He approaches it as reverently as the High Priest might the Ark of the Covenant. You may even imagine a genuflection or two. He unlocks it with a rusty little key, pokes mysteriously into it, and resurrects therefrom two boxes of withered, discouraged-looking cigars, whose quality is as the difference between five cents and ten, and whose age and ex-succousness are unquestionable. Perhaps he does a bit of business. Perhaps he doesn't. He cares little. His chief duty is simply to brood over this quiet scene like a Thibetan yogi waiting for his trance. When Death removes this venerable servant, he will take it unkindly if he be not translated to some Elysian field where the angels hit the pipe and say nothing. 'Twill be no Heaven for him if there isn't a cozy fumoir among the many mansions. Eternity will be dull if he can't catch a whiff of good old Virginia from the asphodel meadows, or if he can't hear, once in a while, the bubbling of an over-ripe pipe, and, mayhap, an occasional request for a straw to break down the stricture. Remember, he doesn't want to smoke himself, but he wants to see the others smoking, and there is not so much malice in this wish as you might conceive. He wants to see them smoke, not to burn. He will feel more at home, too, if there are a number of quiet, intellectual games in progress—preferably whist, piquet, and draughts.

In Subdued Tones.

The smoking-room always harbors a Quakers' meeting. The undertone is a friendly, encompassing, almost spiritual silence. But it is likely to be broken in fierce gusto when the spirit moves. This happens when a trick is taken, a crucial trump is played, or a pawn gets into the king-row. Otherwise you might infer that this little hermitage was filled with jolly coneobites who had taken a Trappist vow never to talk again. So complete are these intermittent silences that the stranger would pass the room unnoted even, if not for the gentle click of the draughts as they are shoved or lifted from square to square. Then, perhaps, he would look up and see the sign, "None but members admitted here," and curiosity might tempt him to step inside. Perhaps it is a rainy Saturday, and on such a day the smoking-room does big business. It is crowded with little tables. Here a partie carree, there a game of deux. Through the windows is a view of the silver, misty reaches of the Ottawa, and the cloud-basked ridges of the Laurentians bowing their heads to the blessed rain as to a benediction. He may almost see the trees budding and the grass springing under these warm showers, and the valley fairly steeping. But these joyful, vernal tears of Nature are merely an accompaniment, a sort of gracious obligato to the quiet fellowship within.

Ghosts Haunt It.

On the bench in the corner a young member from Nova Scotia is curled up reading a red-covered romance, one of these tales of derring-do in which love and valor flourish in an elemental way unknown to our artificial age. He will observe, too, that the smoking-room is a great place for ghosts. By ghost I mean those good fellows who have hung on too long and have been finally cast aside by the electors. These ghosts must revisit the scenes of their former splendor, but the atmosphere of No. 16 is too strenuous for them. They feel out of touch there. But in the smoking-room where everything is seen through a haze and the events of yesterday are as if they were written a hundred years ago, he finds the balm his soul seeks, the Nepenthe he craves, and the thick vapors that ghosts properly clothe themselves with. And so the ghosts flock to the smoking-room, where they play patience, solitaire, cribbage, and other things that stimulate calculation while they take the edge off the past.

All Good Friends There.

The casual observer will be interested, moreover, to note the groupings. Here politics are laid aside. The lion lies down with the lamb, the eagle coos with the dove, and all is as peaceful and refreshing as the flowers of May.—H. F. G., in Toronto Star.

TYPES OF CANADIAN WOMEN.

Exercise of Rare Tact in Dealing With the Interesting Subject.

The first volume of the long-awaited magnum opus of Mr. Henry James Morgan, LL.D., F.R.S.,N.A., has issued, "after four years of almost uninterrupted work, mainly of research," as he says in his introductory words. The work has entailed the writings of thousands of letters and the exercise of rare tact and judgment in dealing with the vast amount of material that research and inquiry disclosed. Mr. Morgan confesses frankly that not the love of book-making and biographic investigation, nor patriotism, nor gallantry, sustained his prolonged labors, but the contagion of the current of the age, "the urgency of one of its most vital movements," the "liberation of women from old trammels, educational and material." In our own country, as he says, "where the status of women had always been high, the needed changes were brought to pass with less acrimony than elsewhere, and were furthered by the chivalrous generosity, both of our men of learning and our men of wealth." In consequence our annals are rich with names of women who have been and are distinguished in all social gifts, in literature, the arts and the professions. One name, enshrined in many hearts as a splendid pioneer in this liberation of the spirit of the women of Canada that Mr. Morgan approves, is unaccountably missing from those pages. The reference is to the late Dr. Emily Stowe, the first physician of her sex in practice in Ontario, the untiring friend of womanhood struggling for expression and expansion in Canada, and the first courageous interrogator of the closed doors of our Provincial university. To her activity the opening of the opportunity for "higher education" to her sex is largely due. Her inclusion in the second volume will not appease her devoted friends. She was worthy of the Colonial Decoration that Mr. Morgan wisely suggests should be open to women who achieve in the colonies, from the Imperial power. To return, after this belated tribute, it may be said that the "types" included here are mainly of the two races that once met in deadly conflict for possession of the continent. The list includes the "maids and matrons of New France," as well as those of Canada under British rule, and covers each period up to the present time. The portraits and biographical notes are alphabetically arranged, and full indexes to names and subjects make reference easy. About five hundred individuals are portrayed in the volume. This is a very handsome, large octavo, printed on highly calendered paper. The letter-press is admirable, and the half-tone work a credit to local workmanship. The work is unique, a contribution to both history and art, and will prove of popular and perennial interest.

Belief of Dr. Goldwin Smith.

In a letter to the editor of The New York Sun, Goldwin Smith thus gives expression to his belief: I need hardly say that I do not pretend to orthodoxy. But I plead for a fair consideration of all real phenomena, whether they appear to fall within the domain of physical science or not. Christianity in itself and apart from its unhappy entanglements with imperial despotisms and Papal usurpation, means, by the principles which it has propagated and the characters which it has produced, to have been up to the present time a great power, to say the least of moral progress, and one which is not easily explained by physical evolution.

Careful of the Thermometer.

In a certain village not very long ago a benevolent doctor offered to give a thermometer to every cottage, carefully explaining its use. Soon after their arrival a district visitor entered one house where the new thermometer hung proudly in the middle of the room dangling at the end of a string. The visitor complimented the owner upon it and inquired if she remembered the instructions.

"Aye, that I do," was the reply. "I 'angs un there and I watches un until 'e gets above 60."

"Quite right, Mrs. ——," said the lady, much pleased that the directions given had taken root. "And what do you do when it gets above 60?"

"Why, then," was the unlooked for answer, "I takes un down from the nail and puts un out in the garden and cools un down a bit!"

PROF. OSLER ON WORRY.

Distinguished Physician Advises Medical Students and Young Practitioners to Take No Thought of To-morrow.

At the opening of the new Medical School building in Toronto Prof. William Osler of John Hopkins University delivered the opening lecture to the Medical Faculty. Addressing himself particularly to the freshmen, he said he appreciated the great diversity of character and features in those before him, and he had no doubt the teachers would be struck with the singular inequality of their capacities. (Laughter.) For one success; for another failure. Some would be overtaken by Fate just as success seemed assured; some would become trusted counsellors in that faculty, while to others was reserved the useful life of a whole-souled practitioner.

A little word lay at the root of all success. To it all the miracles of life, the advances made in the centuries, the discoveries of Harvey, Hunter and Pasteur, were due. Not a man present but owed his position to it. It was the master word, "work." There seemed to be a serious difficulty in getting men to understand the paramount importance of the work habit. Some of them believed in Tom Sawyer's philosophy. "Work consists of what a body is obliged to do." For most of us it was a hard battle. Many preferred idleness, and did not delight to labor. Many said hard words of work, and Robert Louis Stevenson attributed nervous derangement, indigestion and every other ill to its influence. He must have been dejected at the time for, on another occasion, he said: "True success is to labor."

Knowledge of Disease.

What was first necessary to a physician was a knowledge of the disease and its cure; then a knowledge of himself. The first might be had without the second, in which case, any endowments possessed would not go very far in the community. A due share of each should be had.

We were in a transition period in educational methods, and the examination was still the beginning of all and end of all." The student ever had before him the magical letters of the degree. He could only say that the most essential thing was that the student take a relish in his work. One could not work well if not interested in the subject. To-day knowledge was not stuffed into a student as it used to be, but could be picked out by him for himself at his pleasure.

An important question was how to exercise the faculties with the least possible strain. It was by cultivating system, and this some would find naturally hard. Those who did without system became a burden to their brethren and a sore trial to their intimates. If they forget all else, let them remember this advice from one who had fought a hard fight. Particularly would his advice apply to the freshmen. Each day's duties should be alloted its place, so that the attention would neither flag nor wave, and by the end of the session they might have acquired the greatest of all faculties, the power to work.

They should not allow themselves to become interested in one subject to the disadvantage of another. They should cultivate an artistic sense of perfection in their work, feeling that the most trivial work deserved the best in them. All work should be critically reviewed. Then they would learn to fight to a finish in a serious typhoid case.

The seclusion of a student's life was not always good for a man, and did not increase the facility for intercourse on which much of their success would depend. But sequestration was necessary to those who would win success.

Dangers of Student's Life.

A student's life had some dangers, mental and physical. There was exposure to infection, and a few sacrificed themselves by overwork. Legitimate work seldom killed men. The foul fiend Worry had more to do with it. It was better to "take no thought for to-morrow." Routine work was usually a safeguard against the dread of examinations. Good food, sleep, exercise, and a cheerful disposition were required.

Another danger was that in his devotion to the modern aphrodites the student would neglect his studies and become a prey to remorse when the examination returns came out. In plain language, "put your affections in cold storage for a few years, and you will take them out again ripe perhaps and mellow, and certainly less subject to the changes some youths experience." (Laughter.)

Professional study of any sort tended to narrow a man, to limit his point of view. An intense ardent nature quickly lost interest in everything but the one object which attracted it, and this was to be guarded against. The student should make bedside companions of the old literary saints, and read of Job, Isaiah, Epictetus, and Marcus Aurelius. Wisdom only came to those who earnestly sought it.

Turning to the young practitioners, Prof. Osler reminded them that they entered upon a noble heritage, and they should endeavor to do what good they could for a suffering humanity. Much had been done; much remained to be done. The possibilities of medicine were limitless. Their duty was not to draw attention to their good works, but to co-operate with the countless physicians and nurses whose voices were not heard, but who brought consolation to the slums and the mining camps, to the homes of the rich, and to the shacks of the poor; and to exercise learning, sagacity, humanity and probity; in all circumstances, true to themselves, true to their high calling, and true to their fellow-men. (Prolonged cheers.)

She Was There.

"Mamma," said little Frances, "I dreamed of you last night. We were all sitting in the parlor, and you began to scold me."

"What did I say, Frances?" asked mamma.

"Why, you ought to know, mamma," replied Frances, with some astonishment. "You were there."

She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and wore a gold chain and pendant studded with pearls, the gift of the groom. Miss Mollie Hayes, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, in old rose crepe de chine, trimmed with cream medallions. E. Blackburn, brother, was groomsman.

THE CHURCHES.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Rev. W. Archibald, of Stouffville, preached at the morning service at St. John's church yesterday.

At the evening service Turner's Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis were sung. The anthem was Granier's "Hosannah," of which the tenor solo was taken by Mr. H. W. Morphet.

ALL SAINT'S CHURCH.

The services at All Saint's church yesterday were of an especially pleasing character. The Rector, Rev. W. L. Armitage, preached at both services, which were devoted to Sunday school work. His subject in the morning being, the "Foster Parent," which he said, the Sunday School was because of the indifference of the parents to the spiritual welfare of their children. The evening sermon was from the text, "Take this child and nurse him," etc., and proved a most interesting one to the large congregation which packed the church. During the offertory at the evening service the choir sang, "Nearer My God to Thee," Miss Rickey taking the solo.

In the afternoon a children's service was held in the church, which was attended not only by the members of the Sunday School, but by a large number of parents of the scholars. The orchestra fo the first time played in the church at this service and delighted the large congregation assembled.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

Mr. A. L. Davis sang at St. Paul's church last night, his selection being Dudley Buck's "Fear Not Ye, O, Isreal."

HAD HER FINGER SMASHED IN A C. P. R. CARRIAGE DOOR.

Very Painful Accident to Little Myrtle Howland Aged Four Years.

On Saturday little Myrtle Howland, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Howland, who live at the museum, Inverlea Park, had the little finger of her left hand smashed by being caught in the door of a C. P. R. car. It is learned that Mrs. Howland was returning from Norwood per 5.10 C. P. R. train together with her two children. Before the train drew up to the station Mrs. Howland asked the conductor to help her with the children when they stopped. This, it is stated, the conductor consented to do; however when the engine had stopped and most of the passengers disembarked Mrs. Howland, fearing the train would start, picked up one child in her arms and began to get down unaided, the conductor apparently having forgotten his promise. The little girl, Myrtle, was behind Mrs. Howland and stopped in the doorway. The exit or entrance of some passenger caused the door to slam with considerable force and the little girl instinctively put out her hand with the intent of saving herself from being knocked over, but with the result of getting her finger smashed at the first joint.

Dr. Carmichael, who attended, is hopeful of being able to save the finger.

BOARD OF HEALTH'S BUSINESS WAYS.

Abortive Attempt at a Meeting This Morning.

A Local Branch of the Circumlocution Office.

The Peterborough Board of Health moves in a mysterious way its nothing to perform.

This morning a meeting was called for 9.30—a meeting, too, of the most vital importance—or, rather, perhaps, of mortal importance to some poor sufferer from scarlet fever or diphtheria. The chief thing to be discussed, and that the most important one, was the isolation hospital, and time is a very urgent consideration. The hospitals have given notice two or three times to the Board of Health, informing that deliberate body, that after Nov. 1st no cases of contagious diseases will be received.

Let us see how seriously the members of the Board of Health take their responsibility:—

The meeting was called for this morning at 9.30.

At 9.30 two members strayed solemnly into the meeting place.

At 9.48 another member strayed in.

At 9.49 another member entered. That made three—one short of a quorum.

At 10.15 the last arrival became tired, and dropped out. That left two—two short of a quorum.

At 10.20 another member entered. That made three, or only one short of a quorum.

At 10.23 it was decided to call off the meeting, and call another for the afternoon at 2 o'clock.

This sort of abortive meetings has been going on all summer—meetings suddenly summoned, then adjourned, or failing to materialize.

A body like the Board of Health should above all things be a business body, and promptitude is an indispensable essential of good business methods.

AN INTERESTING TRIP.

Mr. J. A. Fife Gave a Description of his Trip to the North at the Y. M. C. A.

The Y.M.C.A. parlour was crowded with young men at the second Saturday night social. Mr. W. S. Robinson presided in a most able manner.

The All Saint's quartette, sang "Star of the Summer Night," in their usual capable manner.

For an hour and a half Mr. J. A. Fife held the interest of the audience in describing his canoe trip to the far north of Ontario.

The chairman tendered him the thanks of the men there assembled, at the close of the talk.

The Saturday night socials are proving most successful.

THE LATEST NEWS OF LOCAL SPORT.

RUGBY.

The Rough Riders and Britannias met in the first game of the second round of town league series Saturday, the former winning by a score of 21 to 4. The weather conditions were not as good as could be desired; a strong bleak wind was blowing, and the altitude of the oval made it particularly penetrating. However a fair sized crowd witnessed the game, which was at times a good exhibition. When the teams lined up on the field it was at once apparent that the Rough Riders were heavier than their opponents. The Britannias lacked the services of two of their best men, who were unable to play—Belleghem, the inside wing man, and Quinlan, who played such an effective game against the All Saints at centre half.

The game started with the Britannias playing with the wind, and for a time the ball was in the Rough Riders' territory. However, the latter braced up and succeeded in making the first touch in about 15 minutes from the start. The try was not converted. They made another point before the completion of the first half, and the Britannias made a touch which they failed to convert. The half time score was 5—4.

In the second half the Rough Riders played with the wind, while the Britannias played against it, and with the sun in their faces. A stiff steady breeze blew with increasing force and the Rough Riders' superior weight was too much for the lighter team and they piled up 17 points while the Britannias were blanked, the final score being 21—4.

Mr. Ernie Ford refereed the match and Mr. H. R. H. Kenner umpired, both officials giving perfect satisfaction.

For the winners, Kennedy, Paschal and McPherson played well. Paschal broke through in fine style and his kicking was splendid. MacFarlane played a brilliant game for the losers, but the rest of the back division showed up to poor advantage. The game was free from all roughness outside the regular scraps. The following was the line-up of both teams:—

Rough Riders — Back, Kelly; halves Craig, Kennedy, MacPherson; quarter, Paschall, capt.; snapper, O'Brien; wings, Laing, Craig, Giroux, Plouff, Rossmond and Perks.

Britannias — Back, Boucher; halves, MacFarlane, Hodgson, Mulhern; quarter, Walkey, capt.; snapper, Staunton; wings, Bawers, Ferguson, Fitzpatrick, Walker, Harmer and Robinson.

A meeting of the Rough Riders will be held at the rink to-night at 7.30. All members of the club are asked to attend as important business will be transacted.

BASKET-BALL.

The Athletic basketball team are asked to meet at the Y.M.C.A. to-night at 7.30 to attend a business meeting; all members are requested to be present.

LATE EDITH RUSSELL BURIED YESTERDAY.

Large Number of Friends pay Respects to Departed.

A large number of friends of Edith Hartley Russell gathered at the home of Mrs. J. A. Hartley yesterday afternoon to pay their last respects to their young friend, whose life had been so prematurely cut off. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. A. Wilson, who had visited Miss Russell during her illness. He referred to the beautiful Christian character possessed by her.

The floral tributes were very beautiful, the coffin being completely covered with the offerings of her sorrowing friends. The chief mourners were Mr. and Mrs. Russell, of Quebec, parents; her brother and grandmother, Mrs. J. A. Hartley.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. Roy Armstrong, Holland VanEvery, Melville Moore, Ronald McKee, William Lockhart, and Robt. Parker. The interment took place at Little Lake Cemetery.

THE SCIENCE STUDENTS POSSESSED THE TOWN.

School of Practical Science Students Here on Saturday.

A Very Profitable Visit—Expressed Pleasure at the Entertainment Provided—Industrial Establishments Visited—Banquet at Oriental Hotel in the Evening.

The form of Mayor Roger being borne upon the shoulders of stalwart students of the Ontario School of Practical Science, down George street to the G.T.R. station, was the sight which greeted the eyes of Peterborough citizens shortly before nine o'clock on Saturday night, and was the event that closed the visit of the above mentioned students to this town. The procession, of which His Worship was the head, comprised about 275 of the students in Applied Science of the Toronto University, and in their march to the station, and in fact during the whole time in which they remained in Peterborough, the College yell, Y-a-r-s-i-t-y — Varsity, Rah, Rah, Rah, was industriously and lustily exploited.

The citizens of Peterborough naturally felt a considerable patriotic pride in the fact that the Faculty and students of this great engineering educational institution, had honoured this town with a visit, because it was a practical tribute to the industrial importance of Peterborough. The visit was made in order that the students might have an opportunity of witnessing, in what is considered one of the most important industrial centres in Canada the practical demonstration of the theories which they are being taught from day to day in the lecture halls of the University, with which the School of Practical Science is affiliated, and that the result of Saturday's visit was of a highly satisfactory character, was amply evidenced by the remarks, both of the members of the Faculty and those of the students themselves. It was a great revelation to them, to use their own expression, to find in a town about which little has been said, such extensive and well-equipped industrial establishments, and national public works. The result to Peterborough of this visit, too, cannot but be of a beneficial character. It will bring before the notice of scientific men the fact that this town is in possession of natural advantages, in the shape of cheap and easily obtainable power, which cannot be duplicated in any other town or city in Canada, and to make use of the words of President Loudon to the fact that "Peterborough practically has at her doors power that Toronto has to go eighty miles for," has but now dawned upon the minds of the visiting Science students and teaching faculty.

The establishments and public works visited by the students and Faculty have already been noted in these columns, and it but remains to add that that they more than met the expectations of those visiting them, in the new ideas as to the application of modern engineering appliances and equipment, and the belief that Peterborough manufacturers are fully abreast of the times was amply verified.

The Town Council came in for a considerable degree of merited praise for placing at the disposal of the visitors conveyances, in which they might easily reach the various points in town which they wished to inspect. The arrangement in this particular was thoroughly appreciated.

After the students had inspected to their satisfaction all the various interesting establishments included in the programme, they made things exceedingly lively in town, by parading the streets in companies, and in a thoroughly good natured way enjoyed themselves.

THE EVENING DINNER.

At six o'clock the evening dinner was served in the Oriental dining hall, at which the members of the Town Council and others, were the guests of the students and Faculty. The spacious hall was crowded to its utmost capacity, about 300 being seated at the tables. Mr. G. N. Graham, the proprietor of the hotel, came in for well merited compliments upon the way in which the company was served, the arrangements being well made and almost perfectly executed. At the head of the table was seated Principal Galbraith, of the School of Practical Science, who acted as chairman. On his right were Mayor Roger, Colonel Edwards, K. C., E. G. Patterson, general superintendent of the Canadian General Electric Company's works; C. H. C. Wright, of the S.P.S.; Mr. Francis, of the Trent Valley Canal staff; Mr. R. B. Rogers, superintending engineer of the Trent Valley Canal; Dr. Kendrick, of Toronto University; Mr. T.A.S. Hay, Town Engineer; Ald. Corkery, Ald. Shortly and Mr. H. R. H. Kenner. Those at the left of the Principal were: Prof. Louden, Principal of Toronto University; Mr. D. W. Dumble, K.C., President of the Toronto University Alumni Association; Mr. Miller, of the S.P.S. staff; Mr. McGee, of the C.G.E.Co.; Ald McWilliams, Ald. Morrison, Mr. D. Easson, of the Trent Valley Canal staff; P. of. T.R. Roseburgh, Mr. J. W. Bain, Mr. P. Gillespie, Mr. A. Gray, Mr. C. E. Sisson, Mr. H. B. Housser.

THE TOAST LIST.

After the excellent bill of fare had been rendered ample justice, Principal Galbraith proposed the toast to His Majesty King Edward VII, and in doing so took occasion to express to the town the thanks of the Faculty and Students visiting it, for the very pleasing reception which they had been accorded on the occasion of their visit. They had been met with universal courtesy from the superintendents and managers of the various works visited, and he desired to convey the thanks of the visitors to His Worship Mayor Roger, and the members of the Council, Mr. E. G. Patterson, and the other officials of the C.G.E. Co., the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company, the Cordage Company, the American Cereal Company, the Lakefield Cement Company, the officials of the Trent Valley Canal, and all those who had shown them the multiplied courtesies during the day. Their reception had been so kindly that he anticipated that the students would be wanting to come again, and in this feeling he would also participate. He was very agreeably surprised at the progress that Peterborough had made. He recalled the time when some years ago he had received his first practical instruction in land surveying here, and the town's growth since then had been marvellous, and yet, he believed that it was just beginning. He predicted that there was a glorious future in store for the town, and it was impossible to say to what degree of importance the great water power advantages possessed by the town, will have advanced it in the industrial life of the country.

The health of the King was honoured in the usual way.

THE MAYOR AND COUNCIL

The next toast honoured was that to the "Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough," proposed by Mr. Galbraith and responded to by His Worship Mayor Roger and Ald. McWilliams and Ald. Morrison. The Mayor said that he with the other members of the Council and the citizens generally felt that they were under an obligation to those who had visited the town for the honour which had thus been conferred upon it. It had been a great pleasure to welcome them here. This town takes a peculiar interest in the School of Practical Science, because many young men whose homes were in Peterborough are graduates of the School and are now filling important positions in Canada and other countries. He attached great importance to the work of the Toronto University as accomplished by its affiliated institution, the School of Practical Science. By the development of the natural resources of Canada, a demand was being created for men trained in the applied sciences, and as the development proceeded the demand would increase. He congratulated the Faculty upon having such an intelligent and promising body of followers, and also congratulated the following on their possession of a Faculty so eminently practical and so well fitted to give them the required instructions.

The Town of Peterborough, he said, was particularly interested, in industrial development, because of the fact that within a short distance of the town there are water powers of almost unlimited possibility. It is only recently, however, that the value of water power has come to be appreciated. By the more perfect understanding of the adaptability of the great force of electricity, water power, has taken on a greatly increased value, because by the introduction of electricity, power developed by water may be transmitted almost any distance and utilized for hitherto undreamed of purposes. The town was becoming to place more value upon the easily developed power which it possessed, and he felt that its future was assured. The conditions that prevail here, however, are to be found in a modified degree all over Canada, and he could not imagine a country more favourable for the students and graduates than Canada, because of the vast undeveloped resources which are bound to make this country one of the greatest in the world. He again expressed his pleasure, and and that of his colleagues, in welcoming the visitors to the town, and hoped that their visit had not been an unpleasant nor an unprofitable one.

Ald. McWilliams, following the Mayor, said that the Council had learned with pleasure of the proposed visit of the S. P. S. students and Faculty to Peterborough, a town of which all its citizens were proud, and to which none were more heartily welcomed than those who were that day visiting it. He spoke of the pleasing associations which the students' visit reminded him of, and closed by saying that he hoped their visit would prove a profitable one, and by assuring them that the welcome which was being voiced by him was heartily concurred in by the other members of the council, and the citizens generally.

Ald. Morrison also responded to the toast, speaking along the same line as those preceding him, and saying that the town appreciated the honour thus bestowed upon it, and hoped that the impressions gained had been of such a character that another visit would be made. Before taking his seat, he said he would like to propose the toast to "The Toronto University. He was heartily in accord with the proposal to federate Trinity and Toronto Universities, as he believed that the province was only large enough for one university.

The toast was heartily responded to, the students again taking the opportunity of giving vent to expressions of patriotic feelings of love for their College in the orthodox manner.

President Loudon, who was the first to respond to this toast, said that he was highly delighted with this, his first, visit to Peterborough. The occasion had not only been an interesting one, but profitable as well, and it had been a revelation to him to see industrial works so well equipped, and the magnificent lift lock, which, he believed, when completed, would be considered one of the wonders of the world. He remarked in paying a tribute to the progressiveness of the C. G. E. Company, that although he had tried to keep pace with the new inventions in the line of machine tools, he had seen in the works visited here, machines that were new to him, and which proved that the company had kept pace with the march of progress. He had been greatly pleased with the evidences of prosperity seen here, and he felt sure that Peterborough was destined to be a great industrial city. The water power here available is a sufficient guarantee of the future of the community, and yet, he said, Peterborough was but an example of the very many places in Canada where power could be developed at a nominal cost, and this fact constituted one of the most valuable assets of the country, as he jocularly remarked, one which could not be taken from us. To make Canada the great country it is destined to be, these water powers must be developed, and it must be the work of the graduates of the School of Practical Science to assist in this patriotic object.

The Toronto University, he said, had already done a great deal towards the development. Her graduates were to be found scattered all over this country, and everywhere they were upholding the honour of the University. The charge had been made that the University turned out only doctors and lawyers, but, he said, this could no longer be said, because in its affiliation with the S.P.S., the University was sending out men skilled in the Applied Sciences, and her graduates in Arts were filling important positions in the commercial life, not only of Canada, but also of the United States. Some years ago he had advised the students in the Arts course to turn their attention to business pursuits as a field in which great opportunities were presenting themselves, and the result had, he said, been most satisfactory. He had now more applications from business men, he said, for his Art graduates than he could fill, and the graduates were in nearly every case, promising very successful in the business in which they were engaged.

Mr. D. W. Dumble, K.C., also responded to this toast, and said that as President of the Peterborough Alumni Association he wished to welcome the members of the Faculty and that body of students to the town. It was a great pleasure to renew college associations, and the energetic and intelligent students he saw before him, were, he felt, a credit to the University. Mr. Dumble's speech was a patriotic one, and could not help inspiring in the minds of those who heard it an intensified love for their native country. He congratulated the young men upon the fact that they were living in Canada, "the greatest country under the sun." No country in the world possessed such immense wealth as this land, and none had such great possibilities. He advised the students to remain in their own country and assist in its development instead of leaving for foreign countries. He felt sure that nowhere was there a more promising field than right at home.

Col. E. B. Edwards, K.C., also spoke in response to this toast, and said that he joined heartily in the welcome that had been accorded to the visitors. He impressed upon the students, the fact that as students and graduates of Toronto University, they occupied no mean position, and he hoped they would recognize this fact. In passing he paid a high tribute to the worth of Mr. A. B. Aylesworth, who is a graduate of the University, to the toast to which he was responding. He said that all Canada could not but admire the noble and dignified stand which he had taken on the Alaska question. This toast was responded to also by Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, who in a short speech recalled some of the pleasant associations of his former student days at the University, and paid a tribute to the endowments of the students now at the University from Peterborough.

THE ENGINEERING PROFESSION.

Dr. Miller then proposed the toast to "The Engineering Profession," in doing which he said that this was an age of industrial activity, and one in which the graduate in practical science would find plenty of scope in which to work. The first speaker to respond to this toast was Mr. R. B. Rogers, who said it had been a great pleasure to himself and the staff of the canal to welcome the visitors to the works, and he hoped that there had been something seen which had repaid them for the visit. Mr. Francis, also of the Canal staff, spoke to this toast following Mr. Rogers, and his speech was one which evidently was to the liking of the students as he was enthusiastically applauded during its delivery. He said it was a pleasure to him to welcome them to the best town in Ontario. It was, he said, appropriate that the greatest town in Ontario should be visited by the students of the greatest school in Ontario to see the Lift Lock which was the greatest in the world. The principal of the school had been given his initial training in his profession in Peterborough, and it was a pleasure to welcome him back after he had attained such a prominent place in the profession. Speaking of the Lift Lock, he said that it might truly be said that it was "Made in Canada," because, with the exception of some few castings, the entire work was of Canadian manufacture. There had been employed on it some of the students and graduates of the S.P.S., among whom were Messrs. Easson, Revell and Gillespie. Mr. E. G. Patterson, responding to the same toast, said that on behalf of the C. G. E. Co. he welcomed the visitors to the town and to the Works. The Company had in its employ some of the graduates of the S.P.S., who were all giving satisfaction, and they would like to get more of them. Mr. T. A. S. Hay, also spoke briefly, adding his welcome to those already expressed, and congratulating the principal upon the honours which had been conferred upon him by another college. Mr. D. Easson's name had been coupled with this toast, but the visitors had to leave to take the train which left at nine o'clock. The students marched in a body down George street to the Grand Trunk station, bearing at the head of the procession Mayor Roger. A number of the students, however, remained with friends in town over Sunday, leaving this morning.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE MEETINGS ARRANGED.

Mr. Wm. Collins has Received Draft of Winter Meetings.

One to be Held in Peterborough at Which Medal Will be Presented—The Speakers to Address the Meetings.

Mr. William Collins, secretary of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute, has received from the Superintendent of Farmers' Institutes, Mr. George C. Creelman, a draft of the meetings arranged for District No. 8, including North Ontario, East and West Victoria, East and West Peterborough, East Northumberland and North Hastings.

The meetings in Peterborough will be held in the council chamber on November 27th, at which the regular speakers sent by the Department will give addresses, and in addition to the addresses the president of the Institute, Mr. E. M. Elliott, will present a Royal Humane Society medal to Lewis Fowler, for distinguished bravery in rescuing from drowning at Chemong in June last a son of Dr. Poole. The speakers delegated to this district are among the best in the province, and Mr. Collins is particularly pleased that Miss Rose is being sent here as she is a very clever speaker. The list of subjects and dates of meetings are as follows:

T. H. Mason, Staffordville, "The Hog as a Money Maker," "Care and Feed for Dairy Cattle," "Growing Corn for Grain and Silage," "Butter Making," "Red Clover," "Sheep Raising." Evening subject, "Changing Conditions in Canadian Agriculture."

Miss Laura Rose, Guelph, "The Production and Care of Milk," "Buttermaking on the Farm," "Defects in Butter; their cause and remedy," "The Making of Bread and Buns," "How Much are we Worth!" 'One Eye in the Field the other in the Town," "A Rolling Stone Gathers No Moss."

THE IDEAL SETTLER

Reunion That Led to the Story of New Ontario's Actualities.

ONE MAN'S DOUBLE HERITAGE

An Interesting Occasion Full of the Most Intense Human Interest — Pressmen Look on and Are Quietly Happy— One of Many—True Men Who Make a Nation Great—The Settler's Story.

(Special Correspondence.)

"Willie!"

"Annie!"

And he took her into his strong arms as if New Ontario and its boundless possibilities were as nothing besides this one wee woman who, after he had had two years of rough "batching" it in the woods, had come to share its rigors with him in the endeavor to build up a home for their children respectively named for father and mother. Then the children, shyly as to a dimly-remembered stranger whom they had once loved, claimed "daddy's" attention. Even while he felt their loving baby arms, for they were only four and five, he could not keep his gaze from roaming in search of the brightness of the brown eyes that held all the world to him.

Pressmen Quietly Happy.

The pressmen on the Meteor looked on quietly happy in the reunion between the husband and wife who had been parted for two years past. Her they know by sight. She had come up with them on the boat. Her sympathetic coolings to the little ones had attracted some attention, as did she herself. Not at all the typical settler's wife in a rough country. She seemed too frail for that, until one looked at the quietly determined mouth and the true eyes. His lands will never be the heritage she is to him. A true woman, with an understanding soul, had come from the "front," to take up life again with a loved husband in this land of promise. The children were bright and intelligent, and had made friends with the grumpiest of the quill-drivers on the way up. It was, therefore, in the fitting nature of things that they were interested in seeing how the brawny, sun-burned "old resident" of New Ontario would take his happiness.

Will Play Their Part Well.

The scrutiny was quite satisfactory. They were sure, after the greeting they had witnessed on the landing of the Metcor, that there was no mental or spiritual alloy in their cup of joy. The future troubles that will fall to the lot of this re-united pair, if the keen-eyed journalists can judge, will be only of a material kind, and the brave spirits will, they are sure, meet them heart to heart, shoulder to shoulder, and conquer them.

In a surprisingly short time they were snugly esconsced in the best guest room of the Windsor. Here they told each other the story of their two years of separation. With hers we have nothing to do; with his: it is the story of a two years' struggle in the wilderness. Better than any surface examination it gives an insight into the conditions as they exist in New Ontario for other such men as he.

The Type of Many.

Of the man himself it may be said that he is one of the people, i. e. there are thousands just like him scattered all over this broad Dominion. That he is made of a fine quality of clay is shown in his strong tenderness and in the frank grey eye that illumined a rather rugged countenance, bronzed and tanned by the sun and winds of the district. His skin is clean and his face was clean-shaven. A modern man. Evidently he is one of those who, brought up on the farm in childhood and early youth, had drifted into the city and had found conditions favorable for making a good living so long as he was young and able but with no future for himself and family. A close look disclosed the fact that his struggle had been not alone with the stern face of nature but also with himself. That he had won in the greater struggle of making a man of himself was self-evident in the easy grace with which he bore himself. He felt, without being puffed up, master of himself, and of such are the true men that make a nation great.

The Settler's Story.

"When I came up here two years ago last August, Annie," said he to his wife, who composed herself to listen to the wonderful tale, the children having been put to bed, "I thought I had nothing to do but go to the Government Agent's office and be settled within a day or two on a good 160 acres within easy distance of the base of supplies. Mr. Armstrong, the land agent at New Liskeard, who furnished me with a guide, was sympathetic, but said that I would have to go a considerable way back to get what I wanted.

"It took me two weeks of good hard work, quite invigorating though, before I chanced upon the place I settled on in Armstrong Township. Those who come up now will have much harder work than I had to get a location, because nearly all the good land within forty or fifty miles of here is taken up.

"But I am glad now that I did not come earlier, for I have got one of the finest places in Armstrong Township, a township that has the best of land; indeed, there is not a bad 160 lot in it."

Annie—"What does it look like; is it near water and is it very rough and hilly?"

Willie—"It is just such a place as will suit your artistic soul. Indeed, I passed as good land nearer to me, but none prettier. Through one corner runs a beautiful trout stream and nearly all the farm slopes to the south. The timber is not very large, and it is cedar, tamarac, spruce, poplar and birch, with a little white-wood. There is, too, quite a lot of pine on it, but this I cannot have until I put in my four year's residence for six months of each year, clear 16 acres and build a house 16x 20 feet. I can use what pine I need for building or fencing, and I can remove such as is in my way in clearing my land, and sell it by paying the Crown timber dues of $1.25 per M. feet. I have to pay 50 cents an acre, $80 in all, but the terms are easy and I have enough timber on 20 acres to sell that will bring me in the money. On the whole I have struck it very luckily, dear."

What he had done in two years.

Annie—"But what have you done? This is of your possessions, and it is you I am most interested in."

Willie—"Not much, if judged by the number of acres I have cleared. But it was awful work for me at first. As you know I was not hardened to it. The other folks in the township were very friendly and those who had the requisite knowledge taught us how to get along. But we had to do the work. Then," with a loving look, "I had to do something to get something for you and the children, as I could not get a crop even of the small clearance during the first year, and I had to eat also. I was fortunate, however, and sold some wood that I had cleared off. Later on, I got a job in a sawmill near by, and then I had some work on the Government road. For the work I got ready money, and while in the sawmill employ I got my board as well. And I was so glad to send you the money, and that you was able to make it do till now.

"Altogether I have nearly five acres cleared of the trees, and I have burned off and partially stumped three acres. The other two acres I have chopped and underbrushed and you and the youngsters will see the burning off.

Planning for the Future.

"I have also made a rough plan of the whole farm so that I will leave timber for wind-breaks and shelters where they will enhance its beauty, for I know you are one of those who do not believe in chopping down every tree and leaving perfectly bare fields.

"The house is up, but I am not going to tell you of it further than to say that I have made it much better than the Government calls for. I know you will like it," this with a wistful longing for appreciation, "but you can write home after you have seen it and tell them all about it.

Of His First Crop.

"As for crop, this year I had peas and oats in, and I remembered some of the book farming you did, and I sowed little patches of wheat, both winter and spring, timothy and clover, and I can tell you this white clay of ours will grow them all to perfection. And such a crop of garden stuff! You'll be delighted. Large mealy potatoes, ten or twelve to a hill, monsters. Cabbage, solid heads that you never saw the like of. My pumpkins and squashes are not as large as I would like, but they are very fine in quality. Did I tell you the peas were good. Well, I never saw better in the days when father used to grow them before the bug came in North Dumfries. The table carrots could hardly be better, and you will have all the green tomatoes you want for Chili sauce. I have eleven vines, but I was so late in getting the seed in that I have only had a few ripe ones."

Annie—"What about fruit?"

Willie—"Lots of wild plums, raspberries, and strawberries. Better than that, I exchanged with a neighbor work and his wife put up for us enough I think to last us till spring. I gathered them myself, except the help I had from a little boy one half day."

The Loneliness Lightened.

Annie—"And weren't you lonely?"

Part of Willie's answer will not be recorded; "but," said he after the hiatus, "I have good neighbors, and there was church every Sunday in the mill. We all helped one another, and we have a good choir that will do you good to hear and see."

In answer to her question, "Did you live in your house alone after you got it up?" he said with deep feeling, the cause whereof seemed to be well understood by her, "I did." After a long pause, "and I grew in the solitude, alone with Nature and her wondrous works, to know myself. Yes, dear, I have fought the battle and I think I have conquered. The struggle was supreme, but the victory over self, as I think it is, is greater still," and he reverently and humbly bowed his head. There were glad tears in her eyes, which showed she thoroughly understood, and when he spoke again her hand was in his.

"Yes," he resumed, "I am confirmed in the opinion you impressed upon me years ago. It is better to be a useful, helpful man in the community one lives in than to be rich. And one learns the lessons up here from everything. The men who are 'getting on,' as the world calls it, while they may have no particular vices and will help others if it is sure to further their own ends, are not, in my opinion, the best settlers in this new country.

"As you said a few minutes ago, 'I want to hear of what you have been doing,' really sums up the situation. It is better to be some one than possessed of much land or goods. You know my talent for speculation," shamefacedly? "something to your sorrow. I have fought that demon down, and home and family, with a competence as the result of even years of labor will content me now.

"Let me apply this idea to the public situation in the Temiskaming District. There are families who hold large tracts of land. Between them they clear only what is required by the land regulations, and they will 'sit tight' until they have their deeds. After that they will practically leave their land to be made valuable by other settlers whose burden is thereby increased. I don't think this right, but I hardly know of a remedy, other then the one I have applied to myself—to become an actual settler with all the words imply.

"Another drawback in this country of a public nature may, I think, be remedied. A man takes up a farm of 160 acres, pays his $5, and starts in to work. He finds it uncongenial, or too hard, and forthwith he drifts into the town and gets work at something he is better fitted for. But he holds his claim. By-and-by a speculator in land comes along. For, say $50, he buys the discouraged one's claim, who thus makes a profit of $45 on the transaction. He thinks he has done well.

Where the Speculator Profits.

"As I told you before there is not much land within forty or fifty miles that is open for settlement on the Government's terms. Some who come to take up land find themselves in the quandary I was in when I was told I would have to go a considerable way back. He wanders round for a day or two and perhaps he may have a little ready money, say $50, and the speculator who bought the discouraged man's claim sells it out to him and he pays down his ready money, and agrees to pay $200, $300, $400 more as the case may be. He has too, to do the settlement and other duties, and this added burden as well, extended it may be, it is true, over a term of years. He becomes a drudge farmer and a glutton for outside work as well, and by the time he stands free he is a broken man.

The Remedy.

"What is the remedy for the evil? I think it is perfectly clear. The Government would have land for the still incoming settlers if it reverted back to them if a settler, who had not completed his land regulation duties, gave up his claim. The prima facie evidence would be that he was not on his land for the necessary period, and he should be paid the actual value of such improvements as he had been able to make. There would be no injustice to him, the later actual settler would have to pay the added cost to the Government, which would thus be nothing out. We would not then have a community of farmers who would have to forget, in their desire to free themselves from debt and perform their settlement duties, that they are living men, with a man's responsible duties to his family and the community in which he lives."

"Ah, dear," said his wife, "you are worthy. You will be a useful man in this community, and I am glad to take my place with you in building it up."

A Possible Fear.

"There is one thing more," said he, "that I have found time to think of in my strenuous life. If the District is to prosper as it should our railway and our roads must be in the hands of the people. The Government has made a good beginning, and if they keep the railway in their own hands the settlers will have the cheapest means possible to reach the front with their produce. The freight rates prevent much of comfort from coming in and will by-and-by prevent much going out if this policy is superceded by one that makes the road one that must pay heavy dividends in addition to earning powers for running expenses.

"But, cheer up, Annie," as her face dropped, he said. "From all I can learn the road will remain in the hands of the commission to be operated for the people.

"You are tired; the long journey and the long story have wearied you, so off to rest. We have lived under great stress this past two years. But the fact remains that we have lived and are better now than when the period began, and what I, with my predilections awry for this life and an improper intial training, have done, can be done by anyone with a brave, stout heart, a willing mind, and the dearest wife and children in the world to work for.

PATHFINDER.

Sold Him His Own Book.

A man appeared in a Paris bookstore the other day and asked for a volume of Balzac. The clerk showed him a rare edition, asking 40 francs for it. When the customer said that was too much the clerk advised him to go into the proprietor's office and see if he could get it cheaper. But the customer went and offered it for 25 francs, and the proprietor promptly paid the sum and afterward showed his "bargain" to the clerk.

Wouldn't Be Swindled.

Mrs. Newed—I would like a pound of your best cheese.

Grocer—Yes, ma'am.

Mrs. Newed (examining it)—Why, this cheese is full of holes!

Grocer—Yes, ma'am; that's the way it comes.

Mrs. Newed—Well, I don't want any of it. I'm not going to pay for a pound of cheese that contains a half pound of holes!

The Cannibal's Barbecue.

Killsem (a native of the Cannibal islands)—They are having a barbecue down on the beach.

Eatsem—What's the entree, man or woman?

Killsem—Neither. They've captured a ship laden with newspapers, and they are devouring the news.

NEVER MET DEFEAT.

Military Leaders Who Were Always Successful in Battle.

The Duke of Alva, one of the most eminent soldiers of the sixteenth century, never throughout his long and eventful career lost a battle. The archbishop of Cologne was struck by his effort to avoid a conflict, having on one occasion urged him to engage the Dutch.

"The object of a general," replied Alva, "is not to fight, but to conquer. He fights enough who obtains the victory."

Oliver Cromwell throughout his military career never lost a battle, though he nearly sustained a reverse at Dunbar.

The Duke of Marlborough fought several battles against the most experienced generals in Europe and was never once defeated.

The famous Russian general Suvaroff was another commander destined never to suffer defeat. He gained several victories against the Turks and against the Poles, and in Italy he was opposed by Mereau, and, being completely outnumbered, he effected a brilliant retreat over the mountains of Switzerland, through Germany, into Russia.

The Duke of Wellington throughout his brilliant campaigns, both in India and in the peninsula, preserved to himself a remarkable record of uninterrupted successes from the first battle in which he was vested with supreme command throughout the peninsular war, in which he defeated the ablest of Napoleon's marshals, until the eventful day at Waterloo.

An Unavailing Rain Penance.

No country subject to drought is without its own peculiar method of supplicating for rain. That in Kumaon, northern India, is not the least curious of them.

In a country where the population is almost entirely dependent upon grain as a means of subsistence drought means famine and starvation. During a drought in Kumaon a Hindoo fakir imposed a penance on himself and was suspended by his feet from a wooden beam. In this position he was swung back and forth for a considerable time by means of a rope attached to his body and pulled by a fellow fakir. Both men were besprinkled with ashes and mud and were minus all clothing except for a small cloth around the waist.

It is to be regretted that such pious zeal should have gone without the expected reward, for the chronicler sadly related that no rain fell until weeks after.

MANITOBA GIVES STRIKING PROOF

That Dodd's Kidney Pill Cure When Other Means Fail.

Mr. J. J. Perkins Disabled by Kidney Pains, Finds New Health in the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Tyndall, Man., Oct. 26.— (Special.)— All over Manitoba and the Territories people are telling of benefits received from the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and this place furnishes a striking example of how they will cure when all other means have failed in the person of Mr. J. J. Perkins.

"For two years I was troubled with my Kidneys," Mr. Perkins says. "I got so bad that the doctor attending me declared me incurable.

"At times, I had such severe pains in my back that I thought I would have to give up hopes and die. I was unable to work and was becoming destitute.

"One day a friend asked me, 'Have you ever tried Dodd's Kidney Pills?' I answered 'No,' and he persuaded me to try them.

"The first box made me feel like a new man; five boxes cured me completely. Dodd's Kidney Pills saved my life."

LORD SALISBURY, THE BELIEVER.

Letter Stating His Reasons for the Faith That Was in Him.

The London Record contains the following very interesting letter, addressed by Lord Salisbury to the Rev. W. T. McCormick, at that time Vicar of St. Matthew's, Brighton:

"Chalet Cecil, Puys, Dieppe,
"August 30th, 1894.

"Rev. Sir,—I wish I could assist you: but it is difficult to touch so large a theme in so short a space without doing harm.

"Everyone has their own point of view from which they look at these things. To me the central point is the Resurrection of Christ, which I believe.

"Firstly, because it is testified by men who had every opportunity of seeing and knowing, and whose veracity was tested by the most tremendous trials, both of energy and endurance, during long lives.

"Secondly, because of the marvelous effect it had upon the world. As a moral phenomenon, the spread and mastery of Christianity is without a parallel. I can no more believe that colossal moral effects lasting for 2,000 years can be without a cause, than I can believe that the various motions of the magnet are without a cause, though I cannot wholly explain them.

"To anyone who believes the Resurrection of Christ, the rest presents little difficulty. No one who has that belief will doubt that those who were commissioned by Him to speak—Paul, Peter, Mark, John—carried a Divine message. St. Matthew falls into the same category. St. Luke has the warrant of the generation of Christians who saw and heard the others.

"That is the barest and roughest form the line which the evidence of the inspiration of the New Testament has always taken in my mind. But intellectual arguments, as you well know, are not to be relied upon in such matters—Believe me, yours faithfully,

"SALISBURY.

"The Rev W T. McCormick."

TALES OF A TUB

By HARRIET G. CANFIELD

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

The Landors, with the exception of Dick, whose business detained him in the city, were spending the summer at their country home, some thirty miles out of C. One day Mollie decided to run in for a few days "to see Dick and shop a little."

The next morning she walked into her brother's office, much to his surprise and delight, for Dick was fond of his little sister.

"I thought you must be lonely, dear," she said, "when you go home at night, and I've come to be company for a day or two."

"That's good of you, Mollie. I'll tell Mrs. Klapper to come over early and get breakfast for us. She keeps my rooms in order, but I get all of my meals downtown."

"Bless you, Dick, I can get breakfast for us both! You need not say a word to Mrs. Klapper. How surprised she'll be when she comes over in the morning! I must go to do some shopping now, but I'll take tea with you at 5, and then we'll buy bread, coffee and some kind of breakfast food. Won't it be fun camping out in the house?"

After a jolly breakfast Mollie watched him swing into a car; then she went into the kitchen. Mrs. Klapper found her there. "Why, Miss Mollie," the good woman cried, "what ever are you in town for?"

Mollie explained. "Now that I'm here," she added, "I think I'll wash all of the bedroom curtains—those dotted swiss ones, you know. Jane should have attended to them before she went out to Hill Side."

"Oh, let me wash them, Miss Mollie! It 'll spoil your pretty hands." And Mrs. Klapper looked distressed.

But Mollie laughingly declined. "No," she said; "you may sweep and dust to your heart's content, but I shall do the washing."

The water was soon bubbling on the kitchen range. Mollie scorned the basement laundry, and, with Mrs. Klapper's help, carried her wash bench and tubs to the back porch.

Enveloped in one of Jane's big aprons, with sleeves rolled up to her dimpled elbows, Mollie bent over her washboard. Mrs. Klapper, broom in hand, stood for a moment watching her. "Don't tire yourself to death," she said. "I hope you'll call me before you're all tuckered out." She turned to go into the house, but paused to say, "I'd most forgot your brother said he expected a young man here today."

"Yes, I know—it's some one that wants work, Dick says. I'm to find something for him to do. If he comes in time I think I'll let him take a turn at the tub if I'm tired. Now you can go to work in peace, Mrs. Klapper, for I shall have an able assistant," and Mollie laughed and splashed the water right and left with her vigorous rubbing.

A half hour went by, and then Mrs. Klapper appeared in the doorway. "That young man's come," she said. "He walked right up to the front door and rang the bell. He didn't look as if he needed work much—dressed as well as Mr. Dick, every bit. I've left him on the porch and locked the door after me. You can't be too careful. No one knows but he stole that suit."

Mollie laughed. "Tell him to come around here where I am," she said, "if he wishes to work."

"Mercy! He ain't so much as mentioned yet that he is hunting a job—acts as if he expected you to see him in the parlor. I'm most afraid to have such a man around."

"Oh, no!" said Mollie. "You are too hard on the poor fellow. Probably some one gave him the clothes. Please send him here, Mrs. Klapper."

A minute or two later a pleasant faced, athletic looking young man swung around the corner of the house and lifted his hat to Mollie. Yes, he was well dressed and fine looking.

"Miss Landor?" he asked.

"Yes, and you are the—the"—how should she say it?—"young man my brother was expecting?"

"The same—Brent Carrol, at your service. Your brother said I'd find you here. I've just been down to his office."

"Very well," she said. "You can put your hat and coat on the chair just inside the kitchen door there; then come here." A look of surprise crossed the young man's face; then his blue eyes twinkled with fun, and he sprang to do her bidding.

"What next, ma'am?" he said submissively. Brent had been a star performer in the college plays, and now he fell at once into the part Mollie had assigned him.

"Next I want you to take my place at this tub while I rest. It isn't a man's work perhaps, but you look strong and"—

"Yes'm, I'm strong," he interrupted her, "but they thought I'd die once, when I had ammonia of the lungs." And he bent over the washboard with a pensive air.

"Of course he means pneumonia," Mollie said to herself. "No one would imagine from his appearance that he was so ignorant."

She sat on the top step and wiped her wet hands on Jane's apron. The young man found time to glance at her now and then, but he did not neglect his work. Indeed, after watching his vigorous operations for a few minutes Mollie felt it necessary to curb his zeal.

"You will wear the curtains out if you rub so hard," she said. "See! This is the way." And she took his place at the tub. Her pupil looked on admiringly.

"Aye, there's the rub," he said softly, for the moment forgetting his part.

Mollie turned and looked at him in surprise. "Do you like 'Hamlet?'" she asked.

He was on his guard again. "I never met the gentleman, ma'am," he said, "bein' only a poor washerman."

"Oh," Mollie exclaimed, "is washing your usual occupation?"

"It's a good one, ma'am, as you know, or you wouldn't be at it yourself, beggin' your pardon." He bent low over the tub as he made this speech.

"Yes," she said gravely, "it is a good occupation—making things clean and sweet. 'Cleanliness is next to godliness.' Now the curtains are in the rinse water and we'll have lunch, and then get them on the line as soon as possible."

So they ate bread and jelly together on the back steps to the dismay of Mrs. Klapper, who saw them from an open window.

When Dick came home from the office a little later she met him at the door. "Well," he said to her, "I suppose you've had two callers this morning—the man after work and my old friend Carrol. I was surprised when he walked in."

Mrs. Klapper looked mystified.

"Only one man came," she said. "He's here now, helping Miss Mollie wash curtains. They were sitting on the steps awhile ago, eating a cold lunch together. You'd be frightened if you knew how she's trusted that strange young man. I told her it was dreadful risky, but she said she'd trust him exactly as she would any friend of yours, and she liked him much better—all but his language, which was not always grammatical. I believe he heard her, too, for he's been freer than ever since."

Dick stalked through the house and on to the back porch. A cuffless, collarless young man was hanging curtains on the line. Dick could not see his face, but there was something familiar about those broad shoulders.

"Brent Carrol," he said with a chuckle, and was down the steps with a bound.

Mollie's assistant turned, finger on lips. "Hush," he whispered, "she takes me for a washerman, and I like the job." It was too late. Mollie's quick ears had caught the word of warning and an explanation was unavoidable.

I'm sure that she forgave him, for he is still in her service. Cupid does not always slay his victims with arrows—sometimes he uses soapsuds.

FROM LAST TO FIRST

People used to take plain cod liver oil for coughs, colds, throat and lung troubles after other remedies had failed.

Scott's Emulsion is the modern idea of cod liver oil—the first instead of the last resort when such ailments appear.

The taste of the oil is not apparent and the oil itself is partly digested—makes it easy for the stomach. Scott's Emulsion is a quick, reliable help at all ages.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

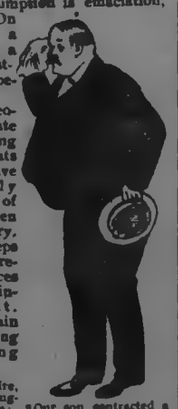
"He Won't Die

Of consumption" is a remark often made of a fleshy man. The remark expresses the popular recognition of the fact that the sign of consumption is emaciation, loss of flesh. On the other hand, a gain in flesh is a sure sign that wasting diseases are being cured.



Emaciated people with obstinate coughs, bleeding lungs, night-sweats and weakness, have been perfectly cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The several steps of the cure were recorded in ounces and pounds of increasing weight. When there is gain in flesh the wasting disease is being surely cured.

Mr. Will M. Whitmire, of Arkton, Rockingham Co., Va., writes: "Our son contracted a deep cold about the first of July, 1899, and had a terrible cough. We called a doctor and he pronounced it irritation of the bronchial tubes, with asthmatic trouble, and he informed me that my son was liable to die at any time. He told me that if we could keep the bronchial tubes open, he might cure him; but after treating him several weeks and my son growing worse all the time, I concluded to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.' I had seen several almost miraculous cures brought about by the use of these medicines, and of course I had wonderful faith in them. He used three bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' at home and one vial of the 'Pellets,' and was then well enough to go to West Virginia, taking a supply with him. I am just in receipt of a letter from him from which I quote: 'I am well and hardy and getting very fatty.'"

Chastising a Lord.

Lord D., a proverbial hater of America and Americans, was dining in Paris with the British minister. Next to him at the table was a noted Newport belle, Miss X.

The conversation had drifted to a discussion of things American, and Lord D. made some disagreeable remarks about some Americans he had met and some Yankee customs he abhorred.

"Why, d'ye know," he continued, with an unpardonable want of tact, "that at some of the places I dined in America I saw people eat with their knives and spill their soup on the tablecloth."

Miss X. was thoroughly provoked by this time, but she replied with apparent unconcern:

"What poor letters of introduction you must have had, my lord."

There was no more unpleasant talk about Americans that evening.

Students' Vacation Experiences.

One could write a book on the vacation experiences of Toronto students, says the News. A good 90 per cent. of the men have to earn part or all of the money required for their courses, and they earn it in very many ways indeed. The Knox and Wycliffe men have their mission stations, and come back with tales of life in the scattered settlements of New Ontario or the far West. The School of Science men have their trips with surveying parties, or their four months of draughting or of work as mechanics in the great foundries of Pittsburg or Cleveland. The senior meds. have been assistants to surgeons, or have even served as local tenentos, while the junior medical and the arts students have engaged in so many callings that one cannot be sure of accounting for them all. A few have crossed the Atlantic in the humble guise of cattle-tenders, and can now spin forecastle yarns like any Jack Tar. Others have worked on farms or as mechanics; perhaps a dozen have gone back to an earlier love, and have taught a summer school. Agencies of one kind or another have employed a great many more, while the departmental stores have profited by the labors of scores. Even the dangerous employment of the river driver has fallen to one or two, the lot of a newspaper reporter to certain others, and no one knows how many have been waiters or pantrymen on the lake steamers, or butlers and clerks in summer hotels. To the majority the vacation has been long enough, but the holidays very few, so that the work habit still rules to the gratification of the teachers.

A Host of Reporters.

It is said that a reporter who had been assigned to talk with an American millionaire on an important question was repeatedly refused admittance to his house. Then he sought out a senator who was a personal friend of the millionaire and petitioned for his aid. Armed with the senator's card, he returned to the millionaire's house and sent in his talisman. This time he was admitted.

"Young man," said the millionaire, "do you know that sixteen reporters have called upon me today about this very question and that I have refused to see them all?"

"I ought to know it, sir," responded the visitor, "for I am the whole sixteen!"

Quaker Paraphrases.

A book on Nantucket contains some stories that are well known to lovers of the good old town, but may not have been widely repeated. One of them hangs on the Quaker custom of numbering the months and the days of the week instead of using the profane mythological names.

A Quaker schoolmaster set this copy on the blackboard for his writing class:

Beauty fadeth soon,
Like a rose in sixth month.

It was probably the same man who read to his scholars about Robinson Crusoe and his good man "Sixth Day."

Taking Away From the Subject.

When Frederick Robertson of Brighton, the great preacher who had written much about Tennyson's poems and for whom the poet had a high regard, first called upon him, "I felt," said Tennyson, "as if he had come to pluck out the heart of my mystery, so I talked to him about nothing but beer."

Quite Deliberate.

"I am glad to say," remarked Mr. Seekton, "that I never spoke a hasty word to you."

"No, Leonidas," answered his wife rather gently; "I'm willing to give you credit for not hurrying about anything."

In a truly heroic life there is no peradventure. It is always either doing or dying.—Hitchcock.

Messrs. McMillan & Maguire, stock brokers, Hunter street, have received the following despatch:

New York, October 26th.— While the market is very small, and gives little indication of becoming broader, liquidation has been so thorough and so many stocks have been absorbed by investors that speculative conditions have been greatly strengthened. In view of considerations and the low range of prices it looks as if the money during the next few months will be bull mmarket. If stocks bought when the market is weak will return you good profits, it is needless to say that the decline of the past fourteen months was unprecedented and it will be pretty generally admitted doustless that, as a rule, the recovery from the lowest point reached on that decline has been insignificant. A rally of 8 or 10 points following a fall of 50 to 100 is a light rebound after such tremendous depression. It is difficult to avoid the conclusion that the fall in such dividend paying shares at St. Paul, B & O, Atch and UP, also in such non-dividend paying as SP, and RG has discounted the situations unfavourable factors, and that when a pronounced movement occurs in them it will be upward.—Stockholder.

"MODERATO" MAKES GOOD SUGGESTIONS.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I have read with much interest the various letters on musical life in Peterborough, more especially relating to choirs and, while much of truth has been said, much remains to be said. One correspondent walks into the papers for giving a general "well done" to the various musical efforts on Sunday but I feel we should not be too free in our blame in this regard, as our papers cannot be conducted on the same lines as our city dailies and must, to a large extent, criticise to please. This may be unfortunate, but none the less the truth. The blame is not here; it will require more than newspaper criticism to improve the quality of our choral music and until our choir singers awake to the fact that neither singers nor choirs are made proficient in the art in one hour a week, there is no hope for better things. It is a known fact, and every choirmaster will bear me out, that the rehearsals of our choirs are attended in such an indifferent manner as to make effective work on Sunday out of the question. To get the notes "nearly" right, a few breaks in time, breathe when you get a chance, yell when you find a note that suits, never mind the spirit of the composition in its broadest musical sense, and this is about where the average choir lands on Sunday. Small wonder our auditors say, "Why don't the choir sing something simple?" Our choirs will be improved as choirs and as individual singers in two ways at least: First,—A good, competent leader is essential. Second, A choir of ladies and gentlemen—singers, because none but those having at least a fair voice should be allowed there, who will give their best thought and attention to their choir work, whether they be at practice or not— study the work in hand and place at the disposal of the choirmasters a body of singers anxious to do the best work possible and determined to let nothing in reason stand in the way of their attending rehearsal, and services, and I grant you a great difference would soon show itself in our choir work. Why is it that in every branch of life one has to study and train and practice to become proficient and yet in this divine art, once one begins to "take music"—Ye Gods! Let me loose, I will be heard!

Clio makes his principal point the selection of good teachers. His head is level there, but unless he can supply for those teachers singers who do not look upon the weekly rehearsal as a drudgery and a bore to be avoided if at all possible, he will fall as would the old masters if they could appear and take up the baton. A choir or chorus is not a one-man band, but a mass to be welded into one voice and all the solo artists in the world cannot make harmony except as the result of collective work, singing together until every individual voice is lost in one grand completeness.

Clio says secure someone to "set up a better standard." Again comes the question, who will help him maintain it?

We should have a choral society here which, by studying the good things in music, would engender a desire for the wholesome solids which abound in music to-day. I know to a certain extent choirmasters look upon such a formation with some fear. Our singers will not give the time to "too much." When we can in some small degree imitate a chorus singing recently the oratorio "Messiah" where hundreds sang that grand work from end to end with the score in their pockets, then I predict it is possible to place our church music where it should be—the best obtainable. I would in all fairness give our choirs their just due, but so long as their love for music and church is reduced in quantity to one hour a week, we cannot look for any improvement. In fact such is impossible. Indifference will kill any enterprise and it is this we have to blame in our choir work.

Yours truly,
MODERATO.

DUNNING IN NEW BEDFORD

A Notice Which Tax Collector Green may use.

The old time, easy going jingle-making tax collector of New Bedford softened the blow on his last call to delinquents by publishing the following as an official notice in the New Bedford Mercury, of Jan. 7, 1820:—

The treasurer of the town presents
His most respectful compliments
To those who have not paid their rate
As former advertisements state;
To warn them that the days are spent
Wherein the town allowed per cent.
That, therefore, no abatement may
Be made on taxes yet to pay,
And next, the law directs a call
On tax delinquents—one and all,
In writing, at their own expense,
On each—which costs him 20 cents;
And, then, if not within ten days,
Thus called upon, his tax he pays.
The Constable must be enjoined
To make distraint to all behind,
This method has the law provided,
Which he entreats may be avoided
By trusty payment of the rates
At Bedford Bank, where he awaits.

N.B.—It is earnestly desired the foregoing serious and important notice may not pass unregarded.

JOHN PICKENS,
Treasurer and Collector.

New Bedford, Dec. 24, 1819.

MISSION ENTERPRISE OF METHODIST CHURCH.

Eloquent Discourses in George and Charlotte Street Churches.

Rev Dr. Henderson and Dr. Scott French to Large Congregations—Missionary Offerings Increase Satisfactorily.

The Missionary Anniversary services were held in the Charlotte and George street Methodist churches yesterday, the speakers being two of the most eloquent in the Methodist ministry. A special effort is being made this year by the Methodist churches throughout Canada to signalise the Bi-Centenary of John Wesley's birth by raising a quarter of a million dollars for missionary purposes, and it is learned that Peterborough Methodists have done their share in this extra effort. The subscriptions yesterday were considerably in excess of the amount raised last year. In the George street church $680 was the amount subscribed in 1902, and this year that amount has been exceeded by about $50. The subscriptions at the Charlotte street church were of a satisfactory character. The special preachers for the day were Rev. Dr. Scott, formerly of the Methodist Missions in Japan, and Rev. Dr. Henderson, General Secretary for Missions of the Canadian Methodist church. Both divines are eloquent preachers, and their addresses yesterday were listened to by large congregations.

Dr. Scott addressed the George street congregation in the morning on the work of the church in Japan, with which subject he is entirely familiar. He gave a brief resume of the events leading up to the establishment of Christian missions in that progressive island, and said that the Japan mission was a child of Divine providence, which statement was amply verified by facts. Japan had for centuries been closed to foreign missionaries, and in fact to all foreigners, and no Japanese was allowed to leave his native country. Their policy was "Japan for the Japanese," and they were distintly opposed to trade or intercourse in any way with any outside power. No boats were allowed to be constructed that would sail the ocean, and their whole desire was to make a self-contained nation. But it was not in accordance with the Divine plan that this state should continue, and the events leading up to the opening of the country to the western nations was one of the most interesting chapters in the history of that wonderful little country. In 1853 Commodore Perry of the U. S. navy, appeared before one of the principal seaports of the island with a squadron of gunboats, and bore a letter from President Buchanan, of the United States, asking that a treaty be entered into with that country. This request was especially well timed, because the Government of the Japanese Empire was tottering to a fall, and the result was that the proposed treaty was entered into, and it was the beginning of the awakening of that empire. Its doors were then opened wide to the western nations, and an era of wonderful progress and prosperity began. The Japanese, now thoroughly awakened, began to evince a desire to learn from the more civilized nations, and as a result changes were made in the army and navy. The postal system and banking institutions were reorganized, and western business methods adopted. In 1873 the first Methodist missionaries went to Japan, and the result of their work there has indeed been most gratifying. Previous to this the thought of the Japanese had been prepared for the introduction of Christianity by the fact that teachers from America had been for some time engaged in the schools, and in this way the presentation of the Gospel had been prepared. In 1889 the work had reached such a satisfactory stage that a Japanese native conference was formed, and at the present time the church numbers 2,600 members with 26 ministers, and 20 native evangelists. Dr. Scott said he would like to mention particularly the work of Rev. R. Emberson, whose home was near Peterborough. He had gone to Japan in 1890 and, although working under adverse circumstances for about a year, had accomplished a good work. He said the prospects for Methodist missions in Japan were never brighter than at the present.

Rev. Dr. Henderson preached in Charlotte street at the morning service, while Dr. Scott, late of Japan, addressed a large congregation in the evening on the work the Methodist church is doing in that country. He gave many instances of the good work being accomplished by missionaries who have gone to that far off land.

The musical service at Charlotte street consisted of an anthem in the morning, "Praised be the Lord Daily." A solo was sung by Miss Belleghem, her selection being "The Gentle Shepherd." During the offertory Mr. R. N. Jolliffe sang "The Lost Chord," in a most effective manner. The evening anthem was "Praise ye the Father." During the offertory Miss Ethel M. Adams, from Winnipeg, who possesses a pleasing soprano voice, sang Pinsuti's "Angel Land."

The evening service at George street church was addressed by Rev. Dr. Henderson, one of the most eloquent preachers in Canadian Methodism, and his talk on the subject of Home Missions was thoroughly enjoyed. Dr. Henderson possesses the happy faculty of making any subject on which he may speak, interesting, and in the course of last night's address a great many interesting facts concerning the Methodist Home Missions were given. The French Missions in Quebec were the first dealt with, and, in speaking of the French Canadians he said that Canada owed to that race of people much more than many of the people realised. It was to the French that the honour of having first reclaimed this continent from Indian savagery must be given, and it was also from the Norman French that England had received the impulse that has since made her the great dominating power of Europe. He said that many saw a grave danger to this country from the fact that the French were increasing at a more rapid rate than the English, and feared that the French section would eventually rule the country. He said the churches could solve the difficulty, and if these French Canadians could be given the gospel as the missionaries were preaching it, there would be no danger to the country, should the reins of Government fall into their hands. The work of the Methodist church in Quebec was progressing at a satisfactory rate and there was great cause for thankfulness in the results of their labours.

The other branch of Home Missions, that to the Indians, was then dealt with at length, and in the course of this portion of his address said that the red men were not being extinguished as rapidly as some writers on this subject claimed. What the Indian required first of all was the Gospel, and then education. They are now being taught in the various industrial schools of the North-west, how to adapt themselves to the changed conditions in which they find themselves by reason of the rapid settlement of their native country by white men. An educated Indian is worth far more to the country than an uneducated one. The speaker said that last year the Government assisted the Indians to the extent of $1,000,000, while they returned to the country wealth to the extent of $4,000,000. There are now 5,000 converted Indians in the North-west, and 15,000 are being preached to.

Not only are the Indians an important feature of the work in the North-west, but, the rapid settlemnt of the whole western country, is proving a very serious problem to the churches. Last year 110,000 new settlers came into the West, and now 27 different languages are being spoken on the Canadian plains. There are now in the West fifty congregations without a pastor, and he urged the Methodists to recognise their responsibility in this matter.

The choir in George street church gave suitably musical selections. In the morning, the anthem was Schilling's "Nearer My God to Thee," the offertory selection being "Though Your Sins be as Scarlet." The anthem at the evening service was "How Long Wilt Thou Forget Me, O, Lord." M. Pflouger, while a male quartette, composed of Messrs. Smedley, B. Turner, Maguire and Thornton, sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul."

Mrs. P. A. Kerr officiated as organist in George street church yesterday in the absence of Mrs. Mowat, her playing being of a pleasing character.

TURF.

Memphis, Tenn., October 23. —The third day of the harness racing at the Memphis Trotting Association track, was made memorable by the magnificent performance of Dan Patch, who paced a mile in 1.56 1-4, clipping three quarters of a second from the world's record of 1.57, held by Prince Alert, and lowered his own record by two and three-quarters second. The mile was paced without a wind shield, and at the finish Dan Patch was fresh.

Two runners set the pace. After the trial there was a wild burst of enthusiasm in the grand stand; women and men shouted, and hats were hurled in the air.

HIGH COMMISSIONER SAYS LAURIER WAS MODERATE

Lord Strathcona Defends Sir Wilfrid's Loyalty.

Canada's Disappointment Will Not Soon Be Forgotten—England Slow to Learn—London Times on Sir Wilfrid's Demand for Enlarged Powers—The Thunderer Minimizes the Loss of Territory.

London, Oct. 27.—(C.A.P.)—Lord Strathcona defends Sir Wilfrid Laurier's loyalty, saying that Sir Wilfrid's utterances the other day were moderate under the circumstances. Canada had received a deep disappointment in the result of the Alaska award, and the disappointment would not readily be forgotten. Nothing that Sir Wilfrid had said could justify the inference that he desired to sever Canada's connection with the Mother Country. Lord Strathcona added that it was impossible to understand why the boundary line in the Portland Channel orginally agreed to by the six commissioners, by which the four islands would have gone to Canada, had been departed from in the final award.

The Yorkshire Post says Sir Wilfrid Laurier's demand that the colonies should have treaty-making powers raises the whole question of Imperial responsibility.

London, Oct. 27.—(C.A.P.)—The Times, referring to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's declaration regarding Canada's powers for the negotiation of her own treaties, says: "We are unwilling to interpret the declaration as one deliberately claiming for Canada anything like full treaty-making powers, because the suggestion points logically to the separation, and we feel that such a conclusion is distant from the mind of the Canadian Premier or of the vast majority of Canadians and Englishmen. The power that makes treaties on its own behalf must also possess the means of giving effect to them, and we cannot see how Canada could hope to do so unless she could count on the armed strength of England. Sir Wilfrid Laurier misunderstands the decision as to the outlet of the Portland Channel as did Mr. Aylesworth. The two tiny islands which have passed to the United States are of very little strategic value. Not they, but Dundas Island, our property, commands the Port Simpson passage. The intrepretation of the 1825 treaty, through which Canada is not evicted, only foregoes the claim they hoped to establish. We share with Canada a common territorial loss, but we recognize as transcending if the common gain by removing once for all the obstacle to a full concord with the great republic with which every tie of nature places us in such close relations."

A Plain Warning.

London, Oct. 27.—(C.A.P.)—The Financial Times says: "Canadian papers do not make nice reading today. Canada's anger should convince the devotees of Anglo-Americanism that they are carrying the infatuation too far. The policy of grovelling before the spread-eaglism of the United States is a doubtful policy in any case, especially when it alienates the Empire's eldest daughter."

What Sir Gilbert Parker Knows.

London, Oct. 27.—(C. A. P.)—Sir Gilbert Parker, speaking to the Canadian Associated Press correspondent, said: "I think Canada has good reason to feel disappointed, but has no reason to cry 'betrayed!' She accepted the tribunal. She sent representatives, presumably she was prepared to accept the verdict of the majority. Personally, I thought the constitution of the commission little likely to secure without prejudice and peril the ends of justice. I said so publicly. Each American member had committed himself against the Canadian case. With the most profound respect and admiration for our Canadian representatives they could not be said to be judicial. Only the Chief Justice of England was above the suspicion of allowing himself to be used for any political purpose. I happen to know on the best authority that he pressed this attitude of judicial impartiality upon the British authorities before consenting to act. It would have been right, I believe, and best for Canada, at the beginning to have objected to the character of the tribunal than to have denounced it. I think it unfortunate not to accept the decision in dignified silence and reserve. The decision of the tribunal is like red and black at roulette, we have put our money on red and lost. Let us not blame the croupier."

Lord Alverstone, interviewed by the Canadian Associated Press, last night, said: "The statement appearing in the press that my written defence would appear in The Times is incorrect. A great deal has been said on the subject already, and I can add nothing further."

Canada Not a Plaything.

London, Oct. 27.—(C. A. P.)—The Daily Mail devotes a column to Edgar Wallace's letter on Canada. He says: "To-day Canada is no longer the plaything and fool of the family. Canada is a separate, distinct and unique nation, and no more a colony than India is a colony. Its vigor, its great strength and its possibilities frighten me." The writer says there is danger of secession if Great Britain loses its present opportunity.

Murder Story Denied.

Winnipeg, Oct. 27.—There is no foundation for the story printed in Toronto evening papers of reported tragedy at St. Norbert, in which seven people were reported to have been murdered.

Farmers' Institute Meetings.

Toronto, Oct. 27.—G. C. Creelman, superintendent of Farmers' Institutes, has sent to the presidents of institutes throughout Ontario a list of 850 meetings to be held during November, December, January and February. These meetings will be addressed by 50 institute workers.

Land Goes Up in Price.

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—Since the sale of the Baby farm to the Militia Department the price of land in the vicinity of the Humber has gone up. The department has secured 145 acres for $20,000. Yesterday morning they were offered 30 acres farther south for nearly the same price.

A HAMILTON MURDER

A REWARD OF $500 OFFERED.

Cool Desperadoes Who Shoot an Unarmed Man, Whom They Never Gave a Chance To—Police in the Ambitious City Allowed to Carry Arms — No Arrests Have Been Made.

Hamilton, Oct. 27.—3 a.m.—Policeman James Barron, who was shot by two desperate burglars early yesterday morning, passed away at 2 o'clock this morning in the City Hospital. The doctors say there was no chance for him from the beginning. The bullet that struck him pierced the bowels, and entered the muscles of the back. Inflammation set in, and it was only a question of hours before the end was expected to come.

Story of the Shooting.

Hamilton, Oct. 27.—Yesterday morning, Constable James Barron was shot by two desperate burglars, who tried to break into J. Bidwell Mills' residence, 110 North Catharine street. Mrs. Mills, her grown-up son and daughter, were aroused, and the robbers moved off a few yards across the lawn, and jumped into City Solicitor Frank MacKelcan's yard. Constable Barron happened along the street about this time, and he was called over. The robbers could hear that he was being called, and that he was responding, but they kept right on at the job of breaking into Mr. MacKelcan's house. When the officer went into the yard, one of the burglars commanded him to stop. He tried to close in on them, and they fired three times in quick succession. Only one of the bullets took effect. It struck one of the officer's lower ribs and glanced downwards, piercing the bowels and sinking into the muscles of the back. Inflammation has set in, and the doctors do not believe that he can recover.

For twenty years the members of the force have been unarmed. The Police Commissioners met yesterday morning, and gave the men permission to arm themselves until revolvers can be bought.

The wounded constable has been on the force for 21 years, and is 46 years of age.

Reward of $500 Offered.

The City Council decided last evening to offer a reward of $500 for the capture of the shooters.

Chief Smith visited P. C. Barron in the City Hospital last evening. The constable was fully conscious, but was in great pain. He told the chief that the burglars never gave him a chance. They were about fifteen feet away when he caught sight of them, and they fired as they cried "Hands up!" Though several theories have been advanced, the police are now satisfied that the shooters were burglars. They were at work on a window on the south side of Mr. MacKelcan's house when interrupted by the officer, and they left a table knife, with which they had been trying to unfasten the lock, sticking in between the sashes of the window.

Howled Down the Anthem.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 27.—When the curtain rose Sunday night on the Haverley minstrel show, the company struck up the national anthem. Immediately there was an uproar, shouts and cat calls, intermingled with hisses, floated down over the house. These noises continued until the singing ceased.

Planned to Kill a King.

Rome, Oct. 26.—An Anarchist of the name of Michael Cristi, was arrested here yesterday. It is believed that he had made preparations for an attempt to assassinate King Victor Emmanuel.

DID M'GREGOR SUICIDE.

Not in Financial Straits—Had Credit of $1,065 in Merchant's Bank, Galt—Did He Take Train?

Oakville, Oct. 27.—Search parties all day yesterday tried to get trace of D. McGregor, but without effect. His bank book showed he was not in financial straits. The theory that he committed suicide grows, though no motive is given for the rash deed.

Mr. McGregor, his wife and children have been quietly boarding here for about three weeks at Rosedale Villa, one mile west of town. On Sunday night last he said he would take the early train next morning. Breakfast was prepared; he got up unusually early, left his overcoat and valise in the hall and went out. No trace has since been heard of him.

During the week, Mrs. McGregor had written to him at London and Toronto, but received no reply.

The finding of the clothes, watch and bank book Sunday was the first suspicion. The bank book shows a credit of $1,065 in the Merchants' Bank, Galt. The water is shallow where the clothes were found and McGregor would have to walk out 50 feet to reach water waist deep. Parties have walked along the shore, but no trace of the body has been found.

Since Monday the breeze has been steadily blowing off shore, and if the body rose the wind would drive it across the lake.

Some persons here do not favor the suicide theory, as a man of nearly his description is said to have left that morning by train, but as McGregor is only supposed to have taken one suit of clothes that is not probable.

McGregor's people live in Texas. He married his wife at Sault Ste. Marie.

Canada Won Him.

London, Oct. 27.—(C.A.P.)—The Secretary of the London Chamber of Commerce, says: "Before visiting Canada I used to regard the Canadian talk about the wealth and advantages of their land as so much tall talk, but now I am quite as enthusiastic as they. There is no need, in reality, for a preferential tariff. England does not yet know her Canada well enough. The truth is the money of the States is too largely aiding the Dominion in the development of her resources."

Pipe; Gasoline; Hospital.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 27.—Frederick Morrison, 303 Park street, is in the Winnipeg General Hospital with a portion of his face missing as a result of a gasoline explosion which occurred Sunday afternoon. He is badly but not fatally injured. He was working with a tin of gasoline, cleaning some paint brushes, and at the same time enjoying a quiet smoke. A violent explosion was the result.

Sir Wilfrid's Intentions.

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—The Prime Minister will go to Montreal and Quebec this week. He will return in time for the State dinner in honor of the King's birthday on Nov. 9.

Fire at Holland Landing.

Holland Landing, Oct. 27.—William Tate's house and barn were burned yesterday morning. The loss is estimated at $1,200.

There are very few cleansing operations in which Sunlight Soap cannot be used to advantage. It makes the home bright and clean. 1B

Miss Rose Peterson, Secretary Parkdale Tennis Club, Chicago, from experience advises all young girls who have pains and sickness peculiar to their sex, to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many beautiful young girls develop into worn, listless and hopeless women, simply because sufficient attention has not been paid to their physical development. No woman is exempt from physical weakness and periodic pain, and young girls just budding into womanhood should be carefully guided physically as well as morally. Another woman,

Miss Hannah E. Mershon, Collingswood, N.J., says:

"I thought I would write and tell you that, by following your kind advice, I feel like a new person. I was always thin and delicate, and so weak that I could hardly do anything. Menstruation was irregular.

"I tried a bottle of your Vegetable Compound and began to feel better right away. I continued its use, and am now well and strong, and menstruate regularly. I cannot say enough for what your medicine did for me."

—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will cure any woman in the land who suffers from womb troubles, inflammation of the ovaries, and kidney troubles.

AN EMPIRE NOW IN THE MAKING.

Rapid Development of Alaska and Canadian Northwest is Really Marvellous.

Alaska being a topic of the hour, there is a timely interest in the story told by William P. Stewart in the current World's Work of its wonderfully rapid development. The whole vast stretch of the Far Northwest, Canadian as well as American, is now repeating the wonder-story of California's magical growth.

Within a year or two Alaska will be traversed by railways almost from end to end. Nome, the western terminus of the railroad systems of North-western Alaska, is already a city of 25,000 population. The railroad tracks that run to Nome are furthest north of all the world; they are almost within the Artic Circle. Nome has good hotels, daily papers, banks, electric lights, telegraphs and telephones—in short, a complete outfit of civilisation. It is connected by cable with St. Michaels, and by telegraph with Dawson and Skagway.

AN ALL-RAIL COMMUNICATION.

When the railroads now building and projected are completed it will only need a short northern spur from Russia's great Siberian railroad to give all-rail communication from New York to Paris.

Meantime, Dawson is the city to which all railroad building leads. Dawson has 1,200 population, and its municipal equipment includes all modern improvements. Its assessment for taxation is over $11,000,000. It is now installing a $5,000,000 water supply plant.

The Yukon River is open to navigation from May to October, and forty stern-wheel steamboats ply between Dawson and St. Michaels, covering the 600 miles in about ten days.

Primarily the railroads so far have been built to tap the enormous mineral wealth of Alaska and the Canadian Yukon. But, contrary to old notions, there is immense agricultural and forest wealth to be developed in the Hudson Bay, North Saskatchewan, and Peace River districts. Nearly a thousand miles north of the boundary between Alaska and the Canadian North-west, in the valley of the Peace River, wheat, barley and oats are grown in quantities limited only by the number of farmers.

The most northerly roller process flour mill on the contient has just been built at Vermilion. The wheat which took the first prize at the Centennial Exhibition of 1876 came from the Peace River country, which is estimated to contain more than 15,000,000 acres of good grain growing soil.

The postal service of this empire in embryo is a wonder. Mail steamers leave the Pacific coast daily bringing bags from Sitka, Skagway, Nome and other points by all manner of means—waggons, dog sleighs, etc. Russian reinforcements carry the sacks over frozen lakes and snow covered hills with remarkable rapidity. The highest salaried postal official in the world serves in Alaska. He is paid $25,000 a year for carrying the mail fortnightly to Fort Yukon, providing his own dogs and sleds for the purpose. Alaska has now upwards of one hundred post offices, and the mails are collected and delivered regularly beyond the Arctic Circle.

The fisheries of Alaska are rich beyond calculation. Its cod banks are believed to equal in wealth those of Newfoundland.

The winters of Alaska are less rigorous than those of Wyoming or Montana, and horses and cattle are worked there without fear of being frozen. The cold is intense but there are no storms. Except on the coast of Behring Sea, all the hardy vegetables are grown with marked success throughout Alaska and the Canadian Yukon south of the Arctic Circle.

As a measure of Alaska's growth it is noted that her total foreign trade all she bought and all she sold in in 1892, was less than $29,000 in value, while for the fiscal year ending June 30th last, it reached a total of $35,000,000.

American and British settlers are pushing steadily north into this great territory in about equal numbers, and Mr. Stewart says that the "entire Canadian Northwest is already more American than British in its administrative system."

President Roosevelt, speaking at Seattle in May predicted that men now living "would see Alaska one of the greatest and most populous states of the entire union."

FIRST ANNUAL AUCTION SALE

Established at Port Perry on the 16th and Conducted by D. S. B. A.

According to the advertisement which appeared in this paper the first annual sale of pure bred swine was held at Port Perry on the 16th of October and turned out quite satisfactorily. Thirty-seven animals were sold for $654, an average price of $17.73. The highest priced animal sold for $41.00 and the lowest for $6.00 Hy. Glendenning & Son, of Manilla, sold twenty animals for $266, an average of $12.80. J. E. Brethour, of Burford, sold ten animals for $282, an average of $28.20. J. C. Foster, of Moira, sold three animals for $47, an average of $15.67, and Chas. Calder, of Brooklin, sold four animals for $91, an average of $22.75. All of the animals sold were under one year, with the exception of one which was about eighteen months, a very fine sow, winner of second place at the Winnipeg Exhibition bred and sold by Mr. Brethour. This sow brought the highest price at the sale.

Before the opening of the sale Mr. F. W. Hodgson, Dominion Live Stock Commissioner, delivered a short address, in which he pointed out the great value the establishment of auction sales has proved to the country, their growth during the last seventy-five years in the Old Country and what the various departments of Agriculture purpose concerning these sales in the various provinces. He set forth the desirability of holding a quarterly or half yearly sale at Port Perry. In the spring a stallion bull and fat cattle show should be held, at which prizes should be given, and after the prizes were awarded the animals which had competed should be put up at auction and sold. Besides bulls and breeding stock, desirable cows and perhaps a few pigs should be offered. In the fall of the year pure bred animals for breeding purposes, especially rams and sows in pig, should be offered, for sale. Dairy cows and store animals for fattening purposes might also be offered. hTe remarks were well received and we believe that a sale of this sort will be established in Port Perry;

Almost all animals, whether for breeding purposes, for butchers, or for dairy purposes are bought and sold at public auction in the Old Country. Such a thing as a drover running about the country picking up animals here and there, and that do in this country is almost unknown in the Old Country. The auction sale principle was introduced from seventy-five to one hundred years ago, and it has gradually increased and overspread the country so that it is in general practice to-day.

An excellent lesson was emphatically taught by the recent sale at Port Perry. Nearly all the pigs offered for sale were of excellent quality in point of breeding, bu tonly those that were brought out in good condition, large and growthy for their age, sold for high prices. The hogs sold for low prices were, in many cases, excellent individuals of superior breeding but they were small for their age, because they had not been properly fed. With good management, many of these will, in time, develop into quite useful animals, as those selling for higher prices; but the buyers judged the pigs by their present appearance, taking no chances on future possibilities, and guaged their bidding accordingly.

The lesson to be learned is that, if farmers wish to obtain the best prices for their stock at either public or private sale they must see to it that their animals are not only well bred but also well fed from birth. Neither breeding nor feeding is sufficient of itself. No amount of feeding will make an ill-bred animal valuable for breeding purposes. On the other hand, the best of breeding is insufficient in itself if the animal be indifferently fed. A well bred, well fed animal will always commmand a good price.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE OF OPPOSITION TACTICS.

Make Slanderous Statement Impeaching Honour of Liberal Candidate.

Conservatives Plan of Campaign in Sault Ste. Marie—Mr. Smith Refutes Charges Made.

The length to which the Conservatives will go in their efforts to influence the voter, who may be unthinking enough to accept their erroneous statements, without question, has been exposed in the Soo. A mining analyist in that town, named Montague, made a statement charging Mr. Smith, the Liberal candidate, with having attempted to buy him to support himself, (Mr. Smith.) This charge has been widely published by the Conservative press, which has sought to find in it a means of discrediting Mr. Smith. The Evening News of that city, an independent journal, published on Saturday the following statement made by Mr. Smith:—

"I was thunderstruck when I first heard it. The whole thing is the basest lie that ever was uttered. There is not a scintilla of truth in it. Montague's mind is unbalanced. He has been crased by a continued worship of that notorious Gamey. He had worked himself up into such a state that he had sworn to wreck the Government by hook or crook, and this evidently is the crooked means he is adopting. I don't imagine anyone would believe such a story. It is simply a campaign roorback. That man has perhaps been more sinned against than sinning. There are others behind him.

"Montague has been after a mining lease in Eastern Algoma, about 150 miles from the Soo, and far out of this riding. He has not been successful in getting it because the granting of it would jeopardize the lumbering interests in that part, and there is the sore spot. On Sunday evening, October 10th, the day before I left for White River to hold meetings Montague came to me and told me that he didn't want to work for the Conservatives, and was sorry that his pamphlet had been issued. He wanted to go to Massey, but, had no money to go with, and wanted to borrow $15. I told him I couldn't give him a cent, either in the way of a loan or a donation, but he was determined to get the money, and said he would see me at Dr. McLurg's office on the following morning. I of course couldn't promise I would be there, as I would be busy, and did not turn up. Then he also tried to borrow the money from Gordon Michael, and told him that I had broken an engagement to meet him. On the train going Montague was with ex-Mayor Thompson, but although he had always previously expressed the greatest friendship for me, he refused to speak then.

"The story about the $150 is ridiculously absurd and absolutely untrue. There is no truth in any word of it. The fact is that Montague expressed his willingness to be bought for $15. But not a cent of money passed between us. I felt that the opposition of such a man would be a source of greater strength than his support.

MR. MICHAEL'S STATEMENT.

It has been rumoured around that the prominent Liberal referred to by Mr. Montague in his charges is Gordon L. Michael, and The News this morning immediately after seeing Mr. Smith, interviewed him. Mr. Michael's statements supported those of Mr. Smith. "Referring to the day Mr. Smith left for White River, and on which Montague was trying to borrow the $15, he said:

"That morning Mr. Montague came to Dr. McLurg's office looking for Mr. Smith, and when he could not see him there he asked me to see Mr. Smith, to have him lend him $15 to carry out his programme. I asked him what that programme was and he said it was to go to Massey to examine a mineral claim for me, I said I had no claim for him to examine, and he replied that he had arranged to get $15. 'What for?' I said. He told me that if he got it he would stay at Massey until Wednesday night. 'If I get the Whiskey Lake property lease I'm not going to work in the campaign,' he said. I told him that Smith could not get him the lease, and that I knew that he had never promised it. Then he continued his request to me for $15, and said that he would show Mr. Smith all the weak points in his letter. 'You know all I want is the Whiskey Lake lease,' he said. I put him off by telling him that I would not give him a cent. I am prepared to swear to any of my statements in this connection."

WILL LIKELY BE CHALLENGED

It is likely that at to-night's meeting in the opera house Mr. Montague will be challenged to give the name of the prominent Liberal, and if it is Mr. Michael, as it is said, it will be then that gentleman will state that he knows about the case. In any event Mr. Smith intends to give a more complete story of the affair, as he is acquainted with it.

The pamphlet referred to in this affair is a printed copy of a speech delivered some time ago before the Political Economy Association. It was printed in connection with the Sault Star, but was not endorsed by that paper.

A News reporter spent a good part of yesterday afternoon trying to get from Mr. Montague or see the statement he had sworn to that morning, or a copy of it, but was unable to do so, although it was promised that the request would be granted at different definite hours.

The Liberals claim that they will be able to produce men who will make affidavit that at the meeting of the Political Economy Association, at which Mr. Montague spoke, he said "Mr. Smith was too honest a man to approve of the wickedness with which he (Mr. Montague) charged the government." The meeting was held on a date after that on which the attempted bribe is alleged.

Do not Trifle with the Symptoms of Kidney Disease.

DR. PETTINGILL'S Kidney-Wort Tablets

Will Remove All Danger.

If you experience any of the pronounced symptoms of kidney disease such as albuminuria, inflammation of the kidneys, frequent calls to urinate, irritation of the bladder, brick dust deposit or pain in the small of the back, we recommend with confidence Dr. Pettingill's Kidney-Wort Tablets. One bottle used when the warnings of trouble are first experienced, will dissipate all danger. Be sure and ask your druggist for Kidney-Wort Tablets; Take no other remedy if you desire a quick and lasting cure. Price 50 cents per bottle or six bottles for $2.50.

DWYRE'S CORNERS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

We are having fine weather here at present and all the farmers are trying to take advantage of it by getting out their roots before the cold weather sets in.

Our blacksmith, Mr. P. Dwyre, is very busy at present sharpening colters for the farmers of the surrounding country.

Mr. Percy Dalton and Miss Maggie Cavanagh were the guests of the former's uncle, Mr. Michael Boland, of Douro, on Sunday last.

Mr. Jas. Collins has just completed his new house which is a credit to himself and the carpenter, Mr. Harry Fife, of Norwood.

We are pleased to note that Mr. Daniel Dwyre, who had the misfortune to get one of his limbs broken last March is improving, but, however, he cannot get around as yet without the aid of two crutches.

Mr. Valentine Cavanagh and Mr. William Dalton were guests at Lorettoville, the residence of Mr. Jno. Allen on Sunday of last week.

Mr. Patrick Quinain has had his house remodelled on the outside, which, when painted will make a nobby appearance.

Mr. Edward Walsh's steamer is at present doing a rushing business threshing for the farmers of the vicinity.

Our town was very quiet on the 14th of October; no business doing whatever, and nothing could be heard but "Hurrah for the Norwood Fair."

Mr. Louis Ross has returned home from Roseneath where he has been visiting friends for the past two weeks.

LAKE DISASTERS BEGIN.

Str. W. F. Sauber and Other Vessels Wrecked—Captain and Oiler of the First Drowned.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 27.—The steamer W. F. Sauber was wrecked off White Fish Point, 30 miles from here, early yesterday, and Capt. W. E. Morris and Oiler Frank Robinson were drowned. The rest of the crew of 19 men were taken off the Sauber by the crew of the steamer Yale. The Yale's crew worked four hours rescuing the crew of the Sauber. Robinson was pinched between a yawl boat and the Yale and went down before help could reach him. Capt. Morris was on the deck of the Sauber after all the others had been taken off, when the steamer's boiler burst, and he was blown into the lake. The Sauber was owned by R. W. Becker of Cleveland. The blow on Lake Superior is reported to be the worst in 28 years.

Steamer Advance Burned.

Sault Ste. Marie, Oct. 27.—The steamer Advance, bound from Montreal to Fort William with a cargo of general merchandise, was towed here from the Canadian Soo Sunday night, a mass of flames. The fire was finally put out by the revenue cutter Morrel and a number of American tugs, but not before the steamer had been scuttled. The vessel is a total loss. She is said to be insured. Her cargo is partially covered. The Advance is owned by Jas. Carruthers & Co. of Toronto.

Barge Grace Whitby Reached.

Port Huron, Oct. 27.—After drifting helplessly about in Lake Huron all night the barge Grace Whitby, which had broken away from the steamer M. Lichen in the heavy northwest gale on Lake Huron on Sunday night, went on the beach seven miles above Fort Gratiot lighthouse at daybreak. The disabled schooner was sighted by the life-savers at Lakeside Beach, four miles above the light. Before the crew of life-savers, dragging their surf boat along the beach, reached a spot on the beach convenient for launching their boat, the crew of five in the Whitby decided to take chances in their open yawl boat. When the small yawl boat reached shallow water it capsized. The life-savers plunged into the boiling sea and succeeded in bringing all of the crew to land. The wreck lies in an exposed position and it is said that it will be impossible to save the vessel, which is breaking up. The storm is so fierce that large ships are forced to run back before the gale. A large boat is in shelter at Sand Beach. The wrecked boat was coal-laden and was worth about $10,000. The steamer Licken, which had the Whitby in tow, returned here for shelter this morning. The captain of the Licken, which passed the wreck of the Whitby, believes that the vessel will go to pieces in the storm.

To Full Ferry On.

St. Thomas, Oct. 27.—The Pere Marquette transfer ferry No. 1 went aground at Port Stanley on Saturday just at the head of the last pier. The big ferry Shenango worked Saturday and Sunday trying to pull the Pere Marquette ferry off the shore, but was unsuccessful. General Manager Woollatt went to Port Stanley on a special train, telegraphed for two powerful tugs to go to Port Stanley and pull off the stranded ferry.

The J. C Howard in Bad Plight.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Oct 27.—After lightering 500 tons of its cargo of 2,000 tons of coal, the propellor John C. Howard, of Ogdensburg, was released from the rocks at Carleton Island Sunday. While proceeding here towing the barges Beals and Toledo, with the lighter, a terrific snow squall came up about midnight and the three boats were driven on the shore abreast of this city. The Howard is listed and leaking.

Wife Kills Father.

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—August Roliskey, of New Edinburgh, died in the Protestant Hospital from injuries resulting from a kick received in a quarrel with his stepson, Gus Kullesh. The boy has an arm off, and he defended himself with his foot.

Two Will Go Back.

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 27.—Clarence H. Leonard and wife, who were arrested here Saturday on a charge of forgery, agreed yesterday to waive extradition and return to New York.

Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure

Costs Nothing if it Fails.

Any honest person who suffers from Rheumatism is welcome to this offer. For years I searched everywhere to find a specific for Rheumatism. For nearly 20 years I worked to this end. At last, in Germany, my search was rewarded. I found a costly chemical that did not disappoint me as other Rheumatic prescriptions had disappointed physicians everywhere.

I do not mean that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure can turn bony joints into flesh again. That is impossible. But it will drive from the blood the poison that causes pain and swelling, and then that is the end of Rheumatism. I know this so well that I will furnish for a full month my Rheumatic Cure on trial. I cannot cure all cases within a month. It would be unreasonable to expect that. But most cases will yield within 30 days. This trial treatment will convince you that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure is a power against Rheumatism—a potent force against disease that is irresistible.

My offer is made to convince you of my faith. My faith is but the outcome of experience—of actual knowledge. I know what it can do. And I know this so well that I will furnish my remedy on trial. Simply write me a postal card for my book on Rheumatism. I will then arrange with a druggist in your vicinity so that you can secure six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure to make the test. You may take it a full month on trial. If it succeeds the cost to you is $5.50. If it fails the loss is mine and mine alone. It will be left entirely to you. I mean that exactly. If you say the trial is not satisfactory I don't expect a penny from you.

I have no samples. Any mere sample that can affect chronic Rheumatism must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs for it is dangerous to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood. My remedy does that even in the most difficult cases. It has cured the oldest cases that I ever met, and in all of my experience, in all of my 2000 tests, I never found another remedy that would cure one chronic case in ten.

Write me and I will send you the book. Try my remedy for a month, for it can't harm you anyway. If it fails the loss is mine.

Address Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.

Mild cases not chronic are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

Paper Mills Burned.

Kingston, Oct. 27.—Yesterday morning fire was discovered in the paper mills at Strathcona, owned by W. J. Finlay, and in spite of the heroic efforts of the village people the whole works were destroyed. Part of the stock was saved, but there was little or no insurance. Many are thrown out of work by the fire. The monthly pay roll of the mill was $600. The mill will not be rebuilt.

Land Fraud Indictment.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 27.—The United States Grand Jury yesterday returned an indictment against Asa R. Thompson, receiver of the land office at La Grande, Ore. The indictment charges Thompson with soliciting money to influence his official decision for approval for homestead applications, which had been held up for insufficient proof.

Silver Spray Burned.

Buffalo, Oct. 27.—The fishing boat Silver Spray, which got notoriety a few months ago by dodging the Canadian revenue cutter Petrel and being fired on, was destroyed Sunday night at the floating dry dock of the Empire Shipbuilding Company, which was moored in a pocket of the old sea-wall.

Though apparently sudden and frequently unexpected, nervous prostration or exhaustion is in reality months in developing, and can always be prevented by one who is keen in detecting the symptoms.

Nervous Prostration

The one feature of nervous prostration which is universal and unmistakable is the indisposition on the part of the patient to attend to the duties of the day. All energy, all ambition seems to be gone and you are unable to throw off the feelings of fatigue and depression.

You are nervous and irritable, cannot rest or sleep, are sensitive to noise and light, suffer from headache and indigestion, find your memory failing and cannot concentrate your mind, are troubled by weaknesses and irregularities of the vital organs, and live in constant dread of paralysis, locomotor ataxia or insanity.

Nervous diseases do not get well of themselves, and hence the necessity of using some such preparation as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to enrich the blood and revitalize the wasted nerve cells.

Opiates may bring temporary relief and stimulants whip the tired nerves to over-exertion, but to make thorough and lasting cures there is no medicine comparable to this great discovery of Dr. Chase.

The extraordinary restorative power of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is well illustrated in the case of Mrs. Myles, which is recorded below. Gradually and naturally it forms new tissues and builds up the system until health, strength and vigor replace weakness and disease. You can test this great food cure by noting your increase in weight while using it.

MRS. JOHN MYLES, SEN.

Mrs. John Myles, Sen., of South Woodslee, Essex Co., Ont., is well known throughout the surrounding country because of her work among the sick and suffering, and it was on account of overexertion in this regard that her health broke down and she lay weak and helpless, a victim of nervous prostration. Doctors could not help her and she resolved to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. As a result she has been thoroughly restored, and by recommending this treatment to others has been the means of bringing back health and happiness to many a weak and discouraged sufferer from diseases of the nerves.

Mrs. Myles writes:—"When I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I was confined to my bed with what the doctors said was nervous prostration. My stomach was very weak and I could not sleep at all for any length of time. Nervous chills and trembling would come over me at times and I seemed to be getting weaker and weaker all the time. There were also pains on the top of the head which caused me much suffering and anxiety.

"After using half a dozen boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I began to gain in weight and to feel stronger. Since then I have been gradually restored to health, and in looking back can say that the improvement has been something wonderful. I used in all forty boxes of this preparation and feel it a duty as well as a privilege to recommend it to all who are suffering from nervous disorders. Several persons to whom I have described my case have used it and been cured, and I am sure that I owe my present good health, if not life itself, to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Is sold by all dealers at the advertised price of 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, or mailed postpaid on receipt of price by Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous Receipt Book author, are on every box of his remedies.

Seven Sutherland Sisters' Hair Grower

Unusual interest has centred round the drug store of W. B. Warne, 345 George street, during the past few days, where public demonstrations have been conducted by the Sutherland Sisters, to prove the efficacy of their wonderful Hair Grower and other preparations. Inside the store has been packed with ladies consulting the sisters regarding the treatment of the hair and scalp, while outside the crowds collected have been at times so dense as to block the pavement, attracted by one of the sisters dressed in white standing in the window of the store manipulating the longest and most beautiful head of hair ever seen here. The sisters are to be in attendance at Mr. Warne's store daily for two weeks, and they invite everyone — gentlemen as well as ladies—to call and consult with them. Their hours are from 10 to 12 a.m., 2 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Mr. Warne states that the sales of these hair preparations have already been very large.

RIVETER FELL TWENTY FEET BREAKING HIS WRIST.

John S. Pogue Injured at the C. G. E. Works Yesterday After Noon.

HEAVY SENTENCES FOR YOUTHFUL THIEVES

Sent to Gaol for Stealing Merchandise from a C. P. R. Car.

At the police court this morning a number of boys were sentenced for breaking into a C. P. R. car on different occasions, and stealing merchandise therefrom. The boys were caught mainly through the efforts of Samuel Wright, C.P.R. detective, who however received help from the local police.

Thos. Jones pleaded guilty to stealing tobacco, whiskey and candies, and was sentenced to 6 months imprisonment, with hard labour for each offence, the sentences to run concurrently.

Ed. Shepherd pleaded guilty to stealing tobacco and whiskey, and got two months, with hard labour for each offence, the sentences to run concurrently.

Michael O'Brien pleaded guilty to stealing tobacco and candy, and was sentenced to two months, with hard labour, for each theft, the sentences to run concurrently.

"He that takes what isn't his'n,
When he's coched he's sent to pris'n,"

Mused Bert Hartley, as he got two months with hard labour for stealing candies, to which charge he pleaded guilty.

Fermis LaPlante was found guilty of stealing tobacco and candies, and Ed Sculley, Sidney Brewer and Thos. Menzies for stealing candies, but they were all allowed out on suspended sentence.

THE FUNERAL OF A LATE PROMINENT MAN.

The Interment of the Late Mr. Dalton Ullyott This Afternoon.

The funeral of the late Mr. Dalton Ullyott, who died on Saturday morning last, took place this afternoon from his late residence, 303 Brock street, to the Little Lake cemetery, where Rev. J. C. Davidson and Rev. Dr. Torrance officiated, the pall bearers being Messrs. Adam Hall, P. Hamilton, Judge Weller, D. W. Dumble, J. J. Lundy, and R. Walton.

The funeral was largely attended, the deceased being a man of high standing in town; a man of forceful character, he followed right because it was right. Many will feel his loss, for he was a good man and one who was prominently associated with the business life of the province.

During his life the deceased was Liberal in politics, in which, however, for the last ten years through illness he has not been actively interested. No death certainly will be more widely felt than that of the late Mr. Ullyott.

The absent members of the family, Mrs. G. Gladman, and Mrs. J. W. Fitzgerald, of Parry Sound, and Mrs. Stapleton, were at their father's funeral.

MINISTER COMING.

Hon. Mr. Borden Will Visit Peterborough in the Near Future.

Yesterday Mr. J. H. McClellan received a letter from Hon. Dr. Borden, Minister of Militia, to the effect that he would visit Peterborough on his return from Nova Scotia, where he had been called on official business. He will select the site for the new armory which will be built in Peterborough by the Dominion Government. The Minister will be accompanied by Hon. Wm. Patterson, Minister of Customs.

CEREAL COMPANY'S DAM.

More Evidence Taken This Morning at the County Court.

The hearing of the claims of persons demanding compensation for the flooding of property which the formation of the pond above the Cereal Company's new dam will entail was taken up again to-day and considerable evidence filed, before Judge Weller, referring especially to the claim of Mr. John Thompson. The Court adjourned this morning until 7.30 o'clock this evening, when the case will be re-continued.

AN EXPRESS WAGON FOR AN AMBULANCE.

Scarlet Fever Patient Conveyed to the Hospital in One.

An analagous case of "water, water everywhere, and not a drop to drink," is found in the ambulance situation here. Although the town has just received a handsome new Dan Spence Memorial Ambulance and there was already one belonging to an undertaking firm, which had been used for some time. This morning, however, when, a patient suffering with scarlet fever had to be taken to a hospital, an express wagon was the only vehicle available. The old ambulance was in the carriage shop for repairs and the new one had not yet been accepted formally from the hands of the manufacturers, by the town, although it has been here about a week, consequently the antiquated express wagon had to be brought into requisition.

ACQUITTED ON CHARGE OF FURIOUS DRIVING.

Mr. T. Kearns and His Companion Were Found Not Guilty.

Before County Police Magistrate Edmison yesterday, two men, Kearns and Hill, of Peterborough, were charged with furious driving on Wednesday, Oct. 14th, at Norwood. The two men mentioned were driving from the station to the village after the arrival of the noon express from the west, and ran into Mr. John Fitzgerald with the result that he sustained serious injuries. A charge was consequently laid against the drivers. They were acquitted on the evidence being heard by Mr. Edmison. Mr. D. O'Connell, appeared for the accused, while County Crown Attorney Wood prosecuted.

TWO BYE-ELECTIONS BEING HELD TO-DAY.

Results at the Last General Contest.

Tables Showing Majorities in the Polling Subdivisions—Causes of the Bye-elections.

The bye-elections in Muskoka and Sault Ste. Marie are being held to-day. The Sault Ste. Marie constituency was rendered vacant by the unseating of Andrew Miscampbell, the Conservative Member, for illegal practices. His majority was 199. In Muskoka, the Liberal member, the late Dr. Bridgeland, had a majority of 86. His death rendered a bye-election necessary.

The standing of the parties to-day is: Government, including the speaker, 50; Opposition, 45. Following are the results of the elections in Sault Ste. Marie at the general elections, May 29, 1902:

AN ACCIDENT AT MURRAY HILL

Traffic Delayed for Hours Because of a Broken Axle.

On Saturday evening a smash-up occurred on the main line of the G.T.R. at Murray Hill. While no person was injured traffic was delayed for some time. A freight train was proceeding eastward when it is supposed that a broken axle caused a car to leave the track, and this in turn caused two others to leave the rails. The first car was laden with apples. The car and contents were a total loss. The auxiliary from this city went to the scene and were at work some time before the line was clear.—Belleville Intelligencer.

SNOW TWO INCHES DEEP AT OMEMEE

While Peterborough is Visited by Light Flurry.

Peterborough has felt the first touch of winter. Those who were out late enough on Sunday night to have seen it, report that there was a fall of snow, and yesterday afternoon another slight flurry fell, which is being supplemented to-day. However, the town appears to have escaped in some manner the heavier snow falls that visited other places in the vicinity. Visitors in town from Omemee say that two inches of the frozen vapour fell there, while east of the town about ten miles, quite a heavy snow storm was experienced.

PETERBOROUGH'S GREATNESS.

The St. Thomas Journal recognizes the fact that Peterborough is the best town in Ontario, and the reason for its prosperity is also given. The article referring to it says:—

"St. Thomas will grow with the growth of confidence of its own people in the city.

"Peterborough ranks as Canada's Premier Town. It has a larger population than St. Thomas, though it is only a town.

"Peterborough has grown because of the enterprise of its own people. They invested money in industries and to-day the town is one of the great manufacturing centres of the province.

"The citizens believe their money draws better interest and does their town more good when invested in local industries. This spirit ought to be emulated in this city."

THE MATTHEWS COMPANY CLOSED BRANTFORD DEAL.

Concluded Purchase of the Farmers' Co-Operative Pork Packing Co's Plant.

The Brantford Expositor has the following on the purchase by the George Matthews Company of Peterborough, of the Farmers' Co-Operative Pork Packing Factory, of that city:

"The Geo. Matthews Co., of Peterborough, who recently purchased the Farmers' Co-Operative Pork Packing Factory in West Brantford, are in the city to-day and formally took over the property from the B. N. A. Bank. The new owners intend to improve the factory in many ways, and make it one of the finest in the country. They possess sufficient capital for the business and will run a big concern on thoroughly business principles.

"The members of the firm will remain over to-night, and will appear before the city council for the purpose of asking the city to construct a sewer from their packing house down through West Brantford and into the river below the town. This is a costly piece of work, and as a large portion of the sewer can be used by the residents of West Brantford the firm thinks the council should at least assist in the undertaking. They will appear to-night to press their views on the aldermen. The factory will be thoroughly overhauled at once and operations resumed in the course of a few weeks."

MR. JEFFRIES ON "A TRIP TO PARIS."

Enjoyable Address Delivered Before Epworth League.

Interesting Features of Great French Capital Described- Pleasing Incidents of the Trip.

A large gathering was that which listened last night to a very enjoyable address given in the Sunday School Room of George street church under the auspices of the Epworth League, by Mr. J. Jeffries, his subject being "Paris." It would be impossible to give an intelligent and satisfactory synopsis of Mr. Jeffries' highly enjoyable address, and, with his permission it will be reproduced in full in this paper. The first instalment appearing in to-day's issue. The address was made additionally interesting by a map of the City of Paris, upon which the speaker pointed out the places of which his address spoke. At the conclusion, a vote of thanks was moved to Mr. Jeffries for his very pleasing talk, which was enthusiastically supported. The address is as follows:—

Breakfast was over, and we were reading the morning papers in the library of our London hotel, when a restless member of the party suggested that we change the routine of sight-seeing in the metropolis by taking an excursion out of town. A Victoria was accordingly whistled to the door by an obliging porter, and we were comfortably ensconced within when for the first time the question arose as to where we should go. One favoured Stratford-on-Avon, that we might visit the haunts of its immortal bard and perchance imbibe some of the spirit that still lurks about the birthplace of that transcendent genius. Another urged Windsor and Frogmore, the favourite castle and private mausoleum of the late revered Queen. It was, however, agreed that as the cormation of King Edward was still between one and two weeks distant, we could not better employ that interval than by paying our intended visit to Paris. Extra baggage was accordingly put on, and off we set for the continent. It was an incident typical of the don't-worry, free-and-easy way we spent the two months of a most pleasant trip.

The ride to Dover was an interesting one through the garden of England, abounding in fruits, flowers and hops. We had a fine view from the coach window of the stately and superb Cathedral of Canterbury, the sublimity of which fills one at first sight with reverential awe and admiration. At old-fashioned Dover we were quickly transferred to one of the swift channel steamers plying between Dover and Calais, which make the passage in 1 1-2 hours.

THE ENGLISH CHANNEL

is reputed to be the most-to-be-feared of all waters by those who have land stomachs. To escape sea-sickness there is a rare piece of good fortune. As we steamed away we had an excellent view of the famous old Dover Castle and those high, chalky cliffs that first attracted the attention of Julius Cæsar on his expedition to England nearly 2,000 years ago. What a history that Channel has had since then! Memorable sea-fights, splendid naval reviews and disastrous ship-wrecks have combined to make it, historically, one of the most interesting of all European waters. We soon caught sight of Calais, the last possession England held in France, whose loss so preyed upon the mind of "bloody" Queen Mary that she protested the word would be found, after her death, written on her heart. As we drew near its magnificent harbour, I recalled the familiar lines of Wordsworth, composed one quiet evening on the sands of Calais beach, as he stood looking across to his beloved England:—

"Fair Star of Evening, splendor of the west,
Star of my country! On the horizon's brink
Thou hangest, stooping, as might, seem, to sink
On Eve'g's bosom; yet well pleased to rest,
Meanwhile, and be to her a glorious crest
Conspicuous to the nations. Thou, I think,
Shouldst be my country's emblem, and shouldst wink,
Bright star, with laughter on her banners drest.
In thy fresh beauty, then, that dusky spot
Beneath thee, it is England; there it lies.
Blessings be on you both! One hope, one lot,
One life, one glory! I, with many a tear
For my dear country, many heart-felt sighs,
Among men who do not love her, linger here."

THE CITY OF CALAIS.

Calais is a strongly fortified city of 60,000 people. It is said that nearly 300,000 tourists and travellers pass through it every year. I shall pass rapidly over the trip from Calais to Paris. It was, I well remember, relieved of its tediousness by the side-splitting amusement afforded by our Irishman in his attempts to recall his long-lost French accent. It was in northern France that I first saw women working in large numbers in the harvest fields. There it was by no means an unusual sight. We saw the same thing in the Highlands of Scotland.

We arrived in Paris about seven p.m. of the same day. One takes breakfast in London and late dinner in Paris. They are within a day's ride of each other, and yet to go from one to the other is like going to another world. London, built of smoke-stained bricks, is dark and stern, solid, massive and everlasting. Paris is light, artistic, sparkling, magnificent. In London one is ever being reminded of the past. Antiquity and the charm of storied associations are seen on every side, while Paris looks new, modern and spick.

And yet Paris has had a remarkably interesting history. It has been the scene of more political somersaults than probably any other city on the globe. It has been the political centre of two monarchies, two empires, three republics, not to speak of several intermediate forms of government. It was the

during the French Revolution. Again in 1870 it was made the object of one of the most memorable sieges recorded in the annals of modern warfare. After the battle of Sedan, the victorious German army pushed towards Paris without delay. Stupendous preparations were hurriedly made for its defence. There were within its fortifications 200,000 fighting men. The siege began about the first of September, and the city held out without any outside relief for five months, when starvation forced it to surrender. The German army made a triumphal entry into Paris the first of October, 1871.

They had scarcely left when the city fell a prey to the ferocity of the communists, who inaugurated a reign of terror that for one week reddened the streets with fire and blood. But Paris has always shown the recuperative power of a Phœnix. She recovered from these disasters in an amazingly short time. In 1878 she held a world's fair that eclipsed in magnificence all previous efforts of the kind. She held a second in '84, and a still more glorious one in '89. To-day Paris is the most beautiful city and the greatest centre of the arts in the world, and has a population of between two and three millions.

The Parisians seemed to me to be a people brim full of life and spirit, bent on extracting the full measure of brightness and gayety out of this life and allowing no quarter to vexation and worry. They appear to live for the present and to fully enjoy their circumstances and surroundings. To a Canadian they seem in many ways to lack that modesty and quick sense of propriety in conduct that we may fairly pride ourselves in. And yet, no doubt, modesty is a relative term; what is immodest to us is modest to them, and they see no wrong or lack of decorum in that freedom of manner so noticeable even in the most public places.

One of the most

of Paris, is the cafe. There is nothing at all like it in Canada. In fact, there is nothing like it even in London. The peculiary of this most popular institution is that the guests sit for the purpose of eating and drinking out upon the sidewalk. The pavement, from 20 to 30 feet wide, is almost taken up with tables and chairs, the former mostly round, marble topped and capable of accommodating four to six persons. During the early part of the day the guests are fewer in number and keep within, or close to, the building, but in the evening and until midnight the patrons greatly increase in number, and sometimes push far out upon the flagstones, and even on to the roadway. The pedestrian, as he passes along the boulevards and avenues, which for miles are thickly lined with these brilliantly illuminated resorts, is continually threading his way among chairs and tables, where the Parisians, with their friends, wives or sweethearts, sit by the hour, eating, chatting, smoking cigars or cigarettes, reading the evening papers, and sipping their wines or beers—enjoying life, as no other people in the world seem able to do. Not unfrequently an orchestra may be seen on a dais, discoursing lively airs and adding gayety and animation to the brilliant scene. The tables are attended by male waiters in evening dress, whose emolument consists solely of the tips, or pourboires, as they call them, which they receive from the guests. I know of no institution so strikingly Parisian as the ubiquitous cafe.

ANOTHER STRIKING FEATURE

of this beautiful city, is its boulevards. The word means bulwark, and was adapted because the oldest boulevards were constructed by Louis XIV. on the site of the ancient fortifications that formerly surrounded the city. The older boulevards have been supplemented by many new ones laid out since 1852. They are never less than 100 feet wide, and are nowhere surpassed in the handsomeness of their architecture, the briskness of their traffic and the dazzling attractiveness of their shops. The trees with which they were bordered on each side add much to their imposing appearance, but are a source of constant trouble to the municipal authorities through being frequently killed by gas. When dead, they are replaced by full-grown substitutes, transplanted at great expense from a more healthy atmosphere.

Perhaps the handsomest public square in the world is the PLACE DE LA CONCORDE.

In the centre rises an oblisk presented by an Egyptian pasha. It is reddish granite. It is six feet higher than Cleopatra's Needle in London. It was built by Rameses II, who reigned in the 14th century before Christ. It was first erected in front of a temple in Thebes. Each of the four sides is inscribed with vertical rows of hieroglyphics. A very noticeable feature of the square is eight large stone statues representing the chief towns of France. One of these is always hung with wreaths placed there by a patriotic society. It represents the city of Strasbourg, the garlands of mouring having reference to the loss of the province of Alsace to Germany. The Place de la Concorde seems wrongly named, in view of the tragic memories with which it is haunted. In 1770, during an exhibition of fire-works here, a panic took place and 1,200 people were trampled to death and 2,000 more severely injured. Here also the guillotine began its awful work with the execution of Louis XVI. This instrument of blood was not removed until more than 2,800 people perished by its deadly stroke. Though the scene of a revolutionary hurricane that overthrew both throne and altar in the dust and shook all Europe with its fury, it bears the gentle, soothing name of "The Square of Harmony." From the centre of this square the view in every direction is most imposing. To the north is the famous Madeleine. To the south, just across the Seine, is the where the Chamber of Deputies holds its stormy sessions. To the west rises the broad and handsome Champs-Elysees, while to the east lie the large and beautiful gardens of the Tuileries and the celebrated Palace of the Louvre.

I shall ask your indulgence for a very short time while I endeavour to acquaint you with a few facts concerning these and several other places we visited and found interesting. Starting from the centre of the Place de la Concorde and walking straight north by the Rue Royale, we presently find ourselves in front of the Madeleine, which on the outside looks more like a Greek temple than a Christian church, being surrounded on all four sides by an imposing colonnade of massive Corinthian columns. The building has no windows and is constructed exclusively of stone. It is 364 feet long, 141 feet wide and 100 feet high, and was 78 years in course of construction. The massive doors are adorned with illustrations of the Ten Commandments in relief, while in the tympanum of the principal facade is a fine representation of the Last Judgment. Napoleon proposed in 1806 to convert this beautiful edifice into a temple of glory, and had it not been for the Duke of Wellington, he would probably have carried out his purpose. The roof consists of three great domes. The interior is richly ornate with mural paintings and sculpture and is fairly aglow with colour.

The Champs-Elysees, or Elysian Fields in English, is a magnificent avenue and park. Like Hyde Park in London, it is one of the most fashionable promenades in Paris, and boasts of some of its most costly mansions. The park proper is containing, as it does, a large number of cafes and places of amusement, when promenade concerts go on in the open air, constituting a thoroughly characteristic Parisian scene. At the western end of this long and handsome avenue stands L'Arc de Triomphe de l' Etvile, i.e., the Triumphal Arch of the Stars, the latter part of the name alluding to the fact that it stands at a point where twelve broad avenues come together. This arch is one of four planned by the great Napoleon to perpetuate his glory. It is the largest and most imposing triumphal arch in existence, being 160 feet high, 146 broad, and 72 deep. As you stand upon the summit your eye may sweep the entire length of twelve beautiful avenues, which radiate towards every corner of Paris. From it you can see every important building, and your vision is limited only by the suburban villages that surround the capital like a line of bulwarks. During the dark days of 1871 heavy cannon were lifted to its top by steam power and by them the city was bombarded with fearful effect. The arch contains a good deal of fine sculpture. One typical group represents the nations of the feet of Napoleon, kneeling at the feet of Napoleon, while victory is crowning him with laurel, fame, with his trumpet, is proclaiming his deeds abroad, and history is recording them for the edification of posterity.

Owes His Life to a Neighbour's Kindness

Mr. D. P. Daughert'y, well known throughout Mercer and Sumner counties, W. Va., most likely owes his life to the kindness of a neighbour. He was almost hopelessly afflicted with diarrhoea; was attended by two physicians who gave him little, if any, relief, when a neighbour learning of his serious condition, brought him a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which cured him in less than 24 hours. For sale by all druggists.

NEW EQUIPMENT.

Mr. Jas. Lewis Branching out in His Business.

Mr. James Lewis, the popular Hunter street barber, is adding a fourth chair to his shop equipment, and has had installed a set of three double electroliers, which give an additional brilliancy to an otherwise handsome shop. The electrical equipment was supplied by Mr. F. R. J. MacPherson, the wholesale electrical supply dealer.

Mr. Lewis evidently finds business brisk, when it has become necessary to increase his facilities for doing it.

I know a good thing when I see it. The Snowshoe Tobacco Tags are worth money, and as I want to get a valuable present for them, I will allow you in trade 50 cents per hundred for all you have, can get, or buy. Alive Charles LaGros.

Window Plants and Cut Flowers.

Now is the time to get fern pots filled. We show the most useful ferns for house purposes, and can supply pretty fern pots in various patterns. Handsome decorative plants, hanging baskets, palms and rubber plants. Double flowering begonias in rich colours. Beautifully variegated carnations; fine large double flowers. THE RUSSO-JAP CRISIS.

Official Information is More Pacific Than For Some Time Past.

London, Oct. 25.—Official information regarding the Far Eastern crisis is more pacific, but that usually accurate barometer of such situations, the stock exchange, persists in indicating the gravest forbodings. Assurances of peaceful intentions from both Russian and Japanese sources are so insistent as to suggest the attitude of opposing powers on the eve of more than one great war in the past. The comparison may easily prove deceptive. The weight of opinion in European diplomatic circles, in fact, inclines to the belief that the struggle will yet be averted, temporarily at least.

CAVE-IN KILLS TEN MEN.

Face of Tunnel Wall Falls in on N.Y. Subway Workers.

New York, Oct. 26.—Ten men were killed by a cave-in of the roof and walls of the subway tunnel at 195th street Saturday night, and four were badly injured. All of the dead and injured were workmen, and most of them Italians. The accident was the most disastrous that has occurred in the construction of the subway. At the point where the cave-in occurred a gang of 25 men were at work in the tunnel, which is about 110 feet below the surface. The cave-in followed the shooting of a blast.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE

In Store for Those Who Doubt.

When you read that a sufferer of many years' standing has been completely restored to health by using Smith's Cure-all, you are inclined to doubt the statement and, in fact, have no belief in it whatever. The reason for this is that so much is claimed for the Cure-all it is impossible, for anyone to believe it; if the advertiser confined his claims to the curing of one disease, as do the proprietors of Pyramid Pile Cure, readers would have much more faith in published testimonials. Those familiar with this great remedy know that testimonials as to its merit may be relied upon implicitly, also that the cures brought about by its use are little short of marvelous. The The genuineness of the testimonial here given is vouched for and is but one of thousands received:—

"I wish to write you and tell you what your Pyramid Pile Cure has done for me. I have been troubled with piles for the past five years and used every remedy that was recommended to me. While some would give me relief for a while they never have cured. I was so bad this summer I could not get up or down without pain; could not attend to my household duties. Finally I got a 50-cent box of your Pyramid Pile Cure at the druggist's and it is now two months since I used the last of the box, and have had no trouble since. I can say it is really and truly a good remedy.

"I am so thankful I tried it as I know it has cured me, and if at any time I should have any such trouble again I would use it at once. Since I am cured I have recommended it to my friends, whom I know to be afflicted as I was, and I know they will use it too. I am so thankful I ever learned of your cure." Mrs. F. Hutt, 460 2nd street, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists for fifty cents a package, or will be mailed to any address upon receipt of price by Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich. Write this firm for their book describing the cause and cure of piles.

Little Girl's Awful Death.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 26.—About 6.30 Friday night a most deplorable accident occurred at Falls View in the family of Mr. and Mrs. G. Brooks, who have just moved there from Wilson, N.Y. Their little daughter, Bessie, aged ten years, was horribly and fatally burned from head to foot by her clothing catching on fire from a stove, death occurring Saturday morning

A Remarkable Record.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for over thirty years, during which time many million bottles have been sold and used. It has long been the standard and main reliance in the treatment of croup, yet during all this time no case has ever been reported to the manufacturers in which it failed to effect a cure. When given as soon as the child become hoarse or even as soon as the croupy cough begins, it will prevent the attack. It is pleasant to take, many children like it. It contains no opium or other harmful substance, and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

END OF WAR SCARE

Bulgarian Reserves Are Now Being Demobilized.

SEVERE STRAIN ON BULGARIA

The Mobilization, However, Was Not a Vain Sacrifice, as It Led to the Enlarged Austro-Russian Program and More Conciliatory Attitude of the Sultan—War in Spring If Program Is a Failure.

Sofia, Oct. 27.—An order has been issued for the complete demobilization of the Bulgarian reserves, who will return to their homes on Tuesday. This marks the end of the war for this year. The decision to mobilize the reserves at the moment when the Macedonian massacres were at their height, and the large concentrations of Turkish troops taking place on the frontier, occasioned a sudden change in the situation. Europe realized that the forbearance of Bulgaria was almost exhausted, and a serious crisis imminent. The attitude of the Sultan underwent a rapid change. His Majesty did not lose any time in expressing conciliatory sentiments and reopening direct negotiations.

The mobilization has been a severe strain on the resources of Bulgaria, but the sacrifice has not been made in vain. It is scarcely too much to say that if Bulgaria had not armed, the enlarged Austro-Russian program would not have seen the light. Upon the success or failure of the program depends the contingency of a fresh mobilization in the spring. Should Bulgaria be compelled to arm again, war will not easily be averted, since there are limits to the patience even of the weak and friendless.

CAUSE OF WORKINGMEN.

Chamberlain Wants to Save England From Being Second Holland.

London, Oct. 27.—(C. A. P.)—Mr. Chamberlain, writing to Mr. Forrester, the municipal candidate in Birmingham, says that he greatly regrets giving up the great work of the Colonial Office, but believes it best for the sake of the cause he has at heart. The latter concludes: "Believe me, it is the cause of the workingmen, and unless we be content to fall back into the condition of a second Holland and to be a distributing and not a manufacturing nation, we must wake up and meet the new conditions confronting us."

Divine Blessing for Joseph.

London, Oct. 27.—(C. A. P.)—The chief bard of Wales has sent to Mr. Chamberlain a letter with his benediction, saying: "Enter the metropolis of Wales (Liverpool) in the armor of the Lord and possess the forts of thine enemies." Mr. Chamberlain sent a cold dictated letter containing a brief acknowledgment.

Labor Endorses Chamberlain.

London, Oct. 27.—(C.A.P.)—At the annual Congress of the National Free Labor Association, with an enrolled membership of 400,000, yesterday adopted, by 21 votes to 18, a resolution hailing with delight Mr. Chamberlain's fiscal policy and pledging the Congress to a further policy of preferential tariffs.

Norsemen to Form Trade Union.

London, Oct. 27.—(C.A.P.)—There is a movement on foot among the Scandinavians to meet Mr. Chamberlain's proposals by a great economic union of Norway, Sweden and Denmark. Norway sees great prospective damage to her shipping trade.

Term Not Near End.

London, Oct. 27.—(C. A. P.)—Ministerialists, instead of reckoning the life of the present Parliament by months, give it years, and assume that it will not be dissolved until it has run its natural course. The principal object of the Liberals is to force a dissolution, to do which would require that they defeat the Government, to accomplish which they have very little chance. Mr. Balfour favors an election at a distant date. His doing so gives strength to the belief that, though Mr. Chamberlain said he could not leave England this year, and since he has left the Government his presence is not needed in the House of Commons next session, he could, without inconvenience, tour the colonies next year, and rumor says he will visit Cape Colony.

Was Less Valued Official.

Toronto, Oct. 27.—The Minister of Agriculture is considering the advisability of tendering G. C. Creelman, superintendent of Farmers' Institutes, an increase of $500 a year to hold him here, Mr. Creelman having under consideration three tempting offers, one from Texas, of $3,000 as superintendent of Farmers' Institutes, a similar offer of $3,000 from Mississippi, and one of $6,000 to become superintendent of Agriculture of the Orange River Colony. Mr. Creelman would not say last night that he would accept any of the offers.

Another Revolution.

Cape Haytien, Hayti, Oct. 27.—The revolution which has broken out in the northern part of the Republic of Santo Domingo was caused by the numerous custom house frauds and the provocations of Ministers of War and of Finance.

Appointed to Be British Ambassador at Washington.

London, Oct. 26.—The Associated Press was able to announce on Saturday the appointment of Sir Henry Mortimer Durand, the British Ambassador at Madrid, as British Ambassador to the United States, to succeed the late Sir Michael Herbert. Official announcement of the appointment, however, will not be made until to-day, when the King will formally sign the commission.

RESUMING WORK.

Sault Ste. Marie, Oct. 26.—During this week operations will be commenced in the ground wood pulp mill, charcoal plant, veneer plant and saw mill, which employ nearly 600 men. This announcement was made by J. S. Fackenthal, who was left in charge here by his brother, B. F. Fackenthal, the receiver appointed by Speyer & Co.

MANITOBA GIVES STRIKING PROOF

That Dodd's Kidney Pill Cure When Other Means Fail.

Mr. J. J. Perkins Disabled by Kidney Pains, Finds New Health in the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Tyndall, Man., Oct. 26.— (Special.)—All over Manitoba and the Territories people are telling of benefits received from the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and this place furnishes a striking example of how they will cure when all other means have failed in the person of Mr. J. J. Perkins.

"For two years I was troubled with my Kidneys," Mr. Perkins says. "I got so bad that the doctor attending me declared me incurable.

"At times, I had such severe pains in my back that I thought I would have to give up hopes and die. I was unable to work and was becoming destitute.

"One day a friend asked me, 'Have you ever tried Dodd's Kidney Pills?' I answered 'No,' and he persuaded me to try them.

"The first box made me feel like a new man; five boxes cured me completely. Dodd's Kidney Pills saved my life."

Against Irish Immigration.

London, Oct. 26.—Speaking at Killarney yesterday, John Redmond, the Irish leader, declared the time had arrived to start a campaign against emigration. The cause of emigration that ought to be removed, he said, was the exaggerated prospect held out to Irish boys and girls if they went to America. He criticized Andrew Carnegie's recent speech at Waterford and said the poor laborer in Kerry was happier than the majority of Irish workingmen in the United States.

Great Chamberlain Meeting.

London, Oct. 26.—(C.A.P.)—Chamberlain's meeting at Liverpool to-day will show the largest gathering of members of Parliament ever seen in that city. Most of the Lancashire and Cheshire Unionist representatives have accepted. Sixty thousand applications for ticket have been received. A solid silver casket will be presented, and a vellum address illuminated with the arms of Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, runs.

Startling Revelations.

It frequently happens that people suffer for years from kidney derangements without knowing the cause of their backaches, aching limbs and other bodily sufferings. Suddenly the truth is revealed to them that they are the victims of serious kidney disease and in imminent danger. There is no remedy that gives such prompt and lasting relief for every form of kidney disease as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are positively effective even in the most chronic cases.

SINGS ITS DEATH SONG.

A Peculiar Bird Found in the Junction of South America.

There is a queer bird in the jungles of northern South America which is called the "pauji" by the natives, but is known to science as the galeated curassow. It is chiefly remarkable because it sings its own death song.

It does not really sing, but makes a deep humming noise which sounds very much like the Spanish words "El muerte esta aqui" (the corpse lies here).

"It is while uttering this lugubrious chant," said a South American traveler, "that the 'pauji' usually meets its death, for the hunter can then easily track it to its retreat, and it falls a victim, as the Indians say, to its own death song."

If the "pauji" gets suspicious it immediately ceases humming, and that is a sure indication to the hunter that the bird has seen him or scents danger. In such a case the only thing for the sportsman to do is to remain perfectly still. The bird may become reassured after waiting awhile and again begin to call, "The corpse lies here." It can then be cautiously approached and killed.

If it is only wounded the "pauji" usually escapes, though it cannot fly much better than the ordinary domestic fowl. It is very fleet of foot and will outrun the hunter until it is lost in the dense undergrowth of the jungle.

In the mating season the male "pauji" is the most pugnacious of birds and will fight its own kind whenever it meets them. Often the fight ends in the annihilation of both combatants.

How Japs Play Keo.

In its most widely practiced form the basis of the Japanese game of keo is that the fully outstretched hand signifies paper, the fully closed hand a stone, and two fingers alone extended, the rest being closed, scissors. Each of the players, counting one, two, three, throws out his hand at the moment of pronouncing three, and the one whose manual symbol is superior to that of the others, according to the theory of the game, wins the trial.

Superiority is determined on the hypothesis that whereas scissors cannot cut a stone they can cut paper, and whereas paper is cut by scissors it can wrap up a stone. Consequently scissors is inferior to stone, but conquers paper; stone is inferior to paper, but conquers scissors, and paper is inferior to scissors, but conquers stone. There are innumerable varieties of the game, for it is not a mere method of determining a dispute or priority, and they are constantly added to by ingenious young ladies, the dancing girl class especially, who play it with exquisite grace and judicious enhancement of beautiful hands and arms.—Japan Mail.

The Doctor's Advice.

At a dinner party one night Sir Andrew Clark noticed that the lady sitting next to him at table passed a dish to which he helped himself plentifully.

He asked if she did not like it, as it was excellent.

"Oh, yes, I like it, but my physician forbids me to eat it," she explained.

"Stuff and nonsense," said Sir Andrew. "It could not hurt any one. Who is you physician?"

To which the lady, whom the medical magnate had forgotten, answered, with a demure twinkle in her eye:

"Sir Andrew Clark!" — London Spare Moments.

In a Nutshell.

Here is a good story for a mothers' club meeting. It is told of the late General Hector Macdonald. Always a man of few words, when sending his only son to a public school for the first time he addressed the following brief note to the head master: "Herewith boy Hector, to be made a man of," a sentence worthy of being handed down to posterity as a remarkable example of brevity and sterling common sense.

PRIVATE JONES' CHEATING

By LEO CRANE.

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

"'E was a coal passer, was Jones, an' 'e slung a shovel on the bloomin' tramp Koolah until his mouth got him inter serious trouble affairs by recklessly slippin' lurid names toward the chief engineer. O' course we men knew 'e didn't mean aythink outer the way by the langwidge, but the chief engineer was a wicious man, an' 'e allowed his turrible anger to become uncontrolled.

"So we men laid Jones away in the free ward o' a leetle horspital that half hid itself shylike behind a row o' scraggy palms. Then we men went off on a hoot, eight o' us. Seven got back to the ship in time to sail with her. The eighth man, 'e was left on the wharf deserted amid a multichude o' coolies. Hi was that man.

"An', being as Hi wouldn't shift cargo fer a livin' wage, Hi presented meself, body an' soul, to a recrultin' officer who was out after one devil called Juan Torres. This same Juan Torres was up country some'res hidin', an' 'e didn't have no fewer o' hair' botched; bounce it needed men, an' Hi was a man.

"Now, on the mornin' afore we marched away who in all the worl' o' rascals should heave in sight but Jones. 'E had a rag about his head, an' 'e wanted to 'list. Now, Hi had never expected to see Jones again in this worl' an', bein' pious inclined, didn't want to meet him in the next. Hi always watched my terbacker when 'e was about. Sam Rawlins had tol' me o' that, an' Sam Rawlins had lost terbacker.

"Well, they needed men, an' Jones was one, so 'e went along. 'E tol' me that the doctors at the leetle horspital had been wery confident that 'e would die, but in spite o' it 'e fooled 'em.

"Anyway, up country we goes after Juan Torres, an' the first beastly town we gets inter down goes Jones with the fever. The doctor o' the regiment said 'e would die certain, but Jones didn't. 'E scraped through, s'elp me if 'e didn't. Two weeks after 'e began to creep about the camp mule kicks him a regular smasher in the side, an' away to the leetle horspital they carries him to mend up.

"Hi didn't see Jones no more for near a half year; neither did Hi see Juan Torres. One day when we thought we had 'em spotted at last inter camp 'e walks, smilin' grimly. 'E goes to the colonel an' says, 'Hi'll show ye just where they are,' says 'e. An' in ten minutes out we marches, Jones leadin' the way.

"'How have ye been?' asks the colonel, leggin' it 'longside o' Jones.

"'Wery well,' says Jones back to him, pleasant-like, 'Hi ain't been outer the horspital more 'n ten days.'

"'Guns!' cries the colonel. 'Did it take 'em all that time to patch up three broken ribs?'

"'No,' explains Jones. 'They fixed up them ribs in six weeks, but after Hi got discharged from that spell Hi went inter town on a leetle smootch aroun, ye know, an' some William knifes me. In fact, 'e knifed me two or three times afore 'e was satisfied with his contract, an' so they hustles me back to the leetle horspital without any great loss o' time. That were a four month job, but they did it, an' nary a grumble. 'Oh, this gettin' well is my long suit,' says Jones, proud-like. 'What troubles me most,' says Jones solemnly, 'is that maybe when the blow comes again Hi'll be too far up country an' won't reach the horspital in time, but Hi hopes not.'

"'Why, you must like bein' sick,' says the colonel, s'prised.

"'It ain't the bein' sick,' says Jones; that's nasty. But the soup—my, the soup! Delicious!' says Jones, smackin' his lips 'e if 'e could taste it. 'Hi've been in forty-two horspitals in my time an' have been discharged cured nigh on to sixty-seven times, so Hi know.'

"'Sixty-seven times,' echoed the colonel.

"'Return wisits,' explained Jones quickly. 'But Hi don't despair o' betterin' that record, 'cause Hi knows my vitality an' what Hi can stand.'

"On we men went silently. The reports 'll tell ye how we cornered them rats in the center o' a thick forest, but the reports won't tell ye how one Jones carried fire an' sword into the habitation o' Juan Torres.

"It stood in a clearin'. Jones beat us to the inclosure by a good twenty feet, an' Jones was first to show his leg over the top. Some native feller punched a bayonet through the calf o' it, but that native feller troubled no other man. Jones fought like a demon, an' we lost him in the smoke o' battle.

"Late in the day, when the struggle had ceased an' the smell o' rank powder was beginnin' to sieve away through the forest, we started to hunt up our men. We found Jones lyin' across a pile o' severely used natives over again a secluded portion o' the stockade. There he had cornered six desperate men, an' the sight o' his handiwork was exceedin' fair to look upon. We carried Jones tenderly away. The doc, 'e looked at him, an', says doc softly, ''E's dead, poor feller,' an' there were tears in mere eyes than one.

"But that night a man came racin' inter the colonel's but an' bawls out, ''E ain't dead!'

"'Who ain't dead?' yells the colonel.

"'Jones!' cries the man. ''E's come to life again!'

"Down to the surgeon's hut rushes the colonel, all excited an' puzzled. Doc meets him at the door an' cautions him to be quiet.

"'E's kinder wild in his head,' says the doctor, 'an' he's makin' all sorts o' crasy requests.'

"'What does 'e want?' asks the colonel.

"'E's mumblin' all the time about goin' back to the leetle horspital,' says the doc.

"'E's a hero,' cries the colonel, 'an 'e shall go.'

"'Why, man,' says the other, ''e's got three bola wounds, shot twice through the body an' has been clouted across the head. 'E can't possibly live till mornin'.'

"But Jones heerd him say it, an' he calls out weakly, does Jones, 'It's a lie,' says he, 'an' Hi'm goin' back to the leetle horspital!'

"Well, 'e didn't die a bit. At the end o' a week two natives shouldered his bed an' started for the coast. Hi an' five men went along to guard 'em. Five paces in the rear more natives sullenly wrestled with the heavy coffin. Our orders were to plant him decently wherever 'e died, an' we determined to do it. After we had marched a week the town came inter sight. By that time Jones was able to sit up an' take notice, but when 'e saw the town an' the leetle red roof o' the horspital 'e started to wave such a frantic welcome with his hand that a hemorrhage resulted. We ordered the two sullen natives to hustle to the front with their burden. But Jones rallied.

"'It's no use,' says he, grittin' his teeth. 'Ye can't bury me in this worn-out soil. If Hi don't reach the leetle horspital throw me overboard inter clean water.' An' we promised. 'E seemed to be sinkin' again, so we takes the shortest cut to the sea. When we go' in view o' the docks we saw a vessel loadin' there. Jones peeked at it, then yelled an' set bolt upright. 'It's the Koolah,' says he. 'Get me aboard, men; get me aboard! I'll be cured to onct if ye'll only heave me up the gangway!'

"'What 'll cure ye?' Hi queried.

"'Spite,' says Jones, mutterin' a curse.

"So we did. The chief engineer saw us comin' an' nearly had a stroke. But the fun o' all was to see them two sullen natives. They had hustled an' wrestled with that coffin all the way from up country, an' they were all fagged out. With a rich burst o' tropic oaths they cast it out inter the water an' waved their maledictions at the ring o' expandin' ripples that marked its burial.

"'Was that for Jones?' asked a voice.

"Hi looked up to see Sam Rawlins starin' at him. Hi nodded.

"'It don't s'prise me,' 'e says slowly an' thoughtfully. ''E'd cheat anythink. 'E'd cheat the goats that 'd feed over his grave! Hi guess Hi'll go an' lock up my terbacker,' says Sam Rawlins. An' he did it."

Blood Disorders

are simply kidney disorders. The kidneys filter the blood of all that shouldn't be there. The blood passes through the kidneys every three minutes. If the kidneys do their work no impurity or cause of disorder can remain in the circulation longer than that time. Therefore if your blood is out of order your kidneys have failed in their work. They are in need of stimulation, strengthening or doctoring. One medicine will do all three, the finest and most imitated blood medicine there is

The healthy woman need not fear the change which comes as the beginning of life's autumn. It is the woman who is worn out, run down and a sufferer from womanly diseases who naturally dreads the change of life. This is the critical period of woman's life, and the prevalence of womanly diseases makes it the duty of every woman who would avoid unnecessary suffering to take especial care of herself at this time.

The ills which vex so many women at the change of life are entirely avoided or cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong, and enables the weakest to pass through this trying change with the tranquility of perfect health.

"I have been a very healthy woman, and this time has been very hard with me," writes Mrs. Maggie Morris, of Munson Station, Clearfield Co., Pa., Box 34. "I am come to the time of change of life, and I have been sick a great deal of sick on. When Mrs. Hemmis moved beside me I was sick in bed, and when she came to see me and we were talking over our sickness, Mrs. Hemmis told me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' also 'Pellets.' I got her to bring me a bottle of each from the drug store and I used them. They did me a great deal of good, and I got two more bottles of 'Favorite Prescription.' I never saw such a wonderful cure. Before I commenced your medicine I was good for nothing, was in such misery I hardly knew what to do with myself, now I can do all my work myself and feel well."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are easy and pleasant to take.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

A Skull as Big as a Bushel Basket.

One of the most remarkable finds of gigantic human remains of which we have any record was that made at Palermo, Sicily, in the year 1516, when an entire skeleton of unheard of proportions was unearthed by some marble quarry men. These mammoth remains measured exactly 24 feet from head to foot and 9 feet 7 inches from point to point of the shoulders. A stone ax buried with this old time giant may still be seen at Palermo in section "Z" of the St. Isorent museum. It is made of a bluish looking, fine grained bowlder and appears to be about 2 feet 8 inches long by 1 foot broad and 9 inches through in the thickest place. A musty, rusty looking tag attached to the relic informs the visitor that it weighs fifty-two pounds, but the general verdict is that it could not weigh over thirty or thirty-five pounds.

The skeleton was burned by a mob in the year 1622, during the prevalence of the black death at Palermo, the ignorant, superstitious people believing that it was connected in some mysterious way with the death dealing distemper. The skull of this giant, according to Abbe Ferregus, "was largely excessive of the baskets sayd to hold the bushel, being fitted above and belowe withe teeth to the number of sixty-foure, the each of which would have weighed twe ounces." Cavalier Scroy claimed to have found a skull on Trife that had sixty teeth.

Very Near Wit

"I proposed to Miss C. ... a Beautigirl last night."

"Ah! And she accepted you?"

"Well, no-o-o, not exactly, but she came so near doing so that a great deal of the sting was taken out of her refusal. She said she would have accepted me if I had had plenty of money and a perfect disposition, and my eyes were brown instead of blue, and my hair curly, and I was two inches taller, and was winning fame in my profession, and possessed personal magnetism, and came of an old and blue blooded family, and would always let her have her own way, and never smoked or wanted to stay out late at night, and did not belong to any lodge, and would keep a stylish turnout and plenty of servants, and really wanted her mamma to live with us, and a few other things which I have forgotten. But if a fellow must fail in an undertaking it is encouraging to him to think that he came very near winning."

Balancing an Egg.

All the world knows how Columbus on a historic occasion made an egg stand on end. After many learned theories had been advanced for balancing the egg be set the egg on end by, of course, mashing down hard enough to form a base, but the problem is capable of still another solution. It is an easy matter to set an egg on a plate, for instance, if you know how. The trick is impossible until the egg has been boiled in an upright position. The position of the hardened yoke at the end of the shell lowers the center of gravity until the sphere can be spun or even balanced with ease.

The Duke and the Milkman.

King Edward's brother-in-law, the Duke of Argyll, is a most unassuming personage in private life. In town he is rather fond of strolling round the quiet streets on Sunday mornings when all good cockneys are still in bed. Sometimes he exchanges a friendly word with the matutinal milkman. Once, however, when he made some inquiries from one of the fraternity about a house that was to let his self esteem was rudely disturbed. "Who's the owner?" was the unexpected reply. "I dunno really, but he's a big swell, and it ain't likely he'd let to the likes o' you or me, old pal." The duke took the insinuation of equality quite philosophically, but in spite of his air of simplicity he has a full share of the pride of the Campbells and a considerable opinion of the noble head of the family as well.—London Tatler.

Ellen Terry's Admirer.

Miss Ellen Terry tells an amusing story of an admirer she had during an engagement with an old stock company. Each night a bunch of violets was sent to her anonymously. They were so sweet that one night she tucked them in her belt just before she went on the stage.

The next night the bunch was larger, and with it there was this badly written letter: "I've seen you wear my violets, so I know you've had them. Look at me. I shall be in my shirt sleeves and my legs hanging over the front of the gallery." And, sure enough, there he was, and Miss Terry smiled a kindly recognition.

Silver Lead Industry.

There seems to be hope of the extension of the silver lead industries in Ontario as a result of the bounties bestowed some time ago by the Federal Government on its production. Galena and its kindred ores has never been regarded as a staple mineral product of this Province, but there is one silver lead enterprise at Bannockburn which has been working for some time. The appeal for bounties came from British Columbia, where the industry is a very important one, but the effect on Ontario has been to stimulate existing enterprises. A party of Americans is now looking into similar propositions at Echo Lake, near Sault Ste. Marie, with a view to establishing a smeltw.—Toronto News.

AN OBSTINATE MAJOR.

He Had His Way Even After He Was in His Coffin.

Many amusing stories are told of the great formality blended with a humorous brusqueness and independence which characterized early Revolutionary days. An incident of camp life is related by the author of "Romance and Realism of the Southern Gulf Coast."

In 1798 the first United States troops that came down the Mississippi were quartered at Fort Adams. General Wilkinson, Colonel Hamtramck, Major Butler, Captain Green and other officers were merry over their punch one night, and the general, by some accident, got his cue burned off. Angry at the laugh which followed his mishap, he next day issued an order forbidding any officer to appear with a cue. Obedient to orders, all the officers but Major Butler cut off their cues.

"The vain old prig!" said the major. "I'll see him hanged before I cut off my cue to gratify him!" And he boldly appeared without changing the style of his hairdressing.

The major was put under arrest, but he declared obstinately that he would spend the rest of his life in prison before he would comply with such a silly command. Soon afterward he was taken very ill, and, realising that he was at the point of death, he gave instructions for his burial, which he knew would be witnessed by the whole command.

"Bore a hole," said he, "through the bottom of my coffin, right under my head, and let my cue come through it, that the old general may see that even when dead I refuse to obey his order."

And these directions were literally carried out.

The Word "Hurrah."

Some authorities connect "hurrah" with a Hebrew shout of joy to Jehovah, which occurs in the Psalms. Others derive it from "Thor aide!" a war cry of the ancient Northmen. Others point to the Swedish and Danish "hurra" and the German "hurren," to move quickly, or the Danish "hurre," to hum, with which our hurry is associated.

Sir Francis Palgrave in his "History of Normandy and England" says: "It was a wise custom in Normandy, established by Rollo's decree, that any one who had reason to fear damage of goods, life or limb could raise the country by the cry 'Haro!' 'Ha Raoul,' justice in Duke Rollo's name; hence our 'hue and cry.' The old English 'harrew' and our 'hurrah' are but variations of this." There are some who regard it as merely an imitative interjection akin to "whurra," used by Addison in a play, 1715, or of "hunna," found in Evelyn's Diary, 1665.

A Queer Police Force.

The policemen in Haiti are paid by results. They get capitation fees for all the arrests they make. As they come from the worst class of the population and are under no discipline, it follows that a man is very liable to be arrested in Haiti unless he is willing to pay the policeman more than the capitation fee. As this fee is only 15 cents, the price of freedom is not prohibitive.

If a man objects to paying the fee and says he would rather go before the judge the policeman soon convinces him of the unpleasantness of arrest with a thick club.

OMEMEE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The farmers are very busy shipping their sugarb eets. Everyone is well pleased with the yields so far which will ensure more acreage.

The anniversary services in connection with the Presbyterian church next Sabbath, conducted by Rev. Mr. Whitelaw and Rev. Mr. Yule, of Bethany, will be of an interesting nature. Services at 11 a. m, 3 and 6 p. m. The choir is rehearsing special music for the occasion.

The sale at Mrs. Lowes' in East Emily, was largely attended and brought good prices, through the services of Mr. T. H. McQuade, auctioneer.

The farmers are making good money out of their fine stock of select peas. Never was there a greater success.

J. J. Lundy, of Peterborough, paid our village a visit last week, looking after his property, and was pleased with the appearance of our village.

MR. JOHN J. IRWIN SECURED "STAR" PRIZE

For Largest Black Bass Caught In Ontario.

The Fish Weighed Seven Pounds, and the Weight Attested to by Prominent Peterborough Citizens—A $15 Rod.

A resident of Peterborough County has won the prize offered by the Toronto Star for the largest small mouthed black bass caught in Ontario during the fishing season just passed. Mr. John James Irwin, of Smith Township is the lucky man. The Star of Saturday has the following on the awarding of the prize:—

"The $15 prize rod offered by The Toronto Star to the person catching the largest small-mouthed black bass in Ontario on or before the 15th of September will be presented to John James Irwin, a young farmer of Smith Township, in Peterborough County, who on July 29, in Clear Lake, while fishing with a hook and line and a cedar pole, caught the largest small-mouth black bass of the season.

The competition closed on the 15th of September, and the delay that has occurred in announcing the result has been due to the work of verifying the particulars about the winning fish. Mr. Irwin lives forty miles back of Peterborough, and when he made his catch he did not know about the prize rod offered by The Star, so the fish was made ready to be cooked, salted, and put away, the head drooled on a pole in the sun to dry. Next day he spoke of his catch to Mr. D. Moore of the Crown Timber Lands office, Peterborough, who told him that he should enter it for the prize rod, which he therefore did, making an affidavit to the facts before Mr. D. W. Dumble, K.C., who sent it in. The head of the fish was secured by us, and found to be that of a small-mouth black bass. As to its weight and measurements, we have secured four separate affidavits, one from Irwin himself, one from his mother, one from Mr. Philip Card, a witness, and another from Mr. Adam Hall, of Peterborough, who, accompanied by Mr. Benjamin Shortly, of Peterborough, went to the Card home in Cavendish Township and tested the scales on which the fish was weighed. Through the kindness of these gentlemen and of Mr. D. W. Dumble, K.C., of Peterborough, the scales were not only tested, but were sent to us to be tested at this office.

The weight of this fish was so large that very careful enquiries were made by us before determining that Mr. Irwin had fairly earned and was entitled to the rod. We are perfectly satisfied of that and the prize will accordingly be sent to him, so that next year he will whip Clear Lake with something better than a cedar pole. But he is not likely to catch anything bigger than he got on July 29th."

A number of fish caught in the Kawartha Lakes were entered for competition, among them being the following:—

John James Irwin, Smith Township, Peterborough County, a black bass, caught on July 29, in Clear Lake, Cavendish Township, 23 inches long, 17 inches in circumference, weight 7 lbs.

E. G. Rooke, Port Hope, on July 31, caught a small-mouth black bass, in Rice Lake, 22 3-4 inches long, 15 33-44 inches in circumference, weight 6 lbs. 1-2 oz.

Fred Horchmer, Bobcaygeon, caught a small-mouth black bass, in Pigeon Lake, on August 21, length 20 inches, circumference 14 inches, weight 6 lbs.

A. M. Phillips, Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 1st, caught a small-mouth black bass in Stony Lake, 21 inches long, 14 1-2 inches girth, weight 5 lbs. 8 oz.

Miss Wardrobe, Lindsay, on July 28, caught a small-mouth black bass, in Rice Lake, length 21 inches, girth 18 inches, weight 5 lbs. 7 1-2 oz.

E. N. Baer, Newcastle, Pa., on July 23rd, caught a small-mouth black bass in Clear Lake, length 21 1-2 inches, girth 16 inches, weight 4lbs. 8 oz.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS. WM. WADDELL

Occurred at Port Hope Yesterday Morning.

The Port Hope Guide says: "A sudden death occurred on the Cranberry Road, just outside the town limits on Monday morning. About seven o'clock Mrs. Waddell, widow of the late William Waddell, came to the gate of her residence to ask a passer-by to call at the residence of Mrs. McNellies for a barrel. She turned from the gate and when about half way to the house, fell to the ground. In about 15 minutes later, Miss Hill, a neighbour, was bringing over some milk, when she found the old lady lying dead. The cause of her death was heart failure. The call was very sudden, but the deceased lady was prepared. She was a member of the first Presbyterian church, a sincere Christian, and highly respected by all who knew her. To mourn her departure she leaves one son, Robert, who just returned on Saturday from Manitoba, and three daughters, Mrs. J. Charter, Peterborough, Mrs. Philip Martin and Miss Janet Waddell, of Port Hope."

Board of Health Meeting Yesterday Afternoon—The Attendance.

A meeting of the Board of Health was held in the committee room of the town buildings yesterday afternoon at two o'clock, with the following attendance: Mr. R. Neill, chairman; and Messrs. G. Schneider, W. Eyres, H. Parker, Dr. McNulty and W. Bingham, medical health officer, and Chief Rossel, sanitary inspector.

An outstanding account of J. D. Tully for antitoxin, amounting to $3.00, was ordered to be paid.

It was moved on the grounds of analytical reports that the wells at 38 Stewart street, 517 George street, 161 London street, be closed.

A curious case evoked considerable discussion. Some mmonths ago Mrs. Hall, Queen street, was ordered to close her well. She immediately applied for water connection, which, however, the waterworks failed to put in, and in all probability, this will not be done until next spring, consequently water injurious to health has to be drunk.

The clerk, Mr. S. R. Armstrong, was instructed to issue a notice to persons owning wells, ordered to be closed and still in use that unless they be closed by November 5th compulsory proceedings would be taken against them.

The Board adjourned about 3 o'clock.

THE LATEST NEWS OF LOCAL SPORT.

RUGBY.

The extent of the Peterborough team's loss in McPherson's absence from their line-up is being made evident, and his value to the Varsity is also being manifested. The Telegram sizes up the half-back line in the following terms:—

"Boatty did remarkably fine work in punting and Baldwin and McPherson were little short of wonderful in their runs around the end. Baldwin played a tremendously hard game. He worked like a Trojan all the time and captured the ball time and again from the scrumen. His work in close play was brilliant at all times. McPherson covered himself with glory in his frequent runs. He gets away like a shot and dodges wonderfully well. These three played great football and Jermyn was little behind them. His tackling was great. Indeed there did not seem to be a sluggard on the students' line.

The second game in the Intermediate series of the O.R.F.U. in Peterborough this season will be played on Saturday between the Victorias and Peterborough. This is certain to be an interesting game, as the Victorias have developed an unsuspected strength, and the home team will doubtless have their work cut out for them. However, the homesters have been practising steadily and will be in much better condition to meet the Victorias than they were the Wellesleys. Ford will very likely be in the game on Saturday, and Burnham may remain in town for it, although he had intended leaving for St. Catharines where he has accepted a good position. With these additions to the team the local twelve should be able to land a second victory even against the winning Victorias. The game will be played at the Oval and will be the last championship O.R.F.U. game that will be played here this season.

	Won.	Lost.
Peterborough	1	0

Montreal, October 23. — A movement has been started here to provide for a suitable trophy to represent the Rugby football championship of the Dominion. No such a thing exists at present, but it is the intention to call such a trophy into existence, and to place it in the same class as the Stanley Cup in hockey, and the Minto Club in Lacrosse. The cup is to be looked after in a similar manner, and a board of trustees is to be appointed for that purpose. The club holding it shall be compelled to defend it against any challengers who shall have the approval of the trustees.

It is hoped that the matters in regard to the proposed trophy may progress with sufficient speed so that it can be up for competition this season, and it is also proposed that the Quebec Rugby Union shall furnish the fund for the trophy. It is suggested that the money for the cup shall be raised by contributions from past and present players belonging to the four clubs of the union. Circulars embodying these ideas and propositions have been sent to the various clubs and the members of these clubs, and it is expected that a meeting will be called shortly for the purpose of discussing the matter more fully.

TURF.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 26.—Lou Dillon, queen of trotters, safeguarded her throne of supremacy by a wonderful performance at the Memphis Driving Park on Saturday afternoon. Paced by two runners, the celebrated little mare stepped a mile without a break in 1.58 1-2, establishing a new world's record for trotting horses.

The weather conditions were all against a successful speed trial. There was a high wind and the cold was keen and penetrating.

No wind-breaking device was used. To the sulky drawn by the front runner a wire dirt-guard was used instead of canvas, to avoid the claim that the mare received any aid from artificial means. A runner hugged the rail directly in front of Lou Dillon, and another kept at her side, their positions never changing. The first quarter was passed like a flash in 30 seconds. At the half-mile pole the mare was going like a millrace. The time was .59 1-2. Another cheer went up. The mare passed the three-quarters in 1.28 1-2, and it was then seen that the world's trotting record hung by a thread. As Lou Dillon turned into the stretch the crowd broke loose and wildly urged the mare on to victory. The immense assemblage was wild with excitement. Lou Dillon was cheered to the echo.

BASKET-BALL.

A practice of the Athletic teams will be held on Wednesday evening from 7 to 8 o'clock in the Y.M.C.A. All members of both teams are asked to turn out.

HOCKEY.

Lindsay is jumping into the game again and have secured Riley, the star goal tender for Midland last year.

But Belleville have picked up another one in the person of Forester and this probably is the player that Belleville mentions as being able to shoot the puck through a two inch plank. "Grindy" played cover point for Barrie last year and did most of the scoring from his position. Belleville's line up will be something like this,—goal, Winchester; point, Brown; cover point, Forester; forward, Marks, Kennedy, McGuire and McMillan.—Port Hope Guide.

Shop Arithmetic and Geometry.

Under the leadership of Mr. E. C. Scrigley, of the Collegiate Institute, the Y.M.C.A. class in shop arithmetic and geometry got a good start last night. Men in the machine shops find the course means dollars in their pockets. There is still an opportunity for others to join before next Monday evening.

Sault Ste. Marie and Muskoka Election Returns.

MR. SMITH'S MAJORITY 120.

Most Remarkable Change Was in the Soo Itself—Miscampbell's Majority of 196 Changed to a Minority of 116—Mr. Mahaffy in Muskoka Is 178 Ahead —Nine Polls Yet to Hear From —The Returns as Received.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Oct. 28.—The bye-election which took place here yesterday was one of the hardest political battles in the history of the Soo. Both parties worked their hardest, and at 3 p.m. very few votes remained on either side unpolled. The same interest and hard work marked the contest throughout adjacent townships, and as a result almost the complete vote was polled on both sides. The total so far received gives Smith 650 and Miscampbell 530, a majority for the Liberal of 120, with the following polls to hear from: Michipicoten, Wawa, Helen Mine, Gravel Beach, Batchawana, McSorley's Prince Township and the Base Line. These will undoubtedly increase Smith's majority. Returns from these will possibly be in by to-night in full.

Celebrating the Victory.

The town celebrated the Liberal victory last night. The Liberals are rejoicing as this is the first Liberal victory in the town since its incorporation in 1887. Smith's election is conceded. The most remarkable change is recorded in Sault Ste. Marie itself, where Miscampbell's majority of 196 had been turned into a minority of 116. This is attributed to many causes—the Government's wise policy in coming to the relief of the unpaid employes of the Soo industries, and thus, indirectly, to the aid of the town and its citizens; the good work done by the Liberal candidate in securing Government assistance; his growing popularity; the fact that the Opposition candidate has not been a regular resident; general approval of the Government's policy in this district and for new Ontario; and, too, to the fact that the Opposition have been unable to gain as at the general election, by the widespread corruption which the courts found to have been so extensive in the campaign of 1902.

An indication of the exodus following the embarrassment of the Clergue industries is shown by the decrease in the total vote polled yesterday in the town—936, against a total of 1,340 in May, 1902.

Sault Ste. Marie Returns.

Following are the returns by polling subdivisions:

Majority for Smith, 120.

Result in Muskoka.

Bracebridge, Oct. 28.—The latest returns of the bye-election for Muskoka indicate that Mr. A. A. Mahaffy, the Conservative candidate, is returned by a majority of 178, with nine places to hear from, which will not materially affect the result. The result comes as a surprise to the people of the district, but no doubt was largely contributed to by the work of the Conservative machine, which has occupied the district in full force since the beginning of the campaign. Another cause was the personal popularity and wide acquaintance in the district of Mr. Mahaffy and the advantage which he possessed of having gone through one campaign, while Dr. Hart, the Liberal candidate, was unknown to many in the southern part of the riding. The effect of Mr. Gamey's appearance in the riding was rather a hindrance than a help to his party, while he appealed to the less educated, the better educated were repelled by his speeches. The many toorbachs issued by the Conservatives during the latter part of the campaign may also have contributed to some extent toward their victory.

THE PORTLAND CANAL.

Sir Sanford Fleming Speaks on the Alaskan Award.

Ottawa, Oct. 28.—Sir Sandford Fleming stated yesterday morning that, after a study of British Admiralty charts and maps, he had come to the conclusion that the award of the Alaska tribunal in regard to the Portland Canal was a just and correct one. The tribunal had to determine what was the Portland Channel, and they found it was the channel running north of Pearse and Wales Islands and entering the sea between Wales and Sitkian Islands. "No other conclusion could have been reached," Sir Sandford said, "because the exit to the sea north of Kannaughunut and Sitkian Islands is impossible for large ships. It is not a channel at all. People are getting excited, owing to ignorance, of the facts. Even The Times of London is wrong in its issue of this morning in referring to the two other islands as of strategical value. I do not consider that Canada has been unfairly treated."

TIMES IS MAKING UP.

Now Beginning to Realize Why Canada Is Aroused.

London, Oct. 28.—The Times yesterday morning publishes the text of the opinions of the American members of the Alaska Boundary Tribunal on the second and fifth questions of the controversy, together with a map of the Portland Canal and explanatory comment. Referring to this matter editorially, The Times says: "We admit that it is regrettable that Lord Alverstone, after coming to a fresh conclusion about the islets, failed to make the nature of his decision clear to his Canadian colleagues. But we believe the actual point of difference involved to be so exceedingly unimportant from a practical viewpoint that we trust it will not stand in the way of the unreserved acceptance of the award by Canada."

Combine in Wales.

London, Oct. 28.—After many months of negotiations there has been formed a combine of the anthracite coal mine owners of South Wales. The combine is capable of an output of a million tons of coal a year.

Arrested For Perjury.

Galt, Oct. 28.—Louis Taylor was arrested yesterday charged with perjury, as a result of the conviction of H. Hancock for allowing liquor to be sold to minors. Taylor appears to-day.

Marconi to Bernier.

Ottawa, Oct. 28.—J. N. Greenshields, K.C., Montreal, on behalf of Mr. Marconi, has promised Capt. Bernier two telegraph instruments for the vessel for his North Pole expedition.

A SERIOUS FIRE IN DOURO TOWNSHIP.

House of Mr. Thomas Sullivan Completely Destroyed.

Fire destroyed the house of Mr Thomas Sullivan, on lot 2, concession 6, of Douro township, Monday afternoon, about half past three. The origin of the fire is a mystery, the only means of accounting for it is that some sparks from the chimney must have lodged on the roof of the house and the strong wind fanning them into a blaze, ignited the shingles. Not only was the house burned, but the adjoining summer kitchen, and a wood shed and driving house near by were also destroyed.

Mrs. Sullivan noticed the fire first, and, at that time the whole upper part of the house, which is a two story frame structure, was in flames. She hastily summoned her husband and sons from the field where they were working, but it was impossible to save the buildings, although heroic efforts were made. The house will be a complete loss along with all the furniture and clothing it contained, as when the men arrived on the scene, the fire had gained such a headway that it was impossible to enter it to save anything. The only clothing possessed by any member of the family is that which they wore.

Two large barns, which were on the farm were, fortunately, saved from the flames.

Mr. Sullivan will be a heavy loser by this conflagration, as the insurance carried is entirely insufficient to meet the loss sustained. Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan were in town on Tuesday, the former having had to borrow clothing from neighbours in which to make the trip.

Mr. Sullivan's farm is situated about 8 miles from Peterborough on the Norwood road.

The loss is being adjusted by the Davis-Thompson Company, by whom the insurance on the building was placed.

It is extremely fortunate that this fire did not occurr during the night, as had it done so, doubtless all the members of the family would not have been saved.

THOSE CAMPAIGN SHEETS.

The Conservative party having at last got its campaign literature printed, addressed and mailed free from Ottawa, the longest session of the Dominion Parliament was brought to a close on Saturday.

It has been an important session in many ways, but it has been almost interminably drawn out. People could not see why the sitting was lengthened week after week, all through the summer, and on through the autumn. In attempting to hit upon the reason for it, the opinion became general that the object of the Opposition was to keep the House sitting so late that there would not be time to hold a general election this fall, should the Government harbour such an intention.

But it is only too apparent that Parliament was kept sitting for a partizan purpose of the most petty and sordid kind — in order, simply, that the Conservative party presses in Montreal could print, fold, envelope and address certain carloads of campaign literature, and send them to Ottawa, so that they could be sent free to the electors of Canada under the franking privilege, which the law gives to members of Parliament, while the House is in session.

It is not the cost to the country of carrying free of charge this mass of campaign literature that need be complained of, nor the clogging up and derangement of the mail service caused by it, but the enormous loss imposed on the country keeping Parliament in session week after week while the dilatory presses in Montreal were printing these sheets, and a big staff of party workers were wrapping and addressing them. It has been estimated that to keep Parliament sitting one day longer than is absolutely necessary, costs the country about $5,200. The people of Canada are, therefore, being made to pay a smart figure for those campaign sheets that are going post-free throughout Canada.—Toronto Star.

years, hailed a cabman one afternoon, got into his carriage, mentioned to him Bois de Boulogne and set off for an enjoyable drive. It was their desire and intention to be back at their starting place in two hours. In due time they were winding in and out among the multitudenous intricate avenues of this lovely park. The driver was unconcerned about the time as every hour meant francs to him. Our Canadian friends were thoroughly enjoying the magnificent foliage on every side, the romantic vistas, the hillside hermitages, the leaping cascades, swirling automobiles, pretty bloomer bicycle girls and silvery lakes with white swans flapping their joyous wings. But the Bois de Boulogne is and our friends soon realized the fact that their time had already expired and they were they knew not where. How explain their position in such a maze as the Bois de Boulogne, they without French and their driver without English! One remembered having several times seen the word "Sortie," meaning exit or way out. Tapping cabby on the shoulder, he yelled "sortay!" "sortay!" at the same time gestulating significantly. But cabby, not comprehending this hibernicism, smiled and drove on. The other had in earlier years acquired an acquaintance with ancient Latin. Standing up he exclaimed "Retourno," "Retourno," adding a sweeping gesture of the arm. The cabby, now beginning to think that he had mistaken two Indians for Englishmen, and fearing the possible consequence of remaining longer in a woods, whipped up his horse and hastily returned to their starting point. Some such experience you might, indeed, have, unless you brush up your French a little before leaving for Paris.

There are numerous convenient ways of getting about the city. Besides the various kinds of cabs, whose drivers all wear plug hats either white or black, there are both omnibuses and tramways. These accommodate from 30 to 40 passengers, each, there being seats on top as well as inside. Inside fare is 6 cents, outside 3 cents. The outside affords the best chance for sight-seeing. The chief places passed on the route of each line are placarded on the sides. One good feature of these busses and trams is that as soon as they are full the sign "complet," is hung out, and no one else can get on. If not full you may stop it anywhere on the street, but if it is it is necessary to wait, or go to one of the numerous offices, buy your ticket and wait your turn. Your ticket is numbered, and should you in your haste, push forward, you will politely be made step back and take your proper place. The larger busses are drawn by three horses abreast. The trams, or street cars, as we call them, are drawn by horses or propelled by electricity. Many small steamers ply the Seine river and afford a very pleasant trip in fine weather. The river is clean, and the embankments and bridges strike one with their handsome finish and symmetrical solidity. Here and there along the banks are large floating establishments, some used as bathing houses, and others by Parisian women for doing their laundry work. "Just imagine," our wag said to us, washing side by side. Compared with this, a Peterborough sewing-circle or five o'clock tea would not be in it for a moment."

TWO OR THREE HUNDRED WOMEN

A Parisian's meals are: 1st, breakfast, or petit dejeuner, very light; 2nd breakfast, or dejeuner, served between 11 and 1, a substantial lunch; and dinner or diner, from 6 to 8. Wines take the place of tea. To get tea you have to ask for it, which invariably opens the waiter's eyes with surprise, and he makes you pay dearly for the trouble. Their bread is in the form of rolls of various sizes, some being two or three feet long and about twice the thickness of a bologna sausage. They are covered by a thick and rather hard brown crust, but are very tasty. It was a novel sight to see these rather fierce-looking weapons brought whole upon the table, and caused us no little amusement. Although everyone drinks wine in Paris, it is remarkable how little drunkenness or disorderly conduct is to be seen. This may be due to the quality of what they drink, and partly to the perfect police system in force in the city. Paris has the name of being a very wicked city, and no doubt it deserves the name, yet its vice does not flaunt itself so openly as in London, Edinburgh, Glasgow or Dublin. It covers itself under a well-dressed attractive exterior and

and in this way seems less repulsive and brazen. All classes of French people are strikingly polite, both in speech and bearing, and S'il vous plait, Monsieur, Madame, or Mademoiselle, are constantly on every tongue. When a Parisian meets a gentleman acquaintance in the street he always politely doffs his hat. If a lady meets a male friend she offers him her cheek, but not her lips. Indeed I more than once saw two men embrace and kiss each other on the street. Paris has Sunday, but no Sabbath. For many it is a day of work, for others a holiday. On it are held military reviews, races and regattas. It is a gala day at the theatres and places of amusement. The shops and cafes are all open, and street traffic goes on as on the other six days of the week, only perhaps in larger volume. In France religion received a terrible blow in its great revolution, a shock from which it has never recovered. Then the name of God was obliterated, His worship trampled under foot, and the Christian Subbath abolished from the calendar. Can it be wondered that in population and political prestige France is retrograding, and no longer holds her own among the progressive nations of the world? In common with her sistars, Spain and Italy, she has inherited that Latin temperament which gave her a temporary brilliancy and fame, but which has rendered her unfit to keep her place as a leading actor in the great human drama of time. What an impressive but instructive spectacle it would be if she should disappear as completely from the stage of history as the august mother who gave her birth!

Mr. Watson in Parry Sound.

Parry Sound, Oct. 28.—A convention to select a candidate for the Commons in the Liberal interest for the district of Parry Sound was held here yesterday. Only one name came before the meeting, that of R. J. Watson of Burk's Falls, who received a unanimous vote. Mr. Watson, who was present, accepted the nomination. About 120 delegates were present.

THE LATEST NEWS FROM NORWOOD.

Meetings of Public School Board and Bible Society.

The School to be re-shingled—Hunters to go After the Deer—Other Interesting News.

The annual meeting of the Norwood branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society was held in the Baptist Church on Tuesday evening. The reports of the several officers were received and adopted after which the election of officers for the current year was proceeded with and resulted as follows:

President—Rev. G. A. MacLennan, B.A.
Vice-Presidents—Revs. J. R. Hawkings
Vice-Presidents — Revs. J. R. Hawkings, C. Parker, and J. McKee, McLennan.
Secretary—Mr. J. E. Roxburgh.
Treasurer—Mr. J. L. Squire.
Directors—Messrs. W. E. Roxburgh, R. Nichol, W. Cuthbertson, D. A. Fraser, Dr. Ford, Chas. Buck, E. P. Cuffe, Geo. J. Sherry, Isaac Puffer and Jas. Raddon.

The collectors were all re-appointed: Misses Pettigrew and Sherry, Misses Webster and Powell, Misses Fraser and Nicholl, Misses Andrews and Nicholl, Misses Bailey and Jotcham, Misses Bert and Squire, Misses Thistlewaite and Rusaw, Misses McGee and Scott, Misses Burgess and Elliott. The society is indented to these young ladies for their services in the past and it is hoped that all will accept the appointment as cheerfully as formerly. The collectors' books are in the hands of the secretary and those appointed are requested to call for these and also to make the usual canvass as early as possible.

Rev. Jos. H. Locke, of Omemee, agent of the society, then gave an earnest and thoughtful address on the work of the society. There was a collection taken up at the close of the meeting in aid of the funds of the local branch.

Rev. Mark Guy Pearse, the noted preacher, author and lecturer, from London England, has been engaged to deliver a lecture in the Methodist church on Friday, October 30th. The title of the lecture will be "Some Old Folks at Home." Mr. Pearse is a most interesting speaker and wherever he has lectured has been well received. The people in Norwood are most fortunate in securing him.

Mrs. Mabel Stephenson, of Chicago, formerly of this place, sold her house on Queen street to Mrs. Williamson, Dummer. Price paid, $300.

The Board of Education met on Monday evening, 19th, pursuant to adjournment. Members present: Messrs. W. E. Roxburgh, chairman, P. W. Reynolds, John Brackenridge, James Cumming, Thos. Fraser, R. W. Waters, P. W. Stevenson, J. L. Squire and Hugh M. Drain.

The minutes of last regular meeting were read, amended and confirmed. Mr. Cumming, on behalf of the property committee reported that they had entered into an agreement with Mr. Alex Small to cover the roof of the public school with Harrison's shingles at $165 provided 33 thousand shingles were sufficient, he to furnish new ridge boards, gutters, etc. If more that 33 thousand shingles are required Mr. Small was to receive $4.50 per thousand for all in excess.

On motion of Mr. Cumming, seconded by Mr. Stevenson, the report was adopted.

A communication from Miss Foley was read stating that she was unable to attend last term owing to illness and asking that the fee be allowed her on this term. On motion of Mr. Brackenridge, seconded by Mr. Fraser, Miss Foley's request was granted.

Applications for the position of janitor were opened and read as follows: A. Reynold, $450 per annum; George Jones, $375; Robert Jonas Cross, $350; J. L. McCracken, $395; Wm. Richardson, $390. Mr. Fraser moved that Mr. Geo. Jones be appointed as janitor at a salary of $375 per annum.

Mr. Brecksenridge moved that Mr. W. Richardson, sr. be appointed as janitor at a salary of $390 per annum. Mr. Drain moved that the application of Mr. Robt. J. Cross be accepted and that he be appointed as janitor at a salary of $390 per annum.

Mr. Stevenson seconded Mr. Fraser's motion and there being no seconder to either of the other resolutions, the vote was taken on the first motion after considerable discussion and Mr. Jones received the appointment.

A deputation of the Choral Society, composed of Messrs. A. Breault, L. J. R. Richardson and C. A. Ghent, requested the use of one of the school rooms for practice. After due consideration the Board decided not to grant the request of the deputation on account of the extra work it would put upon the janitor and also owing to the fact that the insurance on the roperty would be affected by allowing the building to be used for any other than school purposes.

A report from the principal of the High School regarding attendance, fees, etc, showing that there are 96 pupils on the roll, was received.

The meeting then adjourned.

Miss Beattie Foster, of Peterborough, spent Sunday at home.

Mr. Herb. Stewart, of the Traders' Bank of Lakefield, was home for Sunday.

Miss Jennie Pearce, of Marmora, spent Sunday with her aunt, Mrs. Vandervert, Queen street.

Mr. J. Thompson has purchased the house and lot on Colborne street formerly belonging to Mr. A. W. Knapp.

Mr. Fred Norris, of Toronto, ex-pupil of the Norwood High School, was in town last week renewing old acquaintances.

Mr. Jno. Davidson, M. A., L. L. B., principal of the Norwood High School, received a telegram from Chicago on Monday, stating that his brother, Mr. Alexander Davidson, had died in a hospital in that city on Monday, October 26th, of pneumonia. The remains of deceased will be taken to Embro, his native town, Oxford county, for interment. Mr. Davidson leaves on Tuesday to attend the funeral.

Mr. A. E. Pickering, of the School of Practical Science, Toronto, is the guest of his cousin, Mrs. T. J. Keefer.

Miss Blanche Hamilton, of Toronto, is the guest of Miss Gjerdrum.

Miss Edith Nichol is visiting friends in Peterborough.

Rev. Wm. White, English Church missionary of China, preached in the English church on Sunday at both services. He also gave a lecture on Monday evening. Rev. Mr. White is one of Norwood's boys and has been in China for the past seven years.

The Norwood, Brockville, Peterborough Dummer and La Valley Lake Hunt Club, consisting of Messrs. W. H. Brightman, American Consul, Brockville, Thomas Brightman, John Brightman, Bert Dickson, Dr. C. Hewitt Amys, Peterborough, J. J. Crowe, Hall's Glen, Thomas Fraser, Norwood, will leave here Saturday and Monday for their hunting ground, La Valley Lake, Faraday township, North Hastings. They will remain there fifteen days. This will make the fourteenth year that Mr. Fraser's party has gone to the same ground.

The members of L.O.L. No. 377, Belmont, held a most successful oyster supper in their spacious lodge rooms on Wednesday, October 21st. The speakers of the evening were Rev. Mr. Camp, Presbyterian minister, Rev. Mr. Johnston, Methodist minister, and Rev. Mr. Tandy English Church clergyman, all of Havelock, Mr. J. P. Brown and Mr. Wm. Thistlewaite, of Norwood. Mr. M. Swan, comic singer, Havelock, favoured the audience with several selections. The cash receipts amounted to $45.

ONLY A SUGGESTION.

But it has Proven of Interest and value to Thousands.

Common sense would suggest that if one wishes to become fleshy and plump, it can only result from the food we eat and digest, and that food should be albuminous or flesh-forming food, like eggs, beefsteak, and cereals; or in other words the kind which form the greater part of our daily bills of fare.

But the trouble is that while we eat enough, and generally too much, the stomach from abuse and overwork does not properly digest and assimilate it, which is the reason that so many people remain thin and underweight; the digestive organs do not completely digest the food forming beefsteak and eggs, and similar wholesome food.

There are thousands of such who are really confirmed dyspeptics, although they may have no particular pain or inconvenience from their stomachs.

If such persons would lay their prejudices aside and make a regular practice of taking after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, the food would be quickly and thoroughly digested, because these Tablets contain the natural peptones and diastase, which every weak stomach lacks, and by applying this want the stomach is soon enabled to reach its natural tone and vigour.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digest every form of flesh-forming food, meat, eggs, bread and potatoes, and this is the reason they so quickly build up, strengthen and invigorate thin, dyspeptic men and women and children.

Invalids and children, even the most delicate, use them with marked benefit, as they contain no strong, irritating drugs, no cathartic, nor any harmful ingredients.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the most successful and widely known of any remedy for stomach troubles because it is the most reasonable and scientific of modern medicines.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by every druggist in the United States and Canada, as well as in Great Britain, at 50 cents for complete treatment.

Nothing further is required to cure any stomach trouble or to make thin, nervous, dyspeptic people strong, plump and well.

COREA PROTESTS.

Japanese Had the Right to Land at Yongampho.

Yokohama, Oct. 27.—It is reported that the result of the elder statesmen's conference on Saturday last was to confirm Japan's intention to press Russia for a definite conclusion of the negotiations. The Corean Government has protested against the Russian fortification of Yongampho on the Yalu River.

Tokio, Japan, Oct. 27.—The Russian Minister at Seoul, Corea, has recognized the illegality of the action of the Russian authorities in preventing the landing at Yongampho recently of Haghiwara Shuichi, Secretary of the Japanese Legation at Seoul, and his party, and has sent the required instruction to Yongampho.

Secretary Haghiwara Shuichi reports that the press telegrams regarding the situation on the Yalu River have been greatly exaggerated.

According to advices from Seoul, the Russian shores of the Tumen River are extensively patrolled by Russian troops.

Need Not Insure Against War.

London, Oct. 27.—In connection with the insurances against war risk effected on shipments of Welsh coal to Port Arthur, for Russia, a telegram was received in London yesterday from St. Petersburg saying there is no further necessity to insure against war.

Thousands of Coal Miners Laid Off.

Philadelphia, Oct. 28.—The seven collieries of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company in the Shamokin district, employing about 7,000 men and boys, shut down last night and will remain closed until the day after election. The remaining collieries of the Reading, all the mines in the Lehigh Valley, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company and some of the operations will close to-day for a week. More than 60,000 men and boys are affected. Holidays are responsible for the shut-down.

THE LOYALTY OF LAURIER.

(Ottawa Journal—Independent.)

That the loyalty of the Prime Minister of Canada to the British Empire should be questioned by so well-informed a paper as the London Evening Globe, shows how little the attitude and feeling of Canada has been understood in Britain over the Alaska boundary award.

Britain should be well satisfied with the speech of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, for it was mild indeed, compared with the united sentiment of Canada, expressed from quarters not usually considered tainted with jingoism.

There was considerable more disloyalty to the Empire in the action of the Balfour cabinet in permitting the arbitration treaty to be signed before even answering the protest of Canada as to its composition, than in the dignified regret over the result, as expressed by Canada's Prime Minister.

Six Canadian contingents sent to South Africa and the British preferential tariff speak well enough of themselves, as to the loyalty of the government of which Sir Wilfrid Laurier is the inspiration.

The government of Canada has lacked neither loyalty to Britain in expressing its loyalty to Canada in its comprehensive protest over the preliminaries of the disastrous Alaskan arbitration.

And the most hopeless feature of the whole matter is that in the almost unanimous inability of the British press to grasp the Canadian viewpoint over this question there is no assurance that in international matters of the future Canada's interests may not be again sacrificed, as in instances that are past.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT

W. G. Conkay's Leg Ground Off in a Port Arthur Elevator.

FELL INTO THE WHEEL PIT.

Three Men Killed at Niagara—Findlay Mcleod of Sarawak Probably Fatally Wounded While Hunting—John Gertie's Body Almost Torn to Shreds at Dean—Woman Burned to Death at Hagersville.

Port Arthur, Oct. 28.—As the result of a terrible accident, which occurred at King's elevator, William O. Conkay died here Monday night. He was employed in the drying room, and stepped into the box, in which a worm screw conveyer runs horizontally along the floor. The screw caught his foot and began grinding the limb. The leg was chewed off to the hip. The man's cries brought other workmen to the scene and he was taken to the hospital, where he died after suffering great agony.

FELL FIFTY FEET.

Three Men Killed at the Niagara Falls Power Works.

Niagara Falls, Oct. 28.—One of the most serious accidents that have occurred on the power works since their commencement occurred yesterday morning. Three men are dead and three are injured. The dead are George Hiller of this city, and two Hungarians.

The scene of the accident was the wheel pit of the Canadian Niagara Power Company, which is being put down by Dawson & Riley of St. Catharines. At 7 o'clock the men were going down into the pit to work as usual. Five Hungarians and George Hiller got into the skip and were lowered by the steam crane. Hiller was a pumpman, and the skip was to let him off at the staging 50 feet from the bottom of the pit. The skip was attached to the hoisting rigging by a steel hook at the back and a chain in front. When the skip rested on the platform the chain became unhooked. When the engine was started the back of the skip was pulled up and the men slid out and fell to the floor of the pit, 50 feet below. One man clung to the rigging and was drawn up with a broken arm.

Shot While Hunting.

Owen Sound, Oct. 28.—The first shooting accident of the season in this section took place late Monday afternoon in the Township of Sarawak, about seven miles from town, as a result of which Findlay McLeod, a resident of that municipality, is lying in a critical condition. It appears that he was out hunting with a neighbor, Dan. McAllister, and in walking through the woods Mr. McLeod lead by about six feet, and Mr McAllister tripped and fell and his gun exploded, the ball striking McLeod in the hip, shattering the bone.

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH.

Terrible Accident Arising From a Born Lantern Explosion.

Hagersville, Oct. 28.—The large barns of J. U. Murray, who lives on the hill at the west end of Grand River bridge, about ten miles east of Hagersville, were destroyed by fire Monday night, and Miss Maggie Short, Mr. Murray's aunt, was burned in the building. She had gone to the barn to do some chores, taking with her a lighted lantern, which she sat down near a bundle of straw. The lantern exploded and the burning oil spread to the straw. In a few seconds the entire building was a mass of flames, from which the unfortunate lady could not escape. The barn was filled with straw, grain, implements, and no one could get inside to rescue the unfortunate woman. Nothing but a few bones was found when the search was made for her remains yesterday morning. She was between 35 and 40 years of age. In addition there were three cattle and three horses burned.

Unknown Man Killed.

Mount Brydges, Oct. 28.—An unknown man, walking east on the G. T.R. track yesterday, between Mount Brydges and Komoka, was killed by the express, westbound, at 3 p.m. Nothing was found on him that would identify him. He was apparently about 60 years of age, sandy complexion, and about 5 feet and 7 or 8 inches in height.

Fatal Fall From a Car.

Hagersville, Oct. 28.—Jas. Armstrong of St. Thomas, head brakeman on J. H. Watson's extra west freight train, fell from the train just east of the station at Hagersville Monday night about 9.30 o'clock, and was instantly killed. The body was badly cut up, the head being severed from the body, one arm torn out from the socket, and cut up in other ways. No one saw the accident. The body was dragged about 50 yards from where he first fell off. He was 38 years old and leaves a wife and three children.

Boy's Body Torn to Shreds.

Galt, Oct. 28.—At the Doon Monday night, Henry Gerbic, aged 15, was killed. In some manner his clothes came in contact with the revolving cylinder in Pervis' factory which is filled with sharp points of steel. Instantly he was drawn upon the cruel "pickers," and before the machinery could be stopped his body was almost torn to shreds. When taken from the machine he was quite dead, and one arm had been pulled completely off.

Killed by a Cyclist.

Toronto, Oct. 28.—Frank Shortt, an elderly gentleman, was run down by Fred. Phillips, a shipper, who was wheeling, at the corner of Bloor and Markham street yesterday. Mr. Shortt died later in the day. Phillips was held as a material witness. Phillips, when arrested, stated that the actions of deceased, when he saw the bicycle approaching, gave him the impression that he intended to stop, and conceds the right of way.

ARMENIAN ASSASSINATION.

London Tragedy Reveals Sad Condition of the Movement For Righting the Wrongs of Victim's Country.

London, Oct. 28.—Sagatel Sagouni, President of the Armenian Revolutionary Society in London, was murdered in the suburb of Nunhead Monday night.

The crime has created a sensation, as it has every appearance of being of a political character, and has been preceded by the assassinations of other officials of branches of the same society on the continent.

Sagouni, who only returned to London Monday, after settling up the affairs of an associate, in Switzerland, who was recently assassinated by stabbing, was entering his residence when a man rushed across the road and fired four shots at Sagouni in quick succession, the last bullet entering the region of the heart.

The murderer, who appeared to be a foreigner, fled. The only clues to the man in possession of the authorities are a felt hat and a silver-plated revolver, both made in New York, which he dropped in his flight.

The murdered man, who was a mining engineer, became wealthy in the Caucasus and devoted his money to the Armenian cause. His society was entirely passive and opposed to violence, and it is thought this attitude inspired the advanced section of the Armenians with the desire for vengeance, the latter claiming that Sagouni's society devoted funds to charity which would have been better applied to violent remedies for the Armenian grievances.

Very Pleasant Electioneering.

In South Australia female suffrage has been in operation for some time. A member of the Commonwealth Parliament, anxious to ascertain the best mode of approaching the woman voters in his constituency, sought the advice of an experienced South Australian Legislator. "How do you please them? Do you kiss the baby?" "No, sir," was the candid reply; "we kiss the elector."—London Chronicle.

THE DEAR FOOD CRY

Chamberlain Defends His Proposals and Makes a Pledge.

A BIG HIPPODROME MEETING.

Former Colonial Secretary Addresses an Enthusiastic Meeting at Liverpool—Promised to Decrease the Cost of Living to the Poorest Families—Canada's Financial Tie Like That of Cuba to the U.S.

Liverpool, Oct. 28.—Joseph Chamberlain addressed another monster meeting in the Hippodrome here last night, under the auspices of the Workingmen's Conservative Association. Mr. Chamberlain was given a tremendous reception. The meeting was organized as an offset to the recent action of representatives of labor unions in denouncing Mr. Chamberlain's proposals.

Mr. Chamberlain devoted the first portion of his speech to the "dumping" of the manufactures of the United States and Germany in this country, which, he said, must result in depression. With regard to the cry of "dearer food," he pledged himself that his proposals would not add anything to the cost of living; on the contrary, they would decrease the cost of living to the poorest families in the country.

The speaker devoted the greater part of his speech, which lasted an hour and a half, to a powerful argument addressed to the working classes of the United Kingdom. He pointed out that when the movement for free trade was carried, the working classes were neither represented nor consulted, but it was a movement of the manufacturers and the middle class. Now that the working classes were represented in Parliament their support was absolutely essential to the carrying out of his proposals, which, he said, meant more employment.

Emphasizing the statement that it was impossible to reconcile free trade with trade unionism, Mr. Chamberlain pointed out the inconsistency of supporting a policy which admitted the product of the cheapest kind of labor without taxation. He said he believed the working classes of the United Kingdom were more advanced than many of their leaders, and said if this were true, he was confident his proposals would win.

The meeting adopted a resolution eulogizing Mr. Chamberlain's services, endorsing the Government's fiscal policy and declaring the advisability of binding the Empire more closely together.

"All our representations have been fruitless, and America proposes preferential arrangements, treating Cuba exactly as I want you to treat Canada," he said.

In conclusion, Mr. Chamberlain declared that Holland had tried and failed to keep command of the sea, and her position as carrier and merchant of the world, without a productive capacity, and that Great Britain would be no more successful than Holland if she neglected to bind her colonies to her.

Dairy Experts' Meeting.

Ottawa, Oct. 28.—A conference of Canadian dairy experts will be held in Ottawa on Nov. 4, 5 and 6. Discussions will take place on subjects of interest to the dairy trade and various resolutions will be submitted. One of the latter proposes to quote the price of cheese and butter in fractions of tenths of a cent rather than in halves, quarters, eighths, sixteenths, etc., as at present. A second resolution suggests the addition of a third grade of cheese and butter. At present there are only two, "finest" and "under finest."

Canadians Fit to Command.

Ottawa, Oct. 28.—The Department of Militia has received notice from the War Office that the following officers have passed the tactical test as to their fitness to command: Major V. A. S. Williams, Royal Canadian Dragoons; Lieut.-Col. Benson, Royal Canadian Artillery; Lieut.-Col. R. L. Wadmore and Lieut.-Col. J. C. Macdougall, Royal Canadian Regiment.

Mr. Blake Seriously Ill.

London, Oct. 28.—The Irish friends of Hon. Edward Blake take a serious view of his condition. He is suffering from nervous breakdown and has written from Florence to the Longford Board of Guardians, saying that he has been ordered to take absolute rest for some months.

Perils of Yukon Navigation.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 28.—A special from Dawson says that steamers and cargoes valued at more than $2,000,000 remain exposed to the perils of the Yukon ice and frost with little prospect of getting to places of safety for the winter.

Men Saved, Women Drowned.

Brest, France, Oct. 28.—The crew of thirty-one men of the French barque Savoyard, who were thought to have been lost, have been saved. The captain's wife and the four other women who were on board the vessel were drowned.

Damaged the Bridge.

Port Colborne, Oct. 27. — The steamer A. E. Ames damaged the G. T.R. bridge here in passing through last evening. Trains are being sent around by the M.C.R. until the bridge is repaired.

Westerner Must Hang.

Calgary, N.W.T., Oct. 28.—Ernest Cashel was yesterday morning found guilty of the murder of Isaac Ruffus Bell. He was sentenced to be hanged on Dec. 15.

Forgave His Slayer.

Hamilton, Oct. 28.—An inquest was opened yesterday morning by Coroner White on the body of Constable James Barron who was fatally shot by burglars early Monday morning. The inquiry will be continued Thursday evening. The police admit that they have not anything that even looks like a clue as yet. Though the constable was in terrible agony right up to the time of his death, he forgave his unknown slayer.

Alfred Kennard Not Guilty.

Toronto, Oct. 28.—In the Criminal Assizes yesterday, 15-year-old Alfred Kennard was found not guilty of manslaughter, the charge returned by the Grand Jury from the original indictment for murder. The jury was out just an hour. Kennard threw a knife at Willie Glass, who died from the after effects of it.

Mr. Cocks has been a resident of Peterborough for thirty-two years, and is best known as a skilful house and sign painter, etc. He was also at one time an enthusiastic member of the old Fire Brigade.

NEW YORK WEDDING.

Miss Mary Kempt Married to Mr. Frank Herbert White.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of the bride's mother, on Wednesday, October 21st, at No. 263 West 137th street, New York, when Helena Mary, third daughter of the late William Kempt, M. D., of Lindsay, and a former esteemed resident of town, was united in marriage to Mr. Frank Herbert White, B.A.L., engineer of the American Linde Refrigerator Co., of New York, and son of Dr. Richard White of Montreal.

The house was decorated with palms, smilax, roses and chrysanthemums. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Parker assisted by the Rev. Father McAdams, Rector of the Church of St. Francis de Chautel, of Brooklyn, in the presence of a large number of guests.

The bridal party entered the drawing room to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, passing through an aisle of white satin ribbons and stood under an arch of palms. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. George A. Kempt, and was beautifully gowned in white crepe de chine over white taffeta. The yoke and sleeves were of transparent lace and chifton, and trimmings of embroidered chiffon roses. The tulle veil was prettily caught with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lily of the valley, her only ornament being a fleur-de-lis of diamonds, with a fresh-water pearl drop attached to a gold chain, the gift of the groom.

The bride was attended by her sisters, the Misses Grace and Genevieve Kempt, who wore pretty gowns of white silk grenadine over white taffeta, with large white satin sashes and angel sleeves of white chiffon. In their hair they wore iridescent birds, embedded in white tulle, and carried shower bouquets of pink roses.

Mr. White was attended by Mr. R. H. Balfour, of Montreal, and Dr. H. J. Schwartz of New York, the ushers being Mr. N. Kellbeck, and Dr. C. W. Fitch, of New York.

The groom's gifts to the bridesmaids were rose-gold true lovers' knot brooches, set with fresh-water pearls, and to the best men and ushers rose gold scarf pins.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. White received the congratulations of their assembled guests, while Mendelssohn's wedding march was being played.

The bride's mother wore a black crepe de chine, handsomely trimmed, with cut jet and white satin, and a white aigrette in her hair. The bride's going away gown was of cadet blue voile, over blue taffeta, trimmed with ecru lace, large blue beaver hat, with white wings, and blue satin ribbon bows. The bride received a large number of exquisite gifts.

The guests from a distance were the Misses Macaulay, aunts of the bride, Mrs. Bolger, Miss Sylvester, all of Lindsay, Ont; the Misses White, Mr. Smeaton White, Mr. R. J. White, K.C., brothers and sisters of the groom; and Mr. R. H. Balfour, all of Montreal; Miss Boucher, Peterborough; Mr. Mullmier, Boston, Mass. The New York guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bucknell, Mr. and Mrs. Meek, Mr. and Mrs. Van Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Dovale, Mr. and Mrs. Colihan, Mr. and Mrs. Firster, Dr. and Mrs. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Aesling, Mr. K. C. Kellogg and Mr. Jas. Kellogg. Miss Regan, Mr. Nellis, Miss Nellis, Mrs. Wilson, Mr. Fox, Mr. King, Dr. Ware, Dr. Hanslom, Dr. Fitch, Dr. DeRonde, Dr. Schwartz, Mr. Wylie, Mr. Kellbeck, Dr. and Mrs. Hotchkiss, Mr. Steers, Mr. O'Hara, Mr. Schermerhorn, Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery Maza, Dr. and Mrs Can Orden, Mrs. Kellogg.

OPINIONS OF LEADERS ON BYE-ELECTION RESULTS.

Hon. G. W. Ross and Hon. Mr. Stratton Give Interviews.

Result in Muskoka not Unexpected—Liberals Made a Good and Clean Fight.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 28.—Hon. G. W. Ross in referring to the election this morning expressed no disappointment at the result in Muskoka. He said it was always easier to disturb an elector by belittling what has been done for his district than it is to secure his confidence even when an effort is made to improve his condition. He noticed that Mr. Gamey claimed the credit for carrying the day. How Mr. Whitney and Mr. Foy would like this assumption of leadership on Mr. Gamey's part remained to be seen. If the Opposition chose Mr. Gamey as leader it was not Mr. Ross' business to complain. They must be the judges themselves of the men they exalt into positions of confidence and influence.

MR. STRATTON ON THE RESULT.

Hon. J. R. Stratton, on being asked by the World for his opinion on the result of the bye-elections, held yesterday in Muskoka and Sault Ste. Marie, gave the following.

"The result in Muskoka is not entirely unexpected, as it was well known that Mr. Mahaffy had paid close personal attention to the revision of the voters' lists, and had gained fully 150. This was felt all along to be a very heavy advantage on his part. The Liberal candidate, Dr. Hart, proved exceptionally strong, and made a fine fight, free from any objectionable features. The Conservatives had every polling subdivision manned with paid organisers, whose presence spoke for an unlimited supply of money, and their work told in certain well known sections. The Liberals fought a good and clean fight, and the result is, under all the circumstances, very creditable. The exercise of the Dominion and Provincial patronage gave some offence, and though the candidate was in no sense responsible, yet he had to bear the burden of some disappointment by unsuccessful applicants. The defeat is in no sense significant, for the district is nominally Conservative, and with the advantage of Mr. Mahaffy's personal sleepless attention from the hour of his defeat by Dr. Bridgland, the election of to-day could hardly have resulted otherwise than in his return. The Liberals made a good fight, and while there exists no feeling of depression in the party ranks, we feel a regret that Muskoka is not in line with Sault Ste. Marie."

A PLEASANT WEDDING.

Mr. B. Chatten Married to Miss Merita Hillier.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hillier, of 13 Victoria avenue, was the scene of a very enjoyable social event yesterday afternoon when their daughter, Miss Merita, became the wife of Mr. E. Chatten, of Otonabee township, Rev. J. P. Wilson performing the ceremony.

The home was very prettily decorated for the event, which was witnessed by a goodly number of the friends of the young couple. The ceremony was performed under an arch of evergreens and roses, the bride being given away by her brother, Walter. She was very prettily gowned in a dress of white muslin, trimmed with chiffon and baby ribbon, and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary J. Spiers, who was also dressed in white muslin, and carried pink carnations. Mr. Edward J. Chatten, brother of the groom, supported the latter. After the wedding a dainty dinner was served in the dining room after a very enjoyable evening was spent in a social way.

The presents of which the bride was the recipient were numerous, and spoke eloquently of the high esteem in which she is held. The young couple will make their home in Otonabee.

The Second Elijah Once Gave Local Baptists an Interesting Time.

Many present residents of Peterborough will recall the incident recorded in the following article taken from the Toronto World of to-day's issue. The Rev. P. C. Parker referred to was at one time pastor of the Murray street Baptist church, here:

"Rev. P. C. Parker of First-avenue Baptist Church can claim the distinction of having been the object of a two hours' tirade by Dowie, who, as the second Elijah, has been a towering figure in the life of New York for the past few weeks.

It was back in 1890 or thereabouts when Rev. Mr. Parker was pastor of a church in Peterborough. He had been given a short leave of absence. Returning full of enthusiasm to resume his duties, he encountered Dowie. The latter had just come over from Australia. It was his initial entry into Canada. He had come with a powerful style of address, and a touch that was potent for good, at least that was what he claimed for it.

Some of the deacons had been impressed by the personality of Dowie. They had invited him to fill the pulpit erstwhile occupied by Rev. Mr. Parker, not as a fixture, but until the latter came back, and Dowie had taken them at their word.

WOULDN'T RESIGN PULPIT.

When the pastor got home he found Dowie very busy. He was inculcating new ideas in religion, and was anointing all who had no rooted objections. Moreover he was inflexible to Rev. Mr. Parker's persuasive powers directed to the end of inducing him to vacate at once. There was a meeting he desired to hold on a certain evening, Rev. Mr. Parker had himself designs on that particular night, as a time for a service, hence a clash.

There was a special committee meeting held by the church officers, and it was resolved that the interloper must go, on hearing which decision Dowie engaged the opera house for the evening in question.

HIS LANGUAGE WAS IMMENSE

Then his pent-up wrath broke forth, and great was the volume. He displayed a capacity for vituperative epithets, and a comprehensive vocabulary of denunciatory terms, that, perhaps, his latest efforts with New York reporters as his victims could hardly surpass. For two hours the torrent lasted, during which space of time he drew a harrowing picture of what would inevitably befall Rev. Mr. Parker. Before a year had passed he was to become a decrepit, limping specimen of humanity, and here Dowie contorted his own limbs and worked his way painfully across the stage by way of illustration.

FAILURE AS A PROPHET.

More than the year has gone by since then, but somehow and somewhere there has been a hitch in Dowie's prophecy. Rev. Mr. Parker has felt no premonitory symptoms of an alarming nature, and is disposed to be optimistic as regards the future outlook."

Spent at All Saints' Last Night—Some Singing.

There was a large attendance at the men's social at All Saints' church last night at which Rev. W. L. Armitage gave a very interesting address on the recent St. Andrew's Brotherhood Convention held in Toronto. During the evening Mr. Allen, Mr. Barclay and Mr. Legg sang solos, while Mr. Schneider presided at the piano. The social was brought to a close with refreshments.

Next Sunday evening Rev. W. L. Armitage will preach a sermon to men. The male quartette will sing at the service.

BRIDGENORTH SCENE OF SUCCESSFUL SUPPER.

Methodist Church Celebrated its Anniversary.

Address Given by Former Pastor—Pleasing Musical Programme Rendered—Numbers from Peterborough Attend.

The few fowl in the vicinity of Bridgenorth that have not yet shuffled off this mortal coil, must be having a pretty lively time of it to-day, and the reason, to anyone who attended the supper given by the Bridgenorth Methodists last night, is not hard to find. Again and again the tables set in the basement of the pretty little church were filled, and on each occasion the supply of fowl visibly lessened. But the Methodists there are provident people, and the supply seemed almost inexhaustable. Everyone of the hundreds present had plenty, and that is saying considerable, as the capacity of some of the visitors, particularly those from Peterborough, was marvellous. The repast provided by the ladies of Peterborough was characteristically bountiful, and its excellence was thoroughly appreciated by those who partook of it.

The occasion was the anniversary services of the church, and was a continuation of the services commmenced on Sunday, when Rev. Mr. Clare, now of Oakwood, but who for three years was pastor of the Bridgenorth church, preached at both the morning and evening services to large congregations. Mr. Clare completed his pastorate of the church in 1895, and his reception back on this anniversary occasion was an exceedingly warm one.

After the supper last night a programme was rendered in the church, which was packed, Rev. Mr. Bunner, the pastor, acting as chairman, and in opening expressed his pleasure and that of the church officials on the success of the undertaking. The receipts had been most satisfactory, being in the neighbourhood of $80. The programmme opened with a chorus by the choir, following which Rev. L. McKinnon offered an opening prayer. The pastor gave a short address in which he extended a welcome to all who had participated in the event.

A vocal duett, by Miss B. Kelly and Mr. E. Telford followed. Rev. L. McKinnon, pastor of Gilmour Memorial church, then gave an address which was thoroughly enjoyed.

A pleasing feature of the programme was a vocal solo rendered by Miss Ada Black, a little girl of about ten years of age, who gives evidence of decided musical ability. A duett was then given by the Misses Sharwin. Rev. Mr. Clare, of Oakwood, a former pastor, followed with an address on "Helpfulness." A solo, "Face to Face," by Miss Maggie Milburn, and a Male Quartette given by the Telford Brothers, brought an interesting programme to a close.

Four busloads, comprising in all about sixty persons, went from Peterborough to attend the supper and entertainment.

BYE-ELECTION RESULTS.

The results of yesterday's elections in the "Soo" and Muskoka present a political paradox. While they leave things the same as they were previously, they are exactly opposite. The Government standing in relation to the House is the same, but the two ridings reversed their decision of the general elections and changed the political complexion of their representation. The "Soo," which in 1902, elected a Conservative, returned a Government supporter, and Muskoka, which returned a Liberal at the general elections, electing the Conservative candidate yesterday. The result in the "Soo" was what might be expected. In no other part of the province have the benefits of the development policy of the Ross Government been so amply demonstrated. In the general elections, the electors did not appreciate this as keenly as they do now. They did not value the immense industries, established, one may say, as a direct result of the Government's energetic policy, till by the fortunes of finance they were deprived of them. Then their value to the "Soo" and district was more fully recognized, and the verdict of yesterday gave practical expression to this feeling. Then the Government's action, demonstrating that while they wished to encourage industries, they had the interests of the labouring man at heart, and secured him his wages, was doubtless a minor factor in favouring Mr. Smith's candidature. The Government is solicitous for the protection and promotion of the interests of both capital and labour. The northern country has awakened to the fact that more can be hoped from a Government, who have faith in its resources, and its future, than from the Opposition, whose leader has unpatriotically described it as "the land of the stunted poplar" — an unpatriotic form of disparagment betrays his failure to measure up to the standard of statesmanship demanded by a new and progressive country, standing on the verge of immense possibilities of growth and development. The loss of Muskoka, while regrettable, is not surprising. This is a Conservative constituency. In 1890 a Conservative held the seat and in 1894 a Conservative was returned by a majority of 108. In 1898 the great personal popularity of Dr. Bridgland, Liberal, served to counteract the influence of straight party lines, and a Government supporter was returned by a comparatively small majority. The same popular personality, and his excellent services as a representative, contributed to Dr. Bridgland's election in 1902 by a majority of 86. Dr. Hart, the Liberal candidate in yesterday's contest, was handicapped by being little known in the riding previous to the present contest. Then Mr. Mahaffy, the Conservative candidate, was also well know and popular. He has been busy preparing for the contest since Dr. Bridgland's death last winter and looked very carefully after the voters' lists in his own interest, improving them in this respect to the extent, it is said, of 150 votes. The Government is still safe in office for the remainder of its term, with a majority of five, hardly enough to carry out its aggressive policy with the vigour the circumstances demand, but sufficient to give the province a continuation of efficient and progressive administration.

SQUAW WINTER— INDIAN SUMMER.

The Snow Fall a Probable Introduction to Indian Summer.

We have had a touch of winter—and a rather sharp one too, in contrast with the fine weather of this autumn. Night before last the mercury registered 22 degrees, ten degrees of frost, and last night following the snow it went still lower—17. Snow fell to the depth of 2 1-2 inches. Last night ice formed to the thickness of 1-4 of an inch, and for the first time this year Chemong Lake was frozen over. Mr. Dan Whetung, of Indian Village, crossed on his scow and the quarter of an inch of ice that stretched over the lake had to be broken, but there wont be much of it left by nightfall.

We have had what might be called squaw wintrr and we shall now very probably have our Indian summer. At least that is what Dan Whetung says, and he should be an authority, as he is an authority on the origin of the name given to the genial period that comes almost every autumn to soften the lapse into the rigors of winter. Dan says it is called "Indian" summer, for in the dim past it was during this supplementary summer that the "Indians were coloured," and hence the season was called "Indian" summer. Whether or not this is the real origin of the name, it will serve, and we need not be disposed to quarrel about nomenclature—we enjoy the season, no matter what its called, or why it is so called.

MR. JEFFRIES, ON "A TRIP TO PARIS."

Enjoyable Address Delivered Before Epworth League.

(Concluded from yesterday)

The most important public building in Paris, both architecturally and from its priceless treasures of art, is the Louvre. It stands east of the Place de la Concorde and adjoins the Seine. It is a palace of vast extent and to see all that it contains would exhaust months, if not years. It takes two hours to walk through the rooms without stopping. The best results may be obtained by spending a short time each day in the inspection of its myriad pictures, sculptures, curios, etc.—the most extensive and valuable collection on the continent. There are in it 2,500 select works of the great masters of the various schools of painting. Here we saw the celebrated statute of Venus, one of a very few surviving masterpieces which formed the marvel of antiquity. The Louvre is a subject for a whole lecture and I shall therefore not attempt to treat it in this brief synopsis of Paris.

Between the Louvre and the Place de la Concorde are the

and the Gambetta Monument, one of the most striking of Paris. Gambetta was a patriot statesman, who escaped from the city during the seige by means of a balloon in order to join the army in the field. Here also is a second mammoth triumphal arch in commemoration of Napolean's victories, and the Gardens of the Tuileries, a paradise of nursemaids and children. Throughout the many parks in Paris are little iron chairs set out for rent at the moderate rate of two cents each. The fee is collected by women whose duty it is to keep a sharp eye on tired pedestrains seeking rest.

Immediately to the north of these gardens extends a mile in length the Rue de Rivoli, one of the grandest streets ever constructed. The south side of the street is open to the gardens and the Louvre, while on the north side is a line, unbroken except by cross streets, of magnificent buildings precisely alike, whose stories above the ground floor hang completely over the pavement, forming one long almost interminable arcade, lined with the most brilliant shops in Paris.

About a mile from the Madelaine is the largest theatre in the world, covering an area of three acres. The site alone cost $2,000,000, while the building cost $8,000,000. There is hardly a variety of marble or costly stone to be found anywhere that has not been used in its construction. To properly set off this building two broad, handsome avenues were cut straight through the heart of the city at a cost of $10,000,000 more. The beauty of the interior of this, the leading Parisian theatre, almost baffles description.

I daresay everyone here has heard of the Eiffel Tower, so called from its builder, Mr. Eiffel, a Frenchman. This enormous structure attains a height of 984 ft., not far short of twice the height of the Washington monument at Washington. The Great Pyramid and St. Paul's Cathedral are quite insignificant in height compared with it. It is a most interesting specimen of bold and accurate skill in design and calculation. To bear the enormous weight of this extraordinary yet graceful structure of interlaced iron-work a foundation of concrete and iron was sunk to a depth of 46 feet. The base of the tower covers about 2 1-2 acres of ground. The four uprights gradually incline towards one another until at a height of 590 feet they coalesce into a single shaft. It is possible to ascend to the top by steps or elevators. The tower has several platforms containing restaurants, theatres, etc. At a distance of 904 feet from the ground, there is a glass pavilion capable of holding 800 people. The electric light on top may be seen at night a distance of 45 miles. The four uprights, or legs, are first united with each other by round spans, forming a huge archway higher than the Nelson monument in Trafalgar Square, London. This gigantic structure was built for, and was a centre of attraction, at the World's Fair of 1889.

One of the most, if not the most impressive sights we saw was the beneath the vast dome of the church of the Invalides. In the centre of a large circular crypt, sunk twenty feet deep in the marble floor, lies his sarcophagus, a huge block of reddish-brown granite, weighing 67 tons, brought from Finland at enormous cost. Twelve marble figures representing victories, with wreath and palm, surround the sarcophagus, while sixty flags captured by this great hero in various battles, are arranged about in trophies. The pavement of the crypt is mosaic, and represents a wreath of laurels, and is inscribed with the names of battles. Adjoining the crypt is a most beautiful high marble and brass altar. The faint coloured lights that stream down from the lofty dome above, unite with the sombre aspect of the crypt, and its majestic surroundings, in the production of an aspect of solemn grandeur scarcely to be unfelt by the most hardened sight-seer. Above the entrance to the crypt are the Emperor's words: "Je desire qui mes cendres reposent sur les bords de la Seine, au milieu de ce peuple Francais qui j' ai tant aime." This desire has been literally fulfilled. By gracious permission of the English Government his remains were brought from far-off lonely St. Helena, in the year 1840, and deposited in their present resting place.

To me a

MOST INTERESTING VISIT

was that we paid to the ancient, renowned and historic Cathedral of Notre Dame. This building was erected during the 12th or 13th centuries, is famous as the scene of some of the best known incidents of Victor Hugo's romance, "Notre Dame, and passed through some memorable experiences during the French Revolution, and the Communist Insurrection. It was here, you will remember, that the statue of the Virgin was replaced by one of Liberty, while Reason was enthroned in the person of a ballet-dancer, who received in state the worship of her votaries. The finest part of the Cathedral is the immense and beautiful facade, three stories high, exclusive of the towers, and richly ornamented with finest sculptures. Hours might be most interestingly spent in the inspection of the front of this church alone. The interior is open to visitors the whole day. The organ is one of the finest in Europe, with 9,000 pipes, 10 octaves, and 86 stops. In one of the towers hangs a bell weighing 16 tons.

Time will permit only a passing reference to the Sainte-Chapelle, a perfect gem of Gothic arhcitecture, erected in the 13th century for the reception of the sacred relics, now at Notre Dame, purchased for three million francs by Louis from the then King of Jerusalem. Here may be seen a series of the most magnificent and beautiful stained glass windows found anywhere in Christendom. We looked in at the Cour de Cassation, in which the famous Dreyfus trial took place a few years ago. We also were taken by a guide down into the damp gloomy cells once occupied by Queen Marie Antoinette and Robespierre during the dark days of the French Revolution.

But I fear I have already wearied you with these meagre outlines of places which must be seen to be appreciated and enjoyed. Paris is truly a a visit to which proved one of the most pleasant experiences of my life. I have several times been asked how a person who has no knowledge of the French language would fare in Paris. I have no doubt he would get along all right. All the large shops, the hotels, restaurants and stations have employees who can speak and understand English quite well. Of course he would often find it very inconvenient and embarrassing to know no French, more especially when walking or riding about the streets or purchasing in the smaller shops. Two members of our party, whose French had been neglected in earlier

MORNING IN THE HILLS.

How quiet is the morning in the hills!
The stealthy shadows of the summer clouds
Trail through the canyon and the mountain stream
Sounds his sonorous music far below
In the deep wooded, wind-enchanted cove.

Hemlock and aspen, chestnut, beech and fir
Go tiering down from storm-worn crest and ledge,
While in the hollows of the dark ravine
See the red road emerge, then disappear
Towards the wide plain and fertile valley lands.

My forest cabin half-way up the glen
Is solitary, save for one wise thrush,
The sound of falling water, and the wind
Mysteriously conversing with the leaves.

Here I abide unvisited by doubt,
Dreaming of far-off turmoil and despair,
The race of men and love and fleeting time,
What life may be, or beauty, caught and held
For a brief moment at eternal poise.

What impulse now shall quicken and make live
This outward semblance and this inward self?
One breath of being fills the bubble world,
Colored and frail, with fleeting change on change.

Surely some God contrived so fair a thing
In the vast leisure of uncounted days,
And touched it with the breath of living joy.
Wondrous and fair and wise! It must be so.

OUTSIDE VIEW OF CANADA.

We Really Know Nothing of Empire Problems From British Standpoint.

There are people who would regulate our British politics in some respects by what is supposed to be Canadian opinion, says The Sheffield (Eng.) Daily Independent. Let there be no mistake about this—the average intelligent interested Canadian politician knows next to nothing about British politics, has never conceived what the problems of Empire really are from the British standpoint, or realized the essential features of the commerce of the Mother Country. The most obvious and striking features of practically the whole Canadian press is its complete absorption in Canadian affairs. The great daily newspapers of the Dominion appear day after day with no word of comment on any matter that is not strictly Canadian. A young, enthusiastic, and hopeful country is naturally interested in itself intensely. To the Canadians, loyal and hearty though they be, Canada is eleven-twelfths of the world, and it comes as a revelation to them that England has a point of view they have never attempted to realize. The responsibility for this ignorance of the Mother Country does not lie wholly with Canada by any means, for we allow the Dominion to be largely shut off from British thought, and freely Americanized, by leaving in the hands of the press agencies of the States all the dissemination of news. The alienation from English thought, and the absence of the most elementary knowledge of home affairs, is striking. Experienced Canadian newspaper men will tell you in one breath that they have never heard of a London daily newspaper which you read in almost any hotel on the Continent of Europe; and in the next breath they will remark that their parents were born in Yorkshire, in a place called Durham. Before we begin to attach weight to Canadian opinion on British politics or commerce we must ask whether there is any appreciable amount of such opinion founded on knowledge and fair thought. The Associations of British Chambers of Commerce met in Montreal some weeks ago, and left the city before more than a fraction of the press men of the city were aware that that association is not a great political agency, but is a commercial organization firstly, secondly, and all the way through. The fact is that Canada is at present intensely parochial in politics. She is pivoted on herself. Her aim where politics and commerce mingle is to sell all her own products—agricultural or manufacturing—at specially high prices, and she would like England to help her; but as to the English point of view—well, it is outside the range of the average Canadian's thoughts.

A Canadian Prize Poem.

Miss Josephine Potter Davis, of 67 Pembroke street, Toronto, won the gold badge given by the St. Nicholas League in the October competition. The competition is one carried on month by month in connection with the St. Nicholas Magazine. Miss Davis badge was for some verses which we reprint below. A gold badge is also given for the best prose composition in addition to silver badges and a large number of Honor Roll awards to deserving competitors. The published list shows that this Toronto girl's success was won from a very large number of competitors. Miss Davis' age is 15, but this is said not in any way in a spirit of apology for the verses, because they would do credit to a maturer writer.

Long shadows lie across the lea,
And in the western sky afar
There hangs a single lovely star,
The promise of the night to be.

The cool wind stirs among the trees,
And deeper in the darkening wood
The birds pour out a silvery flood
Of clear and joyous melodies.

And in the twilight stillness here,
And in low-laden trees we read
The full fruition of the seed,
The falfilled promise of the year.

How It Happened.

You see, it happened this way. The father of the kid kidnapped the kid from the kid's mother. He caught the mother of the kid napping and kidnapped the kid. When the kid's mother found out that the kid had been kidnapped by the kidnapper, she saw that her friends would kid her for letting them kidnap the kid. Then the brother of the mother of the kid took a hand and kidnapped the kid from the kidnapper. Thus the kidnapper who had caught the mother of the kid napping was himself caught by the uncle of the kid napping, and the uncle of the kid kidnapped the kid and kidded the kidnapper.—St. John Telegraph.

Imagination.

Sir Robert Ball, the English astronomer, recently was showing a visitor a double star through a telescope, and, since his friend was not an expert, Sir Robert thought to improve the occasion by a word or two of information. "One of those stars goes round the other," was his remark.

"Yes, I saw it," said the visitor.

As a matter of fact, the star in question takes a little over 900 years to revolve around its fellow!

EXPLORING ROCKIES

SWISS GUIDES WHO ARE AMONG CANADA'S RUGGED MOUNTAINS.

There Are Eight of Them Versed in All the Arts of the Mountain Climber—Task of Exploring the Rockies and Selkirks Could Not Be Accomplished by All the Mountain Climbers in the World in a Century.

Although the familiar Alpine monarchs of Switzerland retain a ceaseless fascination for the enthusiastic mountaineer, yet his soul will crave—and rightly so—for the chief joy of the climber's ambition—a "first ascent." He turns, naturally, therefore, to the great continent of America, where he expects to find plenty of new things, and generally finds them on the largest scale

From the international boundary there stretches northward a treble line of peaks, many of them reaching altitudes of at least 10,000 feet, and a few reaching 15,000. But, as all climbers know, it is not the mere altitude of a peak which constitutes its chief charm. The Matterhorn, so long the envy of all mountain climbers, is not by any means the most lofty of the Alps. There are other things which go to make up a first class peak in addition to the mere height, and in all features which add to the attractions of mountaineering the Canadian Rockies take precedence over European mountains.

Eight Swiss guides have done duty this year. During the season, which lasts until the end of September, their services can be secured to accompany parties on any of the many delightful excursions constantly afforded. Unless specially engaged to make difficult ascents or extended explorations—when the fee is $5 per day for each guide—no charge is made for their services.

The guides, as has been said, are stationed during the summer months at several of the principal mountain resorts in the Rockies and Selkirks—at the Lakes in the Clouds; Field, at the gateway to the newly discovered Yoho Valley; and the Great Glacier of the Selkirks.

That plenty remains still to be done in the direction of initial mountain scaling in the Canadian Rockies is a fact attested by Edward Whymper, the conqueror of the Matterhorn, who, after spending a season in the Rockies and Selkirks, said: "If all the mountain climbers in the world to-day were to make a combined attempt to explore the Canadian Rockies their task would not be completed within a century. * * * The Canadian Rockies, and I may add, the Selkirks as well, differ largely from the Swiss Alps, in that they are more uniform in height. There are not so many dominating peaks in the Alps, which rise to much greater altitudes than the rest of the ranges, but from any of the heights of the Rockies the outlook is a magnificent one. The vast ranges are appalling in their immensity and grandeur, for there are fifty or sixty Switzerlands rolled into one. The opportunities for mountain climbing are plenty, and while many individual peaks are doubtless inaccessible, there are lots of mountains which will bring credit to their conquerors."

Again, upon his return to England, Mr. Whymper wrote The London Times: "Amongst things that came under my eye after return, there was a copy of an address which had been delivered to the Alpine Club by its late president, upon the expiration of his term of office. After referring to some of the mountain expeditions which have been made in recent years in different parts of the world, Mr. Bryce went on to say that the mention of them suggested the reflection that the field for mountaineers is beginning to show signs of exhaustion. Let us consider, he said, what remains; and in a following passage the Rocky Mountains of Canada are referred to, and are spoken of as being among 'the still not wholly exhausted fields!' One's thoughts went at once to that grand view from Calgary, of mountains stretching north and south as far as the eye could see, countless in number, nearly all unknown and unnamed. This great array is only the fringe, and quite a small part of the border of the mass in general. If you shift your position 90 or 90 miles to the west, and gaze around from one of the higher points about the Great Divide, the reflection that the field for mountaineers is beginning to show signs of exhaustion will not occur; for from east to west, as well as from north to south, extending beyond the range of telescopic vision, one is surrounded by an ocean of peaks, apparently endless, which suggests the word inexhaustible. Though by-and-by, perhaps, the time may come when every one of those unknown summits will have felt the foot of man, that moment will scarcely occur during the lives of those who were addressed by Mr. Bryce, or in the lifetime of their sons. Now is the opportunity for the adventurous youth! At present he can pick and choose anywhere. It will be idle to complain a few years hence because some of the plums have been gathered in the interim."

This is the expressed opinion of Mr. Edward Whymper, the doyen of the mountaineers, the man who led the way to the Alps, taught the Swiss how to climb their own peaks, who first scaled the dizzy heights of the Matterhorn, and camped in the highest altitude of the Andes. Mr. Whymper is not only amongst the first of mountaineers; he is an artist, etcher, author, and a close observer of natural phenomena. A busy life has been his in the mountains of

A DANGEROUS MOMENT.

Europe and South America, and in 1901 he sought a fresh field and found it in the Canadian Rockies, where he spent the entire summer and autumn. Leaving London on May 23rd, he reached Banff, in the Canadian National Park—one of the most delightful of mountain resorts—on June 9th. In addition to Mr. Whymper, the party consisted of Christian Klucker, Joseph Pollinger, Christian Kauffman and Joseph Bossensey mountaineers of great experience from the Swiss Alps, and also Mr. G. W. Franklyn, the great-grandson of Sir Samuel Cunard, who was the photographic assistant.

As to the actual climbing, although Canada is not Switzerland, a tried mountaineer will find himself quite at home in the Rockies or the Selkirks. He will not, of course, understand pack trains and packing, but his men will look after these things for him, and they will usually be able to guide him safely through the forests and across the mountain streams to the foot of whatever mountain he has made up his mind to climb. Owing to the heights of the vallays the actual climb from the last camp to the summit rarely exceeds 6,000 feet, consequently there is no need of the lofty "last camp" which is the rule in Switzerland. So far as is known every mountain, without exception, if climbable at all, may be bagged between sunrise and sunset of a long northern summer's day.

In mountaineering there are two titious. Beginners are too apt to titious. Beginners are too apt to confuse them and to dread a long snow slope, which may well be the safest route they could take, and to choose, gaily, a path running below a rotten, crumbling rock face, about the most dangerous route a mountaineer can take. However, all these things must be learned by experience. As to the best season of the year, it must be remembered that climbing in the Rockies is yet in its infancy and that opinions may change, as a result of experience, so it may well be that the season which is now considered the best may, in the end, prove to be inferior to others. Alpinists usually make ascents now between the beginning of June and the early part of October. Provided that a man can transport his outfit over the deep snows—something the Indian does without much difficulty, thanks to his snowshoes and toboggans—the month of April, too, in the opinion of experienced guides, ought to be a first-rate month for serious climbing. The days are of fair length and the ice slopes and bergschunds are filled up with solidly packed snow, so that some of the difficulties of the summer climbing do not exist at that time.

MANITOBA GIVES STRIKING PROOF

That Dodd's Kidney Pill Cure When Other Means Fail.

Mr. J. J. Perkins Disabled by Kidney Pains, Finds New Health in the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Tyndall, Man., Oct. 26.—(Special.)—All over Manitoba and the Territories people are telling of benefits received from the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and this place furnishes a striking example of how they will cure when all other means have failed in the person of Mr. J. J. Perkins.

"For two years I was troubled with my Kidneys," Mr. Perkins says. "I got so bad that the doctor attending me declared me incurable.

"At times, I had such severe pains in my back that I thought I would have to give up hopes and die. I was unable to work and was becoming destitute.

"One day a friend asked me, 'Have you ever tried Dodd's Kidney Pills?' I answered 'No,' and be persuaded me to try them.

"The first box made me feel like a new man; five boxes cured me completely. Dodd's Kidney Pills saved my life."

ALBANY TO BE RAZED

FAMOUS LONDON BUILDING WILL BE BUT A MEMORY SOON.

It Has Been a Fashionable Apartment House For Bachelors a Hundred Years—Was Erected in the Middle of the Eighteenth Century—Byron, Addison and Macaulay Lived in It—First Used Time in 1804.

Many Canadians who have visited London, and who have been impressed by the old-world quiet, distinction, and picturesqueness of the Albany, off Piccadilly, must have experienced regret at learning, from a recent cable dispatch, that this historic building is to be sold. A few weeks ago the owners of the property decided to dispose of it. What will be done with the site is at present unknown, but it is said to be certain that the building will be torn down, and it is quite probable that a big hotel will take its place.

It is somewhat surprising to learn that it is the tenants themselves who have decided to sell the Albany. The system on which apartments are obtained in the building is altogether different from that which governs an apartment house in the new world. The present tenants are all freeholders, and it is at their instance that the building is placed in the market. The site is, of course, a very valuable one, and it is believed that $1,000,000 or even more may be obtained for it.

The Albany was erected in the middle of the eighteenth century on a site once occupied by Sutherland House. What is now the centre of the building was designed by the celebrated architect Sir William Chambers, and was built for Lord Holland. In 1770 Lord Melbourne purchased it, and changed its name from Piccadilly House to Melbourne House. Some years later Lord Melbourne made over the house to the Duke of York and Albany, second son of George III., receiving in exchange a mansion in Whitehall.

It was in 1804 that the Albany was first used for the purpose which has made it the most famous apartment house in the world. Perhaps it will continue to be occupied by bachelors for another year, when it will have existed for a century. In 1804 the building was much enlarged, the gardens behind being built over, the designation of the Albany was conferred upon it, and it became a home for bachelors, accommodation being provided for sixty tenants.

From the first the Albany proved a success, and apartments in it were eagerly sought. The proprietors carried exclusiveness to a point which could not be attempted in this country, and the traditions which they began have ruled ever since. They ordered that no person engaged in any commercial occupation was to be allowed to rent a suite, so that rich tradesmen anxious to live in such a fashionable house were disappointed. This regulation still obtains, and if one seeks to obtain an apartment in the Albany he has to prove his "gentility" according to old English standards.

George Canning was one of the first of the hundreds of well-known men who at one time or another lived in the Albany. In 1807 he took a lease of Suite No. 5 A. Almost next door to him was Lord Althorp, who afterward was Chancellor of the Exchequer. Lord Althorp's rooms were made over to Lord Byron in 1814. When Lord Althorp came back to them six years later they were frequently utilized as a meeting place for distinguished members of the Whig Party. Monk Lewis, who lived at 1 K, entertained Byron there on one or two occasions. The company invited to meet him does not seem to have pleased the author of "Don Juan," for he told Horace Smith (who was among the diners) that he would not go there again, or "dine with a middle-aged man who fills up his table with young Ensigns." Other early tenants were Robert Smirke, Lord Webb Seymour, Lord Valentia, Sir William Gell, and Bulwer Lytton.

Macaulay's connection with the Albany commenced in July, 1841, and expired in 1856. His set was 1 P on the second floor. He wrote the greater part of his "History of England" there. In a letter to a friend he refers to his tenancy as follows:

"I have taken a very comfortable set of chambers in the Albany, and I hope to lead during some years a sort of life peculiarly suited to my taste—a college life at the west end of London. I have an entrance hall, two sitting rooms, a bedroom, a kitchen, cellars, and two rooms for servants—all for 90 guineas a year; and this in a situation which no younger son of a Duke need be ashamed to put on his card."

Lord Glenelg took up his quarters in the Albany in 1845, and Mountstuart Elphinstone (who distinguished himself as Governor of Bombay) left in the following year. Among other famous residents in the building during its early days were Sir Charles Napier, Sir John Hobhouse, Lord Brougham, and Henry Cuttrell. It is often stated that the famous Daniel Lambert had rooms in the Albany. As a matter of fact, however, he lived in an adjoining house.

The Albany now has fifty-seven tenants. The approaching disappearance of the building has excited remarkably little comment in the London papers, few of them giving more than a few lines to an announcement which must have interested not only every student of history but a large proportion of novel readers, for there is hardly an English "society" novel of the last half century that has not contained some mention of the Albany. An article by Horace Wyndham in The Pall Mall Gazette is perhaps the most complete on the subject that has appeared, and from it most of the particulars contained in the foregoing are taken.

AT A RUMMAGE SALE

By SYDNEY PHELPS

—Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure.—

Mother looked up from the bundle of old clothes which had just arrived at the parsonage. They represented all that my wealthy Aunt Florence and my cousins could do to help us in our rummage sale.

"I don't believe we have $10 worth of things all together," she said. A hopeless expression crossed her face as she thought of the needed $50.

"How hateful all one's rich relations always are!" I burst out. "I believe they sell their things to old clothes men."

"We must do the best we can," said mother patiently. "The poor people who get them will be pleased anyway. I wonder if any one will look in and help us at the sale."

"No one," I answered, with conviction. "Between hockey and"—

"Hero worship," mother interrupted, laughing. "If we could only get John Gray to come we would not have standing room."

I did not answer. John Gray was just home from the Philippines. As an interesting convalescent and hero he was in great demand among the girls. But, though I had known him from childhood, I refused to add one to the ranks of his adorers, so a coolness had fallen between my old playmate and myself.

"Mrs. Densil is in the parlor, ma'am," said the maid, and we went in to be cheered by the gayest little lady in the town.

Mrs. Densil had a husband in the Philippines and appeared to get along very well without him. We would not have willingly spared that brilliant face with its wealth of fair hair, audacious blue eyes and wickedly curved red lips from our midst. It was vain to try to look askance at Mrs. Densil, her absolute frankness was so disarming.

"You look worried," she said. "What is it?"

"It is only our rummage sale," I said sadly. "The things which have been sent in will bring but a song, yet we know of no other way in which to raise the money."

"Are men's things any use? Why not ask young Gray?"

"I hardly liked to," said mother.

"All right, I will. He must have heaps of things he doesn't want."

Off went Mrs. Densil, promising to write to John Gray and send us the results of her appeal. Sure enough, a few days later she brought in her dog-cart a huge bundle which she opened triumphantly.

"There, I told you I would get something out of him. Shoes—lots of them, brown and black; two suits, very little worn; socks, collars, ties."

"Splendid!" we said. "Did he send them all the way to your house?"

"No; I told him I would call for the bundle this afternoon. It was to be ready in his own special sanctum. He was out, but old Jenkins showed me in. I found a note from him asking if this sort of thing would be of any use and saying that if he wanted anything more Jenkins could get it for me."

Pursued by our grateful thanks, Mrs. Densil drove off in her usual whirlwind. She promised to come to our sale next day and especially begged to be allowed to act as auctioneer for Gray's things.

Mother and I returned to the examination of the bundle. "Actually, two of his pipes," she said. "How very good of him!"

I said nothing, for just at that moment I had caught sight of something which gave me a sharp stab of pain. Many years ago, when John Gray first went to college, I had worked its colors on a tobacco pouch. There had been something more than mere kindliness in our farewell on that occasion. He surely need not have sent the pouch to a rummage sale.

The sale came off the next day. In the midst of a little argument with a stout woman as to the value of a red flannel dressing sack mother said to me:

"Clara, both of the Whites have come. That is rather nice of them. They have brought another girl with them."

"I looked up and smiled at the three. Just then, to my surprise, the daughter of our bank president appeared, followed closely by a fairly representative gathering of the young ladies of the neighborhood.

"There must be some mistake," I thought. "They must think there is an entertainment to follow."

Just then I heard Mrs. Densil's voice. "Here I am," she said, "in plenty of time. Hurry up, girls; the auction is going to begin. Can I have a chair put on that table? Thanks. The handle of my riding whip will be the hammer." And, flinging herself with rapture into the part, she began the auction.

The buyers were as wax in her hands.

"Look at these ties," she said in tones of ardent admiration. "College colors, club colors, rainbow colors. Girls, you will never forgive yourselves if you let such a chance as this slip. Six ties, all worn—well worn. Did I hear you say a quarter, Miss Smith? Oh, I hope not. I could not listen to such an offer from you. Fifty cents, Linda. That is better, but not good enough." In the end she extracted an offer of $1.50 from the bank president's daughter. Never once did she mention the name of the donor of the effects, and the ladies gazed in undisguised amazement at each other's frantic bids.

"This pair of boots," Mrs. Densil pursued, "was worn in the Philippines."

This was entirely untrue, but the spirited bidding ensued, and another girl became their proud possessor at the extravagant price of $2.50.

At last, to my mingled relief and rage, the little tobacco pouch was held aloft in Mrs. Densil's grasp. I had decided to buy back again my despised gift if only for the pleasure of seeing it burned.

"A tobacco pouch—look!" said the gay voice. "What memories may surround it!"

"Twenty-five," squeaked Linda White.

"Fifty," I growled.

Mrs. Densil nearly dropped the pouch in amazement at my intervention.

"One dollar," from the oldest Miss Smyth.

"One twenty-five," I said, my cheeks burning. Through the hush I could hear mother's surprised voice:

"Clara, my dear!"

How long that horrible auction lasted I do not know. I only know that at last at the cost of $5 which I could ill spare the horrid little pouch became once more my own property. The rest of the scene is a dream to me.

When all the lots were disposed of all the girls quietly withdrew, each eying her neighbor with stern distrust.

Mrs. Densil sat down and laughed till the tears ran down her cheeks. "Do you know how I did it?" she asked. "I told each of them—in the strictest confidence—that some trifles belonging to John Gray were going to be sold. They thought they would pick up some little souvenir cheaply, but"—and she carefully weighed a purse in her hands—"I don't think they did, exactly."

I turned toward the big fireplace. I would get rid of that pouch at once.

The door flew open, and John Gray burst in. "Oh, I say, Mrs. Densil, I came rushing down to see whether by mistake one or two little articles had not been put into that bundle of mine."

"Oh, I hope I did nothing wrong," she said lightly. "I only added one or two nondescript things."

"Would you tell me whether two of my pipes were among them?"

"Yes, but they were both quite old ones, I am sure," said Mrs. Densil.

"Then if you don't mind I will buy them back myself. They were favorites of mine."

Mrs. Densil looked very thoughtful.

"Miss Mortimer bought one and Miss Rawson the other, but no doubt they would be delighted for you to have them back."

The young man's face was a study. "There was one thing more"—he grew very red and looked across to where I stood rigidly by the fire watching the slow flames struggling with the remnants of their prey—"a little tobacco pouch," he said.

"Very shabby," said the lady firmly; "quite a disgrace to you. That is why I took it."

"But I really want that back again," he urged. "Please tell me who has it."

"You had better ask Clare," she said. "Mrs. Warren and I have to make out our accounts."

She drew mother out into the hall. John Gray strode over to me. I never saw such a slow fire in all my life.

"Do you know where it is, Clare?" he began, and then his eyes fell on the grate. One end of a bit of gray fabric still ornamented with a shield lay among the coal.

"You burned it?" he asked reproachfully. "Why?"

I could find nothing to say.

"Clare, you could not have thought that I meant to give that to any charity under the sun?"

Still no answer.

He bent over until he could look into my downcast face.

"Clare," he cried, and even in my bewilderment I heard the note of joy in his voice. Then he took me in his arms, and I straightway forgot that there had ever been such a thing as a rummage sale.

Book of the Dead.

The "Book of the Dead" is a most remarkable literary relic of ancient Egypt, of uncertain date and origin, but well known before the kings of the first dynasty. Probably the collected work of many minds in different ages, it was regarded as the work of the god Thoth, and therefore of divine authority, dealing mainly with the dead and their future state. Some of its texts, prayers, hymns and ritual were used by the predynastic priests, and parts of the book are said to belong to a period fifty centuries before the Christian era. Copies of it were placed in the tombs, and texts from it were inscribed on coffins to preserve the dead from dangers and to direct them to the boat of Ra on their way to the hall of Osiris, which was the goal desired. The oldest existing papyrus copy of the book was written for "Nu, the son of the overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal Amenhetep and of the lady of the house Senseneb" and probably belongs to the early part of the eighteenth dynasty.

The Valley of the Shadow.

The place which has the reputation of being the coldest between London and York is not ten miles from Charing Cross. It is the valley locally known as "the Valley of the Shadow," at the northern side of Royal Oak hill, between Child's hill and Finchley. The road makes a dip into a dell between green fields, and in the valley on the left a water cress farm, much patronized for its pennyorths by Sunday travelers, shows the existence of a plentiful supply of running water. In spring, autumn, winter, and one may include what stands for summer, there is a dividing line distinctly noticeable between the upper air and an unexpected layer of clammy chilliness which hangs motionless over the "Valley of the Shadow," though the sky may be blue and the trees green on either side. Most people prefer to travel down hill, but in this case it is quite a relief to leave that queer penetrating cold stratum for the mellow air of the hill above.—Westminster Gazette.

Turf as Fuel.

Harold Harfagr in the year 868 granted the islands of Orkney to Earl Eyner, brother to Duke Rollo of Normandy. When Earl Eyner came to live in his new possessions he found them quite bare of any trees and producing only a very few stunted bushes.

The Orkneys are bitterly cold and wind swept, so when the inhabitants had used up all the wood they could procure they came to their new earl for advice. He recommended them to cut out pieces of turf, dry them and use them for fuel. This they did with such great success that the custom spread to Scotland and thence to Ireland and to many parts of England. Earl Eyner was always known afterward as Turf Eyner.

"Peat rights" were defined by march stones with three wheiks laid under each and were jealously guarded by the townships or individuals to whom they belonged. Throughout Scotland up to the thirteenth century peat and bogwood were universally used for winter fires and broom and whin during summer.

Some etymologists regard the name of peat as almost synonymous with fuel, deriving it from the early English "beten," to replenish a fire.

New Admiral of the Fleet.

Admiral Sir Charles Hotham, K.C.B., who has laid down the Portsmouth command on his appointment as Admiral of the Fleet, is only 60, so he arrives at the highest honor the Navy offers comparatively early

ADMIRAL SIR C. HOTHAM.

He has seen plenty of fighting, and has held most of the great naval commands. He took part in the New Zealand War of 1863, the Egyptian War, 1882; has been a Lord of the Admiralty and Commander-in-Chief of the Pacific, the Nore and Portsmouth. Admiral of the Fleet, it may be mentioned, is officially equivalent to, but takes precedence of, the rank of Field-Marshal in the Army. The relative Army rank of an admiral is that of general, that of vice-admiral lieut.-general. An admiral is compulsorily retired at 65, but an admiral of the fleet at 70. So that Sir Charles Hotham may give his country 10 years good service yet.

THE MILKY SEA.

A Curious Sight Occasionally Witnessed in Tropical Waters.

Of the many sights witnessed in the oceans of the globe, one of the most curious and most weird is that described by sailors as "the milky sea," ships being surrounded for several hours by water that appears to be a snowy whiteness. The spectacle is restricted to the darkness of night and rare occasions, and, while it is limited mainly to the warmer waters of the tropical belt, it appears to be more common in the Indian ocean than in the Atlantic and Pacific. From the white water the light is so strong that ordinary newspaper print can be read on board ship, but the scene all round is of an awe inspiring description. The horizon is blotted out, sea and sky seem to become one in a sort of universal luminous fog, which, like a London fog, robs the observer of the sense of distance and direction, the deck being lit up with a ghastly, shadowless light. Once off the west coast of South America a bucket of the white water emptied back into the sea resembled molten lead. This curious sight has interested scientific investigators, but while it is no doubt related to the many phosphorescent displays common at sea there is no sufficient explanation forthcoming of this particular manifestation or of the singular atmospheric effects resulting from it.

Charles V. at Table.

Emperor Charles V. of Austria, by far the most powerful ruler of his day, was thus described as he appeared at table by Roger Ascham, secretary to the English ambassador, in 1550: "I stood hard by the emperor's table. He had four courses; he had sod beef—very good, roast mutton, baked hare; these be no service in England. The emperor hath a good face, a constant look; he fed well of a capon; I have had a better from mine hostess Barnes many times in my chamber. He and Ferdinando, king of the Romans, ate together very handsomely, carving themselves where they list, without any curiosity. The emperor drank the best that ever I saw; he had his head in the glass five times as long as any of us and never drank less than a good quart at once of Rhenish wine." It was notorious that the emperor ate and drank immoderately, and as a natural result he suffered terribly from gout from the time he was thirty years old.

The Arabic Language.

There is no language more poetical than the Arabic language, where snow is called "hair of the mountain" and the rainbow is "bride of the rain." Red mullet is "the sultan of fishes," maidenhair fern is translated by "little cane of the well." Ordinary Arabic words show an extraordinary gift of description. The word for secretly means literally "under the matting" and never is expressed thus: "When the charcoal takes root and the salt buds." Uncontrolled ascendency of imagination marks the Arab and endows his nature with a fascination all its own. An outdoor life is his heritage, and the things of nature are a part of himself. Spring he calls "grass;" summer is "gleaning;" autumn is "fruit;" winter is "rainy."

Spurgeon Rebuked.

Mr. Spurgeon was once traveling in a railway carriage, the only other occupant of which was a maiden lady of somewhat severe aspect, and to pass the time he entered into conversation with her on various topics.

The train happened to pass Kelvedon, in Essex, where Spurgeon first saw the light, and the preacher, who dearly loved a joke, pointed from the window and remarked:

"A very great man was born there—Mr. Spurgeon, the eminent preacher."

The lady looked at him with a stony stare for some time and then replied:

"If St. Paul had been passing his birthplace he would have said, 'A very great sinner was born there,' Mr. Spurgeon."

It was the first intimation which the preacher had that he had been recognized by his traveling companion.

Odd Chinese Custom.

In China a jar placed on the roof of a house with the bottom end toward the street indicates that the daughter of the house is not yet of age to marry. As soon as she has developed into a marriageable maiden the jar is turned with its mouth toward the street. When the young lady gets married the jar is removed altogether.

Cut Out the Bread.

"Idleness is a sin. The good book says that man shall eat bread in the sweat of his face."

"I ain't partickler about bread, mum. Jis' gimme some meat and a little pie and cake if der's any handy, and I'll git along. I ain't no great bread eater meself, mum."

Blood Disorders

are simply kidney disorders. The kidneys filter the blood of all that shouldn't be there. The blood passes through the kidneys every three minutes. If the kidneys do their work no impurity or cause of disorder can remain in the circulation longer than that time. Therefore if your blood is out of order your kidneys have failed in their work. They are in need of stimulation, strengthening or doctoring. One medicine will do all three, the finest and most imitated blood medicine there is

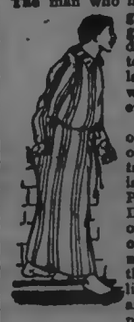
ONE STEP MORE

Will be fatal to the sleep-walker. Will he draw back or will he take the final, fatal step? A great many people are in peril like the sleep-walker. They are diseased. The disease is progressing day by day. The time comes when one more step away from health is fatal. The man who has suffered from indigestion or gastric trouble goes some night to a dinner and returns home to find he has taken that last step from health which can never be taken back.



To neglect the cure of indigestion or some other form of stomach trouble is dangerous. It is also inexcusable. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It purifies the blood, stimulates the liver, cures biliousness, and eliminates bilious poisons from the system.

"The praise I would like to give your 'Golden Medical Discovery' I cannot utter in words or describe with pen," writes Jas B. Ambrose, Esq., of 1205½ Mifflin St., Huntingdon, Pa. "I was taken with what our physicians said was indigestion. I doctored with the best around here and found no relief. I wrote you, and you advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took three bottles and I felt so good that I stopped—being cured. I have no symptoms of gastric trouble or indigestion now."

If you ask your dealer for "Golden Medical Discovery" because you have confidence in its cures, do not allow yourself to be switched off to a medicine claimed to be "just as good," but which you did not ask for and of, which you know nothing.

QUOTATIONS ON THE WALL STREET MARKET.

The Fluctuations of the Leading Stocks —Market Letters.

The Wall street market was mixed in first hour helped materially by firm tone of Gould stocks, but checked by evidence of profit taking or realizing elsewhere. Floor traders were not taking very much stock on stories of extensive short interest in view of amount of covering in past two days. American Car Foundry common and preferred, were weakest stock. The street gave credit to report that common dividend now due and declared would be lost for an indefinite time to come and probably urgency of denials did the stocks no good. Griesel buying of UP was thought to represent covering of western shorts. Sales to noon were 243,700.

THE LATEST NEWS OF LOCAL SPORT.

GOLF.

Mr. Myles Hamilton, has received a letter from Mr. Albert W. Austin, of Toronto, stating that he and Mrs. Austin intend holding a Ladies' Golf Tournament at the Lambton Links, on the occasion of the visit of Miss Rhona Adair, champion lady golfer of Great Britain, who will, with her sister be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Austin. The Tournament will commence on Tuesday, Nov. 3rd, at 2 p.m., and Mr. Austin invites the Ladies' Club of this town to select three or four of the best players to represent the club at this tournament. The privilege of membership has been extended by the Lambton Club to all the members of the Peterborough Club during this tournament.

A qualifying round will be played on Tuesday afternoon. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday will be devoted to match play, approaching and putting. On Saturday a mixed foursome will be played.

The members of the Lambton and Toronto Clubs have been exceedingly courteous to the visiting members from the Peterborough Club, and this opportunity to meet Miss Adair, the English lady golfer will be gladly embraced.

RUGBY.

The game, on the result of which the championship of the Intermediate O.R.F.U. practically depends, will be played here on Saturday between the Victorias of Toronto and the local team, and that it will be an interesting game is now fully assured. Despatches from Toronto give the information that the visitors will come with a strong team, and determined to give the Peterboroughs a fight for the championship. A full practice of all members of the local team is called for tonight in the rink at 7.15, and the attendance of all members is earnestly desired.

The team in Saturday's game, and for the balance of the season, will be without the services of Mr. Hal. Burnham, who has been of such assistance to the team in past seasons. He leaves on Thursday morning for St. Catharines, where he has accepted a position. Ford, will however be in the game on Saturday, and the local supporters have good reason to believe that the Peterborough team will come out of the game victorious. Should they win the game it will give them a good lead for the championship and the perpetual ownership of the trophy, by reason of three times winning the Intermediate championship.

A meeting of the executive will be held on Friday night at the rink, immediately preceding the practice. All members of the executive are asked to be present.

The game on Saturday will be called at 2.45 on the oval, and tickets for it are now on sale at Ormond & Walsh's drug store and the Peterborough Bookstore.

The standing of the teams in the Intermediate series as given in yesterday's Examiner, is incorrect. The correct standing is:

	Won.	Lost.
Peterborough	1	0
Victorias	1	0

VICTORIAS TO PETERBOROUGH.

The Victorias will play the Peterborough team at Peterborough on Saturday next. The Victorias have a fast team this season and have a good chance of being well up in the race for the intermediate championship of the O.R.F.U.—Toronto News.

CURLING.

The annual meeting of the Granite and Thistle Curling Clubs which was to have been held in the rink last night did not materialize. Another meeting will be called in a few days.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The customary rumours regarding a new challenge for the American Cup, are already afoat. Before the final race between the Reliance and Shamrock III. was sailed there came a report that an Australian yachtsman was eager to challenge, in case Sir Thomas Lipton did not succeed in winning. This yachtsman was said to be backed by a leading club in the antipodes. Soon after it was rumoured that Japan was anxious to race, and that a certain yachtsman, whose name could not be made public for various and obvious reasons, had commissioned a British designer to furnish the design from which the yacht would be built at a Japanese shipyard. After that a lady was supposed to have challeged. Now comes the latest report by way of Washington that a certain business man of Glasgow, who is also a member of the Royal Clyde Yacht Club, has signified his intention of challenging in a short time, and that Sir Thomas Lipton has agreed to let him use Shamrock III. as a trial boat when the time comes to test the new one on this side of the water. It remains to be seen how many of these rumours of challenges will prove genuine. The officers and members of the New York Yacht Club have learned by experience not to treat any rumours seriously, for immediately after every cup race of recent years there has come a crop of anonymous challenges, but until the holder of the cup—the New York Yacht Club—receives an official notification, little notice will be taken of prospective challenges, Sir Thos. Lipton's being perhaps the solitary exception.

SCALP HUMOURS

Itching, Scaly and Crusted With Loss of Hair

Speedily Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment

When Every Other Remedy and Physicians Fail.

Warm shampoos with Cuticura Soap and light dressings of Cuticura, the great skin cure, at once stop falling hair, remove crusts, scales and dandruff, soothe irritated, itching surfaces, destroy hair parasites, stimulate the hair follicles, loosen the scalp skin, supply the roots with energy and nourishment, and make the hair grow upon a sweet, healthy scalp when all else fails.

Millions of the world's best people use Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening and soothing red, rough and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings and chafings, for annoying irritations and inflammations, or too free or offensive perspiration, for ulcerative weaknesses, and many antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, as well as for all the purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery.

FOR A HIGHER STATE OF MUSICAL CULTURE.

Another Letter on the Subject of Music.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—The letters on musical subjects published recently in your columns have been read with considerable interest by me and I believe that a distinct service has been rendered to the music-portion of our people by the controversy thus carried on. To my mind, however, there is one point, and an important one, which has not as yet received the attention which, I believe its importance demands. I refer to the habit of some singers to affect a tremolo, which, to the cultured musician is an extremely annoying and exasperating practice. I attended a church service a short time ago and listened to a singer, who, although possessing naturally a fine voice utterly spoiled one of the best musical compositions by the misuse of the tremolo.

In reading the Toronto Saturday night I noticed an article in the musical column in which this feature of some so-called musician's singing was dealt with. The writer says:

"In an article on the vibrato in singing, Lancelot of the London "Referee" makes the following points from his point of view: "The basis of our (English) admiration for the absolutely steady vocal tone is probably because it reflects the calmness of demeanor and 'cool-headedness' in trying circumstances on which we pride ourselves. This is confirmed by the English style of singing sacred music, in which we demand that phrases of the deepest sentiment should be sung with absolute steadiness of vocal production. This does not mean devoid of emotional expression, but with the significance of deep feeling controlled by intellectual strength. This is our ideal of fine singing.' Lancelot, it seems to me, does not go far enough. Cultured musicians all the world over find constant tremulousness of tone, whether from the voice or an instrument extremely sickly and cloying. The waving of tone that a skilled singer or violinist can produce is most effective and expressive in occasional rare circumstances, but when constantly resorted to it defeats its own purpose. The greatest violin players use the vibrato very sparingly, and great singers follow their example. Nothing is more annoying to a sensitive ear than the perpetual unsteadiness of tone which many singers and violinists produce, with the irritating effect that the notes never seem absolutely in tune. Another abuse is that of the portamento. A most touching effect can be made by its employment by a skilful artist, but as used by too many singers and violinists it suggests the wailing of a sick cat."

Mr. J. J. Flint, of Belleville, has a letter in the Intelligencer, of that city on the same subject, an extract from which is as follows: "There some occasions when the tremolo is very beautiful and effective, such as intensely emotional selections, expressive of tenderness, grief and sadness, but for a vocalist to put on the tremolo constantly, when it is not required by the selection, is simply atrocious, annoying and exasperating. Your readers have doubtless heard many great singers. I am confident they never heard one so abuse the tremolo. If the constant use arises from a defect of the vocal organs we can but express our regret. It appears as if the vocalist had before her mind a saw and was doing her utmost to have her voice follow the notches. For every reason, let us not continue to be afflicted by this excessive use of the quivering, quavering, breeze-shaken, tear-laden tremolando."

As the object of the letters that have appeared in your columns has been to improve music in Peterborough, I submit this suggestion, in the firm belief that its adoption would have a decided tendency to make solo singing not only more attractive but also more truly musical.

Yours truly,
INTERESTED READER.

BUSINESS PROSPECTS OF PETER HAMILTON CO.

The Implement Trade has Been Highly Satisfactory.

Improvements Made in Machines for Coming Season—Mr. Milne Hamilton to Take Charge of Mechanical Department.

That the season of 1903 has been a successful one for the Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company, Limited, is proven by the fact that it ends with a clean sweep of the stock rooms, with every implement, of all the thousands manufactured during the season, disposed of. This is a remarkable record, and one which few manufacturing concerns can equal.

The reason for this very satisfactory state of affairs, is primarily because of the fact that years of use have proven that the implements made by this firm give satisfaction, and consequently when a farmer finds that he requires a new mower, a binder, horse rake, a plow, or any one of the many machines made by this company, he naturally thinks of the company that has hitherto supplied him with satisfactory machines and purchases from them. For this reason the business has been steadily growing since its inception in 1848, and the present finds the conditions of its trade very satisfactory. Already work is being done for next season's trade, and the information is given that in almost every machine manufactured some improvement will be made and changes effected, because no matter how apparently perfect in design and operation, and all other details, a machine may be, its continued use invariably discloses some point in which an improvement might be made, and this company has not hesitated on account of the expense to adopt every change, the advantageous adoption of which has been demonstrated.

The company was incorporated in 1901 to manufacture steel self binders, mowers, sulkey hay rakes, cultivators, seeders, root pulpers, ploughs, harrows, feed cutters, double drill turnip sowers, etc., in the manufacture of which the establishment had previously made a marked success.

In all of these machines, the dominating idea in their construction has been and is, to make them the very best possible, and, the generous measure of patronage enjoyed during the fifty-five years in which the Company has been in business is ample evidence that the excellence of the goods has been appreciated.

The mechanical department of the works has recently been reorganized and placed in charge of Mr. Milne Hamilton, son of Mr. Peter Hamilton, who has but recently returned from Pittsburg, Pa., to accept the supervision of this department. He is eminently qualified to fill this position, as his training in Pittsburg has been of such a character as to make him thoroughly proficient in mechanical lines.

The prospects for the Company's business in the coming season are of the best, and the usual policy of bringing the machines produced up to the highest possible standard, inaugurated by Mr. Peter Hamilton, in the establishment of the business, will be maintained in the business as it has developed under the co-management of his sons.

THE CRIMINAL ARRESTED.

Man Fires Five Shots at Car in Which President Diaz Was.

Guanajuato, Mexico, Oct. 28.—Great excitement was caused here yesterday by an attempt on the life of President Diaz, who was a guest of the State Government during the festivities here. The President, his staff and guests were passing by the Cantagor garden in a street car when a man of the lower class named Ellis Locana, fired five shots from a revolver at the car. None of the shots took effect. Pablo Escandon of the President's staff rushed out of the car and caught the man. The police took Locana to prison. He is a man with a bad criminal record, and was but recently released from prison at Greanditas, where he had served a term for homicide. The matter will be investigated. The President remained perfectly cool. Locana's evil records renders the theory of a deliberate attempt at assassination probable.

New Pulp Mills Opened.

Sturgeon Falls, Oct. 27.—The Sturgeon Falls Pulp Company's paper mill, which has been in course of construction here for the past six years, commenced operations yesterday morning. A trial was made with one machine on Saturday, when ten tons of paper were made, all of which has been shipped to the United States for newspaper work. This mill, controlled by English and American capitalists, has cost upwards of $6,000,000, and the plant is very shortly to be duplicated.

The Colonial Memorial.

London, Oct. 27.—(C.A.P.)—The Princess Louise visited St. Paul's Cathedral yesterday to select a position for the memorial bronze she is executing at the invitation of the Colonial Troops Club in memory of the colonials who fell in the South African war. The design, an angel with outstretched wings, poises over the figure. Latin letters state the memorial is to the colonial sons of the Empire, who gave their lives in defence of their country.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

IN THE MATTER OF THE PETERBOROUGH PEAT COMPANY, LIMITED, INSOLVENT.

Notice is hereby given that the Peterborough Peat Company, Limited, having its head office at the Town of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, and having its works situated in the Township of Eldon, in the County of Victoria, and carrying on business as Peat Manufacturers, has made an assignment under R. S. O. 1897, Chapter 147, and amending acts, of all its estate, credits and effects to William J. Thompson, of the Town of Peterborough in the County of Peterborough, Insurance Agent, for the general benefit of its creditors.

A meeting of its creditors will be held at the office of Davis, Thompson Company, Limited, 482 George street, in the Town of Peterborough in the said County of Peterborough, on Wednesday the fourth day of November, 1903, at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon, to receive a statement of the affairs, to appoint inspectors and to fix their remuneration and for the ordering of the affairs of the estate generally.

Creditors are requested to fyle their claims with R. R. Hall, Peterborough, Ontario, solicitor for the Assignee, with proofs and particulars thereof, required by said acts, on or before the day of such meeting.

And notice if further given that after the 4th day of December, 1903, the Assignee will proceed to distribute the assets of the Debtor amongst the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which notice shall then have been given, and that he will not be liable for the assets, or any part thereof so distributed, to any person or persons of whose claim he shall not then have had notice.

Dated at Peterborough, this twenty-seventh day of October, A. D., 1903.

WILLIAM J. THOMPSON,
Assignee, Peterborough.
R. R. HALL,
Solicitor for Assignee.

No News of McGregor Yet.

Oakville, Oct. 28.—The dragging parties have not yet found the body of Mr. D. McGregor, of Galt, who recently disappeared, and many think he did not commit suicide at all. Although he had some money he recently had a demand made upon him for several thousand dollars more than he was able to pay, and it is thought that he has gone secretly elsewhere to begin life afresh.

Steamer Burned on Lake Superior.

Munising, Mich., Oct. 28.—The Gilchrist steamer Manhattan, while endeavoring Monday night to find shelter under Grand Island, Lake Superior, burned near Peacon Light. The crew was taken off safely by the tug Ward. The cause of the fire is not known.

A LIVERPOOL AUDIENCE HUNG ON HIS WORDS

Tremendous Ovation Accorded Chamberlain at Liverpool.

Roar of the Huzzahs of the Thousands, Who Gathered Under Lord Mayor's Windows During the Banquet Hour at Times Drowned the Speaker's Voice—U. S. Already Feel Effect of Possible Retaliation.

Liverpool, Oct. 29.—Joseph Chamberlain continued his fiscal campaign here yesterday by delivering two speeches along the line of the former address. Mr. Chamberlain was the guest of the Lord Mayor of Liverpool at luncheon, and was afterwards presented with an address by the Workingmen's Conservative Association.

In the course of his speech at the luncheon, Mr. Chamberlain said:

"Throughout the length and breadth of the United States of America, we find an expression of feeling not so much against my fiscal policy, but rather a desire that the United States should be prepared to meet this policy, if possible, by concessions which would remove the difficulties with which we have to contend. If they fail to meet us we will be forced to retaliate by placing duties upon their goods."

London, Oct. 29.—(C.A.P.)—Mr. Chamberlain made two more speeches at Liverpool yesterday and the enthusiasm was even more striking than on the previous day. During a luncheon given by the Lord Mayor, thousands of people assembled under the windows, and from the street roared their huzzahs, and frequently drowned the speaker's voice. When he dealt with the complicated statistics of food prices, the street broke into wild and delirious demonstrations, while the assembly hall kept deep silence, hanging on every word. Combating Lord Goschen, he declared the extra prices the consumer paid bore no real proportion to the amount of taxes. Figures were only the illustrations of Goschen's argument, and he had been looking at the figures and had come to a totally different conclusion. He appealed to the past statesman, like Beach, Harcourt, Ritchie and to the Chancellor, greater than them all, Gladstone, who said "If you want to do the working classes the maximum good, you should operate upon the articles which give them the maximum employment."

Clever Appeal to Workers.

At a second meeting before the Conservative Workingham's Association, Mr. Chamberlain asked what use it was for the weavers of Halifax to nominally receive a high rate of wages when actually there was no work three days a week. What use was it to the Lancashire operative to be credited on paper at a higher rate of wages than fell to the lot of a German or a French millhand, when during long periods short time occurs, and raw materials are rendered unprocurable by market manipulations of American speculators? Free trade was responsible for failure of raw cotton; had England learnt wisdom by the events of the famine of forty years ago, and taken steps for the encouragement of the cotton industry in India or the West Indies? There was too much trusting to luck with the British Empire and its industries.

LINKING OF CANADA.

Mr. Wyndham Wants England to Do It by Some Method.

London, Oct. 29.—Chief Secretary for Ireland, Mr. Wyndham, speaking at Dover last night, said that unless England was prepared to lose her prestige she could not afford to see Canada dominated by American capital. With fiscal reform as proposed by Mr. Chamberlain, said Mr. Wyndham, Canada could become the granary of Great Britain. He strongly urged the linking of Canada directly with the Mother Country. This, he said, must be done, whether it be accomplished by Mr. Chamberlain's method or by some other.

Wyndham on Right Tack.

London, Oct. 29.—(C. A. P.)—Mr. Wyndham's speech yesterday at Dover may serve to assure Mr. Chamberlain that the progressive elements in the Cabinet Ministers of the future are on his side.

Trouble For the Duke.

London, Oct. 29.—The Duke of Devonshire's latest pronouncement is causing uneasiness among the Liberal-Unionists. The Duke, writing to Sir Jonathan Backhouse, said that, having regard to the proceedings of the conference at Newcastle, it may be necessary to reconsider the position of the Liberal-Unionists towards the question referred to, which question is the possibility of the free trade Unionists rejoining the Liberal party. Mr. Chamberlain yesterday at Liverpool said that he hoped the Duke of Devonshire might induce the so-called free traders to change their name, for they had done more than anyone else to tax food.

Not at All "Shaky."

London, Oct. 29.—Lord Carrington, speaking at the London Liberal Federation meeting, said he did not believe the colonies were all "shaky" in loyalty to the Mother Country. They were devoted to her, but meant to manage their own affairs. Will their attachment to the Mother country be cemented by giving Australia a preference on meat when their staple industry is wool, and to Canada a preference on wheat when her staple is timber.

Workingmen Favor Protection.

London, Oct. 29.—(C.A.P.)—The Daily Mail says: "It will be the same in England as it has been in Australia, Canada, Germany and France, where protection has been carried by the votes of the workingmen."

Get Damages From G.T.R.

St. Catharines, Oct. 29.—At the Fall Assizes here yesterday, the jury awarded Mrs. Mary Hamer $1,500 for the death of her daughter, Gertrude Hamer, who was killed at the Grand Trunk crossing at Grimsby, and $1,300 to the mother of Miss Hughes, who was killed at the same time.

MISSILE WILDLY THROWN.

Fatal Ending to the Western University Field Sports—A Series of Mishaps at the Sydney Steel Works—Eight Men Were Injured—Boy Torn to Pieces at Amherst, N.S.—Other Accidents.

London, Oct. 29.—The annual games of the Western Medical and Huron Colleges were brought to a sad ending yesterday by a fatal accident. The event of throwing the 12-pound hammer was in progress, when one of the contestants, a medical student, threw the shot wild, dropping it in the midst of the spectators. Seeing the missile coming the crowd stepped back,, but Eddie, the 7-year-old son of P. W. D. Broderick, manager of the Molsons Bank, was not quick enough, and received a terrible blow just over the ear, fracturing the base of the skull. The poor little fellow was carried to St. Joseph's Hospital, where he expired at 9 o'clock. The young student is grief-stricken.

A SERIES OF MISHAPS.

Eight Workmen Injured at Sydney Steel Works Wednesday.

Sydney, N. S., Oct. 29.—Eight workmen were injured as the result of a remarkable series of accidents which happened at the steel works here yesterday. Three were injured at one time by being struck with an electric charge in the open hearth furnaces which had suddenly backed up while the men were sitting near a wall of the building. Another man named Walker was severely hurt about the back at the same place by a weight falling on him, while another man named Clark fell into a pit at the rear of one of the furnaces and had his back broken. A carpenter named McNeil fell from the roof of the repair shop, a distance of fifty feet, sustaining severe internal injuries, and two more were injured at the blast furnaces and hurt at the blooming mill, respectively.

Torn to Pieces.

Amherst, N.S., Oct. 29.—A frightful accident occurred at the Springhill collieries yesterday afternoon, where Percy, the 11-year-old son of William Hyatt, lost his life. He was balancing himself on an endless chain, used in convoying coal to the boilers, when his foot caught and he was drawn through a small hole in the boiler house. His body was literally torn to pieces.

Lost One Hand.

Tilbury, Oct. 29.—Joseph W. Beno, a retired farmer, living in this village, while watching a shredding machine work on the farm of R. G. Waddell yesterday afternoon, picked up a shock of corn and placed it on the shredder. His hand was drawn in and lacerated so badly that amputation was necessary.

May Lose One Hand.

Whitby, Oct. 29.—Jeremiah Long met with a severe accident Tuesday night. He was carrying a lamp in his residence, when it exploded. He was badly burned about the body and hands. He may lose one hand. The burning oil went all over him.

Firemen Died From Injuries.

New York, Oct. 29.—Scores are homeless to-day, one fireman is dead, and a score or more are suffering from injuries as the result of a fire that wiped out a large section of Kingsbridge Tuesday night. Twenty buildings, which sheltered about thirty families, were totally destroyed. The damage will probably exceed $150,000.

Five Were Drowned.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 29.—Advices have been received from Behring Sea that the nineteen schooners, with the exception of one vessel, took larger catches this season than last year Five lives were lost.

Dropped Down Dead.

London, Oct. 29.—Miss Alice, the 19-year-old daughter of George Clarke, Pullman car conductor, dropped dead of heart failure at 5.30 yesterday afternoon. The unfortunate young lady left home in the best of health and spirits. While walking through Victoria Park, she was seen by several persons to drop, as if in a faint. A doctor was summoned and found Miss Clarke dead.

Jury Says Accidental Death.

Toronto, Oct. 29.—The inquest into the death of August Schuerer, improperly identified as Frank Short, was held last night. The jury brought in a verdict of accidental death. Fred. Phillips, the man on the bicycle that struck Schuerer, however, was taken down to the jail, where he has been since the morning Schuerer died.

Worry Killed Him.

Moorefield, Oct. 29.—John R. Ott, a well-known farmer living three miles from here, dropped dead in the field yesterday, while working. Death was due to heart failure. It was accelerated by worry and anxiety over his young son, who has been very ill for two weeks.

HAROLD CASE SHOT.

Hamilton People in Terror Over This Second Murderous Use of Weapons Within a Few Days.

Hamilton, Oct. 29.—The shooting and the slashing that has marked the past few days in this city have thrown people into a state of terror. Before they had time to recover from the shock of the Barron tragedy they were horrified to learn that another shooting affair had taken place last evening. The victim is Harold Case, the 18-year-old son of Edward Case, an ex-fireman, who is now employed as the foreman of the late Hon. Isaac Buchanan's estate, about a mile back of the asylum. The shooting was done shortly after six o'clock in the evening.

Miss Buchanan had noticed two men prowling about her premises and acting as though they were sizing up the place. She was greatly alarmed, and when Case and his son came home for supper she told them of her suspicions. The two started out on a hunt for the intruders, going in different directions. The son came on the pair hiding behind a fence.

"What are you doing here?" he demanded.

A bullet was the only answer he got. The wounded young man jumped over the fence and gave chase, and was fired upon again, but dodged the bullet.

The unfortunate part of the affair is that Case can give but a meagre description of the shooters. All he could say was that one was short and the other tall. This is the only description that was furnished of the men who shot P. C. Barron.

The wounded boy was taken first to the asylum, where Dr. Beamer dressed his injury. The doctors were unable to remove the bullet, and the lad was taken to the City Hospital. A few minutes before midnight he was carried into the operating room. The bullet made a big wound in his arm, and, while the injury is serious, the doctors think he will recover.

MR. WHITNEY'S LEADING AND FOLLOWING.

The Toronto News is one of the most uncompromising opponents of the Ontario Government, and, to give point to its denunciations, practises the most airy assumption of facts. Though in its desire to discredit the Provincial Secretary, it does not hesitate to out-Gamey Gamey in its attitude towards the judges of the Royal Commission, attributing to them an unjust finding, and insisting upon the Provincial Secretary's culpability, in spite of the complete exoneration proven and found, yet it has no use for Mr. Gamey. That is, the News takes the ground that Mr. Whitney is unwise in allowing Mr. Gamey to assume the practical leadership of the party. In its issue of October 28th, the News says on this point:—

"In Muskoka, where each party had a strong candidate, the election was very keenly contested. The Conservative has won by a substantial majority. Whether or not Mr. Gamey's speeches affected his fortunes favourably, cannot be determined. At least Mr. Gamey's support was not as damaging to the Conservative candidate as Liberals professed to think it would be. It is doubtful, however, if the enthusiasm for Mr. Gamey which seems to obtain among the mass of Conservatives, will make for the advantage of the party. In Muskoka he seemed almost to have usurped the leadership, while his speech at the Sault was one of the features of the contest. We think the opinion is general, alike among Conservatives and Liberals, that Mr. Gamey did not get justice at the hands of the Royal Commission, or, rather that Mr. Stratton was treated with deplorable leniency by the judges. But that is not enough to excuse the unwise action of those Conservatives who are elevating Mr. Gamey into a position of leadership. It is unfair to Mr. Whitney, who is an honourable and straightforward politician, and it enables Liberals to argue the case against Mr. Gamey to the distinct disadvantage of the Conservative leader. Mr. Whitney would probably have succeeded to office long ago if the province had more confidence in his associates, or rather a more certain conviction that he could form an able and efficient administration. These doubts and suspicions will be greatly aggravated, if Mr. Gamey is encouraged to parade the province as one of the accredited mouthpieces of Conservatism and one of the chief counsellors of the Opposition."

It is claimed that "Mr. Whitney is an honourable and straightforward politician." This may be, but in politics as in other things, a man is judged by the company he keeps. If he is a political Knight-errant, sans peur et sans reproche, he is not above taking advantage of the services of one of the crookedest and most mendaciously versatile political adventurer known to history, and putting him forward as a leader of his party. The News ingeniously admits that Mr. Whitney himself is not fit for the position he holds as leader. This "honourable and straightforward politician" has not been able to surround himself with followers who "can command the public confidence," and who are not fit, according to the News, to "form an able and efficient administration." Yet Mr. Whitney has not enough moral courage to forego the evil advantage of Mr. Gamey's services, for "honourable and straightforward" as he is, he uses them to the delegation of his own function to a person whose character and actions in any other sphere but that of party politics would make him impossible, odious and anathema maranatha. If Mr. Whitney's backbone were as strong as his voice and if his zeal for political purity were as violent as his invective, he would not permit his place to be usurped by a man who on his own admission entered politics for the personal profit there might be in it, and has shown himself to be absolutely unscrupulous and incapable of telling the truth if falsehood would serve his purpose better. If as the News insists Mr. Gamey exerts an evil influence on the Conservative party, what is the position of Mr. Whitney, who permits Gamey to be his representative in the leadership?

DURHAM COUNTY LIBERALS

The Port Hope Times in discussing the Liberal outlook in Durham, for the ensuing Federal election, says Robert Beith and Dr. Powers are after the position of candidate, and adds: "Another prospective candidate, who has a strong following, is M. A. James, editor of the Bowmanville Statesman and Mayor of Bowmanville. A few weeks ago Mr. James was offered the Registrarship of West Durham, in the hope that he would withdraw his claims to the nomination, but he steadfastly refused. He is a newspaper man of long experience and a good speaker, and is very popular in Bowmanville and in the western part of the constituency. He holds many public offices, and his paper gives him a considerable amount of influence. He has a strong following, which is determined to push his claims to the utmost, and if they are defeated they will certainly make trouble for the 'luck' candidate who may get the nomination."

The Cobourg World, commenting on the situation in Durham, says: "Mr. James will make a strong candidate if he enters the field. He was very popular in the Counties Council during his term of office there. Mr. James is well known all over the county, having taught school in his younger days for two or three years in Cavan township, where many of his pupils are now voters, and would doubtless be glad to help their former teacher to a seat in the Commons. He is well known also in Hope and Port Hope, so that his candidacy, if chosen, would be very popular. These are some of the arguments mentioned here in his favour. We know very well, too, that his journalistic brethren in this district will be glad to see him honoured with the nomination."

The Liberals of the new constituency of Durham, into which the Ridings of East and West Durham have been merged, will meet at Orono on November 9th, when the selection of a candidate to contest the Riding on behalf of the Liberal party, will be made. Mr. James has not announced his intention of becoming a candidate for nomination, and, in fact, says that he does not expect to be one, but should he be chosen, there is little doubt but that he would make a worthy representative. By his long residence in the county he has acquainted himself thoroughly with the affairs of it. He is at present Mayor of Bowmanville, and in fact, has filled nearly every municipal office, and was for two years County Councillor. His knowledge of public affairs gained as an editor for many years and in the numerous public offices held by him should qualify him to represent the Riding of Durham with credit. Mr. James has been a prominent figure in the journalistic profession for a quarter of a century, and has been very successful in this, as he has in every enterprise undertaken by him. His administration of the affairs of the town, of which he is Chief Magistrate, since his election, has been such as to win for him the respect of even those who opposed his election.

This week's issue of the Canadian Statesman, of which Mr. James is editor, has the following comment upon the article in the Port Hope Times and other papers:

"We wish to say in response to the kind things said of us by the Counties' press both Conservative and Liberal, that we do not expect to be a candidate for the Dominion House at the coming election. We have no intimation other than that our present popular member for West Durham will be the candidate for the whole county at the next election and we are very sure that if Mr. Beith will accept the position he will get the unanimous nomination when the time comes."

THE TIMES AND THE AWARD.

When the Times admits, as it does to-day, that Lord Alverstone came to a fresh conclusion about the ownership of the four islands, and failed to inform his Canadain colleagues of it, it concedes the most that has been claimed by angry Canadians, which is that the Canadian members of the Commission were treated as if their presence was of no account, and their view of this particular matter as of no interest. Lord Alverstone, in short, acted as if he and the three Americans composed the tribunal. Doubtless the Times is right about the "transcending" importance of "removing an obstacle to full concord with the great republic, with which every tie of nature places us both in such close relations," but the Times will be sure to realize, before any more "obstacles to full concord" are removed, that the humiliation of Canada cannot again be counted upon as an active agency for the accomplishment of that blessed work. It is not the loss of territory Canadians feel. When the verdict appeared to be a judicial one it was accepted in good grace. It was the subsequent revelations that caused the outcry. The Times does not understand that, apparently, but then the bottom of the whole business is that Canada is not understood.

SOME HAPPENINGS IN THE NORTHERN TOWN.

Personal Mention and Other Happenings of Interest at Lakefield.

Miss McGorman of the village, spent Sunday with Miss White, of Peterborough.

Mrs. C. J. Burgis, who has been visiting her son, Mr. E. Burgis, of Berford, for a couple of weeks, has returned to her home in the village.

Miss Evans of Montreal, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. (Dr.) J. R. Fraser for a couple of weeks.

Mr. Charles Blomfield, who has been with a surveying party in Saskatoon, N.W.T., for the summer, is home, brown as a berry and as hard as nails—in good shape for hockey this winter.

The Grove Preparatory School annual cross country races were run off over the usual course on Monday, October 26, at 4 p.m. The weather being cold, the spectators were few, but those who ventured out witnessed a very interesting race. The course is about two miles long, over fences, through fields, and bush. The best time was made by Master George Hilliard, who made the course against a very strong head wind in 14 minutes and 10 seconds, which is the best time made since Reggie Blomfield did it in 10 minutes and 35 seconds in 1901. The medal competed for was provided by Mr. George Hilliard, who being a genuine good sport himself does what he can to promote the interests of clean sport among the young. There were 24 entries and 18 finished. The winners were as follows:

1. Master Hilliard, Lakefield.
2. Master Rickard, Honolulu.

Winners on little side were.

1. D. Nelles, Toronto.
2. C. Nelles, Toronto.

Rev. Mr. Bennett of Peterborough, occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church here on Sunday last at both the morning and evening service.

Two local sports who were out shooting last Saturday while crossing a farmer's field, were chased by a herd of cattle, when a stout man's race ensued, which resulted in a victory for the stouter one. However, no one was seriously injured, and the victor thinking the road was a likely place for rabbits to cross, sat down to wait for an unspecting bunny to come along. However, no game appeared till his breath was regained, and he was cool enough to move on.

A very pleasing event took place at the manse on Wednesday afternoon last when Mr. John Eastwood, Jr., of Buckhorn, was united in marriage to Miss Edith Barcroft of Harvey, in the presence of a few friends. After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Mr. Campbell, the party drove to Peterborough, where they boarded the train for Marmora. Jack's many friends in the village wish him and his bride many years of felicity.

The ladies of St. John's church are sparing no pains to make the harvest home dinner and concert, which is to be held in the town hall on Thursday evening, a success. Judging from former efforts a great treat may be looked forward to.

KEENE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Keene, Oct. 27th.

The cold weather has caused many of the duck hunters to leave the lake. Among those who left last week were Geo. N. Smollie, Dr. McCauley, Harry Neil, Jim Wedlock, Hank Delaney, Geo. Johnson and John Dinsdale and Sons. The year has given some good shoots, but as a whole very unsatisfactory. The law as to night shooting must be strictly enforced or the ducks will not come here in the evenings to feed. We hope a Duck Club will be formed before next season.

R. J. McCamus leaves on Saturday for his annual deer hunt.

The Y.P.S.C.E. will hold a social on Friday evening.

Mr. James McFarlane is home from the "land of promise," Temiskaming. He is very enthusiastic as to the merits of that country as to soil, climate, timber and wages. He is quite sanguine as to its future. It is rumoured he will not return alone, and why should he?

Ed. Wright, our village barber, has left the burg, having opened up a shop in Peterborough.

The steamer North Star removed the cattle from Sugar Island on Tuesday.

Mr. Will Campbell, of the School of Practical Science, Toronto, was home on Sunday.

Mr. G. J. Sing, of the Public Works Department, was here on Tuesday to examine the bed of the river with a view to deepening the channel so as to allow steamers to come up to the village at low water. He reports the rock to be of such a nature as to make its removal difficult and expensive. It is quite possible that the Elbow will be dredged through and the sunken logs removed.

Miss Helen Laing spent Sunday in Peterborough.

Mr. J. F. Anderson, of Norwood, was here last week, looking after the interests of the Imperial Life.

Mrs. J. McCown, of Peterborough, spent Sunday with her parents here.

Willie Laing had the misfortune to have a large grind-stone fall on his foot on Saturday, and will be laid up for a few days.

Miss Clara Campbell is visiting with her sister, Mrs. W. Mein, Ashburnham.

LAKEHURST.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The boys are preparing for the hunting season which opens on Nov. 1st. Quite a number are going into Beer Bay and points north, to hunt the shy monarchs of the wood.

Mr. Earnest Brummel, of Bridgenorth, formerly a teacher in No. 8, Harvey, renewed old friends in this vicinity recently.

Mrs. Thomas Northey and her daughter, Mrs. McIlmoyle, of Bobcaygeon, spent a few days in Lakehurst the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Coons.

Miss Maggie Weir left on Saturday for a two weeks' visit in Otonabee.

The Sunday services are to be resumed in the Presbyterian church here next Sunday.

Alex. Thompson has just completed the building of a new woodshed, of generous dimensions.

Mr. Herb. Johnston arrived home on Saturday after a two months' stay in town.

HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST RECORDED AT HAVELOCK.

The Town to Have Electric Light by December 1st—Other Items.

(From our own Correspondent.)

At the residence of Mr. Wm. Treen a very enjoyable time was spent by a party of about forty young people of the town on Tuesday evening of last week.

Miss J. McDonald, Miss V. Pringle, Miss Eastwood, of Marmora; Miss Eastwood, of Buckhorn and Miss Nicholls, of Selwyn, were recently renewing old acquaintances in town.

At last it is an assured fact that we are to have electric light. The Havelock Electric Light and Power Co. have given the contract through Mr. Atkins to the Canadian General Electric Company of Peterborough for the equipment. The company now expect to have the town supplied with arc light by the first of December. The work has been going on rapidly for the last few days. Mr. Rost and Mr. Atkinson, two of the directors, were in Peterborough on the 24th, completing arrangements for the shipping of the wheel and lumber. The wheel is supplied by the Wm. Hamilton Company of Peterborough.

The school concert which everyone has been looking up to for some time, took place on Friday evening and was a complete success. The drills by the scholars were simply grand, not a mistake throughout the whole proceedings. The young cadets drill was fine and it was clearly shown what a boy can do when he has as good a teacher as Mr. D. L. Summerville. The dumb-bell drill by the young ladies of the school was very pretty. The little girls in their doll drill did their part well. The flower or wreath drill by the little girls was particularly good. Mr. Halpany, of Peterborough, was the same chap who entertained us once before with his songs and readings. Miss Shipman in her song of "Sunshine and Rain" was encored to the echo and favoured the audience with another very pretty song. Swain & McGuire in their duetts entitled "Down the Line with Molly," and "I'll be there, Mary Dear" took the people by storm. Mr. Sam Cross had his hands full as accompanist of the evening, and Mr. Matheson, who acted as chairman, put things through just as they should have been done. In fact, the people departed satisfied with the entertainment.

The farmers west of the town will be lad to know that a fox, the only one that has been shot for years by the town sportsmen was killed to-day by Mr. Wm. Webster.

Mr. Forsyth, agent for the Dominion Accident Insurance Company, was in town on Saturday settling up the claim of the late Henry Weese, who was accidentally run over in the Havelock yards on October 10th.

The C. P. R. is reducing some of its staff on account of the dull season.

A brother of the late Henry Weese was reported to have been killed on Tuesday by falling from a scaffold while painting at Kansas City, Mo. This makes two deaths in the Weese family in one month.

A JUVENILE COURT.

Hamilton Times.

The putting into operation of the provision of the Ontario statute for the separate trial of juvenile offenders, is a move in the right direction. It is a disgrace to the age that young lads should be consigned to the police cells and be brought to trial beside old and hardened offenders. It is to be feared that the familiarity with crime and the machinery for its punishment has had in many cases not a little to do with training boys to a career of crime. The police court is no place for young boys and the Magistrate and the officers are to be commended for their efforts to exclude such as listeners.

The act provides for separate custody and detention; for trial, when practical, in any other premises than the court room, and for the exclusion of all persons save counsel, witnesses, officers, representatives of Children's Aid Society, and the immediate relatives and friends. The object is to have the proceedings as un-courtlike as possible, and to save the little folks from going into contact with criminals. The press representatives are excluded, a provision which is of doubtful expediency, but which is intended to be in harmony with the privacy of the arrangement, a privacy which, if not abused, may be beneficial. The Magistrate or Judge is given wide powers of discretion as to the means to be taken to reform juveniles. In good hands the juvenile court should have beneficial results. Magistrate Jeffs has always shown a disposition to give to children's cases the most careful study, and to seek the best means of exerting a reformatory influence on the culprits. We trust the separate court will prove helpful to the good work.

He Learned a Great Truth.

Pandora Range
Hot-air Flues. Oven.
If the hot air flues in a range are not properly constructed, much of the heat from the fire-box will be wasted up the chimney, and the oven will not bake uniformly.
Flues in the "Pandora" range have been given special attention, and are so contructed that all the heat travels around the oven twice and passes directly under all the pot holes before escaping up the chimney.
Result is the oven bakes uniformly at top, bottom and sides, and with very little fuel.
Every feature in the Pandora has been given the same careful attention as the flues and all combine to make a perfect working and economical range.
Sold by all enterprising dealers. Booklet free.

Mahaffy's majority now stands at 174, with three polls still to hear from in Medora and Wood.

BY LAUDANUM ROUTE.

Lottie Gamp of Lambton Mills Attempted Suicide in Toronto.

Toronto, Oct. 29.—Lottie Gamp, 17 years of age, whose home is in Lambton Mills, was arrested by F. C. Taylor, yesterday, and is now in custody at No. 2 police station on a charge of attempting to commit suicide.

Yesterday morning Miss Gamp went into Mr. Roy Wood's drug store at the corner of Gerrard and Church streets and asked the clerk to sell her some laudanum. As she had no doctor's order the clerk refused to give her the poison. She then asked if she could smell some, and the clerk handed her the bottle. Miss Gamp, instead of smelling the bottle put it to her lips, and before the clerk could interfere, had swallowed a quantity of the laudanum. Dr. R. T. Noble was called, and succeeded in reviving the girl by the use of a stomach pump. The police were notified and the girl was arrested. She refused to state why she wished to end her life.

Jumped From a Bridge.

Toronto, Oct. 29.—O. G. Wigle, an old restaurant keeper, temporarily insane, jumped from the Bathurst street bridge to the car tracks below yesterday. He lit on a rail and broke his hip bone, and his injuries are so serious that he is likely to die.

A VISIT OF IMPORTANCE.

Count Lamsdorff the Guest of M. Delcasse in Paris.

Paris, Oct. 29.—The first formal conference between Count Lamsdorff and M. Delcasse occurred at the Foreign Office yesterday afternoon. After an hour together the two statesmen proceeded to the Elysee Palace, where President Loubet received Count Lamsdorff, who presented M. Loubet with an autograph letter from the Czar. The conference at the Elysee lasted one hour and ten minutes. Last evening Prince Ourousoff gave a small dinner at the Russian embassy, at which Count Lamsdorff and M. Delcasse again were brought together. These various meetings of the ministers have caused a wide range of speculation. The ministers themselves, however, have kept their own counsels. The view is generally accepted that the conferences covered the entire range of Franco-Russian relations and particularly the pending issues in the East and Far East.

Making an Italian Cabinet.

Rome, Oct. 29.—Signor Giolitti yesterday formally accepted the task of forming a new Italian Cabinet. The indications are that his Cabinet will, for the first time in the history of the new kingdom of Italy, bring the Radicals into power, in the person of Signor Saochmi, their leader, and some of his followers. The only Minister to be taken from the Conservatives seems now to be Signor Luzzatti, who probably will get the finance portfolio. Prince Colonna, Mayor of Rome, is being spoken of as Minister of Foreign Affairs.

A Remarkable Record.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for over thirty years, during which time many million bottles have been sold and used. It has long been the standard and main reliance in the treatment of croup, yet during all this time no case has ever been reported to the manufacturers in which it failed to effect a cure. When given as soon as the child become hoarse or even as soon as the croupy cough begins, it will prevent the attack. It is pleasant to take, many children like it. It contains no opium or other harmful substances, and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

Work For Lyttleton.

London, Oct. 29.—The new Colonial Secretary's first important duty will likely be the settlement of the South African question. The commission will report in a few days. If the introduction of Chinese labor is recommended, Hon. Alfred Lyttleton will have to face a delicate problem. In the meantime the mine owners are doing all that is possible to shut out European labor for political reasons.

Memorial Fountain.

Windsor, Oct. 29.—R. F. Sutherland, M.P., yesterday morning received notice from Hon. J. Sutherland, Minister of Public Works, that the Government has granted the city permission to build a memorial fountain to the Windsor soldiers who fell in South Africa. The structure will cost about $3,500.

Till Settled Right.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 29.—A despatch from Port Arthur says The Navytarai, a newspaper editor by a member of Viceroy Alexieff's staff, reiterates the assertion that the "Russian troops will remain in Manchuria until Far Eastern affairs are settled in accordance with Russian views."

Barlow Cumberland's View.

London, Oct. 29.—A letter in The Pall Mall Gazette, signed by Barlow Cumberland, President of the Canadian Society in London, says: "Never again in any international commission in which they are interested will Canadians agree to an Englishman as a representative."

At a recent sale in London a rare Canadian stamp brought £12.

Government Trying to Arrange South African Preference.

SAME AS TO GREAT BRITAIN.

If Offer of 33 1-3 Per Cent. Tariff Is Accepted the Five South African Colonies in the Customs Union Will Be Beneficiaries—Preference Variable in South Africa—Canada Following Initial Move.

Ottawa, Oct. 29.—The Government have decided to offer the tariff preference of 33 1-3 per cent. now enjoyed by Great Britain to the colonies in the South Africa Customs Union, in return for tariff concessions by them to Canada. If the offer is accepted the reduced rates will go into effect on a date to be agreed upon by both parties.

As It Is in South Africa.

The South Africa Customs Union was formed in March last, and consists of Cape Colony, Natal, Orange River Colony, the Transvaal, and Southern Rhodesia. A common tariff divided into five classes was resolved upon, in which provision was made for a preference to goods the growth, product or manufacture of the United Kingdom. That preference is, however, somewhat variable. The several classes of the tariff are (1) specific and ad valorem duties; (2) specific and a few ad valorem duties; (3) duties of 2½ per cent.; (4) free goods; (5) unenumerated goods, 10 per cent. ad valorem. The preference to Britain is 25 per cent. of any duty chargeable at the ad valorem rate in clause 1, 2 and 5. In respect of clause 3, the 2½ per cent. rate is rebated entirely.

Provision For the Colonies.

A clause in the convention provides for a similar preference to British colonies. This clause reads as follows: "A rebate similar to that for which provision is made in the last preceding article shall be granted in like manner, and under like provisions, to goods and articles the growth, product or manufacture of any British colony, protectorate or possession until on and after a date to be mutually agreed upon and publicly notified by the parties to the convention."

Following Up Initial Move.

The Government, it will be seen, are taking the proper and necessary measures to secure for the products of Canada entrance into the market of South Africa on the most advantageous terms. The initial move was made by the establishment of a line of freight steamers between Canada and the Cape, which has already had the effect of greatly developing an export trade to South Africa. Now a reduction in the Canadian duties will be made, provided South Africa gives us a quid pro quo. The Canadian Government's action is taken in pursuance of that clause in the tariff which provides that the preferential tariff may be extended to any other British colony or possession the customs tariff of which is, on the whole, as favorable to Canada as the British preferential tariff is to such colony or possession.

POLITICAL STORM IN B. C.

Mr. Houston's Rejection by the Lieutenant-Governor the Cause.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 29.—The Government organ admits that the Lieut.-Governor rejected Mr. Houston as Minister. There are demands for the resignation of Premier McBride. A public meeting at Nelson Tuesday night censured Mr. McBride for allowing the Lieut.-Governor to usurp his functions, and expressed confidence in Mr. Houston, who will read a letter at another meeting tonight from the Lieut.-Governor, Sir Henri Joly, giving reasons for his action.

Temiskaming Railway Bonds.

Toronto, Oct. 29.—The Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Commission has decided to accept none of the tenders for the 3½ per cent. bonds, which were to have been issued in August last. Arrangements are being closed with the local banks to finance the road for fifteen months, when the bonds will be again placed on the market if the stock market shows any improvement.

Arthur Murphy Dead.

Montreal, Oct. 29.—Mayor Arthur Murphy of Quebec and ex-M.P. for Quebec West, is dead at three score and ten. Mr. Murphy was a prominent figure in the early seventies. He was Mayor of the city of Quebec, a supporter of Sir H. Joly in the Local House and a representative in the House of Commons, but of late had dropped out of public view.

Creelman Goes to Texas.

Toronto, Oct. 29.—Mr. Creelman, Superintendent of Farmers' Institutes for Ontario, has decided to accept a similar position in the State of Texas. He asked the Ontario Government to increase his salary from $2,200 to $3,000, but the Government could not meet his wishes.

Tried to Assassinate Governor.

Tiflis, Russian Transcaucasia, Oct. 29.—Prince Galitzin, Governor-General of the Caucasus, had a narrow escape from assassination Tuesday on the outskirts of the town. Three natives slightly stabbed the Governor-General three times. They were shot down by Cossacks.

Given a Purse.

Winnipeg, Oct. 29.—A. C. Lariviere, M.P., was presented by his friends with an address and purse on returning to St. Boniface from the Ottawa session.

People of This Place.

There are people in every town and village of this country who have been cured of itching, bleeding and protruding piles by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Ask your friends about this great preparation, they can tell you of its great soothing, healing and antiseptic powers. More reputable people have endorsed Dr. Chase's Ointment than any preparation you can mention.

WHEAT IN THE N. W. T.

More Money Will Be Got This Year Than Last.

Ottawa, Oct. 29.—The superintendent of the Experimental Farm at Indian Head, N.W.T., reporting to Dr. Saunders, Oct. 20, says that the weather is favorable for threshing, and that just around Indian Head most of the farmers have finished. The yields of stubble soil is from 20 to 30 bushels per acre, and on summer fallow from 30 to 35 bushels. The former grades, as a rule, are No. 1 Northern, the present price for which is 73c., and the summer fallow wheat No. 2 and No 3 Northern. There are, however, many fields north of the Qu'Appelle River where wheat from summer fallow will grade lower than No. 3 Northern. The returns last year were regarded as eminently satisfactory, but the probabilities are that the cash receipts this year from the 1903 crops will, owing to the higher prices, aggregate more than what are realized from the crops of 1902.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Oct. 28.—About 2000 head of cattle, 150 calves and 800 sheep and lambs were offered for sale at the East-end Abattoir to-day. Nearly 300 head of cattle will not bring over 3c per lb., and over 100 of them will not bring over 1½c per lb. Such a collection of lean cows was probably never seen in this city before. There was not a good bullock on the market, and 5 of the best steers were sold at 4c per lb. Ordinary medium cattle sold at about 2½c and the common stock at from 2c to 2½c per lb. Not more than one-third of the cattle on the market will bring over 3c per lb. The calves were nearly all graziers, which sold at from 2½c to 3½c per lb., but good veals are scarce and sell at from 4c to 4½c per lb. Old sheep were plentiful and sold at from 2¾c to 3½c per lb. Good lambs were in active demand at considerably higher prices. Mr. Joseph Richard paid 4¼c per lb. for 43 good lambs. Good lots of fat hogs sell at from 5¼c to 5½c per lb.

TO SAVE THE REPUBLIC.

National Manufacturer Speaks Out Against Unions and Socialism.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—D. M. Parry of the National Manufacturers' Association, speaking yesterday of the purposes of conventions of employers associations, which will open here today, said:

"The greatest work, perhaps, will be an effort to save the Republic. Conditions are so bad that it will not be long before the nature of our Government is changed, and we shall have Socialism. We propose to see that the present condition of affairs is preserved. We will show the workingman a better way to improve his condition than through the unions, as they now exist, or through Socialism."

TROOPS GUARD BILBAO.

Five Strikers Were Killed During the Riots on Wednesday.

Bilbao, Spain, Oct. 29.—As a result of the strike situation the foreign consuls have demanded from the military authorities protection for the ships of their nationalities now in port. During fighting in the streets yesterday, five strikers were killed and a large number were wounded. The troops are guarding the banks and public buildings, and are occupying strategic positions throughout the city, in order to prevent the massing of strikers.

HAS RETURNED FROM THE YUKON DISTRICT.

Mr. Frank Barrett Back From Dawson City.

Has Been Absent for Over Three Years—Prospects for Hard Working Man are Good.

Mr. Frank Barrett, son of Mr. Cole Barrett, who lives at 42 Cedar street, has returned home from the Yukon after an absence of three years there. During his stay in that district of the Dominion Mr. Barrett was associated with the Northwest Mounted Police and was stationed chiefly at Dawson City and Grand Forks, coming into contact mainly with the mining element.

DAWSON CITY.

Speaking of Dawson City, Mr Barrett said it had grown marvellously during the past three or four years and is still continuing to increase in point of size. There are two banks, the Bank of Commerce, which occupies the only stone building in the city and the British North American Bank, while it can also boast of three daily newspapers: "The Daily News," "The Dawson Record," and the "Yukon Sun." These latter are the main source of intelligence with the outside world which the city has. Mails arrive daily by steamer but it is fortunate in winter to get letters three times a week. As to edibles, Mr. Barrett states that excepting fruits practically anything can be grown in and around Dawson City which will grow in Ontario. For these things very reasonable prices exist, in fact the prices for everything are now much reduced, as the following figures will show: Eggs usually sell for 40 cents the dozen, potatoes 20 cents per pound, butter 50 or 60 cents per pound, while a man can get very decent board at $3 or $4 per week.

THE WEATHER.

The winter and summer in Dawson are decidedly opposite. In winter it is usually 40 degrees below zero, which apparently intense cold is not felt more than the 18 to 20 degrees of Ontario, owing to the very dry atmosphere, while in summer it is often as much as 96 degrees in the shade.

Asked as to the prospects of all that district, Mr. Barrett said that not excepting the time when the Yukon first came before the eyes of the world, at no no time were the prospects brighter. The country abounds with minerals to an extent which has only just been realized and not yet begun to be worked. Thus there will be plenty of work for men who are willing to give an employer a good day's work in exchange for good pay, for that is always forthcoming in payment of honest labour.

THE INHABITANTS

The inhabitants of Dawson city and its vicinity are mostly Canadians and Americans, which latter people are quickly getting Canadianized. Mr. Barrett scouts the idea that the great influx of Americans into the Northwest will draw this country nearer to the States, for the Yankee turns Canadian as soon as he crosses the line and only thinks of making money. The miners are, on the whole, a quiet class. There is none of the lawlessness which used to exist before the iron regime of the mounted police.

On the whole Mr. Barrett was very pleased with his stay in that country which was very beneficial to him.

THE DEATH OF MR. HENRY OWENS.

An Old Resident of Peterborough Died Last Night.

The death of one of the most highly respected residents of Peterborough occurred last night about 9 o'clock when Mr. Henry Owens passed away, after an illness extending over a period of a number of years, although he had been confined to his bed only about four months. For years he had suffered from bronchitis, which became chronic, and later developed into pneumonia, from which his death resulted.

The late Mr. Owens was well known throughout the country as a pump manufacturer, which business he conducted for about forty years. About three years ago he retired from the manufacturing business and has conducted an implement agency business since that time. He was born in the township of Hope 68 years ago and later removed to Newcastle, from which place he came to Peterborough, where he has lived ever since. The late Mr. Owens was of Welsh descent, and was a member of the Methodist church. He was also a member of Corinthian Lodge A.F. & A.M., under whose auspices the funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery.

Mr. Owens was married about 40 years ago to Miss Sarah Grace Kingdon, eldest daughter of the late Wm. Kingdon. Mrs. Owens survives her husband. They had no children, but an adopted daughter, who lived with Mr. and Mrs. Owens for a number of years, died a short time ago.

MR. EARLE LECTURES ON SHAKSPERE.

The Ottawa Journal has the following referring to a lecture given in that city by a Peterborough citizen:

"Shakspere, and how to study him, was the subject of a masterly lecture at the Glebe Presbyterian church last night by Mr. Barton Earle, formerly English master of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute. Mr. Earle proved himself to be perfectly at home with his subject, and the large audience present were treated to an intellectual feast. He showed how Shakspere in a day of great men stood out head and shoulders above his contemporaries. He compared the romantic and classical drama. Taking "The Merchant of Venice," for illustration, he showed how the pupil should approach it for careful study. Mr. Earle pointed out that there was always five acts, and that the pivotal act was the centre one. On it hinged the plot and the interest. He pointed out that the story of "The Merchant of Venice" was made up of four stories intricately woven into one. There was the bond story, casket story, ring story and story of Jessica. At the close Mr. J. R. Reid and Dr. McElroy moved a hearty vote of thanks to the lecturer. Rev. Wm. McIntosh and Mr. Payne voiced the appreciation of the audience."

A WORTHY EXAMPLE.

Dr. Bell, of London, Makes a Welcome Contribution.

Dr. R. W. Bell, of London, a former resident of Peterborough, has forwarded a cheque for $5 to the secretary of the Y.M.C.A. to be applied for membership tickets as an award to two boys of St. Andrew's church. Such a contribution serves the purpose of helping a good work, and the boys as well. The imitation of this on the part of citizens would be appreciated just now when the local work needs $300 in subscriptions in order to close the Association year free of debt.

MR HAL. BURNHAM GIVEN A SEND-OFF.

Pleasant Gathering in Gardiner's Parlours.

Mr. Burnham Left for St. Catharines This Morning—His Associates in Sporting Organizations Tender Him Farewell Banquet.

Perhaps no member of the different sporting organizations in Peterborough, before, has made himself as popular with them all as has Mr. Hal. Burnham, and certainly none have been more so. There have been few lines of sport indulged in in town that he has not been identified with more or less actively, and the announcement that he had decided to leave Peterborough to accept a position elsewhere was received with very sincere regret. Perhaps nowhere will he be missed as sorely as on the rugby gridiron. The success which the team representing this town has met since the introduction of the game here four seasons ago, is to a very large degree due to the work of Mr. Burnham, and this year, when the team is working so hard to secure the Intermediate Championship his presence on the team would be a most valuable acquisition to it.

However, this is not to be, as Mr. Burnham has been offered, and has accepted a position with the Warne Electric Company, of St. Catharines, and left for that city this morning.

Last night about twenty-five of his friends gathered at Mr. E. H. Gardiner's oyster parlours to bid him farewell and to wish him success in his new surrroundings. The event took the form of an informal banquet, tendered to Mr. Burnham on the eve of his departure. Mr. H. R. H. Kenner occupied the position of chairman and toastmaster, while Mr. E. S. Clarry was in the vice-chair. Surrounding the festive board in addition to the guest and those just mentioned, were Messrs. W. Crowley, Milne Hamilton, D. Walker, R. F. McWilliams, J. MacPherson, Ross Cameron, Geo. Perks, W. T. Hall, F. D. Kerr, Dickson Davidson, Arthur Noble, A. Kennedy, Gordon Lee, C. G. Graham, Frank Bradburn, F. A. Clarke, L. Hall and Oscar Dumble.

The refreshments, which were of such a nature as to sustain the reputation made by Mr. Gardiner in this line, were done ample justice to and a pleasing toast list proceeded with. The first honoured was that to the King, and the National Anthem was sung very heartily, in honour of "a true sport" as the chairman designated him. The toast to "Our Guest" was assigned to three gentlemen to propose. Mr. F. D. Kerr, who had been associated with Mr. Burnham, in lawn tennis, said that he considered him an all round sport, and one who in every branch of sport usually came out ahead. He felt that the town was not only losing a good sport, but that everyone gathered around the board would feel with many others in town that they were losing a good friend. He would carry away with him not only the respect and esteem, but also the love, of all the young men who had been associated with him in any way. Mr. R. F. McWilliams spoke on behalf of the Football section, and said he fully concurred in the words of Mr. Kerr with reference to the prowess of Mr. Burnham in the field of general sport. He believed that the institution of rugby in Peterborough, and the championship honours which the team had won since, were in a large degree due to Mr. Burnham's efforts. His departure would give universal regret. Mr. D. Walker also considered it an honour to be associated with the guest of the evening. His friendship through the medium of the Peterborough Club, had been greatly enjoyed. He fully endorsed all that had been said of him by the preceding speakers, and felt sure that he would do himself and the town credit in his new associations. He wished Mr. Burnham continued success in his new home. The Toast to "Our Guest," was then enthusiastically honoured, and "He's a Jolly, Good Fellow" heartily sung.

Mr. Burnham in responding thanked his friends for the pleasant send off they were according him. It had been a severe wrench to him to leave the town, which was the scene of so many happy memories. His relation with the young men had always been of the most pleasant. He loved good clean sport, such as he believed had characterized the game of Rugby in Peterborough. The main object should not be to win, but the pleasure of playing the game should be the impulse prompting the playing. He would carry away with him nothing but the most pleasant memories.

The next toast was that to the C.D.A., of which society Mr. Burnham is a past president. Mr. Kenner proposed the toast in a humorous speech. The toast was responded to by Mr. E. S. Clarry, who considered it a great honour to be asked to speak in honour of the toast. Mr. Burnham had been a very valuable member of the C.D.A., and his associated in it wished him success in his new position. He then called upon Mr. Milne Hamilton to present Mr. Burnham with a pipe, the usual farewell gift of the C.D.A. to its departing members.

Mr. Burnham replied, thanking them for the gift, which past custom in the C.D.A. had led him to rather expect.

Mr. R. N. Jolliffe then favoured the gathering with a solo, "The Stein Song."

Mr. Clarry proposed the toast to "The Ladies," to which Mr. Dickson Davidson ably responded saying that he felt sure that the ladies of the town would miss Mr. Burnham, as well as his young gentlemen friends.

Messrs. Clarke, Bradburn, Dumble, Graham and L. Hall also spoke to this toast.

"Kindred Sports," was proposed by the chairman, who said that it was a matter for congratulation that the different sporting organizations in town were working in harmony, and each helped the other. Referring to Rugby, he said that Mr. McWilliams might be called the father of Rugby in Peterborough, and Mr. Burnham had taken an active part in the game ever since its inception here, and that the provincial championship had been won three times, and the Dominion championship twice, was to a large extent attributed to the support given it by Mr. Burnham.

Mr. Crowley responded to this toast, and said that if more men of Mr. Burnham's stamp were on the teams, it would be better for sport generally. The Rugby team would miss his assistance, but all would wish him continued success. Mr. A. Noble also spoke in response to this toast and expressed regret at Mr. Burnham's departure.

"The Press" was responded to in the usual way, and before dispersing Mr. T. D. Hall, on behalf of the Riding Club expressed his regret at Mr. Burnham's departure and paid a high tribute to his genuine sportsmanlike qualities.

After singing "Auld Lang Syne," Mr. Burnham said good-bye to each of his friends personally, each of whom presented him with a chrysthemum. Mr. Burnham carried with him to his new home the best and most kindly wishes of his very large circle of friends.

POWERFUL ADDRESS IN GEORGE STREET CHURCH.

Associate Secretary of the Dominion Lord's Day Alliance

Made a Marked Impression on the Audience—A Vote of Thanks.

A very influential and largely attended service in the interests of the Lord's Day Alliance was held in the George street Methodist Church yesterday evening, when Rev. T. Albert Moore, of Toronto, the associate secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, addressed the meeting.

The following clergymen were present on the platform: Rev. Dr. Torrance, St. Paul's Presbyterian church; Rev. J. Bastow, Murray street Baptist church; Rev. J. G. Lewis, Mark street Methodist church and Rev. J. O. Potter, St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, while Rev. J. P. Wilson, pastor of the George street church, presided.

The service opened with a prayer from Mr. Bastow, followed by a scripture lesson from the twelfth chapter of St. Matthew's Gospel, read by Rev. J. G. Potter, after which Rev. Mr. Moore delivered his address, during the beginning of which he outlined the work of the Lord's Day Alliance, which originated about the time of the agitation re Sunday street cars in Toronto and Hamilton. The object of the Alliance is to maintain the sanctity of the Lord's day and to have one day in seven absolutely free from labour. One hundred and twenty thousand Canadians, said the speaker, are compelled to work on Sunday or lose their situations. The workingmen, he said, are in accord with the movement, as they wish to spend at least one day a week with their wives and families. He gave an illustration of a man who had not spent a single Sunday at home for seven years and cited many other parallel cases. The speaker considered that the desire for money and pleasure was the cause for the very noticeable disregard for the Lord's Day.

Thus in many ways the speaker showed that Sundays are not respected as they should be and delivered the strongest address along these lines which has ever been uttered in Peterborough. His strong arguments, many illustrations, and the forceful manner in which he made his delivery, made a marked, a very noticeable impression on his audience.

At the conclusion of the address a vote of thanks was moved by Rev. Dr. Torrance and seconded by Rev. Mr. Bastow.

HUNTERS HEAD FOR NORTHERN WOODS

To Participate in Fifteen Days Sport.

Some Regulations to be Observed by Hunters—List of Parties to Leave Town.

For fifteen days commencing November first, the woods will be populated with a band of hunters and the same woods will be proportionately depopulated of deer—perhaps. A number of parties have already left for the hunting grounds, and to-day and to-morrow will see a general exodus to the north of those who participate in this form of sport. The weather conditions at the present are hardly to the liking of the hunters, but, of course, the snow which fell here sparingly, may have been more generously bestowed upon the northern regions.

Those who have been in the woods recently are authority for the statement that this season promises to be a successful one for the Knights of the Gun, as deer are apparently plentiful.

For the benefit of those who may be taking this form of sport for the first time, and also for those who may have forgotten some of the minor details, a brief synopsis of the Game Laws of Ontario as they apply to deer are given, taken from a digest published by Mr. A. H. O'Brien, M.A. The open season is from Nov. 1st to 15th, but persons who put or breed deer on their own land may hunt such deer from Oct. 1st to Nov. 15th. Only two deer, or one bull moose, or one bull reindeer, or caribou may be taken in any season by one person. This, of course, does not apply to deer which are private property. Hunting by crusting, or when deer are yarding is prohibited. Transportation of any deer, moose, elk, deer or caribou or any part thereof is prohibited unless a shipping coupon, which will be attached to each license, accompanies the animal shipped. The license permitting the hunting of deer is issued by Chief Wardens for one season only. It is not transferable and must be carried while hunting, and be shown to any person making the request, on pain of forfeiture or a penalty. A permit to a guest of a resident to hunt in the province without a license for one week or less may be granted by the Ontario Minister, who is the member of the Ontario Executive Council having charge of the Game Protection Act. This is Hon. F. R. Latchford, K.C.

Deer may be exported from Canada by persons not domiciled in Canada when shot for sport and not for gain or hire, and under provincial authority subject to the following conditions:

Deer may be exported from Canada by persons not domiciled in Canada, when shot for sport and not for gain or hire, and under Provincial authority, subject to the following conditions:

1. They may be exported only at the customs ports of Halifax, Yarmouth, Macadam Junction, Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Kingston, Niagara Falls, Fort Erie, Windsor, Sault Ste Marie, Port Arthur and such other ports as are designated by the Minister of Customs.

2. Exportation in the carcass or parts thereof (except as to cured heads and hides) is permitted only up to the fifteenth day after the open season has expired.

3. No person shall, in one year, export more than the whole or parts of 2 deer, nor shall exportation be made by the same person more than twice in a calendar year.

4. If killed contrary to Provincial law they may not be exported.

5. A permit of the Collector of Customs must accompany the shipment.

6. An export entry may be made on taking a declaration before a collector of customs that the above requirements have been complied with, and on production of the Provincial license or permit. (D.O.C., Aug. 19, 1899.)

Deer bred on a person's own land, or on land held by an Association of which he is a member, may be exported from Canada by making affidavit of above facts to local Collector of Customs. (D. O. C., Aug. 17, 1899.)

Deer which are private property and killed by the owner, or with his consent, and upon his own lands, may be exported from Ontario. (G.P.A., s. 14 (3).)

The following party will go to Lake Ketchecum at the end of the week: Messrs. Geo. Bennett, G S Matthews, R Gibbs, D. Johnston, J M Brooks, Andrew, Laird, Douglas, R S Kingan, H C Winch, W Irwin, W G Morrow, R Hicks, R M Dennistoun, R Stuart and V Eastwood.

Mr. Sam Ray accompanied by Messrs. Mark McFadden, L. Steele and Gunnison, left a few days ago for Parry Sound, where they will spend the fifteen days.

The following members of the Eagle Lake Hunting Club will leave for their hunting grounds on Saturday evening:—Messrs. R Tivey, C James, Geo. Fitzgerald, Chas. Gunsolus, Chas. Westlake, M Dobson, J Cochrane, Harry Evans, Wm. White, J Cottingham, B. Mitchell, C Butcher, T Parker, O A Dumble, L Hall, M Tooley, R Shea, Geo. Mitchell and W Sharpe.

Mr. J. B. McWilliams, game warden, had up to this afternoon issued forty hunters' licenses and twenty-five permits; this number will however be increased considerably before the end of the week. The number issued last year was 115. The Provincial Game Warden had this morning issued 226 licenses, as compared with 190 in a corresponding period last year.

MRS. BOOTH-TUCKER DIED FROM INJURIES

Received in Train Wreck at Marcelline Missouri.

(G. N. W. Press Despatch.)

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 29.— Mrs. Emma Booth Tucker, consul in America for the Salvation Army, wife of Commander Booth Tucker and second daughter of William Booth, founder of the Army, died early this morning at Marcelline, Mo., of injuries received in a Santa Fe train wreck. Col. Thos. Holland in charge of the Salvation Army at Amity, Col., also lost his life. Fifteen other passengers were injured, two dangerously. The wrecked train was No. 2, Eastbound, from California on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway. It ran into an open switch at 9 o'clock last night and struck a large steel water tank with such force that five coaches were thrown from the track and badly shattered.

THE LATEST NEWS OF LOCAL SPORT.

RUGBY.

From present prospects, there will be a large attendance at the rugby game on Saturday between the Victorias and Peterborough in the second championship game of the season to be played here. The enthusiasm is increasing in intensity and by the time the teams line up on Saturday it will have reached fever heat. The local team will line up practically the same as in the last championship game with one exception, Ford will probably be found on the wing line. The Victorias will come with a strong team and will doubtless make a strong and determined attempt to avoid the defeat administered to the Wellesleys on Thanksgiving Day. Tickets for the game, which will be called at 2.45 at the Oval, are now on sale at Ormond & Walsh's and the Peterborough Bookstore.

A full practice of the Rough Riders is called for this evening at 7.30 in the rink.

CURLING.

The annual meeting of the Granite and Thistle Curling Clubs will be held to-morrow evening at eight o'clock, in the curling rink. A large attendance is requested.

TURF.

World records are being broken at will in the present racing meet being held at Memphis, Tenn. Dan Patch, within 45 minutes, on Tuesday afternoon, smashed two world's records on the track of the Memphis Trotting Association. First he went against the world's half-mile pacing record of .57 1-2, held by Prince Alert, and clipped a second and a half from it, going the distance in 56 seconds. Next he hung out a new world's record for a mile, pacing to wagon, making the mile in 1.57 1-4, two seconds better than the recent meeting at Lexington, Ky.

Salisbury.

A bulky figure of great girth, the breadth exaggerated by a marked stoop, which concealed his height; a massive head, uncovered, seemed sunk in his shoulders, framed in a circle of grey hair and beard. His clothes were surely remarkable in the crowd of well-groomed Englishmen about him. He had evidently spent the morning in a suit of rough tweeds and heavy shoes fit for walking about the estate. It looked as if at the last moment some son or daughter had caught him, stripped him of his sack coat and hurried him into a black frock coat for a few hours against his will; for the rest, the rough tweeds and shoes remained. Once you know the importance of their clothes to Englishmen, from the King down, this gives you a significant character hint. But the Premier seemed perfectly unconscious of anything unusual in his clothes. There was an air in handing the royal women into the carriage, and above all a piercing glance from under the shaggy, overhanging eyebrows, which gave you but one impression; here was the typical grand seigneur.—Chalmers Roberts, in The World's Work.

Deserting Lonely Scottish Isle.

That lonely island, St. Kilda, one of the loneliest of the Hebrides, is likely to be left lonelier still in the near future.

Its inhabitants, it is reported propose deserting the island and emigrating to South Africa. This is not much to be wondered at, for St. Kilda is one of the most inaccessible in the world. Only four times a year, once a month in June, July, August and September, does a steamer call from Glasgow. For the rest of the year the inhabitants are entirely cut off from the outer world. Their special mail is a tin box, into which they put letters, toss it into the sea, and trust to Providence and favorable winds to carry it to the shores of the outer Hebrides. The population of the island has gradually dwindled to seventy-five. The last time there was a great exodus was when thirty-six islanders left in a search for gold in Australia.

"A GOOD HUMOR."

Historical Novel Is More Wholesome Than "Society" Novels Says Andrew Lang, English Author and Critic.

To me the recent revival of historical romance seems an excellent sign of the times. Not that it is overprolific. Every success provokes imitation and reaction. Not that all historical novels are good; the reverse. Many are ignorant, imitative and stupid to an extreme degree, just as many novels in dialect and many novels of psychological analysis and many serious "sociological" novels are a weariness to the child of nature. But I like to see a boy or girl read almost any historical novel, for he or she has escaped out of the world that is too much with us and he or she may acquire a taste for history, "more instructive than novels and quite as amusing," said King James II., whose own history was of the gloomiest. Therefore, though there be many bad new historical novels—how bad few know better than I—though many are imitations at fourth hand, though in others far too much blood is superfluously shed, still the tendency to the historical novel is "a good humor." The "Iliad" and "Odyssey" were practically the historical novels of Greece in verse, and what remains of the school is of undeniable merit.

Much more wholesome is the historical novel than the "society" novel, now descending to the abysmal level of society journalism.—Andrew Lang.

Lord Donegall's Triple Romance.

Lady Donegall, who has rejoiced her octogenarian husband's heart by presenting him with a son and heir, is receiving a flood of congratulations from her friends in both England and Canada.

The Marquis of Donegall's life history is quite a romance. He has been three times married. His first bride was Lucy Elisabeth Virginia, daughter of Henry Holt Oliver, of Western Priory, Somerset. The Marquis was then only Captain Chichester, a fine figure of a man, of stalwart carriage and handsome face, but very poor, and as poor in prospects till a sudden and unexpected turn of fortune's wheel put him in the possession of the Marquisate of Donegall, but little else, for the sporting and gambling proclivities of the early Chichesters had made inroads in their vast possessions, which had dwindled almost to the vanishing point. It was little the dashing young captain had to maintain the dignity of his new title upon.

Then followed an annulment of the marriage, from circumstances which have never been fully explained. But, in December, 1898, a miserable old woman, wearing dilapidated clothes and carrying a Bible under her arm, applied for admittance at Highgate Workhouse. The officials were incredulous when she described herself as the Marchioness of Donegall, but eventually she was found to be the Marquis' first wife. What become of the aged Marchioness is not known, but it is generally believed that she is now dead.

The Marquis in 1865 took a second wife, Marry Ann Williams, daughter of Edward Cobb, of Wright's Lane, Kensington. She died in 1901. The third Marchioness, who has assured a direct succession to the title, has traveled a great deal in Russia and South Africa.

The Suez Canal.

No more complete refutation of the arguments used to defeat a great investment in canal construction was ever furnished than by the Suez canal, the report on whose traffic for the last year has been recently made public.

The big Suez ditch was opened to navigation Nov. 17, 1869. Its total length is ninety-two miles, from Port Said to Suez. Its actual cost was about $38,000,000, besides a bond of about $7,000,000 more. Its stock is divided into 400,000 shares, and of these 176,602 are held by the British Government, for which it paid the Khedive of Egypt in 1875 $20,000,000, using round figures. The shares bear interest at 5 per cent. Up to 1872 the canal's running expenses exceeded its receipts. In that year it earned rather more than $410,000. Yet its total receipts in that year were only about $8,250,000. Last year (1902) its total receipts were $20,621,993, being $12,481,600 in excess of its expenditures, and it distributed in net profits after covertling its sinking fund over $12,000,000.

Its traffic is steadily growing. Last year the net tonnage of vessels using it was 11,248,413, an increase of 9 per cent since 1900.

WAR OFFICE INSIDE

ENGLISH INSTITUTION BY ONE WHO WAS IN IT AND WELL POSTED.

Subdued Hostility Between Different Departments—Always Friction Between the Civil and the Military Staffs—No Pride in the Work Done Obtains—Terrible Waste of Stationery—Officers Who Were Laughing Stocks to Humble Clerks.

A London correspondent, who was formerly in the War Office, writes: The report of the Royal Commission on the conduct of the recent war has undoubtedly caused an immense sensation—outside the War Office: inside the air is as undisturbed as ever. The employes are as nonchalant and as uncivil as ever and as indifferent to affairs, interior or exterior, as ever. In fact, there is no apparent change. War Office officials always did act as if they conferred an honor upon the country in drawing their salaries. They act in exactly the same old way still. The same old jealousies exist between the departments. If, indeed, the house is any index to the individual, then, of a surety, our War Office is not organic—not a whole, but a series of almost disconnected parts. It has grown with the national needs, no doubt, but it has not kept pace with them, and it retains many marks of its various origins upon it. It is full of useless survivals and absurd anachronisms. I fear that the more it changes the more it remains the same thing, and that what it was 25 years ago it is now, in spite of Lord Roberts and his newer methods. As a matter of fact, I have entered its sacred precincts a hundred times since I left the civil service, and little that I have seen in the departments where my work lay makes me imagine any very radical changes for the better have taken place.

Hole and Corner Intrigues.

One may imagine any form of hole-and-corner intrigue flourishing in its dens and caverns, in peculiar and sombre obscurity, any reforms might struggle to the light as uselessly as a neglected potato in a cellar. It lacks homogeneity; there is an old conflict within its walls. The civic staff still sneers at the military staff, and relates stories of the A. G. or the A. A. G., or the D.A.A.G. having spelt "accommodation" with a single "m," or of some soldier stylist suggesting the use of two teams of oxen "to surmount a ford." And the military staff still regrets that it cannot on passing occasions give the civil head of a department "sells," and decorate the Permanent Under Secretary with that C. B. which remains "confined to barracks." As long as the W. O. exists in its present form, such friction is likely to continue. The best one can say for it is that it represents a reasonable equality between the two elements which may prevent either getting absolutely on top as the military element has done in France. But it is sad business after all.

Over and Under-Manned Departments.

In my times (and even now I discern no great difference), some departments were overmanned and some were undermanned. The entire staff of some rooms idled and played for days, while another room was overwhelmed with work, half of which need never have been done at all. Evolution in its course might be studied to advantage by eminent naturalists in Pall Mall, for the W. O. is full of rudimentary appendages which die very slowly of disuse. The members employed were supposed to compose a staff sufficient for emergencies, but when wars and rumors of wars arose, some gentlemen still continued doing nothing with dignity, while others slaved at the unnecessary from 11 till 5, or perhaps later. Even when the office was in the agony of delivering half a brigade (with half its transport), a staff officer could still be found to write "No remarks" on papers with which his branch had ceased to have anything actual to do for half a century. The "writers," or copyists, who alone were paid for their overtime, continued with a trained intelligence in appearing busy, to put off working till overtime began. When they had really done there remained no official to check them, and another hour's overtime at tonpence an hour was made, as they sat round the fire smoking and discussing their superiors or the music halls. In one room, I was credibly informed boxing gloves were kept, in another foils. In one department, the juniors (second division clerks and writers) had invented a particularly entrancing game, which consisted in putting three or more candles in a row and extinguishing them by a cannon shot from a well-trained army rifle. The resulting destruction of candles was tremendous, but it never led to any complaint, owing, possibly, to the fact that some one below stairs made a little on the transaction.

Where Friction Exists.

If there was always friction between the civil and military staffs, there was forever some subdued hostility between the different departments. A. G. 1, for instance, might be jealous of A. G. 2, and its members would explain to all and sundry that half the work done there was the merest surplus account and marking time. The ordnance people were at loggerheads with every one. Business which should have been worked together was done through third parties. We went round the world to get from Pall Mall to Pimlico. Rooms next door were aliens; a man sometimes sat a quarter of a mile from those who were doing like work. Papers were missing and were then described as "on transit," which meant that Messenger A was having a quiet smoke with Messenger B, or that Orderly X said the job was Orderly Y's. A room upstairs, which has something to do with the surveying department, was a smoking room for a score of us who wanted to light our pipes before 1 o'clock.

No Pride in Their Work.

Pride in work or pride in smartness there was little. No real encouragement was afforded to a worker. The general scheme of the unwarlike operations was that of a badly managed school; men ended in trying to do as little as possible. The smartest staff officer was the most disliked—it was thought a good joke to hoodwink or puzzle him. Not a room in the whole office but was distinguished by some especial dunce, who probably drew £500 a year for doing nothing, and doing it badly. It was notorious that one man could not write out an original telegram with reference to the paltriest detail of the movement of troops without taking half an hour and half a dozen forms to do it on. Another's chief claim to consideration in his branch was that he could take longer to prepare any given return than any other clerk there, and yet keep up a sweetly dignified appearance of being enwrapped in necessary national business. When I was a new-comer in my own room, the absence through illness of one man threw the preparation for a certain return on my shoulders, and not having been posted in tradition, I did it in three hours and took it to the chief next door. So little did this gentleman know of the work of his own rooms that he positively declined to receive it on the ground that it could not be done under four days. This let me into the secret, and not wishing to be disloyal to the sick man, I withdrew the return and kept it for a week. "Ah!" said my sapient chief, "I told you that it took time to do it properly."

Terrible Stationery Waste.

The waste of His Majesty's stationery is an old story, but in the War Office it probably reached its maximum. Few men in the place ever dreamed of writing private letters on anything but the best War Office paper. Some men used it who did journalistic work during office hours, in the intervals of arduous toil; one man who wrote books used it. Nobody esteemed it wrong to screw up a sheet of extra superfine foolscap to throw across the room at a friend. Any firm that wasted a square yard of expensive paper over every paltry memorandum would probably go into the bankruptcy court, but such waste is only a symptom of the general disease which affects all Government offices.

A real business man going into the War Office (as it was) would have torn his hair. I can imagine the clearance which would have been made by a real organizer if he had to do what the War Office did on what it gets, provided he was to receive the surplus as wages of superintendence.

Lost a Regiment for a Week.

Though the military staff was in many ways superior to the civil staff, there were some officers holding responsible positions who were laughing-stocks to the humblest clerks. One staff officer, who was pleasant, amiable and incapable, touched nothing that he did not disarrange. He was not fit to superintend the needle and pin department at a provincial drapery establishment. To him belonged the signal honor of having lost a British regiment in England so thoroughly that it took a week to find it. The story would read like fiction, but by ordering this and countermanding that, by doing some things of his own and some through the W. O. and the Admiralty he hid the battalion so thoroughly that its late district said it was in Ireland, while Ireland said it was (let us say) at Colchester, and we in Pall Mall said it was at sea. But the Admiralty knew better, for H.M.S. Assistance (known to some in the navy as the Imperial pig boat), had gone to and fro and found nothing.

A Red Tape Minotaur.

The building in which the nation's war business is done typifies the way it is done. To go anywhere one goes up and down and round and round. The labyrinth holds a red-tape minotaur; the virgins of reform are strangled in high places. Like another Homer the Secretary of State gives back in flood what his subordinates send up to him in vapor. The military staff comes in fresh and goes out asphyxiated. With the honest sense of the evil lengths to which pure militarism can go it is impossible not to pity a service reformer face to face with War Office inertia and tradition.

Some will imagine this view exaggerated. It is at least certain that no War Office official will admit that the present office is like what I knew it to have been 25 years ago. But few retired men will believe it very different. The younger men there now are at least sure that the other departments are all wrong, and I very much doubt if any one of them would not admit that even now at least half his time is wasted by idiotic and antiquated methods.

Can't Reform Itself.

To expect reform to come out of the office itself is mere foolishness. It can no more reform itself than an old man can make himself young; than a confirmed alcoholic can break his habit. We call ourselves a business nation, and our War Office is proof of it! If it be business to do things that are not needed, to do things a dozen times over, and to shirk every present difficulty, then that office does business, indeed. But what may suit the nation, which does not know the truth, would ruin any ordinary firm, and if the War Office were to compete with men of business it would be bankrupt before the year is out.

WHY DO YOU SHIVER?

Because the Stomach is not Supplying the Body with the Heat it Needs—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets the Remedy.

These chill October days have a tendency to make people shiver. Do you know the cause of those shivers? It is because the stomach is not doing its full work. It is the duty of the stomach to furnish the body with heat. If the stomach is in a healthy condition this heat will be supplied. If it is not supplied, it is time to pay attention to the stomach.

It needs to be toned up and the best tonic is Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They digest the food while the stomach "rests up" and gets in condition to do its work.

The best proof that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will do this is the experience of those who have used them. They are unanimous in recommending them. Take the experience of Jassia Louisa Sellers, of Western Bay, Nfld., for example. She says:

"I believe Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have made a sound cure of me after being for seven years almost a dying woman. Now, thank God, after taking four boxes of them I am able to do my daily work as usual. I cannot praise Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets too much."

Circulation of the Bible.

In London and New York Bible Societies, established for the circulation of the scriptures as a religious obligation and not for pecuniary profit, are issuing millions of Bibles. The British and Foreign Bible Society, founded at London one hundred years ago, has sent out during that period about 175,000,000 copies of the Bible in whole or in part, in 363 languages and dialects; last year its issues were more than five millions, and nearly one-third of them were in the English language. The American Bible Society at New York, during its existence of about three-quarters of a century, has issued toward 75,000,000 Bibles and parts of the Bible, of the New Testament, more especially, In Germany are numerous Bible societies and the aggregate number of Bibles annually distributed by them is great.

When the King Was Prince.

Henry Labouchere was once asked what he called the Prince of Wales, now King Edward, when he dined at Marlborough House. "Well," said Labby, "when the soup comes on I address him as 'your royal highness.' The fish often softens the reserve, and I get a little chummier, and often as not I call him 'Wales,' while during the entrees and joints I get quite familiar, and he becomes 'Eddie,' while he slaps me on the back and dubs me 'Labby!'"

FOUND, ONE GOLD HEART

By LILIAN C. PASCHAL

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

"Well, I'll be—hanged!"

Blakely Gowe finished his exclamation of surprise with a milder word than he had in mind, which was an impolite reference to the next condition popularly supposed to follow immediately after the one mentioned. But somehow the profane word stuck. It seemed an affront to the pictured face which looked up at him from the tiny, heart shaped locket he had just picked up from under a sheltering banana rind on lower Broadway.

He stared as one who sees a ghost at the trinket which had been concealed from the eyes of the throng in the crowded street only to come to him, for the young, smiling, white browed man's face which was enshrined in the little gold heart was his own.

His own, yet not his. It was another Blakely Gowe of a former existence, so long ago, ten century years. A whole lifetime he had lived since the time he hung this locket over Dolly Kirk's true little heart. He had gone west shortly afterward to make that elusive goal, a fortune. Ranching at first in Montana, then wearying of the slow process and the long wait before New York and Dolly could be counted among the radiant possibilities of life, he had gone to the Klondike.

What years of struggle and suffering, privation and danger had been his! What wanderings over the frozen slopes about the gaunt peaks of the Chilkoot, and all to no purpose. Disheartened at last, he had deemed it the only manly thing to do to write Dolly before plunging farther into an unknown country up the Yukon not to wait for him any longer. He "was up against it and always would be," and what right had he to spoil her young life?

He had completely "lost his grip" after that and, not caring whither he went, had drifted. At last after five weary years, heartsick and home hungry, he had turned his face southward toward "God's country." He had "beat his way" across the continent from Seattle the month before and, ashamed in his tattered condition to apply for help from his old friends, had been hunting for work ever since. His last job had taken him into the busy ranks of the subway workers.

"Lord! I hadn't known what it is to be up against it then or I couldn't have looked like that!" he groaned as he scrutinized the boyish countenance of that other self. "And little Dolly—I wonder if ten years have changed her much?"

He pulled his watch from his frayed pocket. In his worst times he had never yielded to the temptation to sell it. He pried it open now and held it up alongside the locket, stepping into a convenient doorway to be out of the crowd.

What he saw photographed on the gold was a sweet girl face, clouded about with masses of dark hair and the whole framed in a graven, heart shaped arabesque, to match the locket, he had told her.

"A fine looking pair," people had said of them. Gowe glanced from the likeness into a plate glass window near and smiled drearily at the contrast. His gaunt, unshaven cheeks and prematurely graying temples and rough clothes made the disguise complete.

"She'd never know me in the world," he ruminated ruefully, "and I'm hungry just for one look at her. If I were to put an ad. in the paper now—I think I can scrape up the necessary pennies. By Jove, I'll do it!" And he started off briskly toward Park row.

His ad. was short and concise, but it covered the ground:

Found.—Corner Broadway and Spring street, one gold heart containing photo. Owner can have same by communicating with Yukon, 140.

The next morning he was the first at the window and waiting in feverish impatience for the clerk to appear. When at last that important functionary came he glanced at Gowe and remarked yawningly: "Yukon, 140? Here you are. Next."

Hastily he tore it open and read:

Yukon, 140, Care Whirlwind, Downtown.

Dear Sir—I saw your ad. in yesterday's paper. I do hope it is my locket you have found. I value it most highly and will pay more than its intrinsic worth for its return if you will call or let me know where to go to identify it tomorrow morning about 10. I had notices inserted in all the papers yesterday. Perhaps you saw them. Yours anxiously,

DOROTHY KIRK,
No. — Central Park West.

Of course—he might have known she would advertise—he had been so absorbed in his own plan for the restoration of the locket and for a sight of Dolly that he had not thought of that. He had spent his last nickel for a meager breakfast at the Wayside inn. Never mind, he would walk; he had the strength of ten now. That little magic word "Kirk" in her note had given him new life and hope.

She was not married then, and she still prized the little gold heart he had given her—enough to offer a reward more than its value. Why, he would go to work in the subway or anywhere. He could live on 40 cents a day and save 60. Then when he had enough he would buy some decent clothes and go to Halburn, in Wall street. He could do something for him—get him a good position perhaps, and then—Dolly!

Once again his feet kept time to the old quickstep which makes the world go round. All of life was once more set to the sweet music of a woman's name—"Dolly, Dolly! My Dolly!"

"You wish to see Miss Kirk? Is it about the locket?" said the sweetest voice in all the world. Dolly at seventeen had been lovely, but Dolly at twenty-seven was more beautiful. How he longed to take her in his arms again—his long empty arms that had ached so often for their precious burden!

All he needed to do was to show her his watch with her photo etched inside. But, no; she might even think he had stolen it. She would never recognize this bruised and broken derelict for her lost lover. He went white under the tan, with the effort it cost him to remain unrecognized. He held out the locket toward her and bowed; his stiffened lips refused his words. Seeing his apparent embarrassment, Dolly melted to kindness.

"Yes, my good man; that is mine, and, oh, I am so glad to get it back!" she broke out impulsively. "It was given me by the best friend I ever had in the world. I will reward you liberally."

She took from her chatelaine at her belt two crisp ten dollar bills and held them toward him. He stiffened at once. He had not thought of the reward. Then all at once he remembered and took the money with a hand that trembled.

"I shall be profoundly grateful to you," he said, with eager eyes on her face, "if you will permit me to call it merely a loan. I will repay you as surely as the sun rises tomorrow morning."

Dolly stirred uneasily. Who was this strange, unkempt man with the haunting eyes and the speech of a college professor? Poor fellow, he looked hungry. Perhaps he had had so much trouble it had turned his brain. She rose hastily.

"Why, certainly, Mr.—Mr. Yukon," she stammered, "and thank you so much. Goodby." And to her own amazement, compelled by those eyes, she put out her hand. He seized it and pressed his dry, hot lips upon it, then ran down the brownstone steps.

He went straight to a haberdashery, a barber shop and a cafe in turn. Then, transformed into a keen faced New York business man—so much for outward appearances—presented himself at the downtown office of the Wall street broker who had been his father's chum at college.

* * * * * * *

"There, my darling Mrs. Gowe, is the twenty I owe you."

Dolly looked up from the dressing table where she was "doing up" her cloudy hair. Her husband never tired of watching this fascinating operation.

"You big mischievous boy," she said fondly. "You love to tease, don't you? How do you happen to owe me twenty?" expecting to hear his oft repeated declaration that he owed everything in the world to her.

"Because I borrowed it from you two years ago," he replied soberly, "and gave as security a heart shaped gold locket."

And then he told her, with his fingers buried in the soft mass of her wonderful hair. When he had finished her little hand stole up to his and carried it down past a tear stained cheek to two trembling lips.

"And I give you back as security, dear," she said, "a little heart with your face engraved in it—to have and to hold forever."

Stumped the Englishman.

"My wife advertised for a cook the other day," said a Columbia heights man, "and among the applicants for the job was the blackest woman I ever saw. But she passed muster all right, and my wife engaged her. We had at dinner that evening a young Englishman, a family connection, who had only been in this country a couple of weeks. The Englishman happened to catch a glimpse of our new cook before dinner was served.

"'By Jove, y' knaw, what an uncommonly black person!' he exclaimed amazedly, after seeing the cook.

"'She is somewhat dingy, isn't she?' said my wife amusedly. 'What do you suppose her name is?'

"The Englishmen gave it up, of course.

"'Her name is Goldie,' said my wife laughingly.

"The young Englishman looked puzzled and as solemn as an owl.

"'Goldie,' he repeated mystifiedly. 'Fawncy! By Jove, now, that's odd, y' knaw! Why should she be called "Goldie" when she's so—er—uncommonly black, y' knaw? Wouldn't you naturally think, y' knaw, that "Goldie" would be a more appropriate name for—er—a blond, y' knaw?'

"The young Englishman was my guest for four days after that, but was still marveling, with the utmost seriousness, over the mysterious significance of 'Goldie's' name when he took his departure."—Washington Post.

Pitcher Plant.

One of the most remarkable carnivorous vegetables in the world is the pitcher plant of the tropics. It is safe to say at least that no other plant in its kingdom is more ingenious in catching its prey and in disposing of it afterward.

The plant is shaped very much like a pitcher, with the mouth, of course, at the top. The pitcher is, moreover, perfectly water tight and is usually well filled with rain water. The sides are very smooth and inviting.

The plant, thus equipped, lies in wait, if the expression may be used, until some fly or small insect enters or falls into the water compartment. So smooth are the sides that when the prey is once in the water it has great difficulty in getting out and, as a rule, quickly drowns. The insect is then devoured by the plant.

How "Oliver Twist" Was Created.

Even the highest genius must sometimes borrow, or at least appropriate, the hints of others. Few, however, could make so fine use of a hint as Dickens could.

The true story of the origin of "Oliver Twist" is not generally known. It is this: After the amazing success of the "Pickwick Papers" Dickens was thinking of following it up by a story of London life, with which he was more familiar than with English country life.

Just about that time he happened to visit the studio of George Cruikshank and was shown some drawings the latter had made illustrating the career of a London thief.

There was a sketch of Fagin's den, with the Artful Dodger and Master Charley Bates, pictures of Bill Sikes and his dog and Nancy Sikes and lastly Fagin in the condemned cell. Dickens was much struck by the power of these character sketches, and the result was that he changed the whole plot of "Oliver Twist." Instead of taking him through spiritless adventures in the country he introduced him into the thieves' den in London, showed up their life of sin, but brought his hero through pure and undefiled.

Thus it will be seen that George Cruikshank, not Charles Dickens, was the originator of the leading characters that appear in "Oliver Twist."

Nature and Art in Greek Statues.

Archaeologists have observed that in Greek statues the male eye is strongly arched, while the female eye has rather a flattened surface, and, referring to accounts by the older anatomists who have affirmed such a difference to exist, they have seen in this a fresh proof of the exact observation of nature by the ancient Greeks. The rule is not without exceptions, for the cornea in the Zeus of Otricoli has quite a flat form. Herr Greef recently set himself to inquire whether such a sexual difference actually exists, and from individual measurement of the radius of the cornea in the horizontal meridian he gets an average of 7.83 millimeters for men and 7.82 millimeters for women (Donders gives 7.858 and 7.799), so the difference is so small as to be imperceptible to the naked eye. Measurement of other dimensions gave but minute differences also. The author concludes that the Greeks from artistic motives did not in this case follow nature.—London Nature.

A Bright Scotch Laddie.

A Scotch minister in one of his parochial visits met a cowboy and asked him what o'clock it was. "About 12, sir," was the reply. "Well," remarked the minister, "I thought it was more." "It's never any more here," said the boy; "it just begins at 1 again."

Ran on a Shoal.

Winnipeg, Oct. 29.—Word has been received here of the loss of the Hudson Bay Company ship Lady Mead in Hudson Bay on Sept. 25, by running on Gasket Shoal in a storm. She was homeward bound, fur laden, and is a total loss, but all on board were saved.

A Joke From the Bench.

Notwithstanding his twenty-two years of service on the bench, Lord Justice Mathew still preserves that elasticity of spirit and love of a joke which has distinguished him all through his career. One of his remarks the other day created great merriment in the court of appeal. A learned King's counsel was arguing the question as to what is an "accident" and was putting instances of what he considered would properly come within that term and what, on the other hand, would not. "Suppose," said he, "some one were to hit me in the eye and my eye became black in consequence, the fact of it becoming black could not be called an accident." "Perhaps not," said the lord justice, "but you would doubtless explain it on that ground."—Westminster Gazette.

G. P. O.

It is related that when first he visited Ireland, Thackeray took a drive on a Dublin car some distance into the country. Milestones had recently been erected along the roads, and on each was printed the number of miles, with the letters "G.P.O.," distances being measured from the general postoffice. Thackeray was unaware of this, and in his thirst for information, asked the carman what the letters meant. The prompt reply was, "God preserve O'Connell."

Thackeray believed what he was told, but the incident only appeared in the first edition of his book.

THE CHISELHURST CAVES.

British Archaeological Association Recently Traveled Five Miles of the Caves Without Getting Near Their End.

Several members of the British Archaeological Association recently paid a visit to the strange caves at Chislehurst, having had their curiosity aroused by a paper read at the meeting of the Society at Sheffield by Mr. W. J. Nichols, of Chislehurst. Their curiosity was amply rewarded, for these caves are amongst the most remarkable remains of hyposean or underground dwelling man in the world. The entrance to them is in the face of the cliff close to the railway, and the passages run enormous distances into the earth, the party traversing some five miles of the caves without getting anywhere near their termination. The caves are cut into the chalk, the theory being that they were first hollowed out by the sea in primeval times and afterwards adapted by primitive man for the purposes of dwellings, fodder-stores, and places of safety during war. The passages are formed with great regularity, the walls showing the tool-marks of the ancient workers. They vary from five to 10 feet in height and from three to 12 feet in width. Running off the passages are alcoves or side-chambers with beehive-shaped domes, some of them containing a sort of raised dais which has been variously guessed at as being used as an altar or for a sleeping place. The dome-shaped cells as a rule run in pairs, one apartment being from three to four feet higher than the other. In one place there is the rude figure of an animal, either a really fossilized creature or an effort in sculpture on the part of the cave dwellers. Another passage contains a splendidly sunk well, some six feet in diameter, lined with flint, and having a depth of nearly 300 feet. At another place is a cruciform cave, supposed to have been used in the dark ages as a chapel. There is no doubt that the caves were worked for their fine flint in the earlier ages for arrow heads, and in later days for gun-flints. Roman pottery and worked flints have been found in this vast subterranean labyrinth, which has no doubt given shelter through long ages to many and varying races of mankind.

Henry Labouchere.

To understand the character of Labouchere one must know that this mocking spirit, who has broken more knaves and more shams than almost any man, who has figured in a hundred fights to the death in law courts and has never, or rarely, been worsted, is human like the rest of us. He is considerate to all those around him; sometimes even he is shy and timid. It is said that when he rings a bell for a servant with any impatience, he runs out of the room before the servant has time to appear. And I have often seen this spirit of almost sardonic mockery blush like a girl.

The face but shows the contradiction of the character. When first you look at it you are conscious only of its mockery. The eyes—black, cold, penetrating—are made even more quizzically funny by eyebrows that twist and turn as though they were prepared by some theatrical coiffeur for a barytone about to play Mephistopheles. But the mouth reveals that other side of the spirit; it reveals the man of iron resolution, of inflexible opinions, of enmities that do not die. Napoleon used to be called Jupiter-Scapin; I might sum up Labby as Scapin-Cromwell.—T. P. O'Connor, in Everybody's.

Tennyson's Garden.

Throughout his life Tennyson carried with him the memory of a garden. It belonged to the quiet rectory at Somersby, in Lincolnshire, where he was born. It was his earliest memory, and one of his sweetest, and perhaps made him so essentially the poet of gardens. He loved the rectory, the Gothic vaulted dining room, with stained glass windows, and his nursery, where woodbine climbed in at the window. It lay among Lincolnshire lanes not far from the wild North Sea, and was a "meet nurse for a poetic child." It is doubtful whether Tennyson loved the gardens of his statelier homes as he did "this haunt of ancient peace." Its lawns were bordered by wych-elms, larch and sycamore, and he has drawn us a vivid word picture of it.

> Wych-elms that counterchange the floor
> Of this flat lawn with dusk and bright;
> And thou, with all thy breadth and height
> Of foliage, towering sycamore.

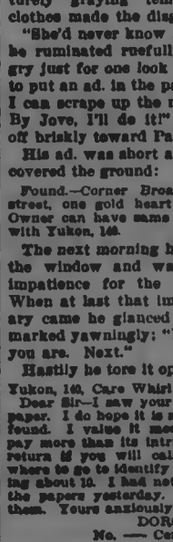
The Price of Pleasure.

It is hard for a lovely woman to forego the pleasures of the life which she was created to enjoy and adorn. She may have to be busy all day in office or in store, yet she cannot deny herself the social pleasures which are offered her. But the fatigue is often too great for her, and she suffers from headache and backache as a consequence of over-exertion.



Women who are tired and worn out will find a perfect tonic and nervine in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures headache, backache and the other aches and pains to which women are subject. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"I am so pleased with your instructions, I hardly know what thanks to give you for your kind favors," writes Mrs Milo Bryant, of Lola, Thomas Co., Ga. "I suffered so much with great pains in my back and the lower part of my stomach and palpitation of the heart, that at times I could hardly lie down. Could hardly get up in the morning. But after using three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and two vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, I am like a new woman."

Sick women, especially those suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

QUOTATIONS ON THE WALL STREET MARKET.

The Market Took a Slump To-day.

The Fluctuations of the Leading Stocks —Market Letters.

The Wall street market was slow and heavy this morning, sales to noon being only 130,000. The market opened at about last night's close, and for a short while appeared to show some strength, particularly in the Gould stocks. However, nearly all the issues commenced to show a downward tendency and prices crumbled away fractionally. C. P. R. sold off to 119; Atch, 66 7-8; St. Paul, 124 3-4 and Mop to 91 1-2. During the noon hour the market made a feeble attempt at a rally, but it was of no significance.

McMillan & Maguire, stock brokers, Hunter street, have received the following despatch.

New York, October 29th.—Firmness in Gould stocks to some extent confirmed report that Bull view of market was entertained by George Gould. Brokers usually acting for people most decidedly interested have been very fair buyers. Movement in Penna., however, looked more like an attempt of Wormser and a few traders to get up sympathetic rumors of peace between the two interests. There is no reason for supposing that there has been any change in the situation. Excellent showing of Reading following remarkable Erie figures helped hard coalers, especially as O.W. statement also showed up well. Traction stocks firm on settlement of Manhattan labour difficulty. —F. C. Co.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Wheat opened about last night's close. Considerable wheat came out around opening. Both May and Dec. sold off half cent. at the low point, there was some rally by short covering. Later market turned weak on St. Louis selling. Closing heavy with a loss of 1-2 cent for Dec., and 1-4 for May. Primary receipts 1,124,500 against 1,630,200 a year ago. North-west cars 912, against 1,000 last year. Trade is very dull. We look for a small trade and only a scalping market.

SURVEYING TOUR IN NEW ONTARIO.

Interesting Recital of the Chief Features of the Journey.

Mr. J. A. Fitz, B. A., Tells the Story of His Travels.

LETTER FOUR.

We found the Hudson Bay Company's agent at the Abittibi Post much more courteous and communicative than the "Auld Scot," to whom reference was made in our last letter, and much information was obtained from him concerning the remainder of the route. These men who serve the company in such out of the way places certainly make great sacrifices. Away from civilization, their social and educational advantages are few indeed. Think of one's children having no companions except the untutored children of the forest. We were struck with this fact on observing the agent's boys—two lads of about 14 and 16 years, romping with the Indian boys of about their own age. They spoke Indian seemingly as well as their companions; their very laugh was Indian. One of them on being asked whether he attended school and how long he had lived in Abittibi country, replied: — "Never went to school." "Don't know me, how long me been here." Being anxious to learn the meaning of the word "Abittibi," we asked many of the older Indians regarding it, but got no satisfactory information until on my way home, meeting an old man who spoke about the same dialect as the people around Villiers, I asked him about it and his reply was that it meant "blue waters." This name is very suitable for the water of the lake is a bluish grey on account of the great quantity of clay in suspension in it. Indeed the water is so murky from this cause that few, if any fish, can be caught by the trawl. The Indians fish with gill nets and easily obtain plenty of pike, whitefish, pickerel, red-finned suckers, herring and another variety of large sucker. The old man above referred to was an interesting character, having been in the employ of the Hudson Bay Company for over forty years. We thought him a thoroughbred Scotchman, but he proudly affirmed "that he was an Indian;" he did condescend to admit that his two grand-fathers were Scotch and had been killed at the time of the troubles between the Hudson Bay Company, and the North-west Fur Company. Before leaving Abittibi village two Indians and canoe were engaged to lighten our loads, our boats being too heavily laden for the rough water which we expected to encounter.

Abittibi Lake is about 90 miles in length and in some places as much as 35 miles in width, but generally quite shallow, and although it is studded with numerous islands yet in may places there are wide stretches of exposed water which are often too rough for canoes such as we had, and we were well satisfied that the extra men and boat had been secured. Even with loads lightened we were compelled to seek shelter for two days on the way up and were thoroughly convinced that our canoes were much too small for those waters, for even our 19 ft. boat with a load of about 700 lbs. and three of a crew was too heavily burdened to stand a rough sea. But the Peterborough canoe when just loaded sufficiently for ballast stands a heavy swell splendidly, she rises with the rolling waves beautifully instead of ploughing into them as the Indian birch bark does. All canoes built in this district are known in the Abittibi country as Peterborough canoes, and are much admired for their speed and lightness of draught.

Indians are extremely cautious boatsmen, this was particularly noticeable in the two extra men whom we had engaged, who were thoroughly acquainted with the lake, but who always hugged the shore instead of venturing across exposed stretches of water if it were at all stormy. On our third day on the lake we reached Biederman's Trading Post, situated about 40 miles from its eastern end. A short distance farther on we passed two Indian burying brounds, which were interesting to us. Around each grave is a railing of cedar pickets or cedar poles laid lenthwise and morticed at the corners. At the head of each grave is erected a rough cedar cross beside which is a small pole carrying a white flag, the significance of which we were not able to learn.

Fourteen miles beyond Biederman's a portage of about one mile was made across a peninsula in order to avoid a 15 mile paddle around it. About the middle of the portage is a little lake three or four acres in area, which, so far as one can see, has neither inlet nor outlet. Its water is beautifully clear and although no fish can be caught with hook and line in the large lake near by, there seems to be almost no limit to the number of fine pike which one can pull from its transparent depths. When on my way home I met a survey party at this portage who having set a gill net over night took from it 40 pike in the morning. The northern shore of the lake is a picturesque spot, it rises gradually about 30 feet forming a plateau of light sandy loam covered with wintergreen and huckleberry bushes on which there was an abundance of fruit at the time of our visit. The timber for some distance back from the lake is scattered jack pine and a few poplar. This was the first clump of pines we had seen since leaving the height of land, and here and there among them are several lonely graves with crosses and flags like those already described. At the head of one of them is a small marble slab bearing this inscription,—"Pierre Burnard, aged 16 years, accidentally shot Aug. 1895, while taking his gun from his boat." Beyond the peninsula already spoken of was a wide stretch of unsheltered water which we had been dreading, for our map only showed two small islands on the course and these afforded little shelter from the north-west winds which sweep this arm of the lake. But fortunately we had an ideal afternoon to make the eight mile trip across to the mouth of the Abittibi river which drains the lake away towards Hudsons' Bay. On entering this large river we soon had evidence of its swift current for our canoes glided swiftly on without much paddling. Six miles down the river is Couchiching Falls, thirty feet high, the roar of which we heard several miles away. To pass the falls one must portage for a half mile and even then the current is very swift and some water was shipped before smooth water was reached. After an hour's paddling the rumble of another rapid was heard in the distance. Our Indians ran this one, but the rest of us not being experts preferred to make a short portage. A short distance farther down a large moose was sighted quietly feeding close to the water's edge. The current was very swift, and the wind blowing towards us, so there was little danger of his scenting us; paddles were shipped, and we drifted quietly towards him. At a distance of about 150 yards it was thought wise to try a shot at him, but the marksman, who had been shooting the heads off patridge with his new Winchester, all along the route, missed the moose, which on hearing the report, raised his huge head for a moment, and quietly began feeding. A second shot was tried, but it, too, went wide, and the lordly animal becoming alarmed, trotted leisurely up the bank, and again stood to survey us from his improved point of observation. Another shot failed to bring him down, and being now frightened, he crashed into the forest. Truly "buck fever" plays havoc with inexperienced hunters. I think the man who handled the rifle felt a little cheap, but he consoled himself by remarking that "it was just as well that he did not kill the deer, as it was the 'close season,' and the weather being pretty warm, the meat wouldn't keep anyway." But this was poor satisfaction to hungry men, who had had no fresh meat for three weeks, and had almost smelt the odour of juicy moose steak.

Father down the river is another swift rapid, in the middle of which is a large island, on either side of which the water rushes with almost lightning speed. The Indians ran all five canoes to the foot of the island, the rest of us being well content to walk over the portage.

A few miles farther down we heard the rumble of another waterfall, which our map showed to be about one mile in length, and as no portage was marked, it was considered safe to run it, and the canoe in advance paddled out into the swift current. She flew rapidly past the first dangerous looking spot, shipping a little water; a little farther down she caught a hidden rock, swung around, cleared herself, and again struck heavily on a large rock standing right out of the water. Here she upset, and her crew had the first bath they had had for at least two weeks, and 200 pounds of granulated sugar went down to sweeten the murky waters of the treacherous Abittibi. The rifle, too, went to the bottom, and bundles of bedding and other buoyant stuff went drifting down stream. Fortunately the water was not very deep, so the crew were able to cling to the rock, and prevent the canoe from getting away.

Meanwhile the second canoe was caught in the current, and in passing the first bad spot nearly half filled with water, and with difficulty got ashore without swamping. After bailing out, she again started down but only ran about fifty yards when she caught a sunken rock just amidship, and swung around sideways to the current. How she escaped capsizing was more than we could understand, but here she balanced on that point of rock until help came from the Indians, who on nearing the head of the rapids, stood up in the stern of the canoe, made a careful survey of the water, and went safely through the other side of the stream, with the heaviest loaded boat and with three of a crew. Canoe No. 4, although she took the same path as those which had come to grief, got down in safety, and No. 5 followed the Indians, and also got through all right.

One could not help admiring the skill and coolness displayed by these half-breeds in these turbulent waters, which for those of us who were inexperienced, were somewhat dangerous. Of course they had had a long course of training, having driven the Ottawa for fifteen successive seasons, where the running of rapids is a daily occurrence. Having safely reached the foot of "the one mile rapid," we were thoroughly convinced that it required more canoe experience to successfully navigate the Abittibi River than one is likely to gain on the Otonabee River or Stony Lake. We saw clearly that in running rapids the man in the bow requires as much skill in handling his paddle, if not more, than the man in the stern; he needs a quick eye, to be quick in thought, and fully as quick in execution. These characteristics Dave, the half-breed bow hand, possessed in a remarkable degree, and comparing his success in the rapids with our own, we felt a little envious of his accomplishments. But handling a canoe was not the only acquirement which these men possessed—they were both clever axemen, and spoke three languages quite fluently, French to their Canadian companions, English to us and Algonquin to each other. On being asked whether they had attended school, Batese replied in the negative, but Dave said, "Yes, one day; didn't like it much so jumped the job." During the afternoon of the day of the above chapter of disasters, three other swift rapids were successfully run, and at noon of the next day the mouth of the Black River was reached. This was the end of our long toilsome journey, and we were heartily glad that it had been safely accomplished. This was the 28th of July, and we left Toronto on the 11th.

Our next anxiety was to find the line from which to start our work, which line our departmental instructions stated we would find had been run, and crossed the Abittibi River at a certain point. But although diligent search was made down the Abittibi ten miles farther to Iroquois Falls, and for sixteen miles up the Black River, no trace of this line could be found. It was evident that "some one had blundered," and that no line had been run anywhere near that part during the present summer.

It was decided that we should run traverse lines along the shores of the rivers in our two townships, and we fully expected that when this was completed our base line would be run, and things would go ahead rapidly.

Day after day passed, and we had done about all we could do before starting the main part of the work, and still no line was run.

By this time our supply of provisions was getting low, and we were daily expecting the arrival of the two Indians who had helped us over Lake Abittibi, and who had agreed to bring our supplies from Biederman's store to the mouth of the Black River, and to deliver it there by August 1st.

We waited patiently and had plenty of opportunity to admire the dense forest of fine spruce averaging from about six to twenty-five inches in diameter, and of great height; also very large poplar, balm of gilead, and a few birch. For the existence of the latter we were most thankful, for without it we would have had great difficulty in starting fires, rain having fallen on seventeen days out of the first month of our sojourn in that country, and everything was thoroughly wet. The soil along the rivers is a greyish coloured clay with a thin covering of loam and vegetable mould. It is free from stone, and I believe is good agricultural land. Just how far back from the rivers this kind of soil extends, I am not prepared to say, not having had the opportunity of travelling more than three miles back from the water. Reliable information regarding the country will no doubt be furnished by the eleven or more survey parties who have been sent out by the Government this season. Besides good soil, there is an abundance of good water, many fine creeks having been observed flowing into the rivers which were traversed. Evidences of the presence of moose were plentiful. Several fisher were also seen, and one evening a mink crept close to the camp fire and was killed by a stick thrown by one of the men. Partridge were abundant, food for them in the form of wild red currants, being very plentiful. Only an occasional duck was seen, due probably to the fact that very little marsh exists along the rivers owing to the swiftness of the current. Not a robin or a crow was observed beyond the height of land, but ravens were very numerous, and the weird "whoo-whoo," of the owl was often the only sound that disturbed the stillness of the night. Only two kinds of waterfowl were plentiful — the ordinary white gull, and a species of black and white tern or sea swallow, which are in great numbers, particularly on the lake and river Abittibi. No geese were seen and only a few few cranes, (herons.) The beautiful Canada jay, (called also "Whiskey Jack," meat bird and camp robber,) was a constant visitor to our camp and did not allow any scraps from the kitchen to go to waste.

CANADA THE WEALTHY.

That so eminent a statistician as Sir Robt. Griffin should declare Canada is wealthier per head than either Britain or the United States, is as gratifying as it is unexpected.

His figures show that were Canada's wealth divided, each inhabitant would have $240. Britain per head can only show $210, while the United States wealth averages but $175 an individual.

In plain language this means that Canadians as a rule live in better houses, eat better food, wear better clothes, have more pocket money and more of all comfort that money can buy than either the people of Great Britain or the American republic.

And the comparison is more in favour of Canada than the figures show, for in both Britain and the United States there are vast fortunes hoarded by the few, which go to increase the apparent general average. In Canada the millionaires can almost be counted on the fingers of both hands. Canada's wealth is divided more evenly than that of most other nations.

And greatest of all in its possibilities is Sir Robert Griffin's figures which show that all the nations of the earth combined do not possess the wealth of the United British Empire and American Republic.

Such figures afford small grounds for argument to those who hold that the English-speaking race is on a commercial or mental decline.—Ottawa Journal.

CANADA'S PREFERENCE PROOF OF GOOD-WILL

And Should not be Underated nor Despised.

Fiscal Campaign Rages Merrily in Great Britain—Earl Beauchamp Criticises Chamberlain's Policy—Australian Premier Announces his Support of the Proposals —Opinion in Australia.

London, Oct. 30.—(C.A.P.)—Sir W. H. Holland, M.P., at a meeting of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, pointed out that Manchester free traders in the Commercial Congress in Canada were not likely to find themselves in a majority. The Canadian delegates could hardly be expected to object to having a substantial preference given their wares in the British market if such a preference were offered. If they had chosen to bring forward a resolution stipulating for such treatment they could easily have carried it. If the Manchester delegates had proposed the resolution of the Manchester Chamber they would have been hopelessly beaten.

They therefore tried to get the sense of the resolution embodied in the words of the resolution carried by Congress. They succeeded to an extent which he thought secured that the industry of this district should be safeguarded.

With regard to the taxation of our raw material, Sir W. H. Holland declared that he had returned from Canada with the clear conviction in his mind that no preference was desired by Canadians, if it could be shown that giving a preference would in any degree injure the Mother Country. It was clear that Canadian manufacturers meant to protect their own market for the home producer.

The preferences already given were chiefly valuable as a proof of Canadian good-will towards the Mother Country, and on that ground they are to be neither under-rated nor despised.

Earl Beauchamp's Criticism.

London, Oct. 30.—(C.A.P.)—Earl Beauchamp, who is slated for the post of Governor-General of Canada if the Liberals win the general elections, speaking to Islington Liberals Wednesday night, said the Liberals were not fighting Balfour, but Lady MacBeth behind the scenes. That the colonies threatened to leave the Empire unless given a cash nexus was damning proof of the incapacity of Mr. Chamberlain during his eight years as Minister of the Colonies. The attitude of the Canadian manufacturers was indicative of his own policy. Chamberlain's speeches raised great bitterness in Canada. Canadians would develop themselves, and could not be forced any more than stars could be forced from the sky. This showed Canada's position towards preferential trade.

Concludes Liverpool Visit.

London, Oct. 30.—(C.A.P.)—Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain concluded their visit to Liverpool by a visit to the University and the Royal Southern Hospital. Nearly an hour was spent inspecting the Tropical School of Medicine, whose work is closely linked with the colonies. The students went wild with enthusiasm and cheered them vociferously.

Cheering crowds swarmed around Mr. Chamberlain and blocked his escape. Mrs. Chamberlain spoke to the parents, bestowing some flowers. Her bouquet to the patients raised a combined cheer and the gathering sang "He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Mr. Chamberlain remains at Highbury this week, preparing for the great demonstration at Birmingham Wednesday night.

Joseph Feels Sure.

London, Oct. 30.—Mr. Chamberlain yesterday, before leaving Liverpool, declared that he was more confident than ever of his success. He had not thought he had accomplished as much as he found he had. He was bound to win.

Declined to Be Drawn.

London, Oct. 30.—(C. A. P.)—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, asked by the Free Food League, if his presence on the same platform with the Prime Minister at the Unionist meeting were not altogether inconsistent with his position as a leading member of the League, replied yesterday that he was unable to see any inconsistency, but he declined to make any statement for publication.

A New Fraud.

London, Oct. 30.—(C. A. P.)—Sir Lewis McIver, speaking yesterday, said there was no way for Camden infallibility now. Free trade was an old fraud. The new one was free food.

Ritchie's Mixed Reception.

Aberdeen, Scotland, Oct. 30.—Mr. Ritchie, the former Chancellor of the Exchequer, had a mixed reception at Aberdeen University yesterday afternoon, when he delivered his rectorial address. When he exhorted his hearers to "let the remembrance of the relief afforded by the repeal of the corn laws steel your hearts against the proposal to tax the food of the people," hostile cries were mingled with the cheers and much rowdyism prevailed.

Backing Up Chamberlain.

Melbourne, Victoria, Oct. 30.—Alfred Deakin, the new federal Prime Minister, in announcing the ministerial policy to a meeting at Ballarat, said he was prepared to reciprocate the proposals of Joseph Chamberlain, concerning the British fiscal policy.

The adoption of this policy, he said, would require that Australia grow vast quantities of wheat and increase her dairy produce. It would result in turning the tide of emigration towards the Commonwealth. The Government, the Prime Minister said, would support the development of national trades. He said that the watchword should be "fiscal peace and preferential trade for white Australia."

A vote of confidence in the federal ministry was passed unanimously.

Australian Opinion.

London, Oct. 30.—Cables received yesterday show that Australia anticipates that if Chamberlain is successful in his campaign he will submit definite proposals to the colonies as to the particular classes of goods exported from Great Britain on which a preference is desired. The Commonwealth Government believe that Chamberlain's policy is a good one for Australia. It believes it will attract the needed white population, and will increase production a thousand fold.

New Plan From Italy.

Rome, Oct. 30.—The Nueva Antalagia yesterday published an article by Signor Luzzatti, who is to be Finance Minister in the new Giolitti Cabinet. On the proposed protectionist plans in Great Britain, he says that England certainly enriched herself through free trade, but had as certainly begun to suffer from the competition of rival countries, especially the United States and Germany. It had, therefore, become necessary for England to change her policy in accordance with the program of Premier Balfour, which Signor Luzzatti considers simpler and more practical than that of Joseph Chamberlain. He advocates for Great Britain a system of negotiations based on a general tariff, which would change the financial policy of the world. In view of the possibilities of such an event, Signor Luzzatti advises the countries of Europe to denounce their commercial treaties, waiting, however, for the result of the next general election in Great Britain and in the meantime only supporting international conferences similar to that of the Brussels sugar conference for the suppression of the premium on the exportation of iron and steel.

South African Preference.

London, Oct. 30.—(C. A. P.)—British papers, apart from a bare statement in half a dozen lines, announcing Canadian preference in South Africa, make no comment whatever.

THE PREMIER'S HEALTH.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Finished the Long Session in Splendid Form—Two New Government Steamers Proposed.

Ottawa, Oct. 30.—The Prime Minister leaves this morning for Montreal and Quebec, but will be back in time for the Governor-General's state dinner on the evening of Nov. 9. Before returning he will visit Arthabaskaville, which he has not seen for several months. Sir Wilfrid is in infinitely better health than he was early in the year, and believes that he has got rid of the stomach trouble with which he was affected. He came through the phenomenal Parliamentary session in much better shape physically than many members who regarded their state of health as perfect. It is improbable that there will be any general reassembling of the Ministers until about the 15th November. Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Raymond Prefontaine both propose paying a visit to the Maritime Provinces next week.

First of Canada's Navy.

If the Government accepts Hon. Mr. Prefontaine's recommendation, propositions will soon be invited for two additions to the fisheries protection fleet. One of these is intended for the great lakes and the other for the lower Provinces. The latter will be an exceptionally fine ship, and, to quote an official statement, will be "the first vessel of Canada's proposed fleet."

Has Not Resigned.

Toronto, Oct. 30.—The Minister of Agriculture, Hon. John Dryden, gives an emphatic denial to the despatch from Ottawa that G. C. Creelman, superintendent of Farmers' Institutes, had resigned. Mr. Creelman has not asked for an increase and the Government has not considered the matter of giving him an increase. Mr. Dryden said, however, that he was aware Mr. Creelman had received several tempting offers, and that an effort would be made to hold him.

Mr. Creelman receives a salary of $2,000. It is understood that he will be given $2,500 if he will remain at his post.

Toronto Man Gets Contract.

Ottawa, Oct. 30.—F. P. Polson, Toronto, signed a contract with the Government yesterday for the construction of a triple expansion engine for the new Government dredge at Sorel, to cost $30,000.

Miss Whittaker, a prominent club woman of Savannah, Ga., tells how she was entirely cured of ovarian troubles by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I heartily recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a Uterine Tonic and Regulator. I suffered for four years with irregularities and Uterine troubles. No one but those who have experienced this dreadful agony can form any idea of the physical and mental misery those endure who are thus afflicted. Your Vegetable Compound cured me within three months. I was fully restored to health and strength, and now my periods are regular and painless. What a blessing it is to be able to obtain such a remedy when so many doctors fail to help you. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is better than any doctor or medicine I ever had. Very truly yours, MISS EASY WHITTAKER, 604 39th St., W. Savannah, Ga."

No physician in the world has had such a training or such an amount of information at hand to assist in the treatment of all kinds of female ills as Mrs. Pinkham. In her office at Lynn, Mass., she is able to do more for the ailing women of America than the family physician. Any woman, therefore, is responsible for her own trouble who will not take the pains to write to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. Her address is Lynn, Mass., and her advice is free.

A letter from another woman showing what was accomplished in her case by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: I am so grateful to you for the help Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has given me that I deem it but a small return to write you an expression of my experience.

"Many years suffering with weakness, inflammation, and a broken down system, made me more anxious to die than live, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound soon restored my lost strength. Taking the medicine only two weeks produced a radical change, and two months restored me to perfect health. I am now a changed woman, and my friends wonder at the change, it is so marvellous. Sincerely yours, MISS MATTIE HENRY, 420 Green St, Danville, Va."

The testimonials which we are constantly publishing from grateful women prove beyond a doubt the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to conquer female diseases.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

MADE IN CANADA

In a paragraph in another column it is stated that the great coffer dam of the Niagara Falls Power Company, on the Canadian side, is one of the greatest engineering feats of the world, and that engineers from all over the United States are visiting it, and admiring the engineering skill displayed in its construction. This speaks much for the capacity of Canadian engineers, and incidentally condemns the action of the Grand Trunk Pacific directorate, which, it is said, is employing American engineers in the laying out of the line of the new trans-continental railway. If this is true, it should in fairness not be the case. We have competent Canadian engineers, and they should certainly have the preference in connection with the construction of what is really a great national railway line. "Made in Canada" should consistently apply in this case. It is required that rails and material made in Canada is to be employed. In the Local Legislature, Hon. Mr. Harcourt, Minister of Education, justified the expenditure of some $200,000 for the construction of a new building for the School of Practical Science, on the ground that the great resources of Canada, and the great works that would spring from the application of the development policy of the Ross Government, would find employment for the graduates of the School. Therefore, everything points to the desirability and fairness of giving preference, especially where capability is evident, to Canadian engineers and Canadian-made scientific experts. With the Mother Country slicing off big chunks of Canadian territory, and American greed reaching out after everything possible, it behooves Canadians to get together, and keep together, to hold what we have, and to get and keep, what is our undoubted right. It is only by keeping the line of national solidarity unshaken, and presenting an unbroken front that Canadians can expect to get, and keep, at the front. "Made in Canada," should have the preference, whether it applies to mechanical products or men.

A London, England, newspaper says that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is disloyal to the Empire because he objects to Lord Alverstone's action in giving away, unjustly, a large slice of Canadian terrritory. On the same principle a wife could be charged with disloyalty to her husband if she objected to his bestowing her new hat upon his mistress.

Lord Alverstone helps Uncle Sam to a slice of our territory, and the Yankees buy up our most promising professional and other specialists. Mr. G. C. Creelman, superintendent of Farmers' Institutes for Ontario, has decided to accept a similar position in the State of Texas. He asked the Ontario Government to increase his salary from $2,200 to $3,000, but the Government could not meet his wishes. Mr. F. W. Hodson, Live Stock Commissioner, is considering the offer of a position with a salary of $6,000 attached, from the State of Pennsylvania.

CANADA'S MUSICAL CULTURE.

Bandmaster Rogan Delighted With His Experiences in the Dominion.

London, Oct. 29. — Bandmaster Rogan, of the Coldstream Guards, is delighted with his visit to Canada. He says everywhere hospitality was extended to the band with a free hand. The trip was a grand success financially. They played before half a million people. They never played the national anthem so many times per day before as on the trip in Canada.

Mr. Rogan was surprised to find in the most out-of-way places the most consummate knowledge of Wagner, Tschaikowsky and the great symphonies. The older masters were appreciated everywhere. "Canada is quite abreast of the Mother Country in this respect."

TIME FOR IMPROVEMENT.

(Farmers' Sun.)

That the long session has passed at Ottawa without the protection system being made materially worse is due to the wise respect of the Government for a strong undercurrent of popular feeling. This restraining sentiment is expressed occasionally by resolutions of farmers' meetings, and is sustained by that section of the press which adheres to the policy and platform of the Liberal party when in Opposition. From the recognized party Opposition, the classes who bear the burden of protection received no assistance. In fact, the influence of the Opposition was almost invariably in favour of the granting of class favours, so under the circumstances it is well that the importunities of the interested were so successfully resisted. It is true that the load interests of the West, aided by the railway interests, always in favour of local favours at general expense, were able to successfully tap the treasury and impose a charge on the consumers. But many of the larger and more powerful interests whose success would have had far more serious consequences were restrained by prudential considerations from risking a discussion of their existing special privileges in an attempt to obtain more.

It is highly satisfactory that the woollen and cotton manufacturing interests, after sounding public opinion regarding the granting of more protection, prudently refrained from precipitating a contest. They already enjoy protection which adds from one quarter to the value of their goods at the expense of the Canadian consumers. It is as if the farmer's wheat was artificially increased in price from 80 cents to $1 per bushel at public expense. When the people of Canada had no experience in the economic effects of such special favours, the privileged classes had but to ask for more restrictions and they were freely granted. Now there is a clearer economic understanding abroad, and those who enjoy special favours think it wise to avoid the light of public discussion.

The farming and other self-supporting industries have been fighting a defensive fight during the past few years, but it now seems as if public opinion would sustain them in taking an aggressive attitude. Instead of fighting to prevent further encroachment the fight should be to lessen the present unnecessary burdens.

A HOLD-UP WITH A MORAL.

Outsiders have some reason to grin at the heartless manner in which the republic of Columbia is treating the United States.

The little republic is at present engaged in holding up the big republic in about the same manner as a little fellow might manage a giant with the aid of a loaded revolver.

The manner of it is like this:

There are two routes for the United States new canal through the Isthmus of Panama. One is the Nicuragua route and one is the Colombia route.

The Colombia route is the better and is the one the United States must have.

The United States decided that it would give the Republic of Colombia ten million of dollars for the ribbon of land across the isthmus containing the canal.

Colombia in answer jumped its price up to twenty-five millions.

The United States will have to either build by the Nicaragua route which will involve perhaps an extra expenditure of perhaps fifty million dollars or buy the rights of Colombia at Colombia's price.

And the chances are that the United States will pay Colombia's price and in addition be lost in admiration of the shrewdness of a people that could get ahead of them.

The moral is that there is a time for friendships and a time for bargains, and Colombia understands this far better than the great English people.

And morals apart, Canada will not lose any sleep over the spectacle of the largest republic in the world being held up and effectually beated, by one of the smallest. — Ottawa Journal.

ONTARIO AUTOMOBILE LAW.

The Ontario Automobile law has already proven its usefulness, as the appended despatch from Delhi gives evidence:

"Delhi, October 24. — Yesterday, between here and Simcoe Dr. Wells of this place was overtaken while driving by an automobile, and his rig crowded towards the fence. The buggy came in contact with a telegraph pole and Dr. Wells was thrown violently to the ground. Two ribs were broken and numerous bruises were sustained. The automobilist drove on without waiting to see what damage he had done. A telegram was sent to the Chief of Police at Simcoe, giving the number of the auto, and when it reached Simcoe, the man, who was accompanied by his son, was taken into custody."

A feature of the new act is the registration and numbering of the machines, thus making identification possible and establishing responsibility in case of accident. Without this machinery it would be much more difficult to reach reckless operators.

A DECIDED "IMPOSITION."

Some teachers are in the way of punishing pupils by giving "impositions," drudging tasks to be done at home. Here is a sample of an "imposition" that well deserves the name:—

"At a small school in the backwoods a well-meaning but misguided instructor gave her pupils the task of subtracting 629 from $80,788,889 until nothing remained, as a home lesson. On the way from school the children rejoiced at so easy a requisition, but once at work their rejoicing was speedily turned to sorrow. After working for hours without any perceptible diminution of the figures, the youngsters gave up in despair. Parents then tried, but without better success. And small wonder. In order to complete the task the number given would have to be subtracted 1,400,300 times, leaving a small remainder. Some indignant parent calculated that, working at the rate of three subtractions a minute for 12 hours a day, the task given the children for an evening's exercise would require a little more than than a year and nine months to accomplish."

A VICTORY FOR CANADA.

Bishop Ridley on the Alaska Tribunal's Award.

Says That Pearse and Wales Islands Command Port Simpson and the Approaches Thereto.

(C.P.R. Press Despatch.)

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 28. — Bishop Ridley of Caledonia, who has returned from making a farewell tour of his diocese, embracing all of the northern part of British Columbia, preparatory to leaving on a tour, and who from his long residence at Port Simpson and his intimate knowledge of the territory lately in dispute between Canada and the United States is well qualified to discuss the subject, considers that in securing the ownership of Wales and Pearse Islands Canada has gained more than was expected. In the early days the United States Government had a fort and custom house at Tongas, and the middle of Portland Channel was always regarded as the boundary, and was never questioned until the Klondike excitement and the construction of the White Pass Railway made the ports on the Lynn Canal of value. In fact, Bishop Ridley considers the award a victory for Canada. President Roosevelt's note of congratulation can be regarded, he says, as a ruse to cover his retreat from an unsuccessful attempt to retain possession of Wales and Pearse Islands, awarded to Canada. Those two large islands are rich in timber and minerals as well as salmon streams. From a strategic point of view their value is inestimable. They command the harbour of Port Simpson and its approaches, and at the western end, on Wales Island, is an eminence some 1,100 feet high, a natural location for fortification. Sitka and the other islands are small, rocky islets of no value, and useless for strategic purposes, as they are low and could be swept from Wales Island. Wales and Pearse Islands also have splendid harbours and shelters. A further point to be considered is that the entire entrance to the passage, on which are located several canneries, goes to Canada.

ONLY A SUGGESTION.

But it has Proven of Interest and value to Thousands.

Common sense would suggest that if one wishes to become fleshy and plump, it can only result from the food we eat and digest, and that food should be albuminous or flesh-forming food, like eggs, beefsteak, and cereals; or in other words the kind which form the greater part of our daily bills of fare.

But the trouble is that while we eat enough, and generally too much, the stomach from abuse and overwork does not properly digest and assimilate it, which is the reason that so many people remain thin and underweight; the digestive organs do not completely digest the food forming beefsteak and eggs, and similar wholesome food.

There are thousands of such who are really confirmed dyspeptics, although they may have no particular pain or inconvenience from their stomachs.

If such persons would lay their prejudices aside and make a regular practice of taking after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, the food would be quickly and thoroughly digested, because these Tablets contain the natural peptones and diatase, which every weak stomach lacks, and by applying this want the stomach is soon enabled to reach its natural tone and vigour.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digest every form of flesh-forming food, meat, eggs, bread and potatoes, and this is the reason they so quickly build up, strengthen and invigorate thin, dyspeptic men and women and children.

Invalids and children, even the most delicate, use them with marked benefit, as they contain no strong, irritating drugs, no cathartic, nor any harmful ingredients.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the most successful and widely known of any remedy for stomach troubles because it is the most reasonable and scientific of modern medicines.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by every druggist in the United States and Canada, as well as in Great Britain, at 50 cents for complete treatment.

Nothing further is required to cure any stomach trouble or to make thin, nervous, dyspeptic people strong, plump and well.

CANADIAN PACIFIC TO INVADE ONTARIO.

Will Build new Lines Throughout This Province.

The Montreal Witness is authority for the statement that the C.P.R. will enter actively into a competition for business in Ontario. The article referring to it is as follows:—

"The C.P.R. is planning for large effects in Ontario. A series of branch lines is not merely in the mind, but has been placed on paper, the idea being to get a strong foothold in those centres of population which are likely to grow with the development which may be expected with the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific. This scheme, which is simply part of its settled policy to extend its borders, may not be immediately carried out, but it will be realized before long, and operations will commence at points which seem to offer the chance of further development.

"A C.P.R. official remarked that the company, like all other railway companies, fixes its attention first and foremost upon the needs of the country. It considers a new industry. It gives attention to agricultural interests. It desires to foster every growth of population. It will spend thousands of dollars to bring people to a point at which there may be a growth of town or city. And the C. P. R. desires to spread itself more widely throughout Ontario, believing that business will justify such extension, which will need the expenditure of many millions.

AMBITIOUS CITY MURDER.

Hamilton Woman Fails to Answer Questions to the Satisfaction of Coroner's Jury at Barron Inquest.

Hamilton, Oct. 30.—The coroner's jury returned an open verdict in the Barron murder case last evening. It reads:

"We find that James Barron came to his death, according to the evidence, at the hands of some person unknown to the jury."

Several of the jurors put up a fight to have "unsatisfactory" inserted before the word "evidence." The reason they gave for this was on account of the evidence of Mrs. Mills. She said she had obtained legal advice and that she had been informed that she did not need to answer questions put to her by the jurors that she considered had no bearing on the case. She would not give an answer when asked if she had seen men prowling around her residence before the night of the murder.

Coroner White allowed her to sign her statement and leave the witness stand with the query unanswered. Some of the jurors wanted to have her recalled before bringing in a verdict, and when their request was not granted they declined to bring in anything but an open verdict. They state that a majority of their number were not satisfied that the murder was committed by burglars.

The reason Mrs. Mills gave for her action was that the questions asked were likely to bring out things that had no connection with the case. Nothing new was brought out in the evidence. No arrests have been made yet and the police are as much at sea as ever.

THE U. S. LAKE FLEET.

Uncle Sam to Give Canada a Vigorous Mist on Inland Waters.

Washington, Oct. 30.—A formidable fleet of revenue cutters is to be maintained upon the great lakes. The United States has the Tuscarora, the Morrill and the Dallas upon the lakes, and to this fleet will soon be added the Mackinaw. The Tuscarora is to be assigned to Lakes Superior and Michigan, the Morrill to Huron and Erie, the Dallas to Ontario, and the Mackinaw to St. Mary's anchorage as station ship.

This fleet will be augmented as fast as available appropriations will permit, it being the purpose of the Government to have American interests upon the Great Lakes thoroughly protected, especially in view of recent developments, which indicate that the Canadians will attempt a stricter enforcement of their laws.

See How They Sine.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 30.—The Dominion Government fisheries cruiser Kestrel has recently given chase to several American halibut steamers alleged to have been poaching on the north fishing banks, but in every instance where the Kestrel has pursued these American steamers the latter have evaded capture.

Naval Reserve Sure.

Kingston, Oct. 30.—The Government has resolved to establish four navy reserve stations at Halifax, Montreal, Toronto and Kingston. A commission will be sent from England to arrange the details of establishment, and the Canadian Government has set aside $7,500 for its expense. England will loan the necessary ships, and the instructors will be from the British navy. The stations will be established by next spring.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE

In Store for Those Who Doubt.

When you read that a sufferer of many years' standing has been completely restored to health by using Smith's Cure-all, you are inclined to doubt the statement and, in fact, have no belief in it whatever. The reason for this is that so much is claimed for the Cure-all it is impossible for anyone to believe it; if the advertiser confined his claims to the curing of one disease, as do the proprietors of Pyramid Pile Cure, readers would have much more faith in published testimonials. Those familiar with this great remedy know that testimonials as to its merit may be relied upon implicitly, also that the cures brought about by its use are little short of marvelous. The The genuineness of the testimonial here given is vouched for and is but one of thousands received:—

"I wish to write you and tell you what your Pyramid Pile Cure has done for me. I have been troubled with piles for the past five years and used every remedy that was recommended to me. While some would give me relief for a while they never have cured. I was so bad this summer I could not get up or down without pain; could not attend to my household duties. Finally I got a 50-cent box of your Pyramid Pile Cure at the druggist's and it is now two months since I used the last of the box, and have had no trouble since. I can say it is really and truly a good remedy.

"I am so thnakful I tried it as I know it has cured me, and if at any time I should have any such trouble again I would use it at once. Since I am cured I have recommended it to my friends, whom I know to be afflicted as I was, and I know they will use it too. I am so thankful I ever learned of your cure." Mrs. F. Hutt, 460 2nd street, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists for fifty cents a package, or will be mailed to any address upon receipt of price by Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich. Write this firm for their book describing the cause and cure of piles.

PARIS LABOR FIGHT

Bloody Battle in Front of the Bourse de Travail.

A HUNDRED RIOTERS HURT.

Forty-Five Policemen Were Injured—Trouble Followed Meeting of 4,000 Workingmen, and the Military Sloshed Crowd With Their Swords—Additional Troops Sent to Scene of Riots.

Paris, Oct. 30.—A serious riot occurred yesterday afternoon in front of the Bourse de Travail (Labor Exchange), in the workmen's district, in which several policemen and a dozen rioters were seriously wounded. The trouble followed a meeting of six thousand persons, who protested against the establishment of municipal employment bureaus.

A Free Fight Followed.

The authorities, in anticipation of disorders, had occupied the Place de la Republique and the nearby streets with the strong force of military and police. Speakers made inflammatory speeches, crying "Down with the employment officers." The crowd rushed into the streets, singing revolutionary songs. A lieutenant of police and six men advanced to arrest the singers and a free fight followed. The rioters then entered cafes and shops, seized glasses, tables and chairs and renewed the struggle with the police. Another section of the rioters also attacked the police.

Many Were Badly Hurt.

There was a renewal of the rioting yesterday afternoon. The police determined to clear out the Bourse de Travail and endeavored to induce the rioters to leave in small parties, but the latter refused and threw projectiles from the windows, wounding a number of policemen. The military later were compelled to use swords and a bloody conflict followed. The forces of the municipality finally were victorious. The prefect of police says 45 policemen were wounded and that over 100 rioters were injured, a number of them being badly hurt. Thus far 100 arrests have been made.

THE BILBAO RIOTS.

Additional Troops to Assist in Restoring Order in Spain.

Bilbao, Spain, Oct. 30.—The garrison of Bilbao has been reinforced, but the troops still have difficulty in coping with the rioting strikers, who constantly erect new barricades as the old ones are destroyed by the soldiers. The city presents a sorry spectacle, owing to the widespread destruction wrought by the mobs, who have used dynamite in several instances to blow in the doors of the Jesuits' houses and blow up the lines of the railroads. Famine prices are already being charged for provisions. Even bread is so scarce that loaves are selling at four pesetas (about 79 cents).

The Socialist Committee has issued a proclamation urging the workmen to avoid conflicts with the soldiers.

Chicago Strike Stricken.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—One thousand packing-house canners walked out yesterday, joining the striking sausage makers, and increasing the number of idle men at the Stock Yards to 2,400.

Fourteen hundred brickmakers have just been laid of in Cook County, and when given their pay were told that there would be no more work until late next spring. Four hundred will be discharged in December and the industry in the district will be closed down.

The prevalence of strikes and the increased cost of building in Chicago practically has stopped all construction work.

Iron Workers to Strike.

New York, Oct. 30.—The threat of a national strike by the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, to force recognition of local No. 2 by the Iron League and Employers' Association, culminated yesterday at a meeting of the international local committees of the association in a resolution ordering a strike all over the country, to take effect Saturday.

Mother Jones Carried Strike Order.

Trinidad, Colo., Oct. 30.—The authority from President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers for the calling of a strike of coal miners in district No. 15 was brought by "Mother" Jones, who returned from Indianapolis Wednesday night, and it is understood that next Monday is the date fixed, and that over 20,000 men will be involved.

Mill to Take a Hand.

Butte, Mont., Oct. 30.—A despatch from Great Falls says that J. J. Hill is there on his way to Butte, where he will meet Senators Gibson and Clark and others for a conference on the industrial crisis. The labor unions have named committees to urge special legislation on the Governor.

Forty-Five Killed.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 30.—The robbers, Chunchus tribesmen, who recently entrenched themselves at Bodone, a town on the Sungacha River, Manchuria, had previously attacked a Russian cargo steamer at a station on the Manchurian Railway, near Bodone. They massacred the entire crew and then attacked the Russian railway guards, killing forty-five. Further reinforcements have been ordered from Harbin to Bodone, to dislodge the Chunchus.

Chatham's Big Deficit.

Chatham, Oct. 30.—A special meeting of the City Council was held Wednesday evening and Government Auditor F. H. McPherson's report was read. The report stated that the city has a deficit of $49,734.39 on its hands. The report came as a thunderbolt to citizens and council.

ARMY'S GREAT LOSS

Mrs. Booth-Tucker Killed in a Railway Accident.

WRECK NEAR KANSAS CITY.

Was Second Daughter of Commander-in-Chief of the Salvation Army, Gen. William Booth—Sends Message to the Army Throughout the World—Prostrated With Grief—Col. Holland Is Fatally Injured.

New York, Oct. 30.—Mrs. Emma Booth-Tucker, consul in U. S. of the Salvation Army, wife of Commander Booth-Tucker and second daughter of General Booth, founder of the army, was killed in a railway wreck near Kansas City Wednesday night. She was rendered unconscious after the Pullman in which she was had struck a water tank and been wrecked. She died in half an hour. Her skull was fractured and she was injured internally. Col. Thomas C. Holland was also injured so severely that he is expected to die at any moment.

Mrs. Booth-Tucker, who was Miss Emma Booth, married Frederick Tucker in 1888. He assumed her name as part of his own. He was born in India, and lived there several years after his marriage. He was commissioner of the army in India. Mr. and Mrs. Booth-Tucker were appointed to command the army in America in March, 1896, succeeding Eva C. Booth. Mrs. Booth-Tucker was said to be the ablest of all the Booth children.

Col. Holland was for several years chief secretary and second in command of the Salvation Army in Canada. He left Toronto for his present post about eight years ago.

General Booth's Message.

London, Oct. 30.—Gen. William Booth, commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army, has sent the following message to Salvationists throughout the world, concerning the death of his daughter, Mrs. Booth-Tucker:

"I am suddenly prostrated with grief in the presence of what appears at the moment to be an indescribable calamity and an unfathomable mystery. I can only look and say 'My Heavenly Father: Thy will be done.'

"My daughter was after her mother, first among the many noble and consecrated women I have been permitted to know during the 50 years of my public life. Her loss is irreparable, but so much more need is there for me, for you, and for all to go on with our work for God and the blessing of our fellow-men. This, however, my heart may bleed, is my purpose so long as He may be pleased to prolong my life.

"The blow will fall with intense severity upon Commander Booth-Tucker, and on my officers and soldiers, for whom my daughter has fought and toiled so long. In the midst of my own sorrow my heart goes up to God on their behalf. Pray for them. Meanwhile I am trusting for strength to go on with my own duties and praying that our great agency of alleviating the sorrows of the suffering world may not be hindered by this visitation."

Jeremiah Long Died From Injuries.

Whitby, Oct. 30.—Jeremiah Long, one of the oldest and best known citizens of Ontario County, died from the effects of severe burns received on Tuesday night. He was carrying a lamp about the house, when it exploded. The burning oil went all over him, and burned him terribly about the body and hands. He survived till yesterday morning. He leaves a widow and three children.

Broke Her Leg.

Yesterday, Mrs. Stuart, who lives on Wolfe street, had the misfortune to fall off a table and break her left leg. She is an old lady aged about seventy years and it may be some time before the fracture is properly healed. Dr. Boucher was called in, and set the limb, as soon as possible.

St. Luke's.

The annual church tea of St. Luke's church will be held in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street on Thursday, November 26th.

The members of St. Luke's choir are asked to attend practice to-morrow night at 8 o'clock as the music for All Saint's Day will be taken up.

The Mission Band will meet to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

Took a Dose of Poison.

Yesterday a young child of Mr. Fred Henson mistook a bottle containing lye and ammonia for another with less injurious contents. The child took a draught which placed it in a critical condition. Dr. Young was called and succeeded in forcing some of the poison out of the child's stomach. However it is still in a serious condition.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. CHARLES LeGROS.

Prominent Business Man Found Dead This Morning.

The residents of Peterborough were shocked this morning to learn of the sudden death of one of the best known citizens and business men in the person of Mr. Charles LeGros, which occurred during the night. Mr. LeGros had not been in particularly good health, and yesterday he complained of a slight indisposition, his heart troubling him some. He had, however, been well enough to attend to his business affairs as usual.

Mr. Edward LeClaire, who conducts the barber shop in connection with Mr. LeGros' tobacco business, was with Mr. LeGros last night, and it was he who found him dead this morning, a few minutes after six o'clock. Both men slept in a room over the store on George street, and when Mr. LeClaire fell asleep shortly after 12 o'clock, his companion was apparently in good health and spirits, and had been chatting pleasantly about his business. Dr. Greer was called this morning and pronounced his death due to heart failure.

Mr. LeGros was very well known in Peterborough, having lived here for about twenty five years, conducting an extensive tobacco importing and jobbing business, which was not confined to Peterborough, but the genial proprietor made selling trips from Quebec to Vancouver. The deceased was born in Beaupre, Quebec, 42 years ago and spent his early days in his native province. He had been married twice, but was at the time of his death a widower. His first wife was a daughter of Mr. Louis Archambault, of town. By this marriage Mr. LeGros had one daughter, Laura, who survives. He was married a second time to Miss Parent, of Beaupre, Que., who was a cousin of Hon. S. N. Parent, the present premier of the province of Quebec. Three children by this marriage are now left orphans. They are Aramand, aged 14; Albert, aged 10; and Ladowski, aged 5. Mrs. LeGros died about 18 months ago.

The funeral will take place to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock from St. Peter's Cathedral to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

Mr. LeGros was a man who by his genial manner, readily made friends and as a consequence was exceedingly popular in town. He was a staunch Liberal.

AN INTERESTING SOCIAL EVENT

Wedding of Mr. A. P. MacLean to Miss Marion Hall.

A quiet wedding was celebrated at 7 o'clock last evening at the residence of Mr. Robt. Hall, of His Majesty's Customs, 344 Rubidge street, when his daughter, Miss Marion Isabelle Hall, was made the bride of Mr. Alexander Percival MacLean. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Torrance, assisted by Rev. J. A. Wilson, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The bride was gowned in white crepe de chene, over white taffeta, and wore the conventional bridal veil and orange blossoms; carrying a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. She entered the room accompanied by her father, to the strains of the Lohengrin Bridal Hymn "Faithful and True," sung by Mrs. Chas. McCaul Home, of Toronto. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Jennie Hall, who wore a gown of white organdie with point d'esprit net and carried a bouquet of pink chrysanthemums. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. T. W. MacLean, of Stratford.

Among the handsome and costly presents received was a beautiful cabinet of silver, a gift of the Geo. Matthews Company.

Mr. and Mrs. MacLean left on the evening train for a trip to the Maritime Provinces, and upon returning will reside at No. 1, Homewood avenue.

THE WALLIS FARM SOLD TO LUMBERMAN.

Mr. A. McDonald Bought West Portion of Timber Property.

Mr. A. McDonald, of the Point St. Charles Lumber Mills, has just completed the purchase of the west one hundred acres of the Wallis Farm, on which there is a quantity of pine and cedar. Mr. McDonald will have the land cleared, using the timber at his mills, here. This property is situated about one mile west of the town limits, the southern boundary of the farm being directly in line with Sherbrooke street, and the northern boundary with Smith street, if these streets were continued west. The whole farm consists of 300 acres, and at one time a proposition had been made to buy the property and erect on it an Isolation Hospital and House of Refuge. That project has evidently been abandoned, and Mr. McDonald will probably acquire the remaining 200 acres. While no overtures have been made to Mr. McDonald by the town or county looking to a purchase by them of land on which to build the Isolation Hospital and House of Refuge, the location would be an ideal one for such a purpose, after the timber has been cleared.

HE WOULD NOT BITE AT THE SHARPS' HOOK.

Two Crooks Attempt to Rob an Otonabee Farmer.

Yankee Lost his Sister but Found His Mash—"Mr. Cox" Wanted to buy a Farm but Nearly got the Handcuffs.

This morning a well-to-do farmer, resident of Otonabee, poured forth into the ears of Chief Roussel, a tale of deception which two sharpers tried to practise on him for the purpose of robbery, the attempt, however, proving abortive.

On Wednesday forenoon, a man representing himself to be a brother of Hon. George A. Cox, of Toronto, came to the farmer aforesaid, whose name is withheld, claiming that he was desirous of buying the farm. The farmer was busy, and told the pseudo Mr. Cox to come the following day at one o'clock, and they would talk the matter over. On Thursday he came somewhat before the appointed hour, arriving while the household was at dinner. He would not dine as he stated he had only breakfasted a short time before. On this occasion he had a different horse and buggy to that which he had when he made his first call. When the farmer was ready the two men went out to look at the farm. While they were doing this a third man came up. He said he was an American from the southern states, who had lost his sister and was looking for her. During the conversation which ensued between the three men, the Yankee said that while in Toronto he had lost $500, adding, however, that he was not by any means "broke," pulling out several fat rolls of bills, labelled on the outside $5,000, $3,000, $1,000, and some of a smaller amount. While boasting about his ready cash, the supposed Mr. Cox said, "How do you make so much wealth?" The man immediately pulled out four cards and after spreading a handkerchief across "Mr. Cox's" knees, turned them up. On one was the face of a man. "Now," said the Yankee, after he had shuffled up the cards and laid them out face downwards, "you can't pick out the card with the man's face on." "Mr. Cox" essayed to do so, but drew the wrong card. However, while the man was not looking he pinched up the corner of the card in question, so when to show "Mr. Cox" how he made his money the Yankee bet them $10 they could not get the card right; he won the money. The same odds were offered the farmer, who, however, understood a nudge from "Mr. Cox" and drew the card with the turned up corner. The Yankee of course said he was too green, and that he should not bet unless the farmer and "Mr. Cox" could put up the equivalent money. "Cox" pulled out two fives, but the farmer was "dead broke," so "Cox" fixed him up financially. "I'll give you $1,000," next said the Yankee "if you can get the right card again." Both men drew the right card, and the Yankee flipped off $1,000 for cash, later asking the farmer if he could put up a similar stake. The man addressed said he had considerable money in the Toronto Bank at 3 per cent. "That's not enough. It should at least be 3 1/2 per cent," added the sharp, who together with "Mr. Cox" tried to persuade the farmer to come to town and draw his money and try and "skin" the wealthy Yank. The farmer would not bite and the Yankee at last left somewhat disgusted. "Mr. Cox" then began talking about purchasing the farm and finally went away saying he would be back at 9 o'clock this morning. The farmer, who had returned the money he had won, got frightened and did not wait for them this morning, but drove to town and laid his case before Chief Roszel.

He states that "Mr. Cox" was a nicely dressed man with a grey moustache and side whiskers, while the Yankee was a big man, weighing 200 lbs., with a dark moustache, which he now thinks was a false one.

This case is almost the parallel of one which happened a few years ago when a farmer named Hall of Otonabee, was robbed of $3,000 or $4,000 which he had been persuaded to draw from the Ontario Bank.

THE AMBULANCE IN REQUISITION.

Dan Spence Ambulance Will be Taken Care of by Mr. D. Belleghem.

The Dan Spence Memorial Ambulance has been practically accepted by the town, and an arrangement has been effected with Mr. D. Belleghem by which the latter will have the care of the ambulance and will use it when occasion requires. It had not been the intention of the Property Committee to accept the ambulance from the makers as early as urgent necessity afterwards required, but the fact that the one which had done service previous to the arrival of the new one, had been placed in the repair shop, made the necessity for the Dan Spence ambulance being put into requisition, was considered by the Committee of the Whole to be imperative.

An error in the inscription on the ambulance has been brought to the notice of the Examiner. It states that Dan Spence's death occurred on Sept. 23rd, 1901, while as a matter of fact he died on Sept. 23rd, 1900. It is not known who is responsible for this error, but those who made the mistake should have it corrected.

POLICE COURT

Archie Claus is a Vagrant Frightened the Ashburnham Children.

Archie Claus is a busy man. He spends eighteen hours of the day in hard work at being idle. At the police court this morning he was charged with vagrancy and pleaded guilty. In answer to Mr. Dumble's query for information, Chief Roszel said: "He says he comes from the lower provinces. Last night we got a telephone message from Ashburnham, saying that a man with a revolver was scaring children. I sent Stewart over but he failed to find him. Last night this man asked for a night's lodging, so I locked him up, and this morning he was identified as the man who was terrifying the Ashburnham children."

The prisoner was remanded for a week from to-morrow.

BADLY BURNED.

Little Two Year Old Child Almost Burned to Death.

About two o'clock yesterday afternoon the two year old child of Mr. Fleming, of Brown street, Ashburnham, nearly came to a tragic death by fire. The child with another was playing in the kitchen, while the mother was temporally away, and it is supposed that one lighted a piece of paper at the stove, with which their dresses later became ignited. Both might have been burned to death had not Mrs. Fleming fortunately arrived and put out the flames. Dr. Young was called and the burns of the little child dressed.

HALLOWE'EN.

"Fun Must not not Develop Into Rowdyism" Says the Chief.

To-morrow night will be Hallowe'en, when the youth of the town generally indulge in practical jokes and other forms of amusement. The fun of late years has gone too far, and developed into wholesale rowdyism, which is a source of annoyance to all except those participating. The Chief this morning stated that everybody can have all the fun they wished, but if it went too much that way and resulted in damage to property measures would be taken to stop it. He does not wish to be at all strict, nor mar the happiness of the evening, but will enforce order.

OVER SIXTY LICENSES ISSUED TO HUNTERS.

Names of Those who are Allowed to Shoot Deer.

The number of hunters' licenses issued this year is slightly in excess of the number issued up to a corresponding period last year. To this morning Mr. J. B. McWilliams, the game Warden, had issued 64 licenses and about 50 settlers' permits. In addition to these two American's licenses, for which the fee of $25 each has been paid, were issued. These have been given to Mr. Chas. H. Whittleton, of Ontario, N. Y., and Mr. Frank Over, of Pittsburg, Pa. Up to a day corresponding with this morning last year, fifty hunters have been given licenses, and the total number issued was 115, which number, it is expected, will be reached this year.

The settlers' permits are given to those who reside on the land on which they hunt the deer, and must live north of lot 15, Dummer. A provision in the game laws, provides that permits may be issued to guests of residents, but this has only been done twice since the introduction of this provision. Once to a guest of the late Lieut. Governor, Kirkpatrick, and a second to a British Admiral. The names of those to whom licenses have been issued are as follows:

Reginald Dayton, Samuel Ray, Martin McFadden, Larry Steele, J. J. McCallum, Geo. Windover, Herman Windover, P. O. Dumble, L. Stevens, W. M. Miller, Walter Hartshorn, Arthur Ringer, Dennis Delancy, J. D. Collins, Dr. Greer, J. Stanger, T. Rutherford, R. M. Waddell, J. B. Laroque, William Gere, Germ Wright, Thos. Scott, Jno. Davis, Jos. Hiscott, J. W. Hiscott, G. Moore, Wm. Davis, Thos. A. Landregan, Philip Westlake, Jas. Stabler, Fred Rentoeh, J. M. Brooks, Jno Clancy and R. H. Jackson. Six others have been issued upon request of residents of Keene, the names of the holders were not available this morning. To-day and to-morrow will see a great many more issued.

Violin and Mandolin.

There have been many enquiries about the classes in violin and mandolin classes, which start at the Y. M.C.A. on Wednesday, Nov. 4th, under Mr. Sidney Rogers' leadership. It should have been stated before that the classes will be divided into two sections, one for beginners, and the other for advanced pupils.

DEATH OF A PROMINENT PROVINCIAL OFFICIAL.

Passing Away of Mr. J. K. Stewart, Provincial License Inspector.

A Capable, Trustworthy and Satisfactory Public Servant.

Hon. J. R. Stratton, who was in town to-day was shocked, if not surprised to learn of the death, this morning, of Mr. J. K. Stewart, Provincial Inspector of Licenses. Mr. Stewart's serious illness has been of only a week or ten days' duration. He was attacked about a fortnight ago with acute appendicitis. An operation was performed, which disclosed that the disease had progressed so far — the gangrenous stage—that no hope of a favourable issue could be entertained. Spoken to in regard to Mr. Stewart, Mr. Stratton expressed the deepest regret and asserted that Mr. Stewart was one of the best public officials the province ever had. He was most conscientious in the discharge of his duties, thoroughly capable, thoroughly reliable and enjoyed the confidence of the public. His death is a public loss as the position he held is a most difficult one to satisfactorily occupy. Mr. Stratton added that he had been quite unfortunate during the past three or four years, in respect to important officials, in one of the most difficult branches of his department, having lost the services of three through illness or death. Mr. Henry Totten, who was for many years chief officer of the License Branch, was ill nearly three years, and was only reluctantly retired after hope of cure ceased to be entertained. Mr. Lumsden, assistant secretary, who was a most valuable and efficient officer, was the next to pass away ,and lastly, Mr. Stewart's position, a peculiarly difficult one to fill, has become vacant. The three positions thus vacated, with their multiplicity of details, even when efficiently and capably manned, make the duties of the Minister in charge of these departments, in addition to several others, exceedingly exacting, and his responsibility becomes all the greater and more difficult to meet, when the assistance upon which he had naturally so much to depend is removed.

A GRATEFUL PATIENT.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—I hope you will find space in your paper for this letter of truthful explanation of what I did not expect to find in a certain institution and authorities of that institution. It has been my experience of late to meet with a little serious accident, and during my twelve years of residence in town I have heard a number of rumours against the management of that Institution, The Nicholls Hospital. Now, before I give the description of the care of my case, I would like to say that it has been my privilegee to visit some of the largest hospitals of the Old Country, through other authority than myself, for if there is harsh treatment given to hospital patients it is there you get it, and here I may say that in feeling, sympathy, and doing what can be done for another, especially at the time of need, we here in this fair Canada of ours excel them in every respect. On our way up to the hospital I asked were we going to Nicholls, and being told yes, I did not know what to think, although far from being a nervous man, for I had not the slightest fear of what might happen me. I fear nothing. But I could not help thinking of the treatment I might expect, from the accounts I had heard at different times, but to my great surprise one doctor was inside waiting; the other arrived the same time as the ambulance. A hasty examination of the eye and the doctors left for the operating room, and I was made ready and taken to them. Here I found two nurses who helped me to the operating table. Here I cannot pass without speaking very highly of the most skilful and tender way in which the doctors handled my case. I must say that my stay there was made very comfortable. There was not a thing I wanted but what I received, and from the Lady Superintendent down , all the nurses that had to do with my case, which were many, they each did their best for my comfort and welfare. I saw other cases come in and I found the attendance and politeness excellent in every respect. I would also like to say a few words respecting the handling of my case. From the time I received the blow to the time I was in the doctors' hands it was very short. After stopping the machine I made for the foreman's desk. Seeing Mr. Robinson was very busy I caught Mr. Anson, asking him to hurry a doctor, and I made for the surgery prepared by the C. G. E. Co., for the use of the men in all cases of accidents. Mr. R. E. Layfield was there right after me and here I must say that the men have a great friend in Mr. Layfield in his quick way of getting such cases into the hands of the doctors. I must say that men should not give themselves to so much talk against those who have the power and authority to do good to them in time of accident. I trust, Mr. Editor, that these lines will be the means of stopping such gossip. Let us all try our best to build up such institutions. Let us, as citizens of this town of Peterborough be thankful that we have such authority in our midst. For my part I must say the Canadian General Electric Company and shop the best I ever worked for, the town of Peterborough the best I have lived in and it is my desire to help as a citizen to build up both.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,

I am yours,
ALFRED A. SMEATON.

HALLOWE'EN AND WHAT IT MEANS.

Interesting Light Upon the Origin of Celebration.

A writer in the Toronto News has the following on Hallowe'en:—

"Hallowe'en—the very word sings. A brown thrush could whistle it. Strange, that no song-writer has ever woven it into music; More than anything else, it spells home—the Scotch ingle-nook, the fireside, the modern grate. Or, if you has no grate, suppose you go down cellar and throw open the furrnace door—on Hallowe'en. Or turn out the gas, open the stove door, and let the long shadows make shapes on the wall. For once in this very matter-of-fact 1903, be fanciful. Gather round the "hearthstane"—whatever that may be—and recall the quaint old childish things your former folks did long ago over the sea. Bobbie Burns will tell you, in that poem on Hallowe'en.

All the witches, faries and hobgoblins were said to come out of nowhere that night over the moors, just to prank with common folk, who, because they will fall in love, and see pictures in the fire, and hear voices in the wind, are, after all, themselves the real spirit. For you can almost see Burns laugh, when he says that one of the ghosts turned out to be a cow, another a pig, and another an oak-tree.

But don't imagine that the Scotch folk were the only people who celebrated Hallowe'en, when your great . . . . . great-grandmother was a wee thing, wanting to eat the apple before the glass, just to see somebody's 'ghaistie." Long ago the Irish used to sit up on Hallowe'en, while the women baked griddle cakes, and made candles. The cakes were given away the next day, and the candles lighted, while the people prayed for the souls of the dead folk. The Welsh, too—the very same queer Celtic people as the real Scotch and the real Irish, used to light soul-fires on the hills at Hallowe'en. They called them "Coel Corth"—the souls going to Heaven. And they seem to have got the custom from their queer old Celtic forbears, the Druids, who used to celebrate a harvest festival on November 1, called the Samon. Even the English—who, after all, are half Druids anyway, since they worship the oak—used to bake "soule cakes" in "ye olde time" on a certain night, their All Hallows' Eve. For that was a holy night, but afterwards became a merry one, known in the North Land as Nutcrack Night, in Ireland as Snap-Apple Night, and in Scotland as plain Hallowe'en.

Most of the Hallowe'en pranks had something to do with love. Now is there any sane girl, whether she works in a factory, or studies algebra, or goes in a white cloak to the theatre, who does not sometimes wonder just who her real lover will be, and what he will look like? When you light a fire and it smudges, you say, "He is in bad humor." Paring a long apple-peel you twirl it thrice round your head to let it drop into the first letter of his name. You look for him in the bottom of a tea-cup, or try to read him in the palm of your left hand. Or you mother—if she is from the Old Country—bakes a cake with a ring in it, and the finder of the ring gets husband or wife during that year.

Then the burning of the nuts to tell love fortunes, so happily described by Burns:

"Jean slips in two wi' tantie e'e,
Wha 'twas she wad'na tell;
But this is Jock an' this is me,
She says it to hersel'.
He bleezed owre her and she owre him,
As they wad never mair part,
But fuff! He started up the lum,
And Jean had e'en a sair heart."

Also the pulling of cabbages hand in hand with eyes shut—a big cabbage-head for a big wife, earth on the roots for fortune; and the biting of the apple in the water, on the end of a string—hands behind.

All this and much more in the way of pranks spells old Hallowe'en. Fathers and mothers will know whole yarns of them to tell the young folk that night round the fire, with the gas turned out, dreaming about the spirits, and the pranks of the old folks in the old lands long ago—till they hate to go to bed.

Hallowe'en! — Fancy still waits for someone to make a song of it, about love and the happy fireside.

"PINAFORE" AS GIVEN BY 100 JUVENILES

To be Presented Under Auspices of St. John's Kings' Daughters.

Preparations are in progress for an elaborate production of Gilbert and Sullivan's masterpiece, H. M. S. Pinafore, about the last week in November, under the auspices of the King's Daughters of St. John's, by one hundred juvenile performers, on the same grand scale as that given in Ottawa for Lady Minto's Cottage Hospital Fund, including beautiful costumes, brilliant spectacular effects and a special orchestra. The first practice will be held to-morrow morning at ten o'clock.

THE LATEST NEWS OF LOCAL SPORT.

RUGBY.

To-morrow morning the Victorias will arrive from Toronto to play a scheduled O.R.F.U. game with the Peterborough team. The visitors will come with a strong team, prepared to give a good hard fight, and the locals are preparing for it. If the present weather continues there will probably be the largest attendance of spectators seen here in a Rugby game in a long time ,and the game will be sure to be an interesting one.

The locals will show up to much better advantage than they did in the last game, in which they participated, and expect to defeat the Victorias. They are taking no chances, however, and the experience gained in the last game has been supplemented by hard and consistent practice nearly every evening in which the rink was available. Some new faces will be seen on the line up which, it is thought, will strengthen the team. Ford, the fast man on the All Saints City League team, and Craig, Kennedy and Paschall from the Rough Riders, will be in the game to-morrow.

The game will be called at 2.45 at the oval, and tickets admitting to it are on sale at Ormond & Walsh's and the Peterborough Bookstore. The team will be taekn from the following players:—Ford, Crowley, Graham, Rickey, Noble, Dillon, Hurtubise, Craig, Meagher, Cameron, Kennedy, Paschall, Renton. These men are asked to report at the Y.M.C.A. at 1.45.

A final practice will be held to-night at the rink, and a meeting of the executive will be held before the practice.

* * * *

Mr. Geo. Biggs, of the Varsity team will referee the game here to-morrow between the Victorias and Peterboroughs. Mr. Biggs acted as referee at the game on Thanksgiving Day, and gave good satisfaction.

BASKET-BALL.

To-morrow night will be the opening of the basketball season in Peterborough, and the indications now point to a most successful season. The schedule of the Y.M.C.A. League has been arranged, and shows six teams entered in the series. They are as follows: Athletics, Blues; Athletics, Whites; Harriers, Brownies, Alerts and Arrows, and two games will be played on Saturday night of each week, one beginning at 8 o'clock and the other at 9. The small fee of five cents will be charged for admission tickets, which will entitle the holder to both games of the evening, and good value will be given for the money.

Last season was the first in which a basketball league series of games was held, the champions of the series being the "Harriers." The cup won last year by the champions will be put up for competition again and in addition a souvenir will be given to each player on the winning team.

The officers of the league are;
President—Mr. S. S. Aplin.
Sec.-Treasurer—Mr. Ross Cameron.
The captains of the different teams comprising the league are:—
Athletics, White—W. Cavanah.
Athletics, Blue—Not chosen yet.
Harriers—W. Richardson.
Brownies—Gordon Miller.
Alerts—Geo.. Morgan.
Arrows—Ed. Fitzpatrick.
The schedule of games arranged is as follows:
Oct. 31 — 8 p.m., Athletics White vs. Harriers; 9 p.m., Arrows vs. Alerts.
Nov. 7 — 8 p.m., Arrows vs. Athletics Blue; 9 p.m., Brownies vs. Alerts.
Nov. 14 — 8 p.m., Athletics Blue vs Harriers; 9 p.m., Athletics White vs. Brownies.
Nov. 21. — 8 p.m., Arrows vs. Harriers; 9 p.m., Alerts vs. Athletics White.
Nov. 28. — 8 p.m., Athletics Blue vs. Alerts; 9 p.m., Brownies vs. Arrows.
Dec. 5. — 8 p.m., Athletics White vs Athletics Blue; 9 p.m., Brownies vs. Harriers.
Dec. 12. — 8 p.m., Harriers vs Alerts; 9 p.m., Athletics White vs. Arrows.
Dec. 19. — Athletics Blue vs. Brownies.

The opening game between the Athletics White and Harriers promises to be an exceedingly interesting one, as the two teams were close contestants for the championship last year and the rivalry is still very keen.

DISPUTE OVER POWER.

Trent Valley Woolen Mills Company Charge Injury.

The Trent Valley Woolen Mills Co., of Campbellford, who have spent over $200,000 on their property, consider it unfair that they should be interfered with by a land owner who has spent only $300 on his land.

The company derive power from the Trent River, and they claim that a building erected by one Wynn on the bank of the river, will interfere with their penstocks, and have asked for an injunction restraining further building operations.

"Why not let it stand until the trial?" said his Lordship. "The judgment would then be upon the facts, which is not the case here, as a rule."

Counsel for the company objected to Belleville as a place of trial.

"Oh! that's not far; we used to walk that when I was young."

But that was when Mr. Justice Ferguson was more nimble of foot than now.

The parties will endeavour to be ready for trial at Belleville on the 23rd of November, nothing to be done on the building in the meantime by the defendant—Toronto News.

PIONEER MISSIONARY

REV. DR. M'DOUGALL, SUPERINTENDENT OF INDIAN MISSIONS.

Author of Books That Are Read by Every Boy With a Taste for Wholesome Adventure — Indian Loyalty — Refers to Statement of Sir Edward Carson About Siwash Indians and Says Canadian Indians Are Different.

"Path-finding on Plain and Prairie," "Saddle, Sled and Snowshoe," "Forest, Lake and Prairie," "In the Days of the Red River Rebellion"; these are books that almost every boy and the rising generation with taste for wholesome adventure has read with much enthusiasm. The writer of these tales, Rev. Dr. John McDougall, Superintendent of Indian Missions, under the Methodist General Board, was at the recent annual meeting of his governing body in Toronto. Dr. McDougall, although in his sixty-first year, is hale and hearty and performs his somewhat arduous duties of visitation, involving miles of travel by primitive methods, with the same zest that marked the early years of his frontier life. The work of all the Indian Missions is in a flourishing state, he said. He recently returned from a long trip in the Far North, from Norway House down to Nelson River, and found his people in a peaceful state of health and plenty. The Indians of that portion of the vast Northwest are largely employed in transporting from the interior for the Hudson Bay Company, and the free traders during the winter, and work for the various fishing companies in the summer. These companies are gradually pushing their way northward. A steamer is now being built, which will be launched at Red Rock, below many of the difficulties of navigation on the Nelson River, and it will have an open route 150 miles in length into the Farther North. With this progression of industry, goes, almost hand in hand, Christian civilization.

Climatic Conditions.

Speaking of the climatic conditions of the West as being adversely described in the reports sent to the east and to England, Dr. McDougall said that they were greatly exaggerated. "I was," he said, "in Winnipeg when the great storm of the autumn struck the country. Since then I have traveled in Manitoba and the Territories, in what might be called the aftermath, and I found that the influence of the storm was very small upon the crops generally. I was emphatically endorsed in my previous opinion that there is no country so capable as Canada's great Northwest of recovering with small loss from even so serious a setback as an autumnal storm in harvest time. Such is the climate, and, such are the conditions of that country that it can stand even some of Nature's heaviest blows and still remain strong."

Mr. McDougall loves and understands every one of his red charges, from war chief to papoose. He said: "While passing through Winnipeg I again came into touch with current events, and I note that Sir Edward Carson, in pleading before the Alaskan Tribunal, spoke disparagingly of the Siwash Indians of the Pacific coast, saying that the allegiance of any one of them could be bought for a bottle of whiskey and a blanket. This may be true of the Indians in American territory. I have traveled and lived more or less among the Indians of Canada for 60 years, and with all my soul I maintain that among our Indians are to be found as noble and as loyal and true men and women as can be found under like conditions anywhere in the world."

His Career.

Dr. McDougall was born at Owen Sound in 1842, and has lived on the frontier from the Red River to the Far North during the greater part of his life. When 17 years of age he went to Norway House, 400 miles north of Winnipeg, as a teacher with his father, Rev. George McDougall, chairman of the district. His next position was that of assistant missionary, with the Rev. Thos. Wolsey, on the Saskatchewan, from 1862 to 1864, when he was recommended by the district as a missionary and he has been regularly in the work ever since. He has been repeatedly commissioned by the Government for special work, and has a thoroughly practical knowledge of the greater part of the wilderness of the Northwest. Dr. McDougall has not done anything of a literary nature for some years, other then translating and revising from English into Cree for the British and Foreign Bible Society. For this work the Doctor is exceedingly well fitted, as he is as familiar with the Cree and Ojibway tongues as with his own. He also has a considerable smattering of Stoney and Blackfoot. However, Dr. McDougall has nearly finished his translatory work, and is contemplating the continuation of his narrative at the point where he dropped it in the closing chapter of "Days of the Red River Rebellion," which brings it only to the year 1872, so that those who have read with interest the earlier chapters may look forward to another book, which will include a description of the stirring times of the Riel rebellion.

Trouble Among Kootenays.

Speaking of the recently reported trouble among the Kootenay Indians, Dr. McDougall said that it amounted to nothing, and that he told the authorities so at the time. The Doctor is particularly well known and loved among those far Western tribes —the Kootenays and Rocky Mountain Stoneys. They proudly call themselves "John's people," and they look to him as their adviser and champion. The Doctor tells of an amusing incident some years ago. The Rev. Dr. Herdmann, and another Presbyterian missionary, had been sent to establish a mission post at the foot of the Rockies, and in so doing they encountered a tribe of the Stoney Indians. The chief of the tribe accosted the missionaries with a very dignified, deliberate, "Big-Injun-me" air, and with many "ughs" and "wahs" demanded a knowledge of their personalities and immediate attention. They told him they were missionaries. Were they, he wanted to know, like the French Catholic missionaries? No? Then like whom; John? Yes? Oh, then, all right! All right! and Dr. Herdmann was welcomed with open arms.

Traveling in the North.

Speaking of his traveling in the north, the Doctor says that he uses canoe, dog-train and snow-shoes, and in the West, mostly bronchos. The mission stations and the trading posts are, he said, established generally at the same point as this facilitated the transaction of business with the Indians, and gave the Church an opportunity to interest them. When asked what clothing he used on his trip, the Doctor said: "I take a heavy overcoat, and in the winter a beaver outfit, but in the old days, when I traveled by dog-train thousands of miles every winter, I wore no overcoat at all; I depended for warmth on action. The old missionary grew indignant, and jumping up, stretched himself to his full height, when his questioner asked if his sixty odd years didn't limit his endurance very decidedly. "Why," said he, "only last August I, with my wife and little boy, paddled from Norway House to Nelson House and back, by way of Crosse Lake. The distance was 660 miles, and involved 57 portages of from 100 yards to four miles in length."

Hudson Bay Co.

The famous Hudson Bay Company, Dr. McDougall says, is bringing out just as much fur now as it did in the old days. The system on which it works to-day enables its hunters to carry supplies into parts of the wilderness that were unthought of before.

Asked as to his opinion as to the future of that great country, which he knows so well, Dr. McDougall said, "In 1879, in Montreal, I spoke before a crowded house, and I said then: "Gentlemen, the day is not far distant when the major portion of the population of this Dominion will be situated west of Lake Superior.' At that time, in Montreal, Canadians were skeptical of their own country. Some men hissed, others laughed at such a statement even though the speaker had spent nineteen years of continuous travel in the country whereof he prophesied. To-day, when I am entering upon my forty-fourth year of continuous travel, I firmly believe that the Great West and Far North will take in millions and provide for them prosperous homes. From my standpoint, there is to-day, no better field for population, and the expenditure of capital, in the interests, not only of Canada and Great Britain, but of the whole world."

London Knowledge of Canada.

Canada was well in evidence at the Palace Theatre the other night, says The London Canadian Gazette. "Datas" was on the stage going through his wonderful date performance. Not a race horse but he knew the year of its victory, if it ever had one; not a ship-wreck but he could tell you all about it; not a murder but he seemed to have been peeping through the keyhole. At last a shrill voice came from the gallery:

"When was the last spike driven in the Canadian Pacific Railway?"

With his hands in his pockets, "Datas" started off with his accustomed assurance: "The Canadian Pacific Railway was begun in eight-seen 'undred and thirty-four, and the last spike was driven—"

Voice interrupting from the gallery: "No, no; you're talking about the Grand Trunk Railway."

"Datas": "You asked about the Canadian Pacific Railway, sir, and I am telling you. The Canadian Pacific was begun in eighteen hundred and thirty-four, and—"

Voice: "No, no—all wrong: the Canadian Pacific was hardly thought of before 1880."

"Fine railway that," ejaculated "Datas," and passed on hurriedly to answer other questions.

The sequel is not less illustrative of English acquaintance with Canadian affairs. A man sitting next to the Canadian questioner turned to him and said:

"Ah! you caught him that time; but I suppose you can't expect him to know about things outside our own country."

"Oh, yes," said the Canadian, "you can. I have tested him about the landing of convicts in New South Wales; and he knew."

"Ah, well," replied the man, "that's our own country, so to speak isn't it?—within the Empire, you know."

The Canadian relapsed into thoughtful silence.

WHY DO YOU SHIVER?

Because the Stomach is not Supplying the Body with the Heat it Needs—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets the Remedy.

These chill October days have a tendency to make people shiver. Do you know the cause of those shivers? It is because the stomach is not doing its full work. It is the duty of the stomach to furnish the body with heat. If the stomach is in a healthy condition this heat will be supplied. If it is not supplied, it is time to pay attention to the stomach.

It needs to be toned up and the best tonic is Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They digest the food while the stomach "rests up" and gets in condition to do its work.

The best proof that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will do this is the experience of those who have used them. They are unanimous in recommending them. Take the experience of Jassia Louisa Sellers, of Western Bay, Nfld., for example. She says:

"I believe Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have made a sound cure of me after being for seven years almost a dying woman. Now, thank God, after taking four boxes of them I am able to do my daily work as usual. I cannot praise Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets too much."

Government Lightship "The Lurcher."

On the 17th October Miss Belle Jeffrey christened the new Government lightship "The Lurcher," which is to all intents and purposes a floating lighthouse, and it was then sent into the waters of Toronto Bay. The Lurcher is intended for lightship duty on the Lurcher Shoal, near the end of Nova Scotia. It is very stiffly built, and stands high above the water. She will have a crew of about 30 men.

The measurements of the hull are: Length between perpendiculars, 112 feet; breadth, moulded, 28 feet, 6 inches; depth of hold from top to keel to top of maindeck beam amidships, 14 feet 10½ inches. The vessel has three decks, the main and spar decks being continuous and the lower deck extending from the stem to coal bunker bulkhead, and from the sternpost to the engine bulkhead. The machinery includes the engine, surface condensing, single cylinder, 28x22 inches, and the propeller is of the solid type, 7 feet 8 inches diameter. Each boat has two navy type boilers, 9 feet diameter, 16 feet 7½ inches long, designed for a working pressure of 100 lbs. per square inch.

The boat is to be fitted out with fog signals, whale boats, windlasses, cables, mushroom anchors, etc., the fog singals being sufficiently powerful to be heard for 25 miles. The craft is fitted with electric lights for lighthouse service and with a large 1,000 lb. bell. The Lurcher and its companion craft, which is built on the same specifications for use in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, at the end of the Island of Anticosti, are worth in the neighborhood of $200,000. It is the first time lightships have been built in this country, and they are in excess of Lloyds.

Destroying the Indians.

A deplorable state of affairs is reported to exist among the Indians in the Peace River District and contiguous sections of the Northwest. Mr. J. M. Macoun, of the Geological Survey, who has just returned from an exploring trip, says the natives are being destroyed by alcohol sold under the guise of perfumes and essences. The law permits each resident to import twenty gallons of spirits annually, a proportion of which probably finds its way into the stomachs of the red men. But it is not to the permit system that the prevailing drunkenness is attributed. The law is well enforced by the Mounted Police and the quantity of spirits that enters under permit is not sufficient to work the demoralization of the Indians that is apparent on every side. To evade the law, which is designed to protect the Indians, special brands of essences and perfumes are manufactured in the East for the trade of the Northwest. It is almost pure alcohol, flavored as "peppermint," "Florida water" and "eau de Cologne." These decoctions are sold at the trading posts, and the result is the moral and physical degeneration of the Indians to a point that promises their speedy extinction under the most lamentable conditions.

The Ticket-of-Leave.

The probation system, sometimes known as indeterminate sentences, and called in Canada the Ticket-of-leave Act, is and has been regarded by the Congress as the greatest factor in the reformation of criminals if it is properly administered. Several States have adopted this system. New York and Indiana have the best probation laws in the world, the best probatioo laws in the world. The Canadian system is inferior, according to the annual report of the National Prison Congress recently held in Louisville, Ky. The Ticket-of-leave Act is good, but its application is unsatisfactory. Different influences can be brought to bear and it often happens that a worthy prisoner is refused a ticket-of-leave while it is just as often granted to undeserving prisoners. What is needed is a commission, such as exists in New York and Indiana, to adjudicate upon the merits of every applicant for ticket-of-leave.

To God's child the heaviest sorrow is lighter than the least sin.

You hear of many people having kidney disease and gradually becoming victims of Bright's disease, but do you ever stop to think of what your pains and aches indicate.

Kidney Disease

It may be worth while for you to ask yourself a few questions. If you are falling prey to kidney disease you want to know about it in time to prevent serious results.

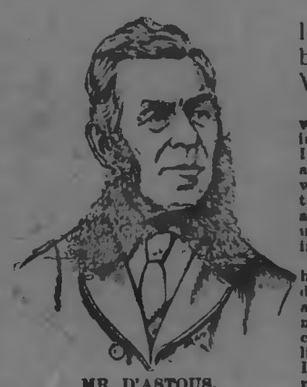
Does your back ache? Is your back weak and lame, and do you find it difficult to straighten up? Do you experience pain or scalding when passing water? Is there a sediment in the urine after it stands for twenty-four hours? Is it scanty and highly colored?

These are indications of kidney disease which you cannot afford to neglect.

They suggest the advisability of immediately beginning the use of Dr Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, because there is no treatment obtainable which will bring such prompt relief and so certainly start you on the road to health.

Kidney derangements are almost invariably accompanied by disorders of the liver and irregularity of the bowels and it is because of their direct and combined action on the kidneys, liver and bowels that these pills are so successful in affecting thorough and lasting cures.

Few medicines are backed by such a record of cures as are Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and many of these cures are not at all ordinary cases but chronic ones of the most severe type.



MR. D'ASTOUS.

The experience of Mr. D'Astous, as quoted below, is similar to that of thousands of others who are being cured by this great prescription of Dr. A W. Chase.

Mr. Pierre D'Astous, Farmer, St. Flavie, Rimouski Co., Que., writes:—"I was a great sufferer from kidney disease, backache and pains in the arms and legs before using Dr. Chase's excellent Kidney-Liver Pills. I had no appetite, was weak and slept poorly, and in the morning felt tired and unrefreshed. It was only with the greatest difficulty that I did a little work about the farm, and as I was 67 years of age I concluded that my time had come and I would have to give up. About that time (two years ago) I received a book about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and began to use them. From the very first they were of benefit to me, and after having used three boxes I was real well.

"For the last two years I have not been the same man. I feel well, have no pain, my appetite is good and I do any kind of work. All this is due to the use of these excellent pills. I always keep them in the house and when I go away take some with me. Since using this medicine I have no use for doctors. To-day I am writing without glasses, and before being cured of kidney disease my sight bothered me considerably. You are at liberty to use this letter, and I shall always recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills whenever I have an opportunity. I have already given samples to friends who have proven their merit."

IN DEFIANCE OF ANCESTRY

By M. LOUISE CUMMINS

...Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure...

"There's nothing," Ellen O'Connor confided to her teacup as she poured the fragrant fluid into the saucer—"there's nothing so comforting as a drop of something warm. There's Miss Jane. 'Tis sourer than any crab apple she is before breakfast. But just let me wet the bit of tay or coffee! You can see the puckers going out of her face with the first sup, and be the time she fills out the second cup you'd think 'twas in a different world she was living."

It must be said in defense of Miss Jane Norriss that, though her waiting woman's soliloquy was true, dressing in a cold room, where spindle legged furniture, worth its weight in gold, was jostled and supplemented by cheap pine, was not conducive to cheerfulness.

Also upon Miss Jane for the past thirty years had fallen the burden of making both ends meet out of a very slender income for herself and Miss Penelope.

But as she walked through the village of Plattville Miss Norriss' thin, aquiline nose held itself as high as when her family had represented the wealth of that select community. They were still the Norrisses. That was sufficient.

Never by the flicker of an eyelid had Miss Norriss acknowledged that she was aware of the existence of their neighbor, Mr. Jabis Babson, yet for the past three years he had occupied the handsome old house adjoining her own. It was undoubtedly one of the trials of Miss Norriss' life that her aristocratic fingers were compelled upon the Sabbath day to drop their ten cent piece into a contribution box held by the plebeian hand of her obnoxious neighbor. Upon such occasions her eyes were steadfastly fixed on the stained glass window opposite, a gift from her Grandfather Pettigill, while every spiral ornament in her bonnet quivered as if it were a sentinel defending the Pettigill-Norriss family pride.

Miss Penelope could hardly tell when she began to regard Mr. Babson with a feeling far different from aversion. It might have been upon a certain Sunday when, having mislaid her small coin, she raised her eyes in a flutter of embarrassment only to meet a look so admiring that the money was forever lost to the parish of Plattville.

That night in her own room Miss Penelope took out her terrible secret and thought over it tremblingly. She had seated herself at the window with her candlestick on the wide sill. Suddenly she became aware of a similar illumination in the adjoining house. Scarcely knowing what she did, Miss Pen moved her light along the window ledge. The movement was immediately answered. With a heart beating to suffocation she raised it high above her head, her cheeks flushing like a girl's as she saw the small flame opposite take the same course.

After that the days to this little colonial dame were something to be got through as best she could. At night all the thoughts of her heart were told in the interchange of signals.

But there came an evening when Miss Penelope watched through long, silent hours of agony for the light which did not appear. A dull red glow showed through the lowered shade. At midnight a carriage drove up and stopped at Mr. Babson's gate. Then a sudden fierce resentment against her sister filled Miss Pen's soul. He was ill, dying perhaps, and she was barred out.

It was near dawn when the lamp's dull glow disappeared and the small point of flame caused by a candle showed near the window. Miss Penelope fell on her knees, with heavy breaths tearing her throat, while her clasped hands were raised in mute thanksgiving.

In the morning Ellen was full of the latest neighborhood news while she waited on the ladies at breakfast.

"Oh, sure 'twas like to've died, Mr. Babson did, in the night, ma'am," she began. "He was took bad with pains in his side about 9 o'clock, and Mrs. McGrath sent Peter McGill flying for the doctor. When they got back 'twas on the flat of his back the master was, Peter says, not knowing man nor mortal, and Mrs. McGrath rubbing him with her two hands. And when he come out o' that 'twas only raving about a candle he was and putting it in the winder until to quiet him"—

"Ellen!"

Miss Norriss' voice interrupted her serving woman in quick alarm. Miss Penelope had fallen forward in a limp heap with her head on the breakfast table.

Half an hour she lay white and weak on her bed, while Miss Norriss sat stiffly beside her.

"I think," Miss Penelope said in a faint voice, "that I must have loved him from the very first."

Miss Norriss' thin nose drew down until the bone showed white through the skin.

"Dear"—Miss Penelope stretched out one slender hand—"if he lives I think I ought to have the right—to take care of him."

In silence Miss Norriss rose and left the room.

But Ellen bore a note to the house next door that afternoon. Peter McGill brought the answer within five minutes, with a huge bunch of roses, a special pale pink variety of Mr. Babson's own cultivation, which he had named the Colonial Dame.

Mr. Babson still passes the contribution box in church, but he now returns to a seat beside a lady in silver gray silk, whose face holds the bloom and happiness of youth. Miss Norriss sits very straight at the other side of the lady in question, her eyes fixed resolutely on the stained glass window, as if she would propitiate the ghost of the departed Pettigill.

OSTRICH LOGIC.

"When I can't see danger there is no danger." That's the logic of the ostrich which hides its head and exposes its body to the hunter. There are not a few people who seem to have gone to the ostrich to learn logic. The most dangerous enemies of humanity are the enemies which can't be seen, the disease breeding microbes which infect the blood. It is harder to get the microbe out of the blood than to keep it out, but Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery does both, by purifying the blood and then keeping it pure.

If there are eruptions on the skin, boils, pimples, sores or other signs of impure blood, use Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which will purify the blood and cure the eruptions which come from it.

"My blood was all out of order, and I had to go to the doctor," writes Mrs. James R. Moss, New London, Stanly Co., N.C. "He gave me medicine which helped me for a short time. In the winter of 1899 I got worse than I had ever been. My tonsils were enlarged and my neck swollen all out of shape; my throat was sore and I could not care it. My husband went for the doctor, but he gave me no encouragement. He helped me a little, but it did not last long. He attended me for twelve months, when I heard of a lady whose condition was like mine, who was taking your medicine and was getting well. So I secured some of the medicine and began taking it. In one week I was able to do my cooking. When I began taking the medicine I could sit up only a few minutes at a time, and I could rest or sleep only a little while at a time. My throat was so sore at times I could not even swallow sweet milk, and my tonsils were full of little eating sores. My left side was swollen out of shape and I could hardly get my breath. The doctor said I would not get well, but three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, three bottles of his 'Pellets,' three bottles of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and the use of salt water did the work and cured me."

The Suburban Home.

The suburban house expresses freedom from restraint; it is the home of children; it means purer air; it means more room to move around in; it means gardens, and it implies a social life which years of city living may never engender. These are matters of first importance, and when to them is added the material advantage of lower rents the superiority of the suburban house over the city dwelling is established. There are long rides by trolley or train; there is the necessity of keeping early hours; there are difficulties with limited grocery, butcher and bakery service; there are other practical drawbacks. But over and beyond these is the abiding space of freedom of movement, of ample air and sunlight, of a place to live in.

And that is exactly what a house is for. It is neither to look at nor to serve as an ornament to a highway. That it should be ornamental and should be viewed with interest are matters of course that are extremely desirable, but after all it is the house within that counts; that makes suburban life bearable, adds to its joys, increases its advantages, cements its superiority to every other sort of living unless it be the country life pure and undefiled.—House Beautiful.

Put at His Ease.

Few men could tell a more amusing anecdote than Max O'Rell. Explaining once his timidity when he first took up lecturing, he told how everything went well till he reached a certain town in Scotland.

"There at the close of my lecture I made my usual apology for 'murdering the Queen's English.' Then up got a brawny Scot, who in all but incomprehensible dialect declared that I spoke it as 'weel as he did himsel'.' After that, as you may suppose, I was more at ease."

Overcrowded London.

The last census of London showed one-third of its huge population living in overcrowded conditions. It stated that "of the 4,500,000 Londoners 2,000,000 have no more than 400 cubic feet of space per person to live in. 900,000 are living in space less than is required by law. 200,000 are packed in horrible block dwellings. 500,000 live three persons to one room. 26,000 live six to a room, 9,000 live seven in a room, and 3,000 live eight and upward to as many as seventeen in one room."

Bad Horse Disease.

Kingston, Oct. 29.—Dr. Morse, Dominion veterinary expert, has pronounced the horse disease prevalent in Wolfe Island and Pittsburg township as typhoid influenza. Seventy per cent. of the cases have proved fatal.

SIR HECTOR ACQUITTED.

Commissioners Say He Was Assassinated by Vile Tongues.

The Weekly News of Edinburgh, giving in full the report of the Commissioners appointed to investigate the charges against the late Sir Hector Macdonald, says: The report, issued at Colombo, Ceylon, June 29, says the commission unanimously and unmistakably find absolutely no reason or crime whatsoever which would create feelings such as would determine suicide, in preference to conviction of any crime affecting the moral and irreproachable character of so brave, so fearless, so glorious and unparalleled a hero; and we firmly believe the cause which gave rise to the inhuman and cruel suggestions of crime were prompted through vulgar feelings of spite and jealousy in his rising to such a high rank of distinction in the British army; and, while we have taken the most reliable and trustworthy evidence from every accessible and conceivable source, have without hesitation come to the conclusion that there is not visible the slightest particle of truth or foundation of any crime, and we find the late Sir Hector Macdonald has been cruelly assassinated by vile and slandering tongue. While honorably acquitting the late Sir Hector Macdonald of any charge whatever, we cannot but deplore the sad circumstances of the case that have fallen so disastrously on one whom we have found innocent of any crime attributed to him.

A Marvelous Memory.

Cardinal Mezzofanti was possessed of a very wonderful memory, which he applied to the learning of a great number of languages. Lord Byron described him as "a walking polyglot, a monster of languages and a Briareus of parts of speech." He could learn a new language in the course of three weeks on occasion so as to be able to talk fluently with those whose tongue it was. At the age of fifty-four Mezzofanti knew fifty languages. Before his death he is said to have known seventy or eighty. More of these were European than most people would imagine to be the case. For instance, Wallachian, Illyrian, the Romani of the Alps, Lettish and Lappish figured among the twenties in his list, for the remainder of which he went to other continents. Mezzofanti's system of learning languages was simple enough where books were available. He read the grammar through, after which he was its master, for he never forgot what he had read. Many of his languages were learned from prisoners whom he visited in their affliction.

The Monocle Habit.

The single eyeglass, or monocle, never found many admirers in this country, and only a few transplanted Englishmen cling to it. An oculist, discussing the use of the monocle, said: "Dr. Kitchener back in 1824 thought it a good thing. He advised its alternate use, now in the right eye, now in the left one. He said in his book that he had cultivated the habit of picking up the glass each time he wanted to use it with a different hand. Of course picked up with the right hand it had to go into the right eye, and vice versa. As a matter of fact, the single eyeglass is injurious. It throws all the work on one eye. It destroys the harmony of the optic muscles and nerves. I know an Englishman who has worn for a myopic affection a monocle in his left eye for twelve years. The left eye is all right, but with the other the man can see practically nothing. The habit of the monocle continues to live among the English swells."

Yet He Wasn't Tired of Her.

A certain English musician is a good story teller, according to a London journal, and has a fund of amusing personal experiences to draw upon. One of the great musician's best stories is about a provincial church organist who was once a pupil of his. The young man was appointed to an important church in the Midlands. In course of time he married. During his absence on his honeymoon his voluntaries were much missed by the congregation. They had always been appreciated and their renewal was looked forward to. "Imagine," says Sir Frederick Bridge, "the intense amusement of the people when the newly married organist gave as his first voluntary upon his return Handel's 'Waft Her, Angels, to the Skies.'"

MR. BALFOUR'S LOVE STORY.

Romantic Story Recalled by Mr. Alfred Lyttelton's Appointment.

The romantic story of British Prime Minister Balfour's one heart attachment is recalled by the surprising appointment of Alfred Lyttelton to the Colonial Secretaryship.

Thirty years ago Mr. Balfour was in love with the Hon. Mary Lyttelton, Alfred's youngest sister. She was clever, cultivated and charming, but delicate, and died in 1875 when only eighteen.

Arthur Balfour was inconsolable, and the story is told that he entered the death chamber, removed his ring and placed it on her wedding finger, pledging himself forever to his dead love.

He has always remained a close friend of Alfred Lyttelton, who several years later married Laura Tennant, the eldest sister of "Margot" Tennant, who now is Mrs. Herbert Asquith and the original of Benson's "Dode." Laura Tennant, a remarkably brilliant, fascinating girl, attracted all the intellectual men and women of "smart" society in her day, but she, too, died a few years after her marriage. The devotion between Laura and "Margot" was intense, and the latter was terribly stricken by the bereavement.

Mr. Balfour, the Lyttletons and all the other young people who worshiped at Laura Lyttelton's shrine devoted themselves to consoling "Margot" for her loss, and always alluded to Laura as "the soul." The circle these formed became known as "The Souls," who by their exclusiveness as well as their intellectual pretensions excited much envious criticism.

MEN THAT MOTHERS MAKE.

Show me that boy that nightly bows at mother's knee in prayer
Who wears her golden precepts in his heart,
Who lays his hand in hers and seeks her counsel day by day,
Whose path in life from hers lies not apart,
And thus his horoscope I'll cast:
"His name will live among the last."

Show me the youth whose good right arm encircles mother's form,
Whose lips fear not to kiss her faded cheek,
Who lives for her to shield her and protect her from all harm,
Who comforts her when she is old and weak,
And in the coming years I see
A man for all eternity.

Show me the man whose life is pure, that man who claims success;
Show me that man who treads the ways of fame,
That man whose deeds adorn the name of truth and uprightness,
Whose soul knows not the tarnished blush of shame,
And in his glory thus arrayed
Behold a man that mother made.

SIR RICHARD NICHOLSON.

Salisbury's Solicitor to Whom the Statesman Bequeathed £500.

The London Star says: Sir Richard Nicholson, to whom the late Lord Salisbury leaves £500, and who is, in fact, the only person outside the late statesman's family to benefit under the will, was Lord Salisbury's solicitor for many years. Born at Hertford in 1828, he was educated at Mount Radford School, Exeter, and afterwards joined the surveying staff of the New Zealand Company in 1843. After helping to lay out the towns of Wanganui and Dunedin, he returned to England, where he was admitted a solicitor in 1851. He was appointed Clerk of the Peace for the County of Middlesex in 1869, and First Clerk of the Peace for London in 1888. Sir Richard was charged with the claim of the late Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot to the title and estates, which was established in 1869. A keen sportsman, he resides, when not in town, at Eden, Banffshire, an estate which he purchased from Mr. Thomas Adam, the transaction leading to much jesting about Adamless Edens and Paradises Lost.

The Hudson Bay Wilderness.

Alfred E. Preble, a senior at Tufts College, Boston, Mass., has returned to his studies after a trip of 3,000 miles into the Hudson Bay wilderness, 1,200 miles of it in a canoe. His assistants on the trip were his brother and Merritt Cary. The expedition, which was in the interests of the United States Government, was for the purpose of gathering specimens of rare birds and mammals.

The party reached Athabasca Landing, in the Province of Alberta, on May 16, after a trip of 100 miles by wagon from Edmonton, the northern point on the Canadian Pacific Railroad. From there the party went down Athabasca River in a canoe with guides to Lake Athabasca and across that lake to the mouth of the Slave River. The course down the Slave River to Great Slave Lake was almost due north for about 200 miles, where the party arrived the first of June.

At this point the party separated, Preble's brother going alone from Great Slave Lake through Yellow Knife River to Great Bear Lake, while Preble himself went with Cary down the MacKenzie to survey the Nahanni Mountains and the country about the MacKenzie as far north as Fort Wrigley, one of the Hudson Bay Company posts. By the fourth of July the northern point had been reached, and a large number of specimens had been collected. The data which Preble brought back are of great value to biologists.

QUOTATIONS ON THE WALL STREET MARKET.

A Very Dull Day in New York Stocks.

The Fluctuations of the Leading Stocks—Market Letters.

The New York market opened somewhat weak this morning. C. P. R., as a result of the poor showing for the past month, sold down to 118 1-8 and the Soo stocks fell in sympathy with it. The market was very dull all morning, the sales to noon being only 89,900. Money was quoted at 5 per cent. Twin City sold ex-dividend 1 1-4, at 86 3-4.

Concerning the general condition of the market, Messrs. McMillan & Maguire (phone 416) have the following to say:

There is evidence that the Goulds are preparing for an old time bull movement in Missouri Pacific. It will take place, if general conditions are favourable, very soon. The stock is now selling about 34 points below the last year's high mark. It is earning 12 per cent. and returns on the investment 51-2 per cent. If is, therefore, attractive to investors, who cannot get more than 4 1-2 per cent for their money. The earnings since July 1st show a gross increase of more than $2,000,000. We believe the stock should be bought on all soft spots and held for substantial profits.

Fundamentals are bullish. Of that there is no doubt. It is only necessary to look at the ease in the money market, the increasing net returns of railroads, the clearing of the financial atmosphere by exposes of interior local trouble, the full average crops of grain and cotton and the reports of car famines in the west. These factors cannot be overthrown and we predict that within 60 days the stock market will be materially higher in the railroad list especially, where we are bullish on Atchison, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, New York Central, Paul, Erie, Baltimore & Ohio. There are tips out to buy Amalgamated Copper and Peoples' Gas.

In order to clear up any misunderstanding that may exist in regard to the movement of money west, which will probably temporarily stiffen rates, we desire to point out that the money is being sent to move grain principally; that this movement will result in large exports; that these exports will depress sterling and thereby induce gold imports, which will also be attracted by the higher money rates here. The banks have $17,000,000 to draw upon before reaching the legal limit. On the whole, therefore, the money situation can be said to be satisfactory.

EVENING LETTER.

Chicago, Oct. 29:h.—Wheat opened lower on easier cables. Good buying at the opening rallied market 2-8 cent for Dec. and 1-4 for May. On this advance heavy selling by local professionals broke both May and Dec. half cent. On the decline the market was well supported by Armour and the south-west. Primary rct 1,127,000 against 1,711,113 a year ago. Northwest cars 294 against 1,013 a year ago. Wheat looks to us in a very strong position and we feel that buying on all recessions will show good profit The foreigners are beginning to take our wheat around these prices. Market closed strong.

Corn opened one-quarter lower in sympathy with Liverpool cables and the lower wheat market. The market was well supported by the good commission people on all recessions and held firm throughout the session. Primary rcts. were 585,000 against 323,600 a year ago. We look for corn to do better and would buy it on all recessions. Market closed strong and in sympathy with wheat.

Oats opened at about last night's figures. Market sold off on the decline in the wheat market. Trade was very light. We think oats are high enough and would sell them on all rallies.

Provisions—Market slow and irregular. There was some demand for May pork by local traders. Packers were for the most part sellers. Trade was very light. The provision market closed firm.

The following despatch has been received by E. M. Fousnett & Co.:—

Charles Head says: Speculative sentiment is rather bullish owning principally to the absence of liquidation and the timidity of the bears, who lack leadership at present. Trading operations for small profits seem to be about all that the market promises for the immediate future.

M. & M. say: The money market seems to be well under control and if the bank statement proves to be a very bad one, its effect may be offset by the sentimental influence of prospective gold imports. General disposition of traders is to anticipate a dull market until after the appearance of this statement, and with prospective buying holding off, the market will be narrow and dull, showing little buying power.

Grain market.—Wheat; the present market offers opportunities on both sides. The buyer on a scale down would seem to have a good chance for profits on the reaction. Corn; appearances seem to indicate that it will be a difficult matter to advance prices much until some change in condition is apparent. —M. & M.

Expectations of an advance in call money rate to-day of furth er shipments of currency to interior and an unfavourable statement to-morrow together with disappointment over action of Pen. in bringing out new bond issues at present time have developed a rather bearish feeling and we look for lower prices to-day and to-morrow. We expect some rather aggressive selling of Penna. and the stocks of its controlled properties and also of Atch., UP and Cen. The holiday Thursday will check any disposition to buy and the dominant interests in the market are not opposed to an extension of short interest. Weakness in industrial list is also expected with liquidation in A.F., P.R.S. and U.S. preferred and Sugar. It will be a purely professional market with traders working for profits of a couple of points on short side.

BACK FROM ABITIBI.

Surveyor Code Tells of Good Clay Land Easily Cleared.

Mr. A. S. Code, O.L.S., C.E., has returned from a survey trip in the townships of Stock and Taylor, in the Abitibi region, on Black and Driftwood Rivers, near the Abitibi River. The trip lasted for two and a half months. The soil of the country is clay, with a good quantity of sand, sufficient to make it easily workable. The timber is small and easily cleared, and the land will be easy to drain. Big game is plentiful, but decreases as you go north from the height of land.

On Lake Abitibi there are two supply ports. At the eastern end is a Hudson's Bay Company's post, and at the west end is Biederman's. At the latter place the Indians are building a birch-bark canoe, 40 feet long, capable of carrying 6,500 lbs. of provisions.

GREAT COFFER DAM AT NIAGARA FALLS.

Coffer Dam in Tempestuous Rapids.

An Unparalleled Engineering Feat Nearing Completion.

Mr. Frederic Nicholls, of Toronto, in an interview, speaking of the work at the Falls, stated that the coffer dam of the Toronto and Niagara Falls Power Co., was nearing completion. All the heavy, dangerous work in the rapid water was a thing of the past, the workmen now being engaged near the shore. The construction shaft had been completed to its full depth of 160 feet; the struction tunnel was now about 350 feet under the Falls, and half way out to where the construction of the main tunnel would commence. The contractor for the wheel pit had a coffer dam completed entirely around his work, the ground cleared, and buildings and machinery installed ready to commence work in the wheel pit, which would be continued night and day until completed.

"One of the most magnificent sights to be seen," continued Mr. Nicholls, "is from the coffer dam, which is an engineering work almost without parallel in the world. It dams back the whole force of the Niagara River in the most tempestuous part of the rapids, about 2000 feet above the brink of the falls. Engineers from all over the United States are visiting the work, and have expressed their admiration of its solidity and also of the engineering skill shown in its construction."

LENDRUM'S

VILLAGE OF ATRADNOE.

The Home of Peter Verigin, the Wise Doukhobor—Description of the Place—Other Villages Are Similar.

Job S. Gidley of Dartmouth, Mass., who has just returned from a conference with the Doukhobors in the Canadian Northwest concerning the expenditure of $15,000 left by a woman Friend of Philadelphia to be devoted to the educational needs of these people, thus describes the Village of Atradnoe, the home of Peter Verigin:

"Here we met once more Evan Machortoff, the patriarch of the Doukhobors, who though 90 years of age, appears as well preserved and sprightly as the average man of 40 years.

"It may be of interest to have a description of this village, which would give a general idea of the other Doukhobor villages; for nearly all of them are laid out in a similar manner. This village is situated in Assiniboia, on the northeasterly side of White Sand River, and about a half mile distant therefrom. It contains 22 log houses neatly calsomined with clay inside and out, located about 100 feet distant from each other on either side of a street about 75 feet in width, passing through the village in an easterly and westerly direction. The settlement has a commanding view of the surrounding country.

"There are several stables used by the Doukhobors in common for their stock, and buildings where 8,000 bushels of wheat, oats and barley are stored, representing the grain crop raised by the Doukhobors of this village the present year. There is also a flour mill near a small stream on the southerly side of the village which furnishes water for the engine used for the motive power.

"The Doukhobors have improved their condition very much in four years. At that time they sowed mowed their grass and cut their grain by hand, threshing it with a flail. Now the seed is drilled in by horse power, the grass is cut with mowing machines, the grain is harvested with binders and threshed by steam. While we were in Atradnoe one of these steam threshers was in operation, and we were told that the Doukhobors with it in nine hours threshed 2,600 bushels of oats. The Doukhobors have eight of these steam threshers. Two of them, with traction engines, cost $8,000 each, and the six with portable engines $2,250 each. When the grain is threshed in one village the thresher is moved to another. The engines used by the Doukhobors to furnish the motive power for threshing when not in use that way are used as the motive power for grinding grain. There is one windmill for grinding in one of the villages through which we passed that was built this year.

Now Self-supporting.

"The Doukhobors are now self-supporting. Their fertile lands yield them a bountiful harvest and their vegetable diet makes their living expenses as far as food is concerned but a mere trifle. They still continue to make a large portion of their boots and shoes. They also spin and weave some of the cloth for their garments. The women and children have gathered and sold more than $10,000 worth of senaca root the present year. When we left Atradnoe to go to Yorkton, 45 miles distant, Peter Verigin, Evan Machortoff and several other Doukhobors (three carriages in all) went with us to the bridge over White Sand River, about ten miles distant, to show us a herd of 320 horses which were grazing on the prairie near by. Peter Verigin had recently purchased these horses for the different villages of the Doukhobors, obtaining them from a trader living 150 miles from Regina, Assiniboia, taking his choice out of a herd of 2,000 horses, at a cost of $24,000. These horses were raised in the State of Montana.

"When Verigin found it would cost him about seven dollars per head to have them shipped by rail from Regina to Yorkton, he concluded to have them driven overland. By doing this he saved about six dollars per head. They were four weeks on the journey, and though they had been on the prairie only two or three days, they looked none the worse for their journey. The herd was guarded by two mounted Doukhobors. As the grain fields of the Doukhobors are, for the most part, without fences, their herds of cattle and horses must be looked after by herdsmen. We left the trail and drove over the prairie through the herd of horses, which are in a wild state, but looked as though they would make fine workers.

"The Doukhobors in the different villages visited gave us a hearty welcome, and expressed great thankfulness that we had come to visit them once more, and appeared glad to learn that there was a prospect of having schools established in the different villages in which their children could learn to speak, read and write the English language.

What Peter Thinks.

"Peter Verigin thought that the Doukhobors would probably cut the lumber this winter, build the schoolhouses next year, and have them ready for the schools in the fall.

"Some people seem to think that the Doukhobors are not very intelligent, but we met with two who were able to speak, read and write three different languages. One of them, a young man about 21 years of age, is able to read, write and speak English, Russian and Georgian. His ability to do this was acquired without the aid of a teacher.

"The Doukhobors have great enjoyment in playing ball. One afternoon just before sunset, we saw quite a number of boys and girls whose ages ranged from 15 to 20 years, engaged in this pastime, and they kept it up even after sunset, in fact, just as long as they could keep track of the ball. It did not seem to matter much whether a girl or a boy was at the bat, for the ball, when hit, went flying through the air about the same distance in either case."

To Stop the Trains.

Plattsburg, N.Y., Oct. 30.—The New York Central Railroad officials at Malone have received notification from the Canadian customs officials at Ottawa that it is their intention in the near future to stop all passenger trains entering Canada at the frontier for examination by customs officials.

N.W.T. Legislature.

Winnipeg, Oct. 30.—The Governor's speech at the opening of the Territorial Legislature, makes no mention of autonomy of Federal relations. It refers to some increased powers regarding the qualification of members and the administration of justice, which later renders necessary the setting apart of judicial districts. The increased population necessitates decentralization and rural municipal organization, bills to which end will be presented; also bills to create a university and deal with succession duties.

NEW FISCAL POLICY OF GREAT BRITAIN.

No End of Speeches on the Chamberlain Suggestions.

£15,000,000 Instead of £9,000,000 to be Realized by a Ten per Cent, Duty on Imports—British Goods for Britishers Being Made a Sine qua Non by Syndicate of London Merchants.

London, Oct. 31.—(C.A.P.)—Mr. Chamberlain has revised his Glasgow speech of Oct. 6 for The National Review. The speech was imperfectly reported by the press, owing to a telegraphic breakdown. The Daily Mail says it will be ranked by posterity amongst the finest examples of British eloquence. The only alteration in the speech is that Mr. Chamberlain orginally stated that a duty averaging 10 per cent. would give the Exchequer £9,000,000 a year. The revised version reads: "It might be nearer £15,000,000 if we may accept the Board of Trade's estimate of £148,000,000 as the value of the imports of manufactured and partly manufactured goods."

In his Newcastle speech, Mr. Chamberlain said: "With regard to colonial trade, it would go to our friends and kinsmen, and we think, having regard to the future, it is high time John Bull and his sons entered into partnership.

"A number of city business men, acting on this suggestion, have formed a syndicate to trade exclusively in manufactured goods, foodstuffs and raw materials produced within the limits of the British Empire." British goods for Britishers is the password of the new undertaking. Subsidiary limited companies will be formed in all the colonies, and each will send a director to London.

The Somerset Chamber of Commerce, at a large meeting yesterday, carried a resolution declaring that the time had arrived for consideration of the fiscal policy of the Empire, with a view to strengthening the bond of union between the colonies and providing a means for resisting hostile foreign tariffs.

Lord Morley, speaking at Plympton last night, said that if the Government stated a concrete case of retaliation the Commons would adopt it, if by any chance a zollverein with the colonies would be considered worth so great a sacrifice.

James A. Jacoby, M.P. (Liberal), speaking at Bolton yesterday, said he favored putting an end to the dumping into England of bounty-fed manufactured goods, which seriously interfered with the British markets. He freely hinted that if Sir Michael Hicks-Beach were prepared to take office with Mr. Balfour, his attitude was likely to force the Duke of Devonshire to speak plainly concerning Premier Balfour's action in regard to the Cabinet and the position Free Trade Unionists should adopt.

Secretary Murray of Scotland last night said in part that the declared policy of Chamberlain and Balfour regarding the fiscal changes would not take place until after the general elections. If the Liberals came into power there would be a revival of the policy of harassing each trade and interest. He thought the Government would be sustained.

Of the 64 members of Parliament claimed by the Free Food League only 42 are forthcoming. Ian Z. Malcolm, M.P., has ceased to belong to the Free Food League because its recents manifesto does not afford the Prime Minister the wholesome support he is entitled to by the Sheffield conference and due from those pledged to retaliation.

The Daily Express publishes a long list of British manufacturers who have been compelled to emigrate by the protective tariffs of foreign countries.

Insult to Lord Goschen.

London, Oct. 31.—(C. A. P.)—The Daily News boils with indignation at the insult to Lord Goschen, as, having been invited by the dinner committee of the Liverpool Conservative Club to a dinner and banquet, and accepted the invitation, he was informed that the club declined to endorse the request and the dinner had been declared off.

EVEN 100 LICENSES ISSUED TO HUNTERS.

Further List of Those who may Shoot Deer

The application for Hunters' Licenses still goes merrily on and to-day the game warden has issued a large number of additional licenses to those who think they have sufficient nerve to face a deer. Up to the time of going to press, 100 hunters had been given the necessary legal permission to hunt the coy inhabitants of the northern forests. In yesterday's issue of this paper a statement was made to the effect that permits and licenses might be given authorizing the shooting of deer north of lot 15 in Dummer. This is incorrect, as the southern boundary is lot 15, Belmont, and no deer may be shot in either Douro or Dummer, nor south of the lakes.

In addition to the licenses issued, 64 permits have been given to settlers.

FIRST PRACTICE FOR "PINAFORE"

Held This Morning and was Well Attended.

The first practice for the production of "H.M.S. Pinafore" which is to be given by almost 100 children under the auspices of St. John's King's Daughters, was held this morning in St. John's school room and was very encouraging to those having the affair in hand. About one hundred children were in attendance, and Mr. Telgmann is pleased with the ability already displayed by those who will take part in "Pinafore."

The date on which the opera will be given has not been definitely decided, but it will probably be during the last week in November.

This great composition of Gilbert and Sullivan has been given in a number of Canadian cities, and in every instance it has been received with pleasure and satisfaction.

IS THE TREMOLO A MARK OF CULTURE?

Extract From Letter by Principal Dyer on the Subject.

Belleville is the scene of a warm musical controversy, and the Intelligencer is daily publishing letters from different citizens. A letter from Mr. J. J. B, Flint, a few days ago, condemned the tremolo or vibrato as being unmusical and in yesterday's issue Principal Dyer of Albert College, had a letter defending this practice. It is interesting to Peterborough readers as a letter was published in this paper a few days ago dealing with this subject. An extract from Principal Dyer's letter follows. He says: "I challenge the statement that the vibrato is not a characteristic of professional vocalists, and assert that whether pleasing or otherwise, the vibrato is very marked in the great majority of professional vocalists. When Mr. Frank Eaton last sang in the Bridge street church after experience and training received in New York and in other American cities, this was very marked. In all the singing of Mr. Harold Jarvis there is a distinct vibration. In all the soloists of the Metropolitan church choir, Toronto, and in the pupils of voice culture of the College of Music, under that foremost Canadian teacher of music, Dr. Torrington, the vibrato is very marked. So with many others of provincial, national and world wide reputation. I am assured by leading teachers that the vibrato is not, as asserted, the result of affectation or a fad, but a necessary part to a greater or less degree of every trained vocalists. Many voices of poor timbre are utterly incapable of marked vibrato. I hasten to assure Mr. Flint that it is not the effect of physical deformity, so that his sympathy is unnecessary."

MEN ATTEMPTED TO STEAL THE MIDNIGHT MAIL BAG.

Daring Burglars at Tweed—One was Shot but Escaped.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Tweed, Ont., Oct. 31.—Three men attempted to steal the mail-bags of the midnight express at the station here last night while the bags were lying on the platform. They knocked down the baggageman and were making off when Baggageman Hodgson fired four shots, one, it is believed, took effect, as one of the men dropped the bags, exclaimed "I am shot." All three men made good their escape.

FOOTBALLERS KILLED IN A RAILWAY WRECK.

Awful Catastrophe at Indianapolis This Afternoon.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 31. — The Big Four train, carrying the members of the football team of Perdue University, was wrecked near the Riverside Park to-day. The team was scheduled to play with the Indiana State University team this afternoon. Twelve dead, including several of the football men, have been taken from the wreck. It is believed that there are others dead under the engine and the first car.

Crystal Wedding Celebration.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lloyd celebrated the 15th anniversary of their marriage at their residence, 222 Park street. They were married on the 31st of October, 1888, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Mark Spenceley, the late Rev. G. H. Davis having performed the ceremony. Last night a large number of friends assembled to honour the anniversary, among them being guests from outside places, Toronto, Ottawa, etc. After congratulations had been made, and the happy pair with the two children born of their union, had received the good wishes of the guests, the whole party sat down to an elegant wedding breakfast, after which a delightful evening was passed in social enjoyment. A large number of presents of crystal meet for the occasion, were received and admired, and the company separated with a renewal of good wishes for the continued happiness and prosperity of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd and family.

CONGRESSMAN WILBER SAYS

[To The Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., of Columbus, O.]

"Pe-ru-na is All You Claim For It."

Congressman D. F. Wilber, of Oneonta, N. Y. writes:

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.:

Gentlemen:—"Persuaded by a friend I have tried your remedy and I have almost fully recovered after the use of a few bottles. I am fully convinced that Peruna is all you claim for it, and I cheerfully recommend your medicine to all who are afflicted with catarrhal trouble."—David F. Wilber.

Peruna a Preventive and Cure for Colds.

Mr. C. F. Given, Sussex, N. B., Vice President of "The Past-time Boating Club," writes:

"Whenever the cold weather sets in I have for years past been very sure to catch a severe cold which was hard to throw off, and which would leave after-effects on my constitution the most of the winter.

"Last winter I was advised to try Peruna, and within five days the cold was broken up and in five days more I was a well man. I recommended it to several of my friends and all speak the highest praise for it. There is nothing like Peruna for catarrhal afflictions. It is well nigh infallible as a cure, and I gladly endorse it."—C. F. Given.

A Prominent Singer Saved From Loss of Voice.

Mr. Julian Weisslits, 175 Seneca street, Buffalo, N. Y., is corresponding secretary of The Sangerlust, of New York; is the leading second bass of the Sangerlust, the largest German singing society of New York and also the oldest.

In 1899 The Sangerlust celebrated its fiftieth anniversary with a large celebration in New York City. The following is his testimony:

"About two years ago I caught a severe cold while traveling and which settled into catarrh of the bronchial tubes, and so affected my voice that I was obliged to cancel my engagements. In distress I was advised to try Peruna, and although I had never used a patent medicine before, I sent for a bottle.

"Words but illy describe my surprise to find that within a few days I was greatly relieved, and within three weeks I was entirely recovered. I am never without it now, and take an occasional dose when I feel run down."—Julian Weisslits.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

JUSTICE AT LAST.

The long struggle for justice for the farmer in the matter of cattle-guards is over at last. The Senate, in the dying moments of the session just closed, after a conference with the House of Commons, decided to accept the clauses dealing with the protection of live stock at railway crossings as these were passed by the popular chamber, and, with the prorogation of Parliament, the legislation as agreed upon became the law of the land.

In brief, this legislation provides that if farmers' cattle are killed upon a railway line, and the company cannot prove that the animals were at large owing to the negligence of the owners of the same, damages may be recovered for the loss incurred. This, on the face of it, is fair alike to the public carrier company and the live stock owner. Farmers who wilfully allow their animals to run upon the public highways will be compelled to suffer the loss that may result from their negligence, while those who take reasonable care of their cattle will, in the event of damage occurring, be in a position to secure compensation from the corporation failing to make provision for preventing beasts straying upon the line of track.

To Mr. Lancaster is due the chief credit for the legislation secured. He has, year after year, with dogged perseverance, pressed upon Parliament the farmers' demand for simple justice. Opposition from both sides of the House, which was encountered at the beginning of the struggle, failed to turn him from his course. He continued hammering away until a force of public opinion was aroused throughout the country, which made its influence felt on Parliament and changed the active opponents of the proposed legislation into supporters of the same. No little credit is due also to a number of Liberal members of the House who, despite the open and bitter opposition of the Hon. Mr. Blair while that gentleman was a member of the Cabinet, urged the Government to accept the principle of the measure introduced by the member for Lincoln and Niagara. Of the Liberal members, none are deserving of so much credit as Mr. Guthrie. Others used their influence privately in caucus, but the member for South Wellington, by his outspoken advocacy of the legislation when the matter was last before the Railway Committee, created a situation that rendered it practically impossible for members on the Government side to longer oppose the legislation introduced by Mr. Lancaster.—Farmers' Sun.

A NEW INDUSTRY FOR NIAGARA FALLS.

Farmers' Co-operative Harvesting Machine Company to Locate There.

The Toronto News has the following despatch from Niagara Falls, Ont.: "Word was received here to-day from Manager McLaughlin of the Farmers' Co-Operative Harvesting Machine Company, that their plant will be established in this city. The Board of Directors of the company practically split even on the question of site and the decision was left to the president, Dr. Oronhyatekha, who was then in California. He to-day gave his decision in favour of Niagara Falls. Among other places bidding for the plant were Whitby, Oshawa, Peterborough, and Hamilton. The city gives the company large buildings rent free for three years, and other inducements in the way of cheap electric power, water and fixed assessment."

PRICE OF BREAD GOES UP IN TORONTO.

On Monday Morning Bread There Will Cost 3 1-2c per Pound.

Bread is to become dearer in Toronto, commencing on Monday next. The bakers have decided that five cents a loaf will be about the right price to charge, and consequently this will be the cost of this commodity after the beginning of the week. This increase in price will make bread higher in Toronto than in Peterborough. The price at present charged by the local bakers is 6 cents per loaf of two pounds, whereas the loaf sold at 5 cents in Toronto is of one pound and a half weight, making the price charged here one-third of a cent lower. The Toronto Star has the following on the increase in price there:

"On and after Monday next Toronto consumers must pay 5 cents a loaf for bread weighing one pound and a half."

Such was the statement made to the Star this morning by Mr. John Turnbull of the Toronto Bread Manufacturers' Association.

"Even when this advance goes into effect the tariff will be lower proportionately than in Hamilton. The bakers there are now getting 5 cents a loaf, and their expenses are lower than ours. When I say that it costs a cent a loaf to deliver bread no one will complain that the new rate is exorbitant.

"As to the increase over present prices that is rather a difficult question to answer. Speaking for my own firm, we ask 4 1-2 cents, so in our case the increase is merely half a cent.

"Regarding the weight of bread, a city bylaw stipulates that if a loaf does not weigh one pound and a half, it must be marked with the actual weight. To produce the specified weight, the dough must weigh one pound eleven ounces and a half, the difference being lost in the bak-

"It is hardly necessary for me to mention that both flour and wages have gone up, which explains the half cent increase. I simply add that the five cent rate is cash, and applies whether the bread is bought at the store or delivered."

Speaking of one firm which, is is said, refuses to make the extra charge, a member of the association remarked to-day: "We are not asking too much when we ask five cents and if anyone wants the cheap trade he may have it. People in general appear to consider bread a large item of expense, but as a matter of fact, the vegetable dealers, the dairyman, and the butcher, all realize more money than the baker. The bread bill is really one of the smallest in the household."

PLEASING LECTURE GIVEN IN NORWOOD.

Mr. Jas. Stubbs Speaks on "Life of Joseph."

The Norwood Register has the following to say of a lecture given there by Mr. Jas. Stubbs, of Peterborough:

"The Baptist church was crowded on Sunday evening last to see the "Life of Joseph" portrayed in coloured scenery by Mr. James Stubbs, of Peterborough. Mr. Stubbs has given this illustrated gospel song service in over two hundred churches with marked appreciation. On the following Monday evening Mr. Stubbs gave an entertainment in the church, the programme consisting of moving pictures, and phonographic selections. The attendance on Monday evening was also good and the entertainment pleasing to all."

HAVELOCK ELECTRIC LIGHTED BY DEC. 1ST.

The Contract for Equipment Given to Peterborough Firms.

The Havelock Standard says:—"The Havelock Electric Light and Power Company has awarded the contract for the installation of the plant to the Canadian General Electric Co., of Peterborough, and the contract calls for the completion of the work by December 31st. The water wheel has been purchased from the William Hamilton Co., of Peterborough, and will be placed in position within two weeks. The delay in the plans of the company has been due to lack of building material. The cement work for the dam will be pushed forward rapidly now or as soon as the weather permits."

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding and Protruding Piles. No cure, no pay. All druggists are authorized by the manufacturers of Pazo Ointment to refund the money where it fails to cure any case of piles, no matter of how long standing, ordinary cases in six days; the worst in fourteen days. One application gives ease and rest. Relieves itching instantly. This is a new discovery and it is the only pile remedy sold on a positive guarantee, no cure no pay. Price 50c.

If your druggist hasn't it in stock send 50 cents (Canadian stamps accepted) to the Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo., manufacturers of Laxative Bromo Quinine, the celebrated cold cure.

PRODUCE OF CANADA.

Census Bulletin Showing Increase in Last Three Decades.

Ottawa, Oct. 31.—The Census Department issued a bulletin yesterday showing the field products of Canada, as shown by the census of 1880, 1890 and 1900 respectively. The totals were:

Grains, 1880, bushels 149,461,399; 1890, bushels, 175,645,724; 1900, bushels, 282,411,911.

Seeds, 1880, bushels, 324,317; 1890, bushels, 484,880; 1900, bushels, 460,682.

Tobacco and hops, 1890, pounds, 5,404,166; 1890, pounds, 12,270,948.

Startling Revelations.

It frequently happens that people suffer for years from kidney derangements without knowing the cause of their backaches, aching limbs and other bodily sufferings. Suddenly the truth is revealed to them that they are the victims of serious kidney disease and in imminent danger. There is no remedy that gives such prompt and lasting relief for every form of kidney disease as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are positively effective even in the most chronic cases.

PUBLIC SCHOOL BANKS.

The town of Galt has a reputation for progressiveness that is equalled by few towns in Ontario. The latest evidence of this spirit is the introduction of a penny savings bank system in the public school. The Hamilton Times in speaking of it, says:

"The Galt school board has arranged with one of the local banks to open a savings bank for the benefit of the scholars. A deposit card is issued, similar to a savings bank book, to scholars, who see fit to deposit their earnings in the bank. Deposits are received each Monday morning by the teachers, and the principal of the school deposits the amount received. The lowest sum taken is five cents and when two dollars has been deposited the bank book is issued and the pupil thereafter takes his money to the bank. Interest is credited half-yearly at 3 per cent, and the bank book is kept by the teacher as long as the depositor is attending school. In case he leaves the school he is given possession of the book."

"FAITHFUL UNTO DEATH."

Body of Mrs. Booth-Tucker Lay in State While Multitudes of Salvationists Passed Coffin.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Tribute to the memory of Mrs. Emma Booth-Tucker, the Salvation Army leader, was paid by thousands of her friends in Chicago yesterday.

Before a canvas bearing in large letters the words "Faithful Unto Death," in Princess Rink, the body of Mrs. Booth-Tucker rested, while multitudes of Salvationists followers and friends silently passed the coffin.

After a sleepless night, spent in prayer and lamentation, Commander Booth-Tucker was led from his room into the rink to look upon the face of his dead wife. Several hundred people, who had already gained admittance, were asked to leave, and in solitude the Commander knelt for ten minutes beside the coffin. The coffin, guarded by two Salvation Army Cadets, stood before the same platform where Mrs. Booth-Tucker once spoke at a meeting conducted by her father, General William Booth.

Muddy Complexion.

Pale, sallow, yellow skin tells of a torpid, sluggish liver and impurities in the blood which will be entirely removed when Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are used. This great medicine awakens the action of the liver, invigorates the kidneys and regulates the bowels. As a result digestion is improved, bodily pains disappear and the health is benefitted in every way.

By-law No.-----

A By-law to Provide for the Construction of Sewers in the Village of Ashburnham and to Authorize the Issue of Debentures of the Said Village for the Purpose of Raising the Sum Required Therefor.

Whereas it is desirable to construct a system of sewers in the village of Ashburnham according to the plans therefor prepared by W. Chipman, Esquire, and adopted by the council of said village and to purchase land required therefor and to raise the sum of $15,000 to be applied for the said purpose.

And whereas in order thereto it will be necessary to issue debentures of said village for the said sum of $15,000 and interest as hereinafter provided (which is the debt to be created by this by-law) the proceeds of the said debentures to be applied to the purpose aforesaid.

And whereas it is desirable to issue the said debentures at one time and to make the principal of the said debt repayable by yearly sums during the period of thirty years, being the currency of the said debentures, said yearly sums being of such respective amounts that the aggregate amounts payable in each year for principal and interest in respect of the said debt shall be equal to the amount so payable in each of the other 29 years of said period.

And whereas the total amount required by the Municipal Act to be raised annually by special rate for paying the said debt and interest as hereinafter provided is $867.50.

And whereas the amount of the whole ratable property of the said village according to the last revised Assessment Roll thereof is $463,574.

And whereas the amount of the existing debenture debt of said village is $19,-960, and no part of either principal or interest thereof is in arrear.

Therefore the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the Village of Ashburnham enacts as follows:

1. The sum of $15,000 shall be expended by the said village in constructing a system of sewers and acquiring such lands as may be necessary for such purpose according to the plans therefor prepared by W. Chipman, Esq., and adopted by the council of the said village and for the purpose of raising said sum debentures of said village, shall be issued within two years after the passing of this by-law.

2. The said debentures shall be 30 in number and shall be each for the sum of $867.50, being the amount of the several annual instalments including principal and interest, and shall be payable one in each year on the 31st day of December in each year for 30 years, the first of such debentures being payable on the 31st day of December, 1904.

3. Each of said debentures shall be signed by the Reeve and Treasurer of the said village and sealed with the corporate seal of the village.

4. During the currency of said debentures there shall be raised annually by special rate on all the ratable property in the said village the sum of $867.50, for the purpose of paying the amount due in each of the said years for principal and interest in respect of said debt.

5. The by-law shall take effect on the 31st day of December 1903.

6. The votes of the duly qualified electors of the said municipality shall be taken upon this by-law, on Thursday, the 26th day of November, 1903, between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon of that day and at the places and before the deputy returning officers following namely:

South ward—At the council chamber, Mark street, before John T. Wright, hereby appointed such deputy.

North ward—At the town hall building before T. Q. Quartermaine, hereby appointed such deputy.

7. The 26th day of November, 1903, at 8 p. m., and the said council chamber are hereby appointed the time and place respectively for the appointment of persons to attend the various polling places and at the final summing up of the votes by the clerk of said municipal council, on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the passing of this by-law respectively and the 27th day of November, 1903 at 12 o'clock noon and the said council chamber are hereby appointed the time when and the place where the said clerk shall sum up the number of votes given for and against the by-law.

NOTICE

Take notice that the above is a true copy of the proposed by-law which has been taken into consideration and which will be finally passed by the council of the municipality (in the event of the assent of the Electors being obtained thereto) after one month from the first publication in the Peterborough Examiner newspaper, the date of which first publication was Saturday, the 31st day of October, 1903, and that the votes of the electors of the said municipality will be taken thereon on the day and at the hours and places therein fixed.

WRECK OF ATLAS CO

Story of Some of Mr. A. E. Wallace's Financial Methods.

HIS DEALS WITH AMES & CO.

Disastrous Speculations That Led to Failure—Made No Provision For His Own Safety — Received Departmental Warning That Dealing in American Stocks Was Illegal For Them.

Toronto, Oct. 31.—Now that the examination of A. E. Wallace, manager of the defunct Atlas Loan Co. of St. Thomas, for the benefit of the liquidators, the National Trust Co., has been made public, it displays the fact that Ames & Co. to a very large extent controlled the investments. The testimony of Mr. Wallace realized that the Atlas even violated the extended charter, which was secured in 1901 to invest in Canadian securities, by plunging into American stocks. He further showed that he had made no provision for his own safety, and has been left financially practically in the same position as the unfortunate victim of his own delusions. Even after receiving departmental warning that dealing in American stocks was illegal for them, Mr. Wallace said that he had not realized until after the failure that the directors had been outside of their powers in treating those transactions as collateral. He said: "I thought I was buying securities on my own responsibility. If there was a loss I had to bear it, and if there was a profit I was willing to give it to the company—a very foolish stand to take I realized now."

The growth of the transactions with Ames & Co. was revealed when it was told that while in 1898 the business between them had only been $42,656, in 1899 it had become $97,426.50, and in 1901 $1,025,096.83, exclusive of accounts with the Twin City syndicate, into which, that year the Atlas had put $100,000. Whereas in 1900 speculative transactions between the two firms amounted only to about $19,000, in the next year the sum was nearly $1,000,000. This, thought Mr. Wallace, could be traced to the relationships arising out of mutual Twin City interest. There was no special arrangement, he said, as to the buying of shares, but simply, as would be the case with any other customers.

Before the "change in policy" the bylaws provided that four-fifths of the invested funds and assets should be secured upon real estate. His own and the directors' view then became that it would be advisable to have a certain percentage of the bonds in securities that could be turned more readily into cash than mortgages, and that investments in that way would be more profitable. The old bylaw had not been actually nullified. In his own words: "I had the idea that a company ought to have from 25 to 30 or 40 per cent. of their assets invested in securities that could readily be turned into cash. I thought that a company ought to have as much of their assets in liquid securities as they would have liabilities on call, and in that way they could meet any call for their liabilities much more readily than if they were all in mortgages."

At the end of 1901 the Atlas Loan owed Ames & Co. $943,758.80, and Mr. Wallace said he did not know how that could have been paid if demanded. The formation and workings of the Twin City syndicate were gone into minutely, leading to the admission that it would have been prejudicial to the interest of Ames & Co. had the Atlas placed their 1,000 shares on the market in June, 1901, when Ames & Co. were advancing the shares. Once or twice he thought Ames had advised Atlas to dispose of Twin City. If the Atlas shares had been managed independently of Ames the stock could have been sold on open market, and instead of a paper balance at Ames for $42,000 they could have had cash in hand, if the market would have "absorbed" the stock. On this point the evidence is:

"If the Atlas Loan Co.'s Twin City stock had been managed independently of Ames & Co., I suppose that stock could have been sold in the open market?"

"Yes, that is right."

"And instead of having a paper balance of $42,000 in your savings bank department with Ames & Co., you could have had cash in hand?"

"Yes, if you could have sold it."

In August, 1902, when the Metropolitan Bank was formed, the Atlas subscribed for 200 shares, an investment of $200,000, for which three transactions "on paper" in Twin City transferred a credit balance of $208,813.35 to the Atlas account in the Ames saving department. If this had not been done Atlas might have had to sell Twin City, contrary to the Ames policy at the time. It took two-thirds of the capital of the Atlas to subscribe the stock, which was paid by cheques drawn on Ames & Co.

All deposits that could be spared were sent to the Ames Co. where interest at 6 and 7½ per cent. was obtainable. Mr. Ames telephoned Mr. Wallace the day of the Ames failure, being the first intimation he had of anything wrong. Mr. Ames asked what effect his failure would have on him, and was told that it would also mean his collapse.

On Monday Mr. Ames will be examined before the Master in Ordinary.

Munyon's Great Work.

"I have had Rheumatism for 17 years, and have been in bed for three months at a time from this terrible disease. I have tried many different doctors and medicines, but they did me no good at all. The pains affected the muscles in my shoulders and neck, and they were in such a chronic, painful condition that I despaired of ever getting well. At times I could not stand on my feet, the pains were so frightful. The first bottle of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure gave me great relief, and the second bottle cured me."—Madame E. WIND COLIC.

"In my opinion," writes Mrs. Philip Collins, of Martindale, Que., "there is no medicine can equal Baby's Own Tablets. Before I began the use of the Tablets my baby cried all the time with wind colic and got little or no sleep, and I was nearly worn out myself. Soon after giving baby the Tablets the trouble disappeared and sound natural sleep returned. I have also proved the Tablets a cure for hives and a great relief when baby is teething. I would not feel that my baby were safe if I did not have a box of the Tablets in the house."

All mothers who have used Baby's Own Tablets speak just as highly of them as does Mrs. Collins. The Tablets cure all the little ills from which infants and young children suffer, and the mother has a solemn assurance that this medicine contains neither opiate nor any harmful drug. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 25 cents a box, by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

Madison Arrested.

Windsor, Oct. 31.—J. Puget, a Windsor laborer has his 14-year-old son, Arthur, locked up in the Windsor jail yesterday morning on a charge of having stolen $90. The boy and his brother, a 11-year-old boy, had been giving exorbitant sums to their playmates.

A Remarkable Record.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for over thirty years, during which time many million bottles have been sold and used. It has long been the standard and main reliance in the treatment of croup, yet during all this time no case has ever been reported to the manufacturers in which it failed to effect a cure. When given as soon as the child become hoarse or even as soon as the croupy cough begins, it will prevent the attack. It is pleasant to take, many children like it. It contains no opium or other harmful substance, and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

THE WAY BY CANADA

Dominion's Practical Method of Free Trade Within Empire.

THE FIRST PREFERENCE STEP

Sir Gilbert Parker Thinks British Newspapers Do Not Grasp Its Significance—Canada an Inspiration to the Centre—Toronto Business Men Follow Up the Idea—Strong Resolution For Unity Passed.

London, Oct. 31.—(C.A.P.)—Sir Gilbert Parker, referring to the Canadian preference to South Africa, said yesterday: "We have heard for years about free trade within the Empire being the solution of Imperial federation. Canada has taken the first step in that direction; she first solved the question of commercial union by uniting provinces 3,000 miles apart, with conflicting tariff systems. Three years ago she attempted to secure a preferential tariff with Australia by sending Sir William Mulock there. It failed for the moment, but that she was working on the right lines is evidenced by Premier Deakin's manifesto. Now she has turned to another quarter of the Empire, with a fresh offer. I am amazed that English newspapers have said nothing about the offer to South Africa. Frankly, I doubt if they grasp the tremendous significance it makes."

DEVELOPMENT KEYSTONE.

Toronto Business Men Pass a Strong Resolution Favoring Chamberlain's Policy.

Toronto, Oct. 31.—At a meeting of business men here last night, presided over by the President of the Board of Trade, stirring speeches were made in favor of Mr. Chamberlain's scheme for the unification of the Empire. Resolutions on these propositions were passed with no uncertain sound of approval:

1. The approval of the scheme of Imperial Federation as presented by Mr. Chamberlain.

2. The necessity of contribution by Canada to a scheme of Imperial defence.

3. The impossibility of consideration being given to any scheme for political connection with the United States.

The Strongest Link.

This resolution was passed unanimously and cabled to Mr. Chamberlain:

Whereas it is generally recognized that an advantageous commercial bond is the strongest link in national unity and that the maintenance and strengthening of trade is the keystone of a nation's successful development, And whereas the existence of the Empire is largely dependent upon the material prosperity of its people, It is resolved, that in the opinion of this meeting the bonds of the British Empire would be materially strengthened and the union of the various parts of His Majesty's dominions greatly consolidated by the adoption of a commercial policy such as was outlined by the Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain at Glasgow on the sixth day of October, instant, and that the Board of Trade of the City of Toronto supports the policy.

Praises Canada.

London, Oct. 31.—(C.A.P.)—Miss Jessie McLachlan, the noted Scotch singer, is enthusiastic in her praise of Canadians. She expressed the greatest delight in the experience of her Canadian visit. She thinks very little improvement is to be made in Canadian singing.

HARASSED ON BOTH SIDES.

The Mad Mullah Has Few Prospects of Victory Now.

Rome, Oct. 31.—News from Somaliland shows that the Mad Mullah has few prospects for victory. Italy, co-operating with Great Britain, has ordered a gunboat and cruiser to reinforce its Red Sea squadron, and an attempt will be made to annihilate his forces. At the same time Emperor Menelik of Abyssinia has been urged to expedite the attack of his troops on the Mullah's forces, thus catching him between two fires.

Eloped With Sister-in-Law.

Woodstock, Oct. 31.—Charles Dennis of North Norwich is in the city looking for his 19-year-old runaway daughter, Winnifred, who it is supposed eloped with Chas. Myers, a young farmer, who married another daughter of Mr. Dennis. They came in with produce and left their horse up at the Arlington Hotel stables and have not been seen since.

Declared Off.

Kingston, Oct. 31.—It is stated, but not officially, that the machinists' strike in the locomotive works, begun in May, 1902, has been declared off, the international body having cut off further payment to the strikers. The company's manager has heard nothing, but so far as it was concerned the strike was over a long time ago.

Prices in Dawson.

Dawson City, Y.T., Oct. 31.—The Yukon River is in a very bad condition, causing the non-arrival of a large amount of freight. Perishable goods are very high already. Potatoes retail at 15 cents per pound; mutton, which is very short, sells for 75 cents per pound, and will go to a dollar. Living promises to be very high this winter. Feed is also short. High prices rule.

Quiet at Bilbao.

Madrid, Oct. 31.—Tranquility has been completely restored at Bilbao, according to official despatches received by the Government.

Appenyi Resigns.

Budapest, Oct. 31.—Count Appenyi has tendered his resignation as president of the Lower House of the Hungarian diet.

Leaders in Montreal.

Montreal, Oct. 31.—Both party leaders were in the city yesterday. Sir Wilfrid Laurier passed through en route for Arthabaskaville, and Mr. and Mrs. Borden left for Halifax.

"Water Flowed out Through My Slippers From a Thousand Breaks of the Skin."

Dr. Shoop's Restorative Cured Me Of Dropsy at Sixty-six

This sick man got my book.
He learned how to get well.
You who are not well, get the book.
You have but to write. The book is free.

Read What He Wrote Me.

The history of my case is this:

Bright's disease laid me on my back Oct 12, 1902. Calling in my physician, he treated me faithfully for two weeks. Then sent me to Atlantic City on November 5th, remaining five weeks, getting worse all the time. I called in another doctor there, and he prescribed, but I am sure he did me more harm than good. Returned to my home on December 16th, 1902, and again my family doctor called and treated me, but I feel sure, with no benefit. He seemed alarmed at my condition and, I think, made up his mind I would not recover. Neither did my family or friends."

Happily for me, about this time you must have appointed some of the Druggists in Wilmington (where I have lived for over 30 years) your agents for the sale of your Restorative. I read a testimonial of one you had cured. My physician had ceased to give me any medicine whatever, although he came every day. I made up my mind I would start to use your Restorative and I did so, and up to this time I have used 15 bottles and I feel I am cured absolutely.

Bright's Disease is a fatal one, rarely anyone recovers completely, so I read, and statistics prove the same thing. There is no use to try to explain my condition or my sufferings. My body all over was dropsical to a degree seldom excelled in my case, hence the tension on the skin caused it to give way in thousands of places, and when I stood up for five minutes the water flowed out through my slippers and formed pools on the floor or carpets. I cannot describe my feelings, neither do I want to recall to my mind the terrible sufferings I experienced—let that be a thing of the past.

Now I watched my case carefully, and at about the end of the sixth bottle I began to feel different. My swelling began to subside, and from that time till now I feel certain that I improved daily and weekly, and to-day I am better in my general health than I have been for twenty-five years. I can eat everything that is set before me, asking no questions. I feel assured that my stomach and, in fact, my whole anatomy, both physical and nervous, has gone through an entire change, and, aside from the cure of this disease I had, my general health is much improved.

When I tell you that my doctor told me some weeks since that he considered my case the most remarkable recovery he ever saw or heard of, and repeated the same to me again, I believe he meant it. I do certainly believe that having taken this medicine for 150 150 days or fifteen bottles (and if I live till August 3rd I shall be 66 years old) I would not have been living now without it's use.

I consider this medicine being found, as I mentioned before, as a direct and over-ruling providence of that Great God in whom I believe and to whose care I committed myself all through my illness. While I live I shall not cease to commend this same treatment for any similar disease or to the building up of impaired health in any person who will be patient and, as I did, persevere in its use until the good work ended in restored health.

I could say a good deal more. You can use this letter as you choose, and to anyone who uses Dr. Shoop's Restorative, I am sure they will, like me, be surprised at the result. This medicine will improve one's general health and make life, especially the nervous condition, more commfortable than I can explain it.

My pen is always ready to urge the use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

Yours truly,
JAMES KNOWLES.
Wilmington, Del.

My Restorative a Month on Trial

When I say "Take it a month on trial," that satisfies most people that Dr. Shoop's Restorative must be an unusual remedy.

They can see that it would be ruination to me if mmy prescription often failed.

That's just the point.

It does not often fail, so I take but little risk.

Of course I can't cure cancer—no medicine can. But these incurable diseases are so rare that I can even let them use it a month on trial.

I cure many that believe their case incurable. Mr. Knowles thought chronic Bright's Disease was incurable, and so did his doctor. Doctors everywhere "shake their heads" when called to a case like Mr. Knowles.

If it is a cancer and I fail, the sick one gives me the credit of being fair.

They say to others, "Try it. If it fails, Dr. Shoop will bear the expense." And their good will means much to me.

Good will has meant more to me than all else since my prescription — Dr. Shoop's restorative—was perfected.

I am consulting physician to thousands all over the world who have come to me by letter simply because some friend told them to write me—someone that I have cured.

In this manner my restorative has found its way into most homes in America. It is kept there as a safeguard. We all have off days.

A few doses will set things right again. These few doses—promptly taken—often prevent the chronic stage which is more difficult to treat.

Dr. Shoop's restorative is a safeguard when kept in the home.

Taken in time, it would have saved Mr. Knowles all this suffering.

Now I Can Give a Month's Trial.

It is because of my discovery.

After thirty years in hospitals and at bedsides I finally learned to treat the inside nerves.

I now treat the nerves that give power and strength to the vital organs. Others—even specialists—treat the organs themselves. Not the nerves that control these organs. That is treating the effect—not the cause.

This is my discovery.

For thirty years I searched for what I at last found. In this way my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative was was perfected.

Without this inside nerve treatment, a medicine could not be offered on trial.

How to Secure Trial Treatment.

Simply write me. Send for the book you need. Ask me any question in confidence that you might ask your home physician.

Then I will arrange with a druggist near you to let you have six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Restorative on trial.

Take it a month at my risk. If it succeeds, the cost to you is $5.50. If it succeeds, the cost to you is $5.50. If it fails the druggist will bill the cost to me.

I want you to learn what I know about this prescription. I want you to learn now—without delay. So I relieve you of all risk. If I fail the loss is mine, not yours.

Write me now while you have it in mind.

Simply state which book you want and address Dr. Shoop Box ..... Racine Wis.

ARM GROUND TO PULP.

Louis Dornton Was Feeding a Corn Shredder—Will Die.

Windsor, Oct. 31.—As the result of a horrible accident on his farm near Woodslee Thursday, by which his left arm was ground to pulp up to the elbow, Louis Dornton, a well-to-do farmer, 35 years of age, will probably die. Dornton was showing one of his employes how to feed a corn shredded when his hand caught in the stool feeders and was gradually drawn in. The injury resulted before the machinery could be stopped, and although the limb was successfully amputated, it is feared the shock will cost Dornton his life.

Lost Arm at the Shoulder.

Toronto Junction, Oct. 31.—An accident occurred at the Wilkinson Plow Works after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, as a result of which George Lewis will lose his arm at the shoulder. His duty was to look after a machine of the nature of huge shears, for cutting iron plates, and while removing some waste he got his arm mixed up with the cogs, and it was smashed up above the elbow. He was removed to the Western Hospital, and amputation will be necessary.

Arm Bored by a Triple Drill.

Toronto Junction, Oct. 31.—William Gourlay, whose home is in the city, was injured in the C.P.R. car shops yesterday. He was operating a triple drill, and while watching one drill the next one caught in his loose coat sleeve and dragged his arm in. The drill bored through the flesh to the bone, and over twenty-five stitches were put in the wound.

Boy With a Rifle.

Hamilton, Oct. 31.—Yesterday afternoon a boy with a small rifle created a stir at the corner of Poplar avenue and Princess street, by shooting through a window in the home of Mrs. Wilson. The bullet grazed Mrs. Wilson's head, but did no damage.

FORMER PETERBOROUGH BOY RECEIVES PROMOTION.

Mr. Harry Grubbe Promoted to Montreal Branch of Bank of Toronto.

"Mr. Harry Grubbe, lately teller of the Bank of Toronto, here," says the Millbrook Reporter, "was notified on Wednesday last of his promotion to a position in the Montreal Branch, and left the same afternoon for that city. It is with extreme regret that we make this announcement, as, since his arrival about a year ago, he had become so popular with everyone with whom he had come in contact, whether in a business or social sense, that his absence will be a distinct loss to us all. Few young men have been fortunate enough to secure the good will and esteem of our citizens generally as has Mr. Grubbe, but being possessed of a most delightful disposition and being willing and anxious at all times to assist one as far as he was able, he had not been long in Millbrook before he had become one of the most popular men we have ever had. We trust that his new position in the bank will be one to which his ability well entitles him, and we can assure him that he will receive a most hearty welcome whenever he can find time to visit Millbrook. The old adage, "Every Cloud, etc.," recurs to us as an old Millbrook boy, Mr. Morgan Carry, has received Mr. Grubbe's old position in the bank here. we are confident that no one would be more welcome than he."

Violin and Mandolin.

There have been many enquiries about the classes in violin and mandonlin, which start at the Y.M.C.A. on Wednesday, Nov. 4th, under Mr. Sidney Rogers' leadership. PRETTY CATHEDRAL WEDDING TO DAY.

Nuptials of Prof. Masson and Miss Cordelia de Laplante.

A fashionable Saturday wedding took place at nine o'clock this morning at St. Peter's Cathedral, when Miss Cordelia de Laplante, daughter of Mr. N. T. de Laplante, was married to Prof. E. Masson, of Toronto, but late of Paris, France. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick. The bride was very becomingly gowned in a dress of white crepe de chine, trimmed with embriodered chiffon and rosettes. She wore the usual bridal veil and orange blossoms. Miss Almanda de Laplante, sister of the bride was bridesmaid, and was dressed in a champagne crepe de chine trimmed with black velvet. She wore a white hat trimmed with black plush and daisies. Mr. V. R. Heftler, of Montreal, assisted the groom.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a gold clover leaf pin set with pearls, while to the groomsman he gave a gold four leafed clover stick pin. To the bride he gave a ring set with diamonds and pearls and a furlined opera cloak.

After the wedding ceremony, the party partook of a dainty dejuener at the residence of the bride's parents. Prof. and Mrs. Masson leaving on the 11.45 G.T.R. train for Toronto, where they will in future reside. No tour will be taken for the present, but a trip to Paris will probably be made next summer. The bride's going away gown was a beautifully tailored suit of grey cheviot, with a hand embroidered shirt waist. She wore a hat of grey camel's hair trimmed with a bird and steel buckle. Her visiting costume is a black voile, beautifully embroidered.

The bride, who is a very popular young lady in town, was the recipient of a large number of very beautiful presents, among which were a handsome cheque, from the bride's father, a complete set of linens hand made and hemstitched from her mother, a beautiful rattlesnake skin belt with sterling buckles, from Medicine Hat, Assa., silver cake dish, bread tray, silver butter dish, silver pudding dish, sterling silver buttons, hand painted china, including syrup jar, biscuit jar, etc., silver and china fruit dish, a very handsome silver and china espergne, a dainty clock, a number of silk and linen embroidery pieces, and a great many other valuable gifts.

Prof. and Mrs. Masson enter upon their married career with the best wishes of their many friends.

Another Large Industry to be Established Here.

COLD STORAGE & PROVISION CO.

Will Erect a Large Plant Here—An Outline of the Proposed Industry—Requirement of the Trade Demands a Plant of This Kind.

A large industry is about to be established in the town of Peterborough, which will be of much importance to the farmers of the country generally. The Peterborough Cold Storage and Provision Company, Limited, are to erect an extensive plant in the town of Peterborough for the purpose of carrying on their business.

The company will engage in the business of pork packing, cold storage and export of farm produce, and will use in connection with this business an abbatoir.

It is the intention of the company to erect a large cold storage plant, which they will use for the purposes of their own business as well as for the purpose of affording cold storage accommodation to others requiring it.

So rapidly has the export trade in farm produce increased during the last decade that it has far outstripped the facilities of the present companies and business interests handling it. Hand in hand with this trade has grown the demand for cold storage, in fact it may be said that the life of the export trade in farm products depends essentially upon a proper cold storage system.

A moment's consideration of the trade returns from 1891 to 1902, concerning the export of farm products, will convince the most pessimistic, that there is a great future in the province of Ontario for industries of this kind. A few figures will show how the trade has increased in a few years. In 1891 the export of eggs was $1,160,359, and in 1902, $1,733,242, showing an increase of $572,883; export of cattle was in 1891 $8,772,499, and in 1901, $10,663,819, an increase of $1,891,320; the export of bacon, ham and pork in 1891 was $632,558 and in 1902, $12,457,863, and increase of $11,825,305.

With the export trade in articles produced upon Canadian farms growing in this manner it is not surprising that the facilities for handling it have been found to be entirely inadequate. As these facilities increase from time to time, there is every reason to expect that the trade will increase still more rapidly in the future. This is evident from the fact that though the butter exported in 1902 amounted to $27,855,978 pounds, an increase of over 24 million pounds upon that of the year 1891, yet it was little over six per cent. of the total quantity imported by Great Britain in 1902, the total amount imported by that country in the last mentioned year being over 445,000,000 pounds.

The establishment of industries of this character throughout the province will give an impetus to the trade which it has not yet enjoyed, and will place the farmers of this country in a position to take the benefit to the full extent of the European markets. The farmers cannot appreciate too much the great benefits they derive from the establishment of these industries. They are the means by which they are enabled to reach foreign markets and the products being placed before the purchasers of the world, ensures them much enhanced prices for the products which they have to sell.

The present company have undoubtedly fully appreciated the requirements of the trade. They are carrying on together a chain of industries which place them in a position to handle the products with the greatest facility and economy, and to the best advantage for the producers. The company in engaging in cold storage, pork packing and export of farm products have placed themselves in a position to deal in these various business concerns in the most economical manner, in fact it may be said that three different branches of the trade have been combined in one, in such a way as to enable the company to stand in an enviable position in regard to the export position. These different industries fit into one another, and are, in fact, dependent upon each other. The facilities necessary for carrying on pork packing to a great extent can be utilized, without much extra expense in connection with the trade in the other articles of farm produce and the Cold Storage system is a necessary complement to both. All these industries must, of course to a certain extent, work together either in the hands of one or more companies. By carrying them on all together by one concern a great saving is effected in operating expenses, and much greater facilities are afforded for the effectual handling of the trade. It is expected, and with good reason, that the saving effected by reason of the combination of these industries will place the Company on a much better profit making basis than where the various branches are carried on separately. The business carried on in these various industries has been productive of considerable profit to the parties interested in them, and much more may be expected from the carrying on of these different trades together, for the reasons already given.

With the trade in the articles handled by the Company growing so rapidly, and with the unlimited market waiting these products in Europe, there is certainly a very bright future awaiting this Company. With skilful business management, and by reason of the economies effected by the combinstion of the industries, the shareholders will undoubtedly receive a handsome return upon their investment.

There is perhaps no other industry, that can be carried on in the Province of Ontario, so well adapted to the needs and requirements of the trade, of the country, as that to be carried on by the Company now opening its career in the Town of Peterborough. It is situate in a Province that has preserved the very highest standard in the quality of these farm products and its place of business is in the heart of a rich agricultural district. The Company having proper regard for the best manner, in which this trade can be conducted, has effected a most economical combination of several different business enterprises and it is engaging in a trade that is going ahead in this country by leaps and bounds. It certainly has the satisfaction of knowing that a large trade is awaiting its operations, and with proper business management and aggressive action in reaching out for its share a business will undoubtedly be done that will tax its capacity to the full extent.

The Town of Peterborough itself will be much benefitted by the location of this Company here. From 125 to 150 hands will be employed, all men, earning good wages, and in this respect it is unlike many other business concerns employing a cheap class of labour. These men with their families will have to locate in the town and will go to swell our population to a considerable extent.

The farmers, not only in the neighbourhood of Peterborough, but throughout the Province will be benefitted, by the enterprise. Increased facility will be offered to them for marketing their products with the consequent advantage of increased prices from a broader market, than they have hitherto enjoyed.

The Company is established under the most auspicious circumstances, with every advantage of trade and local conditions in its favour, and it requires no prophetic mind to predict for it a most prosperous career.

ESTABLISHED HALF A CENTURY

"Just Like the Last Pair"

Fit the shoe to the foot, not the foot to the shoe.

Men's Dress Shoes

must be of fashionably correct and shapely styles, finest finish, best of leathers, outlines handsome—when you discard them you want "a pair just like the last ones." That's true of the popular "Invictus" Shoe for gentlemen, for which we are sole agents in Peterborough.

Ladies' Fine Shoes

artistic in design, neat to the eye, made to wear and keep their shape, beautiful finish, easy comfort. These are some of the qualities of "The Queen Quality" Shoe, for which we are sole agents in Peterborough.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE HENRY OWENS

Took Place Yesterday and was Largely Attended.

The funeral of the late Henry Owens took place yesterday afternoon to the Little Lake Cemetery, and was attended by a large number of citizens, including the members of Corinthian Lodge, No. 101, A. F. and A.M., who walked to the cemetery in a body. Rev. J. P. Wilson, pastor of the George street Methodist church, conducted the funeral services at the grave side. The pall bearers were V. W. Bro. H. Rush, V. W. Bro. H. C. Winch, W. Bro. G. I Rossel, Bro. R. F. Morrow, W. Bro. W. McClellan, and Bro. W. G. Green.

DANNY SIMONS IS A JOLLY COMEDIAN,

Peterborough Boy Praised in an Ohio Newspaper Report.

Under the heading of "Amusements," an East Liverpool, Ohio, paper publishes the following article which pays a glowing tribute to Mr. Dan Simons, son of Mr. Pete. Simons, of town:

"Himmelein's Ideals will on Tuesday night present "Eagle's Nest," a play that is said to have won much applause wherever presented, especially by the Ideals, which is one of the strongest companies of its kind on the road.

"Those who saw Danny Simons as Sim Lazarus in the Black Flag at the Grand Monday night were tickled from the soles of their feet to their hat bands. Simons is as jolly a comedian as ever appeared at the Grand. He is, to use a slang expression, almost the whole show. Were the other people as amusing as Simons, Barnum's big circus would be forced out of business. No clown ever made people laugh more heartily than Danny Simons, prince of Hebrew impersonators and "tickler" of the masses."

POLICE COURT

Three Cases Before the Magistrate This Morning.

At the police court Jos. Vaillencourt, who has an abhorrence of hard work, was charged with vagrancy. He was ordered to shake the dust of Peterborough off his shoes within 24 hours.

Cornelius Ryan is a discreet man. He goes out of town quietly and in the still of the night, when he expects to be served with papers. He was charged with assaulting Sarah Hillier, but the case was enlarged for a week, for the second time, as it was not known whether Ryan was around and whether he had received the summons.

There is a certain young man in town with a weak recollection. He forget whether he assaulted Constable Charles McGinty last night, and did not know if he had been drunk at the time. After the evidence was taken he was fined $2 and costs, amounting in all to $5 75. The charge of assaulting the policeman was dropped.

A Special Event.

The concert in Bradburn's opera house on November 19th, under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A., will be an especially pleasing event. Harold Jarvis will present entirely new numbers and will be accompanied on the violin by Miss Alice Dean, the talented young violinist, Owen Smiley, reciter, and Mr. Spencer-Jones, accompanist, are artists the Peterborough public will appreciate. 1d

GENERALLY SPEAKING

PREACHERS who speak plain truths to kings and queens, are endowed with rare moral and physical courage, equalled only by that of the man who takes his life in his hand by giving a decision in a baby show contest. Rare history of great courage repeats itself in Rev. C. O. Johnson, of Toronto, a Methodist preacher, who showed a temerity in devotion to duty seldom equalled, when from the pulpit he dared to attack the female hat. He denounced the big hat in church as an abomination, or words to that effect, declaring that ladies who had a sense of decency should remove their big hats in church, as they do in decent theatres. It has not been reported that his exhortation has been successful. If he gains his point we can exclaim "Lo, a greater than Wesley is here!" John Wesley preached the feathers and flowers off ladies' hats and bonnets, but there is no record that he even hoped in the most exuberant plentitude of his apostolic zeal to succeed in preaching the hats off their heads, as Rev. Mr. Johnson proposes doing.

VANITAS VANITATUM, omnia vanitas — it is feared that the Toronto preacher will realise the truth of the saying of the preacher of Holy Writ, in his crusade against the female hat, which is, par excellence, the vanity of vanities. Does he want to empty his church of female worshippers? Does he suppose that a lady will invest $10, $15, or $20 in a hat which she cannot display in church on Sundays, to the glorification of herself, and the abasement and humiliation of the ladies whose husbands may have less money or more brains? Will any woman with a duck of a bonnet or a dream of a hat, forego the pleasure of turning her less fortunate sisters emerald with envy? It is to be feared that Rev. Mr. Johnson, in the classic language of the street, is "up against it," — he can as well hope to persuade a lady to remove her adjustable back hair in church as her bonnet.

REFORM in church manners may be all right for such unpractical beings as preachers, but reform in railway service is a much more live topic. The frontier towns sleeping on the shores of Lake Ontario, between Cobourg and Toronto, are kicking with all the vigour to be expected from persons in a half-waking condition, against the alleged defects of the railway service supplied by the Grand Trunk Railway. If they were as badly off as Peterborough is, in one respect at least, in regard to train service, they might have some excuse for complaint. For instance, the morning papers are on the streets of Toronto and delivered to residents between 6 and 7 o'clock in the morning. Peterborough gets them about noon, while the kicking towns strung along the lake shore, get their morning papers—the nearest before 8 o'clock and the furthest — Cobourg, which is further east than Peterborough—at ten o'clock. What cause have these moribund towns for complaint? It's Peterborough should be doing the kicking.

HALLOWE'EN PRANKS are all very well for rural communities, but Peterborough has pretty well outgrown the usual primitive ways of observing the vigil of Hallowe'en. Up-rooting cabbage, unhinging gates and similar rustic horse play was well enough for the town half a century ago—in its village stage. But one can't get the boys to think so. They will have their fun and, apart from considerations of good taste and civic dignity, they are welcome to it. But they must differentiate innocent mischief from malicious injury to property. Hanging a butcher's cart in a church steeple is fun, but there is no fun in destroying the hinges of a widow's gate and putting her to an expense which, to her slender purse, represents as great an outlay as restoring a rich man's stables, burned by fire, means to him. Malicious injury to property is an offence under the criminal code, punishable by a serious term of imprisonment.

BOYHOOD DAYS recall a more excellent way, practiced in another part of Ontario, and more in keeping with the religious significance of the Hallowe'en season. In the neighbourhood lived a poor lone cottage dwelling widow. The boys instead of wrenching gates from their moorings and doing a deal of senseless damage, invaded gardens and uprooted cabbage and other vegetables, visited wood yards and piled their spoils in the widow's yard, and All Saint's sun shone—if it shone at all that day—on a heap of mingled turnips, cabbage, carrots and fire-wood—enough to last the poor widow half the winter. Though the moral quality of the action may have been questionable, the material result was quite appreciable by the beneficiary.

TWO YEARS AFTER the money was raised, we have the Dan Spence ambulance, and it is like many long expected things or events, not quite up to reasonable expectations. The Property Committee of the Council in accepting it, criticised the quality of the interior finish and in regard to the inscription, that defeats the memorial character of the vehicle. Lord Byron sang something to the effect that glory consisted in dying in a ditch on the battle field and having one's name spelled wrong in the Gazette. Gallant Dan Spence verifies the truth of it. He died on the field of battle for his country, and after a deal of bother and talk an ambulance was completed to keep his memory green in his home town. Yet such is the irony of fate or results of indifference, that even the year of his death is "spelled wrong" in the memorial inscription. The inditers of the inscription did not find out that he was dead, until a year after he died for his country.

THOSE WHO clamoured for an ambulance instead of a monument, urged that the ambulance would be a perpetual memorial — that every time it appeared on the street Dan Spence and his heroic death would be brought to mind. But the only evidence that the ambulance is in any way connected with Dan Spence is an inscription in letter visible, but not legible, a dozen feet away, instead of one in letters so large that he who runs might read.

THEN THERE IS NOTHING in the external appearance of the ambulance to connect it with its intention. The only objection to the private ambulance formerly in use, was its funereal black — a patient if at all imaginative or nervous, on being put into it, could easily fancy himself in the role of going to his own funeral, so hearse-like was the dead black of its exterior. The Dan Spence ambulance is not much improvement in this respect. The gloomy blackness of its exterior is relieved by a horizontal band of red. This would have been better if a vertical band had been placed at right angles to the transverse band to form a cross like this:

Then, if the body of the ambulance had been painted a kharki shade and the large cross in crimson, a colour contrast that would meet artistic requirements, we should have had some symbolism to show the object of the ambulance. The kharki would have represented the uniform worn by Dan Spence, and the forces with which he fought, which uniform was crimsomed with his blood. The red cross, as the badge of the Red Cross Society, would have symbolized its magnificent work of mercy, carried on by the ambulance in use. A great many of the contributors to the Dan Spence Memorial Ambulance Fund, feel, and say, that in connection with its institution, as in connection with the charge of the Light Brigade, "somebody blundered."

THE DEAD CHICKADEE.

Cities Full of Birds on Their Fall Migration—Their Perils.

Yesterday I picked up a little dead chickadee of the asphalt pavement in the heart of the city. The little fellow had probably been "telegraphed"—that is, had flown against a telegraph or telephone wire during the night and been killed. Possibly he had met his death bumping into a plate glass window against which he had flown, attracted by the light within. At any rate, he is dead, and his delicately-tinted soft little gray and black body lies on the table before me.

The city just now is full of birds on their fall migration. You may not notice them, but they are here just the same, and a scrutiny of the treetops in the morning will convince you. Yesterday morning I interrupted a pair of slate-colored juncoes, or black snowbirds, breakfasting in the garden. To-day there was a shy thrush of some species and a handsome white-throated sparrow. The mountain ash trees and grape vines are favorite resorts of the robins, and plenty of warblers may be seen in the taller trees, feeding and flitting, ever flitting to the sunny South.

Vast numbers of birds meet the fate of my little chickadee in spring and fall. They travel much at night, and they cannot see the thread-like wires which the necessities of modern civilization have spread, like huge spider webs, all over the country. Also, they do not appreciate the virtues of glass. Like some foolish humans, they do not believe in the existence of what they cannot see. The lighthouses on the great lakes and along the sea coast prove death-traps to thousands and thousands of birds every year. The glare of the lights attracts them, and crash! they go to their doom against the plate glasses which enclose the lights, which to the sailor are a beacon of safety, to the little feathered traveler of the air a lure to destruction.

But, to go back to the little dead chickadee, useful in death as in life, his little body served to-day as an object lesson in nature study to the pupils of one of the city schools.—H. D.C., in Toronto Star.

Canadian Justice in the Fifties.

The recent arrest of the fakirs at the Brampton fall fair, recalls to C. W. Young of The Freeholders, Cornwall, a case of rough and ready justice in the same direction a good many years ago, not very far from Brampton. Somewhere in the fifties there was a circus at Georgetown, which was followed by a large number of fakirs, who were more aggressive then than now. The favorite game was a sweat-board, a kind of large checker-board, with money, watches, and jewelry on the numbered squares. Dice were thrown (usually loaded), and the player got the money or article his throw called for, generally of small value. Sometimes the table was round, with triangular spaces radiating from the center, on which the prizes were placed. A long steel needle like that of a compass swung from a pivot in the centre. It was revolved by the hand of the fakir, but its stoppage was controlled by a magnet underneath. The swindle was the same in either case.

Two countrymen tackled the sweat-board and, as a result, lost a good deal of money. Not being thoroughbred losers, they began looking for law, and interviewed the J.P. and leading citizen of the village, the late James Young. This gentleman had a sense of humor, and told the young men that he didn't pity them much; they were fools to run up against a swindle of that kind; "but," he added, "if I were in your place I think I would go back and kick the d——d thing over." In a few minutes, after a drink or two to screw up their courage, one of the young men sent the table spinning, and scattered the money on the grass, where most of it was picked up by the crowd. It was now the turn of the fakirs to look for law, and they also called on J.P. "The only law I will give you thieves," said he, "is to advise you to get out of town as soon as you can, and don't come back."

They made themselves scarce instanter.

PIETY OF CREE INDIANS.

Interesting Information Given by Bishop of Keewatin.

During his recent visit to Toronto, Bishop Loftus, of Keewatin, gave some remarkable instances of the piety and devotion which he said was universal among the Cree Indians of the Hudson's Bay District, in those regions not invaded by civilization, which was killing off the Indians and virtually destroying the value of religious efforts among them.

Bishop Loftus, who has labored for years among the Cree Indians and Eskimos of Hudson's Bay, said that he had seen Indian men and women walk 10, 15, 20, or 25 miles through snow to attend a church service, beginning at 8 a.m. on Sunday, and he had known them to travel 200 to 400 miles to kneel at the Lord's table. In 95 per cent. of the Indian tents on the shores of the Hudson's Bay family prayer was conducted night and morning, and he had seen the Indians fast all Sunday rather than kill game on the Lord's Day, which was a marked contrast to many professing Christians, who, when relieved of the constraints of the city, had not scrupled to go hunting on the Sabbath for sport. The Diocese of Keewatin was an immense one, embracing a portion of Ontario on the south, running north 1,600 miles, and covering 450,000 square miles.

AT DEATH'S DOOR.

The Story of the Recovery of Miss Falford of St. Elie.

She Says "I am Confident that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Saved My Life"—Hope for all Weak, Sickly Girls.

To be well, to be strong, to possess a clear complexion, bright eyes and an elastic step, the blood must be pure and filled with life-giving energy. When you see pale, sallow, sickly girls, easily tired, subject to headaches, backaches, and violent palpitation of the heart, it is the blood that is at fault, and unless the trouble is speedily corrected the patient passes into that condition known as "decline" and death follows. The one sure, positive way to obtain rich, red health-giving blood is to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This medicine has saved thousands of young girls from a premature grave. Strong proof of this is offered in the cure of Miss Zenaide Falford, of St. Elie, Quebec. Miss Falford tells the story of her sickness and recovery as follows: "Like many other Canadian girls, I went to the United States and found employment in a factory at Woonsocket. The close, indoor work proved too much for me and nearly ended in my death. At first I was taken with headaches, would tire very easily, had no appetite, and no energy. I tried to continue the work, but grew worse and worse, and finally was compelled to return to my home. I was so much changed and so emaciated that my friends hardly knew me. Two weeks after my return home I was forced to take my bed. I had a bad cough, was distressed by terrible dreams, and sometimes passed whole nights without sleep. Two doctors treated me, but without avail, and I was steadily growing weaker; in fact I could not hold my hand above my head for more than three or four seconds, and had to be turned in bed. No one expected I would get better, and I thought myself I was about to die. At this time my brother came from Montreal to see me, and strongly urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. A supply of pills was procured, and I now bless the day I began taking them. It is enough to say that before three boxes were used I began to feel better, and from that on I grew stronger every day. By the time I had taken nine or ten boxes I was once more enjoying the blessing of perfect health. No symptoms of the old trouble remain, and I am confident Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life."

Pure blood is the secret of health and it is because every dose of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make new, rich blood, that they cure such desperate cases as that above related. These pills cure all the troubles that arise from poor blood—and that means most of the ailments that afflict mankind. Give these pills a fair trial and they will not disappoint you. Sold by medicine dealers everywhere, or sent by mail, post paid, at 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont

Mr. John K. Stewart Dead.

Toronto, Oct. 30.—John K. Stewart, provincial inspector of licenses, died about 6 o'clock last night in the General Hospital after an operation for appendicitis. Two or three weeks ago Mr. Stewart resigned the office of provincial license inspector, which he had held for twelve years, with the intention of removing to Ottawa to begin business as an insurance broker. His household effects had been removed to Ottawa, and the family were already there. Mr. Stewart's resignation was to take effect on Nov. 1, but up till the present his successor had not yet been appointed. Mr. Stewart was born 55 years ago on his father's farm near Ottawa. He ran against Sir John Macdonald in Carlton in the general elections of 1890.

"SOCIAL ENGLAND."

TRACTS OF THE 16TH AND 17TH CENTURIES THAT REVEAL DETAILS.

Tracts Embodied in "Social England Illustrated" Represent Ancient Journalism—How-a-day's Authors Would Print the Things They Deal With in the Newspapers of the Day or the Ponderous Magazines.

What would you like to know about? Is it concerning dogs, or wines, or actors, or leather, or dancing, or the advantages of a fish diet, or how to get rich, or how to find your way around England, or how to go to sea in a wherry? If the information imparted is a trifle old, for "Social England Illustrated" dates back for the major part during the time of the seventeenth century, the material found is of the most amusing character. Andrew Lang, in his introduction, tells us that most of these tracts "represent ancient journalism. To-day the authors would put them forth in newspapers, or perhaps in the more ponderous magazines." Papers were not plenty in the time of Queen Bess, or of James I., and so there was an abundance of pamphlets.

A tractate on dogs! That sounds so strange. There was the very learned Dr. Caius, who really knew little about man's faithful companions, but who wrote ever so much about them. Whether any future dog show will quote points from Caius we do not know. Think of the importance of the topic when the original "Treatise" was written in Latin. Here is the general category of dogs. "The gentle kind serving the game; a homely kind, apt for sundry necessary uses, and a currish kind, meet for many toys." Then there are subdivisions of dogs, the smalling, the spying, the swiftness, and the quickness sort, and even a fourth and fifth variety. The harrier and terrier Caius really did know something about. The bloodhound ought to date for very far back. Cattle stealing was a common business when property was accessible on the border between England and Scotland. Caius, however, tells of a dog with the distinguishing quality of hunting lobsters. Caius is not at all sympathetic in regard to that dog which Callimachus called Melitaeos because it came from Malta. These dogs, the learned and probably grim author inveighs against, and the ladies who loved them catch it too hot and heavy. He says: "These puppies are instruments of folly for them (the fairer sex) to play and dally withal, to trifle away the treasures of time, to withhold their minds from more commendable exercises, and to content their corrupted concupiscences with vain disport." How sympathetically Mr. Lang introduces the incident of the poor little doggie Mary Queen of Scots had snuggled under her skirt when her head fell on the block, "and as soon as her head was stricken off the dog began to bestir himself and cry out." There was some very curious and stupid idea held at that time (1576), and one was that the little pet a lady fondled might, by catching some disease its mistress imagined she had, relieve her of her pains.

Dr. John Dee, who wrote a pamphlet in 1577 called "The Petty Naval Royal," advocated an increase of the navy. Said the doctor, if we are only prepared, "neither France, Denmark, Scotland, Spain, nor any other country can invade us." History certainly repeats itself. Have we not read of late concerning the adulteration of German wines? Here is that learned Dean William Turner, of 1568, who finds great fault with certain qualities of wines. The Dean favors white wines, and insists that "Clared and Gascony wines" are just as good as poison. At the conclusion of a heated discourse, for the Dean is exceedingly pious, he thanks the Lord for "His noble creature of wine in many ways profitable for our bodies and minds." We would not advise the wide distribution of this tract for the benefit of those who favor the destruction of the canteen.

"A politic Plat," plat being understood in the sense of disk, by Robert Hitchcock, has again for topic the saving of England through the increase of the fishing fleet. What a fine preamble it has. Do what they can, Kings and Queens find it most troublesome to "root out that loathsome monster idleness (the mother and breeder of vagabonds.") Here is the cure. Build 500 fishing ships "after the manner of Flemish Busses," man and equip them, and there you are. "By God's grace every ship will kill at the least fifty last of the best herrings." The fish you can sell for £200,000. Robert Hitchcock may have been a prospector, for he presents a most able money argument for the prosecution of the herring business. Then there is "The Hunting for Whale." The author of "The Politic Plat" writes, "The killing of whale is both pleasant and profitable, and without great charges, yielding great plenty of (train) oil, the tun whereof is worth £10. One of the ships may bring home to his port fifty tuns, the which is worth £500."

They loved dancing in Queen Bess' time, and so we have a full account of the performances of William Kemp, who carried out a phenomenal dance, starting with a hop and a skip from London, and finally reaching on the full bound Norwich. He calls it a Morrice. He wrote the account himself, so "as to satisfy his friends." Certainly if Kemp was truthful it was a star performance. English highways in the time of Queen Elizabeth must have been rather rough. To keep up his spirits the dancer had with him his Tabourer, and that player on the taber would beat the time, then away would start Kemp "with hey and ho! through thick and thin." The dancer must have staked some money on the event, and some did not pay their losses, and so the dancing champion calls them bad names.

That wise and parsimonious person, Henry Peacham, has left behind him a paper entitled, "The Worth of a Penny." He advocates economy, and explains what is the purchasing power of a penny. Peacham's pamphlet was written during the last quarter of the seventeenth century. Among the numerous things the penny will purchase the author cites:

"For a Penny, you may have all the news in England and other countries, of murders, floods, witches, fires, tempests, and what not. For a Penny you may buy a fair cucumber, but not a breast of mutton, except it be multiplied (magotty.) For a Penny you shall tell what will happen a year from hence (which the Devil himself cannot) in some Almanach. For a Penny you may buy a dish of coffee (not yet sold in cups) to quicken your stomach and refresh your spirits. For a Penny a chambermaid may buy as much red ochre as will serve seven years for the painting of her cheeks."

That Dodd's Kidney Pill Cure When Other Means Fail.

Mr. J. J. Perkins Disabled by Kidney Pains, Finds New Health in the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Tyndall, Man., Oct. 26.—(Special.)—All over Manitoba and the Territories people are telling of benefits received from the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and this place furnishes a striking example of how they will cure when all other means have failed in the person of Mr. J. J. Perkins.

"For two years I was troubled with my Kidneys," Mr. Perkins says. "I got so bad that the doctor attending me declared me incurable.

"At times, I had such severe pains in my back that I thought I would have to give up hopes and die. I was unable to work and was becoming destitute.

"One day a friend asked me, 'Have you ever tried Dodd's Kidney Pills?' I answered 'No,' and he persuaded me to try them.

"The first box made me feel like a new man; five boxes cured me completely. Dodd's Kidney Pills saved my life."

THE ENGLISH NEWSPAPER.

Cowper's Famous Apostrophe Has Lost Its Force in England.

Mr. I. N. Ford, in a late number of The Booklover, writes thus of the English newspaper:

English newspapers are economically managed. Their owners insist upon having a full return for capital invested. They do not give readers more than their money's worth. They supply ordinarily eight pages of reading matter and advertising for an English penny, or four pages for a half-penny. They do not sell sixteen, thirty-two, or sixty-four pages for a penny and make desperate efforts to recover their outlay by hunting down new classes of readers. They do not heap up all their eggs in a single basket. Instead of giving away illustrated supplements and magazine sections, without expectation of an adequate return for the increased expenses of paper and printing, the owners of London newspapers purchase journals in other cities, found periodicals, and multiply their properties. Three great fortunes have been made in this way within fifteen years.

Lack of vivacity is a distant loss. A nation which falls asleep over its newspapers may find it difficult to do its work in a wide-awake world, astir with rivalry and competition. The English newspapers are irreproachable on every point of propriety, with a possible exception in the fullness with which divorce and criminal cases in the courts are reported; but with their drowsy leading articles, colorless local news, and general lack of animation and variety, they are dull and uninteresting. They inform, they do not entertain their readers.

English newspaper owners are expected to know their place and to remain in it. Decorations and even peerages may come as reward for party service; but, meanwhile, they must not aspire to political leadership nor take too serious a view of their responsibilities.

Cowper's famous apostrophe, "Thou god of our idolatry, the Press," has lost its force in England. Newspapers are respected as trustworthy chronicles of current events. They are not reverenced as infallible oracles of public opinion.

Late Hon. Duncan Gillies.

Hon. Duncan Gillies, the well-known Australian statesman, who died in Melbourne the other day, was born in Glasgow in 1834, and went to Victoria in 1852. Starting as a working miner at Ballarat, he was elected to the Legislative Assembly in 1859 as a miners' representative, and was re-elected four times, losing his seat finally on acceptance of office in the Sladen Ministry. Although a strong Conservative and free-trader, in 1883 he entered the Service-Berry Coalition Ministry, and on the retirement of his chiefs in 1886 himself became Premier of a fresh coalition with Mr. Deakin, the present Premier of the Commonwealth, taking in addition the offices of Treasurer, Minister of Railways, and late Minister of Mines. He retired in 1890, after defeat on a vote of confidence.

ROMANCE OF THE SOO.

Study in Historical Evolution That Is Very Interesting at the Present Time—How One Thing Led to Another.

The story of the development of the water power at Sault Ste. Marie and the building up of the many industries that now surround the St. Mary's River, presents a study in evolution that is as interesting as many a romance. The central figure, of course, is Francis H. Clergue, who was despatched by a company of financiers looking for investment, to ascertain what opportunities existed along the basin of the St. Lawrence for hydraulic development. Mr. Clergue, in prosecuting his search, traversed the entire country between Cape Breton and Port Arthur and found various important water powers, but until the Soo was reached no point was located where hydraulic power could be economically and advantageously developed. With Lake Superior for a millpond and a fall of 20 feet, conditions appeared most favorable for the establishment of a plant that would supply power to an unlimited number of factories.

After the water power was developed, there was no rush of applications from manufacturers, and the company were forced to consider how they would utilise the power. From an examination of the forests, it was found that spruce was the only wood that could be brought to the works at a reasonable cost. It was, accordingly, decided to begin the manufacture of pulp, and two hundred and fifty thousand dollars was set aside for the construction of a mill. This was for works with an output of twenty tons of pulp a day, but it was soon found that it would cost as much to run a mill that size as one much more extensive—except for the labor charges and increased cost of raw materials—and the works were accordingly enlarged until they had a capacity of one hundred cords of wood.

How Dry Pulp Was Secured.

The next step was the endeavor to obtain a machine by which the water could be extracted from the liquid pulp, so that the freight charges on over half of the product of the mills might be saved. This liquid pulp contains from 50 to 55 per cent. of water, and on account of the great cost of transportation it would be impossible to ship it to the European markets. In addition to this, a great deal of the resinous matter remains in the fibre and when exposed to a changeable climate become decomposed and gives the green stain which is seen in pine boards that have not been properly seasoned.

It was impossible to find a paper machine maker who would undertake to construct the required mill to produce dry pulp. Mr. Clergue himself finally designed the machine, and to build it found it necessary to construct a machine shop, and then decided that they should have a foundry. So that with the object of obtaining dry pulp, one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars more were expended in the erection of subsidiary works.

Went Sulphite Mill Led To.

The next step in the evolution was a sulphite pulp mill. It was found that with a slight increase in the cost, the ground wood pulp which sold at a very low price could be greatly enhanced in value by making it into chemical pulp. For this, sulphur was required, and a mine was purchased at Sudbury, for which $100,000 was paid. Then the sulphite paper mill was built, with about the same capacity as the first.

It was then found that the residue of the product of the mine after the sulphur had been extracted left an alloy of nickel and steel superior to anything that had ever been used. It was shown to Krupp, the German gun manufacturer, who at once made a contract for a supply for five years. This necessitated the erection of reduction works and a ferro-nickel plant. For these processes of manufacture were required certain chemicals, certain alkalies. So it was necessary to establish an alkali plant. The salt was easily obtainable at Windsor or Goderich on the lakes. What was needed out of it for refining purposes was the sodium, but the chlorine was not allowed to go to waste. Chlorine is universally made into bleaching powder, principally in England, which is over fifty per cent. lime. The company at once went to work and pumped the chlorine gas through a glass pump into lime water, which was then utilized to bleach the sulphite pulp.

It was then found that the sulphite mill was not using all the sulphurous acid gas generated at the reduction works, and as no by-product was allowed to escape, means were devised to utilize the surplus. A process was found by which the gas could be compressed into liquid sulphurous acid for the use of oil refiners and in the arts. With this purpose in view, the sulphurous acid plant was built and its product was shipped in iron tanks at about one-half of the former price of sulphur.

Transportation Facilities Followed.

The construction of these mighty industries required additional means of transportation, both by lake and rail, and the Algoma Central & Hudson Bay Railway was built with over one hundred miles of track. There were also purchased, built and chartered a fleet of sixteen steamers, of which two have been carrying passengers and freight between Toledo, Ohio, and Georgian Bay points and the Soo.

In addition to these industries there have been erected the Bessemer Steel Works, blooming mill and rail mill, the saw, lath and shingle mills, at various points, the water, electric light and power services in the towns on both sides of the river, as well as the street railway systems.—G. C. Porter, in The Toronto Sunday World.

Nature the Only Healer.

Medicine never did any person a particle of good except by digestion, assimilation—going into circulation, etc. No salve contains any healing property except as a protection to keep away the effect of oxygen in the air, dirt or any foreign substance from coming in contact with the part affected. The natural powers of our being possess the only power to heal. Anything that may be done to assist in a natural way is good—contrary, bad. Give good food to make good blood. Breathe good air, rest and not overexercise to the extent of fatigue. Then the body will recuperate. Then the wound will be healed by healthy serum that is secreted to heal all wounds, not the salve. The salve protects from outside influence, while the machinery within goes on with its work. Nature does it all.

One Way to Keep Accounts.

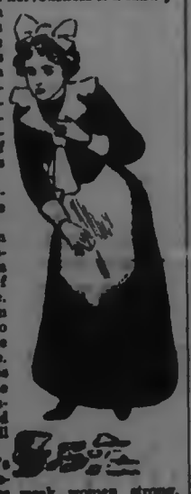
In a book of accounts found on the premises of a bankrupt dealer in a city in the west of England were the following names of customers to whom credit had been given and which would have puzzled all the official receivers in the kingdom: Woman on the key, Jew woman, coal woman, old coal woman, fat coal woman, market woman, pale woman, a man, old woman, little milk girl, candle man, stableman, coachman, big woman, lame woman, quiet woman, egg man, little black girl, Jew man, Mrs. in a cart, old Irish woman, woman in Corn street, a lad, man in the country, long Sal, Mrs. Irish woman, Mrs. feather bonnett, blue bonnett, green bonnett, green coat, blue britches, big britches, the woman that was married and the woman that told me of the man.

In an Old Time House.

To go down into the low ceiled kitchen, with its heavy, rough hewn timbers and its great fireplace with the logs fast turning to coals; to look into the old brick oven, where bread for a regiment could easily have been baked, and, perchance, to be asked to sit down on the old wooden settee under the little window where the pot of flowers stands and drink tea from a quaint blue cup will complete the charm the place has thrown about you. Many fantasies will throng the mind, and the shadows cast upon the walls by the wavering light make this house their home—one booted and spurred and with a military step, the other a rustle of silk and a whiff of rare perfume.

STARTLED

By some sudden sound she drops the vase upon the floor. She is nervous and may be told that nervousness is a luxury which only a rich woman can afford to indulge in. Nervousness has cost many a woman her position. Sometimes when women run machinery the price of nervousness is mutilation,—a finger lost or perhaps the whole hand crushed.



Nervousness in women is commonly but a symptom of womanly disease. It is useless in such cases to "doctor" for the nerves alone. Cure the disease which attack the delicate womanly organism and nervousness will be cured also.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong, sick women well. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It tranquilizes the nerves and induces refreshing sleep.

"In the fall of 1897, I was troubled with nervousness, headache, heart trouble and female weakness," writes Miss Blanch M. Bracey, of Bain, Oswego Co., N. Y. "Last summer I wrote you and you advised me to try your 'Favorite Prescription,' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I did so and I began to improve rapidly. Continued taking the medicine, half a dozen each of 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' by the means of five months, and in less than a year had regained my former health."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets clear the muddy complexion.

DRUMMERS' ETIQUETTE.

A "Commercial" Dinner in England Is a Formal Affair.

On my initial trip as commercial traveler in England a kind friend told me that I must state I was a "commercial" on entering an inn, and he added that the "commercial" room had peculiar customs. Arriving on a morning train in a famous university town, I was soon in the courtyard of an old-fashioned inn, which had been recommended as the best commercial hotel. I was welcomed by the "boots" and directed to a "commercial room" marked "Private."

The "commercial" dinner was served promptly at 1 o'clock or at 1.15. Should twenty "commercials" be stopping at the house and but one be present at this dinner hour the soup is served. It was a few moments after the hour when I re-entered the "commercial room" to find sixteen seated at the long table, now covered with white linen and decorated with flowers. At the head of the table, engaged in serving the soup, sat Mr. President, who occupies this position by virtue of having remained in the hotel longer than any other person present, and at the other end is Mr. Vice, the second in length of stay. This I did not then know.

After hesitating for a moment I slipped modestly into a vacant chair. In a few seconds I was conscious that every eye in the room was fixed upon me. Presently the president, a ruddy faced old man of about sixty, said, "Perhaps the gentleman who has just seated himself is unaware that this is a private room?" This was said courteously, but firmly. My first thought was to telegraph to the American Ambassador and to get out my passport declaring me to be a freeborn American citizen, but the savory odor of the soup and my friend's warning prevailed. So, half rising from my chair, I stammered out something about my ignorance. With every desire to relieve my evident embarrassment and at the same time to uphold the traditions of the table, the president said, "The gentleman is a stranger and wishes to join us." A hearty permission was given at once by all, and I re-seated myself.—World's Work.

Lipton's Cheese Ad.

"I remember very distinctly," said an old gentleman to a newspaper man, "the first we inhabitants of Glasgow heard of Tom Lipton. And to think he is now a man of world renown. Tom and I were schoolboys together. Then I went to Eton and lost track of him. I studied law, and when I returned to Glasgow Tom had hung out his shingle as a green grocer in an obscure street. He was competing with well established firms and for three years plodded along almost unnoticed and with only a small number of customers. But one day the Glasgow papers bore an advertisement something like this:

"'Thomas Lipton will sell at market price good cheese filled with coin of the kingdom. The cheese have been prepared especially and are laden with threepences, sixpences, shillings, half sovereigns and sovereigns.'

"This astonishing announcement attracted a lot of attention, and the little shop of Lipton, green grocer, was besieged. He sold his cheese by the pound, and in each slice one was quite sure to find at least a silver coin. What a trade he drew! He sold cheese by the thousands of pounds. It cost him a goodly penny, too, because he gave away in this fashion about £500. But Lipton was established. For years he was known as 'Cheese Lipton,' and each Christmas he would conceive some brilliant scheme along lines that appealed to the public."

An English Jury.

The trial by jury in civil actions in the county courts in England has long been declining in popularity. On one circuit in which several thousand cases of some importance were disposed of during 1902 not a single action was tried with a jury. This is certainly not surprising if county court juries often behave as did the five good men and true whose strange methods in arriving at a verdict were described by a county court judge in The London Times the other day. The case, which arose out of an accident, lasted two days. "The jury of five retired. Said No. 1, 'Oil, Grease & Oil are my solicitors; my verdict is for them.' Oddly enough, No. 2 and No. 3 also employed the same solicitors, and so the three were solid for Oil, Grease & Oil. For hours Nos. 4 and 5 held out. Night was far advanced; they were cold and hungry and submitted." This is bad enough, but what the county court judge adds is even more calculated to make all litigants' flesh creep. "Up spake No. 1, 'Let me see; were Oil, Grease & Oil for plaintiff or defendant?' But, alas, none of the five knew."

Liquozone Cost $100,000

Yet We Will Buy a 50c. Bottle and Give it to You.

This company, composed of business, professional and medical men of ability, paid $100,000 for the right to make Liquozone. That is the highest price ever paid for the rights in one country on any scientific discovery. It was paid by us, after years of experiment with it, because Liquozone alone can kill inside germs without killing the tissues, too. Nothing else can destroy the cause of any germ disease.

Liquid Oxygen.

Liquozone is simply liquid oxygen—no drugs, no alcohol in it. It is the discovery of Paull, the great German chemist, who spent 20 years on it. His object was to get such an excess of oxygen in staple form into the blood that no germ could live in any membrane or tissue.

Liquozone does that. We spend 14 days in making each bottle of it, but the result is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill.

Kills All Germs.

Any drug that kills germs is a poison to you and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine never destroys inside germs. Liquozone kills them with oxygen—a tonic to you—the very source of vitality. It kills them because germs are vegetables, and an excess of oxygen—the very life of an animal—is deadly to vegetable matter.

Liquozone is employed in the largest hospitals, and prescribed by the best physicians, the world over. It is essential in any germ disease, for the cause must be destroyed, and nothing else can do it. Liquozone then acts as a tonic to bring back a condition of perfect health; for oxygen is Nature's greatest tonic. Its effects are exhilarating, purifying, vitalizing. It does something that all the skill in the world cannot do without it.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.

BOTTLE LAKE HUNT CLUB OFF TO NORTH.

Left Town This Morning on Their Annual Hunting Trip.

Among the many hunting parties that have left for the north this week, was the Bottle Lake Hunt Club, which left this morning for the grounds. The party this year is composed of Messrs. Philip Westlake, captain; W. G. Westlake, Michael O'Brien, Gus Corcoran, Milson Blewitt and J. K. Stabler.

The members of this club are usually among the most successful of the hunting parties leaving Peterborough, and as a general rule bring home all the game the law permits. They are all experienced hunters, and it is a poor prospect for any game that is unfortunate enough to come within range of their rifles.

QUOTATIONS ON THE WALL STREET MARKET.

The Fluctuations of the Leading Stocks —Market Letters.

The stock market was almost absolutely stagnant to-day. The attendance on the floor was light and telegraphic communication was somewhat interrupted by a storm west, thus tending to restrict business. There was also some difficulty in character. The only interest shown by trader outside of the football match was in the bank statement, but this also appeared to be wholly a matter of curiosity. When the figures were published they led to a little bidding up of prices which appeared to be expressive of satisfaction that the statement jibed somewhat with known facts. Otherwise the market was little different from the first hour, stagnation continuing to rule. The market closed strong, but extremely quiet.

"DANIEL O'CONNELL" SUBJECT OF PAPER

Read at St. Peter's T. A. S. Literary Society by Miss O'Connell.

An exceedingly large audience assembled in the T.A.S hall last evening, the occasion being the first paper of the literary season, which was read by Miss O'Connell.

Miss Cahill, president of the Association, presided and the meeting opened with a very pleasing instrumental duet by the Misses Doris, which was followed by an exquisitely rendered solo, "Calvary," by Miss Mollie Young.

Then came the interesting feature of the evening, a paper on "Daniel O'Connell." Miss O'Connell gave a very concise but beautiful portrayal of the early life, home training and brilliant career of O'Connell. His almost supernatural love of country was beautifully brought out and was shown to be a specimen of patriotism that can scarcely ever be surpassed. His influence on the Irish people was also given careful attention but particularly the marvellous power he was able to wield in bringing about a peaceful revolution in favour of his beloved country, Ireland. His renowned career in the pursuit of law, was especially noted, as well as his careful avoidance of giving offence to either nationality or creed in opposition to his own. On the whole the paper of last evening, which was read in a very distinct and pleasing manner was thoroughly appreciated by the audience, and Miss O'Connell was heartily congratulated at the conclusion of her reading.

The next number was an ably rendered instrumental solo, "The Meeting of the Waters," by Miss Janet Quinn. A very fine reading by Miss Gertie McFadden brought a delightful evening to a close.

It has been decided to have a series of papers on church history, and the Miss Casey on Friday, Nov. 13th. The subject of Miss Casey's paper will be "The Introduction of Christianity into Europe."

GOT INTOXICATED AND LOST ALL HIS MONEY.

Curious Case at the County Police Court —Who Stole $115 From Martin Rickey.

At the County Police Court held by County Police Magistrate Edmison yesterday, Thos. Maher, of Emily Township, was charged by Martin Rickey, of Ennismore Township, with stealing the sum of $115 from him. The evidence showed that recently Maher and Rickey met in Peterborough and frequented several saloons together, drinking somewhat heavily. When both were as drunk as was good for them Rickey offered Maher, who had a horse and buggy, one dollar to drive him home, to which prisoner agreed. They drove to Chemong and there drank more. They had intended to go home across the Chemong floating bridge, but mistook the turn. Rickey dropped out of the buggy and fell asleep on the road while Maher was found dreaming with his feet in the ditch and his back against the bank, while the horse, which was the only sober one of the three, was patiently awaiting the re-awakening of his master. When found Maher had a roll of bills with him. Rickey alleged that he had $115 in his note book and that Maher, who he said had no money when they met, was the only man with whom he had intercourse when in Peterborough.

Judgment will be given at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

THE "NORTH STAR" IN THE CARRYING TRADE.

Trim Little River Steamer Bringing Grain to Town.

The steamer North Star made a trip up the river on Thursday, loaded with grain for Meldrum's mill, and departed on the return trip at 5 o'clock, with a cargo of lumber and other building materials. Capt. Harris reports that he experienced considerable difficulty in navigating the river because of the low water prevailing at present. During the past season the North Star has done a very successful passenger business, and since the close of the passenger trade the steamer has been engaged in towing and general freight business between Peterborough and Rice Lake ports.

In justice to Captain Harris, the Examiner wishes to state that in the report of the Keene Fair, it should have said that a large excursion was run to that village from the different lake ports by the steamer North Star, instead of by the Water Lily.

THE LATEST NEWS OF LOCAL SPORT.

BASKET-BALL.

The first games of the season will be played at the association gymnasium, to-night, commencing at 8 o'clock. There will be an admission fee of five cents for the two games. Tickets may be obtained at the office. The games are as follows:

8 o'clock, Athletics vs. Harriers.

Harriers— Forwards, Dobbin, Maguire, centre, Laing; defence, Richardson, Campbell.

9 o'clock, Arrows vs. Alerts.

Arrows — Forwards, W. Fitzpatrick, B. Gillespie; centre, A. Hodson; defence, A. Gillespie, F. Richardson.

Alerts — Forwards, Parker, Morgan; centre, G. Hall; defence, F. Renton, F. Howson.

RUGBY.

The big football game is being played this afternoon at the oval between the home team and the Victorias of Toronto. Mr. George Biggs, of the Varsity team, is referring the game. The visiting team arrived on the 11.35 train, and lined up on the field as follows: Back, Tooze, Rives, Robertson, Gowan, captain, Cotton; quarter, Henderson; centre, Yeakans; wings, Brown, Pitchart, York, P. Shepherd, Whale, McPhirter, Sheppard, while the team to represent Peterborough was chosen from the following players: Ford, Crowley, Graham, Rickey, Noble, Dillon, Hurtubise, Craig, Meagher, Cameron, Kennedy, Paschall and Renton.

HOCKEY.

John Crough, who played goal for the Peterborough hockey club last winter, is in Toronto and will likely become a member of the St. George's this season.

SPRINTING.

It appears that the supporters of Walter Knox are not fully satisfied with the referee's decision in declaring all bets off in the recent race between Knox and Belland. A despatch from Orillia to the Toronto Star says: "A nice point will likely be contested by the courts soon. Mr. John Knox wagered several hundred dollars on the footrace between his brother Walter and Belland of Peterborough. The referee declared all bets off and Mr. Knox has placed the matter in the hands of his solicitor here with instructions to enter suits for the various amounts against the stakeholders. There seems to have been no justification for declaring the bets off."

—A regular meeting of the Town Council will be held in the Council Chamber, on Monday evening, November 2nd, at 8 o'clock.

TORTURING DISFIGURING

Skin, Scalp and Blood Humours

From Pimples to Scrofula From Infancy to Age

Speedily Cured by Cuticura When All Else Fails.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in Eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurements, as in acne and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum,—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy, have made them the standard skin cures, blood purifiers and humour remedies of the civilized world.

Bathe the affected parts with hot water and Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry, without rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment freely, to allay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and, lastly, take Cuticura Resolvent, to cool and cleanse the blood. This complete local and constitutional treatment affords instant relief, permits rest and sleep in the severest forms of eczema and other itching, burning and scaly humours of the skin, scalp and blood, and points to a speedy, permanent and economical cure when all else fails.

Cuticura Resolvent, liquid and in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Sole Proprietors.

LADIES' and GENTLEMEN'S

FUR-LINED COATS

Fashion decrees this year to be an essentially Fur-lined Coat year—and 'tis a sensible decree, for they're light, warm and very dressy.

Anticipating the demands of this year in Ladies' Fur-lined Coats, we had prepared during the summer a very extensive and well selected assortment of the newest and most up-to-date styles in these garments, which we offer at prices that it would be impossible for us to make them at now, owing to the advance in fur lining and cloth covering. We quote this lot of Ladies' Fur-lined Coats at from, each—

$15 to $100

IN FUR-LINED CAPES we show Plain Ladies' Cloth, Black Worsted Brocade and Silk covering, made in the new styles and lined and trimmed with the different fur used or these purposes. Each..... $13.50 to $75

MEN'S FUR-LINED COATS are special with us. Our facilities for giving you a good fitting, dressy, well-tailored Coat are unsurpassed. Linings and trimmings of all kinds, from Mormot and Muskrat on up to Mink. Special prices from $25 to $250

LOSS OF LIFE IN N. Y. FIRE TRAGEDY

Twenty-Five People Either Burned or Suffocated

Desperate Struggles of Victims to Escape Caused Many Suffocations—Tragic Find of Five Bodies in a Heap—Men Gripped so Hard to Pass Others that They Drew Blood.

New York, Nov. 2.—Twenty-one men, three women and a ten-months-old baby, met death either by suffocation or burns in a fire early yesterday in the five-storey tenement at No. 426 Eleventh avenue, which the police and coroner believe to have been of incendiary origin. Some of the peculiar features of the disaster are that the fire was practically extinguished in 20 minutes, that the police could learn of but one person being injured, other than those who lost their lives, and the property loss was only $7,000. The dead are mostly Italians. The only person injured, so far as can be learned, is Mary Jane Quinn, 47 years old, who was burned about the face and hands, and severely bruised by leaping from the second floor to the ground.

In several apartments in the tenement Hallowe'en parties were in progress and the guests at these added greatly to the number of persons in the house and increased the crush to escape. Although the building was plentifully provided with fire escapes, front and rear, escape by this means was cut off a few minutes after the fire started by the bodies of the dead, which became wedged in the openings leading to the ladders. The fire had been burning some minutes before it was discovered. It had started in the basement, and, rushing upward, had attacked the stairway, making egress in this direction impossible. The building from the third to the fifth floor was gutted.

At windows, front and rear, bodies of men and women were jammed, showing that the desperate struggle to escape had been the cause of many suffocations. Perhaps the most tragic the firemen found was on a bed alongside a window at the rear of the fourth floor, where the bodies of five men lay. Each had clutched the man next to him in an endeavor to push him aside in order to reach the fire escape outside. The features of the men were distorted, some with rage, others with agony, and in two instances the men had gripped each other so hard that blood had been drawn.

On the third floor were found the bodies of Maculeta Deresy and her baby. The mother had crawled to the front window and had succeeded in grasping the sill when she was suffocated. In her arms lay the body of her child.

When the firemen reached the scene, flames were bursting through the roof, and the heartrending screams of women and the curses of men filled the air. Many daring rescues were made by the firemen, who at times had to use violence in their attempts to quiet the panic-stricken human beings, struggling in vain attempts to reach safety. One fireman climbed a ladder to the second floor, and then mounted to a fourth floor window, which was filled with a wedge of people, each person fighting to get out. He struck the heads of all the men he could see with his fist and they fell back. He then handed down to the firemen on ladders below three women and a baby. Another fireman performed a similar feat, and rescued two girls from an upper storey.

Life nets played a principal part in the work of rescue. The firemen dropped men and women, dead and alive, from one floor to another, and finally the men standing on scaling ladders on the first floor let them fall into the nets held by policemen and firemen, in the street.

AUSTRALIA'S TARIFF FIGHT.

Protectionists and Free Traders Divide on Bonus to Iron Works.

Melbourne, Nov. 2.—The Royal Commission of six protectionists and six free traders lately appointed to consider the proposal to establish iron works aided by a state bonus is evenly divided regarding the practicability or advisability of the scheme, and two reports have been issued.

The free traders do not believe that bonuses will permanently establish the industry, or that they are commercially necessary. They say that Canada's experience in connection with the payment of bonuses is discouraging.

The protectionists favor the proposal and recommend that if it is adopted the Government be empowered to purchase the industry after a certain period. They accuse the Canadian and American manufacturers of harvesting machinery of extortion, alleging that prior to the imposition of a federal tariff machines valued at $85 at the exporting port could not be procured in Australia under $300, owing to the operations of the American and Canadian ring.

STRENUOUS ENDEAVOR CHECKED.

Grand Trunk, However, Stopped by an Injunction and the Police.

Toronto, Nov. 2.—The Grand Trunk Railway Company endeavored to steal a march on the Toronto Street Railway on Saturday by putting in a diamond crossing over the car tracks on Front street between John and Peter streets without the knowledge or consent of the street railway people. Ewen McKenzie, however, was notified about noon, and at once took proceedings to stop the work by having James W. Bain of Laidlaw & Co. prepare an affidavit reciting that the Grand Trunk had not obtained proper authority to cross the tracks. This was signed by General Manager Keating and an ex-parte injunction was granted by Chancellor Boyd, restraining the company from proceedings with the work.

The restraining order was served on Foreman Ferguson, who was in charge of the gang of laborers, but he declined to recognize it and refused to discontinue the work. The police were then called in and compelled the cessation of work before the job was completed.

Captured in London.

London, Nov. 2.—(C.A.P.)—A soldier named Wilson, an ex-sergeant, major in the South African Constabulary, was offered the managership of a Canadian sheep ranch by one Miller, who said he would invest nine thousand pounds. He required a deposit as security, and Wilson changed twelve pounds into dollar notes of a Canadian Bank and agreed to forward from Winnipeg the guarantee of good faith. The police here jumped in and the captive was remanded to Bow street.

"BOYLE ROCHEISMS"

Amusing Mixing of His Metaphors by Sir William Harcourt.

MAY BE TRUCE FOR 2 YEARS

Sir William Harcourt and Mr. Asquith Speak Against Chamberlain's Scheme at Rawtenshall and Paisley, Respectively—Chamberlain Charged With Running Away and Hiding His Retreat.

London, Nov. 2.—Sir William Harcourt, speaking at Rawtenstall on Saturday in opposition to Mr. Chamberlain's proposals made a speech full of mixed metaphors, saying that Balfour's policy of retaliation and Chamberlain's scheme of preferential trade with the colonies made a two-card game, and that the Government was a dismasted vessel on a roving commission. It next became metamorphosed into a horse, then into a wolf in sheep's clothing and like unripe fruit. Chamberlain's scheme was a gospel of universal dearness in everything and could not prevail.

Mr. Asquith, speaking at Paisley, charged Chamberlain with running away and hiding his retreat under a cloud of rhetorical dust. It included invisible exports, and the statement that the export trade was stagnant was manifestly untrue. The shipping trade would suffer most by a change in the fiscal system, because German wages being lower, protection must be bad. Any attempt to interfere with the fiscal autonomy of the colonies would break up the Empire. Chamberlain's appeal that they start no new industry was a lopsided preferential, and would lead to heart burning among the colonies.

The Daily Mail styles this speech a very significant address for colonial agents on account of the ex-Colonial Secretary, pointing out that a closer bond of union was necessary to render secure the Imperial structure.

A Truce For Two Years.

London, Nov. 2.—There is some prospect of a truce in the fiscal campaign, at least within the Unionist party. The unexpected strength of Mr. Chamberlain's popular support has demonstrated to the free traders of both parties the danger of allowing the question to come to an issue in the early spring, as would happen according to the present trend of developments.

On the other hand, Mr. Chamberlain's followers do not desire a snap judgment from the country. They are sufficiently confident of the soundness of their doctrine to prefer the postponement of a general election for two years in order to get a well considered decision.

A proposal made to both sides by influential business men that the whole subject be referred to a royal commission has been received with considerable favor. It is represented by the proposers of this scheme that on a subject of such vast importance no detailed legislation should be adopted until there has been mature consideration by experts and a sufficient lapse of time to allow the business interests that would be affected to prepare to meet the new conditions.

Warships For Russia.

Berrlin, Nov. 2.—A despatch from St. Petersburg to The Lokalanzeiger, says Russia has decided to assign 14,000,000 rubles in addition to the regular naval budget for an increase of the fleet, and 3,000,000 rubles for the fortification of Port Arthur.

To Join Italy and Argentina.

Rome, Nov. 2.—Signor Marconi has announced that he will arrive there this week to supervise the work of erecting an extra powerful wireless station for the purpose of establishing communication between Italy and the Argentine Republic.

WATER-POWER PROPERTY TO BE DEVELOPED.

Kingston Capitalists Have Bought the Mississippi Falls.

From all over Ontario comes information that water power sites are being bought and electric power generated. This will assist in making the province a great manufacturing centre. A company of Kingstonians have secured control of the Mississippi Falls, 55 miles from Kingston, near the Kingston and Pembroke Ry. and contemplate developing the power. It is said that eight or ten thousand horse power can be easily obtained and can be marketed at $15 to $20 per horse power per annum. There is a fall of 85 feet.

GLASGOW MUNICIPAL TELEPHONE SERVICE.

Two years ago Turnbridge, Wells and Glasgow were pointed to as bright examples in Municipal Ownership of telephone service. A few months ago the former abandoned the attempt at giving a satisfactory telephone service and sold their plant to the National Company. Now reports are coming to hand of unsatisfactory results in Glasgow. "The Hallie," a Journal published in Glasgow, in its issue of September 9th, says:—

"The position of the Glasgow Corporation Telephone Department as disclosed by the published accounts for the past financial year, is proving a source of uneasiness to those ratepayers with a sound knowledge of finance. Nor have their fears been allaviated by the auditors' remarks, who, in issuing their report make it perfectly plain that things are not as they ought to be. They point out that no depreciation has yet been provided for, nor has any sum standing at the debit of preliminary and general expenses in capital account been written off out of revenue. In the matter of the sinking fund adequate provision has not been made, although, according to the auditors, the requirements of the Act of Parliament have apparently been complied with. Up till now certain management expenses, amounting in the aggregate to no small sum, have not formed a charge against revenue. Despite all this the committee who run the telephone department have the temerity to present the ratepayers with a financial statement showing a balance of several thousand pounds on the right side, and claiming that if the undertaking had been a jointstock enterprise there sult would have been that a dividend of five per cent. on the capital involved would have been paid. In this connection let it be pointed out that had the directors of a concern formed under the Companies Act put forward a balance sheet, such as the one under review, and declared a dividend, they would have laid themselves open to much the same charges as are confronting at present Mr. Whittaker Wright, of London and Globe Finance Company fame, in which undertaking the trusting shareholders lost all they had risked.

It is greatly to be feared that instead of getting out of the tangle the telephone department will land itself deeper into the mire, although this is a contingency apparently viewed with equanimity by those in control who, of course, have nothing to loose. It has been said that figures can be made to prove anything, and if there is one thing the balance sheet of the Corporation Telephone shows, it is that the ratepayers of Glasgow have been saddled with a white elephant as matters stand at present. Were the enterprise a success, apart from its financial aspect, there might be some hope, but unfortunately the service is falling far short of what it ought to be, having regard to its formation at a period when thet elephone business has been pretty well reduced to a fine art."

MISSISSAUGA INDIANS LOYAL TO THE CROWN.

Address Sent to His Excellency the Governor General.

Very Patriotic Document—The Letters Received in Reply From Lord Minto.

During Lord and Lady Minto's visit the Mississauga tribe of Indians of Hiawatha wished to present His Excellency with an address, expressing loyalty to the King and British Crown. Through some misunderstanding the official appointed by the band was not allowed to make the presentation, but instead forwarded the manuscript to His Excellency at Ottawa, from which place it was forwarded to the King.

The address was as follows:—

To His Excellency the Earl of Minto.

May it please your Excellency.

We the Indians of the Mississauga tribe, living at Hiawatha, Rice Lake, desire on this, our first opportunity of having a personal interview with your Excellency to express our loyalty to our great white father the King and to the laws of our country. Our forefathers fought and bled in behalf of the British Crown in token of their great love to their Sovereign. We beg to assure your Excellency that their sons are not less loyal in their attachment although they are now endeavouring to cultivate the arts of peace. We remember with great interest when the Prince of Wales, now King Edward VII, visited our reserve and that the words he spoke on that memorable occasion have been kept sacred in our hearts and shall live on and as an inspiration to patriotism. We desire to make known to his Majesty the sincere gratitude we feel towards him as our faithful king and towards his faithful representative for the constant and great interest which is manifested in the welfare of the Indian tribes of this great Dominion. We beg to congratulate your Excellency and Lady Minto on the fact that your present tour through this province has been distinguished by Providential blessing and protection by so many agreeable circumstances and by such universal tokens of loyalty and affection.

Finally, we pray God bless our noble and beloved King, and grant to him and to us, as his people, many years to come of continued peace and happiness under his gracious rule, and God bless your Excellency and Lady Minto and give you continued health and prosperity and all wisdom needful to your high place.

Signed on behalf of the Mississaugas of Rice Lake,

CHIEF PAUDASH,
JOHNSTON PAUDASH,
Secretary.

In reply the following letters were received.

Sir,—I am commanded by the Governor General to acknowledge the receipt with your letter of the 13th instant of an address to his Excellency from the Mississauga Indians of Hiawatha; and to convey to them through you his Excellency's thanks for the kind and loyal sentiments expressed in the address which His Excellency is very sorry not to have had the opportunity of receiving from the Indians in person.

His Excellency will not fail to inform the King of the dutiful and loyal references to His Majesty.

I have the honour to be, Sir, your obedient servant,

J. S. MAUDE, Major,
Governor General's Secretary.

Ottawa, July 3rd, 1903.

Sir,—The Governor General, having caused to be brought to the notice of the King the expressions of loyalty and devotion to his Majesty contained in the address of the Mississauga Indians of Hiawatha to his Excellency, has now received his Majesty's commands to communicate to the Indians his Majesty's thanks for the loyal and dutiful references to his Majesty.

I have the honour to be, Sir, your obedient servant.

C. J. JONES,
For Governor General's Secretary.

Ottawa, August 5th, 1903.

AGRICULTURAL PRODUCT.

The latest bulletin of the Dominion census is devoted to statistics concerning agriculture in Ontario. Some of the figures may impress the importance of Ontario's farming interest.

The total values of farm property in 1901 is returned as having been not far short of one thousand million dollars. The exact figure was $921,106,731, of which 58 per cent. was land value, 23 per cent, building, 6 per cent. implements and machinery, and 13 per cent. live stock.

In 1900 the value of the Ontario harvest and other agricultural, horticultural and live stock product was just under two hundred million —($192,866,303.)

Since that, every harvest has been better than the previous one, so that Ontario's annual agricultural product is now certainly not less than $250,000,000. This is new wealth each year —all of it that is not consumed as food in Ontario itself, to keep things going. It comes out of the ground. It is not largely a turn-over as a manufactured product is, where often merely one form of material is turned into another. The agricultural product is all a net addition to the wealth or working power of the people.

In these two hundred and fifty million dollar harvests can be seen reasons why this is a growing time with Canada.—Ottawa Journal.

CANADA AND IMPERIAL NAVY.

One wearies of the never-ending lucubrations of the small section of extremists who are forever clamoring in the newspapers, and out of them, about Canada contributing to the military and naval outfit of the Empire. Canada enjoys the protection which the British fleet gives her ocean commerce, and so does Holland; yet Holland does not contribute to the cost of maintaining the British navy, although she benefits more than Canada does; and the remark equally applies to Denmark. Australia has undertaken to pay a comparatively insignificant proportion of the cost of the British Australian squadron, but Australia needs the presence of a special fleet for her own protection in seas far distant from the Mother Land, whereas Great Britain would maintain a fleet in the North Atlantic whether Canada was British or not; and Australia is not obliged to maintain a military force along thousands of miles of frontier, with a powerful neighbour behind it, who might at any time become hostile. No other colony has made an effort to organize an army of 100,000 men.—Exchange.

A RECEPTION TO REV. DR. AND MRS. SYMONDS.

The New Rector Welcomed to Christ Church Cathedral.

Rev. Dr. Symonds and Mrs. Symonds have been tendered a reception to Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal, by the church wardens and congregation, and that the services of the Rector are being appreciated was made amply evident by the heartiness of the reception. The Synod Hall, where the reception was held, was handsomely decorated with flags and bunting, and the refreshment tablets were prettily arranged with vases of crimson carnations. As the guests entered they were received by the Vicar and Mrs. Symonds, and Rev. H. T. S. Hoyle and Mrs. Boyle. Mrs. Symonds was gowned in green, and wore a white hat, and Mrs. Boyle was in gray voile, with a white boa, And black velvet hat. Both ladies carried bouquets of roses. During the evening the orchestra played several selections.

His Grace Archbishop Bond, in his few words of welcome to Dr. Symonds and Rev. Mr. Hoyle, referred to the latter's marriage, saying that it would make him all the more popular with the congregation, and for this he congratulated him. He congratulated the people of Christ Church Cathedral in having such a vicar and assistant minister. His Grace said that the diocese of Montreal was a singularly social one, and full of friendship, and into this harmonious circle he most heartily welcomed both Dr. and Mrs. Symonds and Rev. Mr. Boyle and Mrs. Boyle.

Rev. Dr. Symonds said, in reply, that he sincerely hoped the congregation would continue to give him the support he required. He was convinced that his was the age when people had to work, and there was something in the church for every one to do.

ONLY A SUGGESTION.

But it has Proven of Interest and value to Thousands.

Common sense would suggest that if one wishes to become fleshy and plump, it can only result from the food we eat and digest, and that food should be albuminous or flesh-forming food, like eggs, beefsteak, and cereals; or in other words the kind which form the greater part of our daily bills of fare.

But the trouble is that while we eat enough, and generally too much, the stomach from abuse and overwork does not properly digest and assimilate it, which is the reason that so many people remain thin and underweight; the digestive organs do not completely digest the food forming beefsteak and eggs, and similar wholesome food.

There are thousands of such who are really confirmed dyspeptics, although they may have no particular pain or inconvenience from their stomachs.

If such persons would lay their prejudices aside and make a regular practice of taking after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, the food would be quickly and thoroughly digested, because these Tablets contain the natural peptones and diatase, which every weak stomach lacks, and by applying this want the stomach is soon enabled to reach its natural tone and vigour.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digest every form of flesh-forming food, meat, eggs, bread and potatoes, and this is the reason they so quickly build up, strengthen and invigorate thin, dyspeptic men and women and children.

Invalids and children, even the most delicate, use them with marked benefit, as they contain no strong, irritating drugs, no cathartic, nor any harmful ingredients.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the most successful and widely known of any remedy for stomach troubles because it is the most reasonable and scientific of modern medicines.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by every druggist in the United States and Canada, as well as in Great Britain, at 50 cents for complete treatment.

Nothing further is required to cure any stomach trouble or to make thin, nervous, dyspeptic people strong, plump and well.

FELL A THOUSAND FEET.

How Death Came to Workmen in a Dominion Colliery.

Halifax, Nov. 2.—Jack McDonald of Boulardcrie and David Macdonald of Harbor Boucho, were killed in Dominion No. 2 colliery Saturday evening. They were working on a staging at the bank head, 90 feet from the surface, when a signal was given to lower the cage into the pit, but instead the cage came up with terrible rapidity, over-turning the stage. Both men were hurled to the bottom of the shaft, a distance of 1,000 feet, and crushed beyond all human semblance. Both victims were about 25 years of age and unmarried.

ON THE MAYFLOWER

Mr. Aylesworth Interviewed on His Arrival in Boston.

IN THE PINK OF CONDITION.

Will Stand by the Dissenting Judgment Signed by Sir Louis Jette and Himself Until He Dies—Says the Award Was Not Made on Judicial Grounds —His Arrival in Toronto.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 2.—The Mayflower arrived yesterday afternoon from England just 12 hours late. A. B. Aylesworth, K.C., Toronto was on board, and declared he had had a pleasant voyage, though the weather had been rough at times. He is looking in the pink of condition. Asked to give a short statement of how the Alaskan award had been arrived at he replied: "The award was decided chiefly on the strength of Vancouver's history, as the treaty of 1825 was written in French. The point of the arbitration was the interpretation of crete and lisiere. The treaty of 1825 provided that the coast line conceded to Russia by Great Britain should be bounded by the top of mountains, but the signors did not know where the mountains lay. The United States contended there were no mountains, and Britain that there were. The award means a great loss to the merchants of Vancouver and Victoria, until a railway is constructed to Dawson. While the award will not affect the bonding privileges of the White Pass Railway, yet Canada has nothing north of the 55th meridian. The boundary should have run north of Four Islands in Portland Channel, and followed the mountains nearest the sea, crossing inlets deep enough to extend inland beyond the lisiere. Canada should have free entrance to her possessions. The lands conceded are worthless, except for their minerals and strategic location." Mr. Aylesworth will arrive in Toronto this morning at 9.40.

Stands by Minority Judgment.

On the two great issues of the inquiry, the location of Portland Channel and the existence of the mountains along the coast, the Canadians hold firmly to the view, previously expressed, that the award was not made on judicial grounds. On these points they respectfully and firmly disagree with the majority of the tribunal, and by their dissenting judgment Mr. Aylesworth says he will stand until he dies.

Resentment Growing.

London, Nov. 2.—(C. A. P.)—The Saturday Times prints an article from a special correspondent in New York, stating that Canadian resentment over the Alaska decision is growing, and Premier Laurier is unable to control those fomenting it. The New York correspondent says he discredits them, as it is obviously meant to disturb Imperial relations.

Canadian Bitterness.

London, Nov. 2.—(C.A.P.)The Daily Express gives prominence to the Canadian bitterness over the Alaska award as shown by Sir Wilfrid Laurier's open championship of an amendment to the constitution and the spontaneous feting of Jette and Aylesworth.

IN A NIAGARA FLUME.

Body of Frank M. Burns of Whitby, Ont., Recovered.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Nov. 2.—A body taken from the flume at the hydraulic canal has been identified as that of Frank M. Burns of Whitby, Ont. Burns came here a month ago to work for the International Paper Company. How he was drowned is not known. His brother, Fred, arrived Saturday night and will take the body home to Whitby. Frank Burns was a noted athlete in his native Canadian town.

China Paying Up.

Tien Tsin, Nov. 2.—the third instalment of indemnity to be paid by China to the United States, making a total to date of 75 per cent. of the amount agreed upon, was given to American representatives Saturday, and a promise was given to pay the remainder next December.

So far the British commissioners have received 50 per cent. of Great Britain's award and will possibly be paid an additional 10 per cent. in January.

Parcel Post-Treaty.

Washington, D.C., Nov. 2.—A parcels post treaty between the United States and Hong Kong, China, was agreed on Saturday, and will be formally drafted at once. It provides a maximum weight limit of four pounds six ounces.

Refugee Set Free.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 2.—Federal Commissioner Moores yesterday afternoon, in a long decision, released James Lynchehaun, the Irish refugee. He held the crime to have been of a political nature.

At Mercier's Tomb.

Montreal, Nov. 2.—Many thousands of people assembled yesterday afternoon around the tomb of the late Hon. H. Mercier, to assist in the decoration and to participate in the singing of the Librera.

Spanish Strike Ended.

Bilbao, Nov. 2.—The miners' strike has ended and work will be resumed to-day. The settlement probably prevented another serious conflict.

Car of Powder Exploded.

Crest Line, Ohio, Nov. 2.—A car of powder exploded here last night, wrecking nearly 400 cars.

Whole Cabinet Resigns.

Santiago de Chile, Nov. 2.—The entire Chilian Cabinet have resigned.

Muddy Complexion.

Pale, sallow, yellow skin tells of a torpid, sluggish liver and impurities in the blood which will be entirely removed when Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are used. This great medicine awakens the action of the liver, invigorates the kidneys and regulates the bowels. As a result digestion is improved, bodily pains disappear and the health is benefitted in every way.

Not a minute should be lost when a child shows symptoms of croup. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears will prevent the attack. It never fails, and is pleasant and safe to take.

OVERCOME WITH GRIEF.

Miss Eva Booth Could Not Be Near Part of the Funeral.

New York, Nov. 2.—Funeral services over the remains of Emma Booth-Tucker, who was recently killed in a railroad wreck, were held yesterday in Carnegie Hall. The hall was crowded. The services were conducted by Col. J. Higgins, chief secretary of the Salvation Army in America. Commander Booth-Tucker knelt sobbing at the bier during part of the ceremony. Commissioner Eva Booth was to have spoken, but was overcome by grief. At the close of the services she rendered a prayer.

After the Carnegie Hall services, the remains were taken to the Salvation Army barracks, where the regular Sunday night memorial exercises were held. Colonel Higgins conducted the memorial, during which Miss Eva Booth was so overcome that she had to be taken from the hall and removed to her home. A cablegram from General William Booth of London was read at Carnegie Hall. He said:

"God bless you. My heart turns toward you with deep yearnings today. You share my sorrows, I feel you do. Let us then join in dedicating our remaining days, few or many, to the Christ and the souls for whom He died."

DEATH OF PROF. MOMMSEN.

Passed Quietly Away at His Home Early Sunday Morning.

Berlin, Nov. 2.—Prof Theodore Mommsen, the historian, died at Charlottenburg at a quarter before nine yesterday morning. He passed away without regaining consciousness. The change from life to death was observed only by his attending physician, who, with the Mommsen family watched all night at the bedside. The foreign ambassadors here, as well as a number of Cabinet Ministers, called at the Mommsen residence yesterday to enquire how the sick man was, and were informed that he was dead. Emperor William and various of the lesser German sovereigns have sent their condolences to the Mommsen family. Prof. Mommsen was born in 1817.

A VATICAN BURNING.

Hall of Inscriptions Burned—Pope on the Scene Himself.

Rome, Nov. 2.—A fire broke out at half past eight last evening in that portion of the Vatican containing the Hall of Inscriptions, where the Pope gives his audiences, and which is adjacent to the famous Pinacotoca, or gallery of pictures. The alarm caused much confusion and excitement in the Vatican. Strenuous efforts were made to control the flames, and the firemen of Rome were called to lend their help. At a quartor past eleven the fire was under control. No lives were lost. No idea of the damage can yet be obtained. The Pope came to the scene in person and remained until the arrangements to fight the fire were completed.

INSANE CANON PAGANO.

Shot Brother and Four Others—Naples Crowd Threatened Violence.

Napels, Nov. 2.—A sensation was caused in the city yesterday, when Cennaro Pagano, a canon of the cathedral and a favorite of Cardinal Frisco, the Atchbishop of Napel, wro chose him as musical director, suddenly became insane and shot his younger brother and wounded four other persons. Pagano fired from a window into a crowded piazza below. The people tried to lynch him, but he was protected by the police, who took him into custody with the aid of a picket of soldiers.

Shot Wife and Mother-in-Law.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 2.—A despatch from Three Rivers, Mich., says: "Clyde Lamb, after visiting saloons in this place, last night drove to the home of his mother-in-law, at Florence, near here, and calling his wife to the door, shot her to death. Mrs. Lamb's mother, hearing the shooting, came to the door, and she also was shot fatally. The shooting is the result of Mrs. Lamb's attempt to secure a divorce.

$35,000 Fire in West.

Arcola, Man., Nov. 2.—Fire started in Geddes and Hamilton's stables yesterday morning at 2.20, destroying the stable, Cornell & Hetherington's implement warehouse and contents and the Arcola Hotel. The barber shop owned by I. Dingman and a warehouse owned by W. H. Jones were torn down and checked the fire spreading. The total loss is about $25,000; insurance only about $8,000.

Col. Cody to Retire.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 2.—Colonel William F. Cody has written to a friend in this city stating that he would leave England on Oct. 26 for America. "I have made my last trip as a showman," writes Cody, "and will disband the Wild West when I arrive in America, and come back to dear old Wyoming to take up life as a private citizen."

Dr. Wood's

Norway Pine Syrup

Cures Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Croup, Asthma, Pain or Tightness in the Chest, Etc.

It stops that tickling in the throat, is pleasant to take and soothing and healing to the lungs. Mr. E. Bishop Brand, the well-known Galt gardener, writes:—I had a very severe attack of sore throat and tightness in the chest. Some times when I wanted to cough and could not I would almost choke to death. My wife got me a bottle of DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP, and to my surprise I found speedy relief. I would not be without it if it cost $1.00 a bottle, and I can recommend it to everyone bothered with a cough or cold.

THE TEMISKAMING RAILWAY.

Banks Lend $2,300,000 For One Year at Five Per Cent.

Toronto, Oct. 31.—The Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Commission has effected through the banks temporary loans aggregating $2,300,000, to run for upwards of a year from the 15th inst., at 5 per cent.

Tenders received for the $2,750,000 three and a half per cent., thirty-year, gold bonds of the commission guaranteed by the Government were, with one exception, which was for a very small amount, on a basis to yield the investor 4 per cent. These tenders were regarded as favorable compared with prices ruling at the time for other high-class securities, but they were not felt to be as good as the commission should ultimately obtain.

The members of the commission feel that, considering the bad bond markets now ruling, the arrangement made is an excellent one, affording as it does an option of marketing the bonds at the most favorable period.

The plan adopted by the commission provides for existing indebtedness and also for the financial requirements for a considerable period ahead.

MANITOBA'S PREMIER.

Roblin Says Award should Be Subject to Ratification.

Montreal, Oct. 31.—Premier Roblin of Winnipeg, who arrived here yesterday, was asked if there was any feeling in Manitoba in regard to the Alaskan boundary award. "There is no other feeling than one of disappointment. I am convinced that criticism of the award comes from people who never spent five minutes reading the data and studying the maps, consequently there can be no other feeling than that of disappointment at not getting what we wanted. I think, however, it was a mistake on the part of the Dominion Government subject to the ratification of Parliament not to have insisted that the findings of the commission should be ment."

VOTED $52,000 FOR MISSIONS.

W.M.S. Makes Appropriations, Re-Elects Officers and Concludes.

Toronto, Oct. 31.—The Board of Managers of the Methodist Woman's Missionary Society ended its session yesterday. The morning's work consisted mainly of appropriations to the various fields: Japan, $22,885; China, $9,800; French work, $7,559.55; Indians in the Northwest, $7,952; Chinese and Japanese in British Columbia, $1,751.40; Literature Department, $1,200; Missionary Outlook, $75; Palm Branch, $75; scholarships in the Deaconess' Home, $100; lumber for new building at Korfu, $1,000; People's Mission at Winnipeg, $400. A total of $52,988.

The afternoon was taken up with the election of officers, which resulted in a re-appointment of last year's staff. The next meeting of the board will take place at Napanee in 1904.

RIFLED THE ROYAL MAIL.

James Lomas Confessed When Confronted by P.O. Officials.

Toronto, Oct. 31.—A decoy letter landed James Lomas in jail yesterday. He is charged with rifling the royal mail. Just how much stealing he has been guilty of the department is not certain, but several lost letters containing money have been traced to him. Inspector Henderson said that the prisoner had confessed. Marked money stolen from the letters was found on him.

Startling Revelations.

It frequently happens that people suffer for years from kidney derangements without knowing the cause of their backaches, aching limbs and other bodily sufferings. Suddenly the truth is revealed to them that they are the victims of serious kidney disease and in imminent danger. There is no remedy that gives such prompt and lasting relief for every form of kidney disease as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are positively effective even in the most chronic cases.

Parks Is Guilty.

New York, Oct. 31.—Sam Parks, the walking delegate, charged with extorting $500 from Tiffany's, was found guilty. The jury was out twelve minutes and took two ballots. On the first ballot they stood eleven to one in favor of conviction and on the second ballot for conviction.

Lowell, Mass., Oct. 31.—The accidental poisoning of eleven inmates at the State Hospital at Tewksbury with belladonna Tuesday night has been made the subject of a searching investigation.

ARRIVAL OF MR. C. ROBINSON.

Decline, However, to Discuss Result of Alaskan Commission.

Toronto, Oct. 31.—Christopher Robinson, K.C., arrived from London yesterday, via New York. As the Canadian counsel for the Alaskan Commission, his arrival was awaited with much interest, second only to that of Mr. Aylesworth, who will probably reach Toronto Monday morning.

Mr. Robinson expressed his pleasure at getting back, and was pleased to discuss anything except the decision of the arbitration. He declared it would not be fair to all concerned to submit to an interview along that line. Incidentally he mentioned that he thought some parts of Lord Alverstone's answer to the second question before the commission, as published in a New York paper, must have been omitted. He had seen it, and was impressed in this way. As counsel for the Canadian commissioners, he could not express any opinion on the verdict nor the negotiations.

When Mr. Sifton Sails.

London, Oct. 31.—The Campania sails to-day with Hon. Clifford Sifton, the Canadian Minister of Interior, and other Canadians of the Alaskan boundary commission.

WORK OF THE CONFERENCE.

Y.W.C.A. Members Listen to Satisfactory Reports and Instruction.

Toronto, Oct. 31.—Department reports were read at the morning session of the Y.W.C.A. Convention yesterday, the treasurer, Miss M. A. Blackburn, reported the receipts to be $3,330 and the expenditures $3,214. The national student secretary, Miss S. Little, reported on her visitations to the various colleges and institutes and Miss A. C. Macdonald on Y.W.A.C. work in cities. In the afternoon sectional conferences were held.

The evening meeting was held in Association Hall with His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor in the chair. Devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. Sangster and Rev. Canon Welch, after which Lady Algernon Coote of the Central Y.W.C.A. Committee of England delivered the greetings of that section of the Association. "The World's Student Christian Federation" was the subject of a strong address by John R. Mott.

Business of the association will come up for discussion to-day.

Strike Complete.

Susquehanna, Pa., Oct. 31.—The strike of the Erie Railroad's union boilermakers and their helpers in all of the shops of the system between New York and Chicago is now complete. The men left in the roundhouses of the various shops to do "hurry" repair work were called out by the union yesterday. Several hundred men are involved. The officials of the company refuse to take back the recently discharged men, and give the entire force shorter hours.

Wheat Rots on Ground.

Topeka, Kan., Oct. 31.—The farmers of Rush County, which harvested 4,000,000 bushels of wheat, must be content to see 500,000 bushels rot on the ground. It was said yesterday that it is impossible to get cars to ship the wheat. The farmers hauled the grain to the railway station and, finding the elevators full, were compelled to dump it on the ground.

MATTHEWS CO'S NEW PLANT A VALUABLE ONE.

Brantford Property Cost $150,000 and got at a Bargain.

Notice has already been taken in these columns of the fact that the Geo. Matthews Company, of Peterborough and Hull, had purchased a packing plant in Brantford. Some additional information in reference to it is gained in the following, taken from the Ottawa Free Press:—"The George Matthews Company, Limited, have purchased the property of the Farmer's Co-operative Packing Company, including their extensive buildings and plant at Brantford. The plant was equipped in 1900 at a cost of about $150,000, and under the management of an able firm will become one of the largest exporting plants in Canada. On Thursday the deal was completed at Brantford.

"Mr. Albert Matthews, of Ottawa, has been in Brantford several times during the past few months, and it was he who conducted and consummated the deal, which is one of the most important industrial ventures of late years.

"It will not in any way interfere with the growth and progress of the big Matthews factory in Hull, as each plant draws its supply from adjacent territory.

"As yet the intentions of the purchasers have not been made public, but it is said that the price at which the property has been secured will permit of its removal to a more suitable location. The drainage problem in Brantford is one which will be very hard to cope with, whereas an alternative site has been offered where there are no such difficulties existing.

"The pork packing industry in Canada has grown to enormous proportions, and will continue to grow since it has come into the hands of men with modern ideas of systematising andutilising every particle of the meat products passing through their factories."

THE CHOIR BOYS TO REPEAT CONCERT.

St John's Boys Will Give a Second Concert on Nov. 13th.

It will be a pleasing announcement to the many who had the opportunity of attending the concert given by the St John's choir boys last year that it is, by request, to be repeated this month. It will be given on Friday, November 13th, in St. John's school room, and in addition to the programme presented last year, a number of specialties will be introduced, making the event even more enjoyable than that previously held. The boys have been preparing for this concert for some time now, and the excellence of the programme will surpass even that of last year. This date should be kept open for the choir boys.

A MANITOBA VISITOR

Mr. James Jewison of Poplar Point, Manitoba Re-visits Ontario.

Mr. James Jewison, of Poplar Point, Manitoba, a former resident of Baillieboro, is spending a month here after an absence, since his last visit, of six years. Mr. Jewison has during his thirteen years' residence in Manitoba, prospered, and now cultivates 320 acres of land. Of this about thirty acres are wooded with oak and poplar and he considers it the most valuable part of his farm. The poplar is different from that in Ontario, growing to a height of 40 feet, and of better quality for fuel, being about the quality of Ontario soft maple. It gives a great heat, but does not last so long as hard maple. Mr. Jewison's crops were not so good this year as usual, owing to drought, the yield of wheat per acre being only 25 bushels — the normal yield being 40 bushels. One year —1896—he reaped 48 bushels to the acre. He is within two miles of a railway, church and school. Mr. Jewison returns home in about ten days. He notieces a wonderful improvement in Peterboropgh since his last visit, six years ago.

NOTICE.

All those having accounts owing the late W. A. Sanderson, watchmaker and jeweller, will please call and settle their accounts at the store, on or before the 15th day of November, 1903, as after that date the estate will hand them over to their lawyers for collection. 3d101

SUCCESSFUL OPERATION.

Little Osborne Montgomery has Recovered and Returned Home.

Master Osborne Montgomery, of Hall's Bridge, Buckhorn, who was hurt on October 19th through the bursting of a lemonsour bottle which resulted in the loss of his left eye, has sufficiently recovered from an operation conducted by Dr. McCullough, eye specialist, who took the eye right out in order that the other might not be affected, as to be able to go home to-day. The operation, which was performed on Thursday, was very successful, and although the boy has lost the sight of his left eye he retains that of his right one.

A HALLOWE'EN SOCIAL ON SATURDAY AT Y. M. C. A.

Best Ever Held in the Building and Thoroughly Enjoyed.

The third of the Y.M.C.A. Saturday night socials for men was largely attended and was so original and unique in its character that it was no doubt the best ever held in the building. Mr. Robert Harding, who suggested the idea, which was an old time Hallowe'en, presided, and proved himself an adept in getting the pot boiling, and keeping it so. It was a night when the boys spoke out and confessed their pranks of other days. The lights were turned off, and in the gloaming of the fire which burned in the grate, the stories were told, and the major part of the programme conducted. Among those who took part were Messrs. Dormer, Fletcher, Cooper-Smith, Brenton, and F. H. Dobbin.

Mr. Brittain's reading, "Imogene," was given with good effect, and Mr. Haddow read Burns' description of Hallowe'en, in a "braid Scotch tongue." Mr. F. S. McCoy's instrumental was loudly applauded, also the cornet solos of Mr. Sidney Rogers. Mr. Fletcher secured the prize for the best spun yarn. Later in the evening seasonable refreshments were served. At the close Mr. Williamson expressed thanks to Mr. Harding and the other gentlemen who had contributed to make the evening such an enjoyable one.

A GOOD PROGRAMME

All Young Men of St. John's Congregation are invited to Attend the Guild Meeting This Evening.

All young men of St. John's congregation are asked to bear in mind the Guild meeting which will be held in the Sunday school room this evening at 8 o'clock and at which all are cordially invited to be present. The evening has been left in the hands of the Literary Committee, who, it is said will have a nice programme prepared, the chief feature of which will be an address by Mr. F. D. Kerr. Mr. Kerr is an eloquent and interesting speaker and all who have been thinking of coming up are assured of spending a delightful as well as profitable evening.

AN APPRECIATIVE FAREWELL SEND-OFF

Given by Members of Eko Camp to Departing Comrades.

A pleasant gathering was that in Long's parlours on Saturday night, when the members of Eko Camp met to bid farewell to three of their members who had announced their intention of leaving town. The guests were Messrs. Bernard Tate, Steven Boriadell and J. G. Tate, the two former having left this morning for Cuba. Mr. Bernard Tate has been living in that Southern clime for some time, and has been in town on a visit with friends. He is now on his return to Cuba where he is in the business of pineapple production. Mr. Boriadell, who is accompanying Mr. Tate, is very well known in town, having been connected with the staff of Robt. Fair & Co., for about six years, and is a popular young man in social circles. He is going to Cuba with the intention of residing there should the conditions meet his expectations. He will be sorely missed by his large number of friends here. Mr. J. G. Tate with Mrs. Tate will leave in about a week for the same Island, and will probably remain there during the winter. He will, however, still retain his business interests here. All of these gentlemen have been members of Eko Camp, and it was with the idea of giving them a pleasant send-off that the gathering was held Saturday night.

Those who surrounded the festive board were: Messrs. W. Higgins, president, who occupied the chair; R. P. Watt, secretary-treasurer, in the Vice-chair; and the following members of the Camp:—Manson Comstock, J M'Gemmill, Robt. Matchett, R Cotterell, Alf Smith, R M Glover, W Comstock, W C Ackerman, Herb. Gillespie, J Watt, Steven Boriadell, Jos. Gibson, Robt. Henderson, R H Elliott, J G Tate, Bernard Tate, and J Comstock. After the repast of oysters, etc., had been discussed, the chairman proposed the toast to "The King," which was honoured in the usual way. The toast to "Our Guests" was proposed by Mr. R. M. Glover, who spoke of the loss the Camp would sustain in the departure of the gentlemen in whose honour he was proposing the toast. The health of the guests was heartily drunk, after which each responded, speaking of the pleasant associations with the members surrounding the table in club life, and expressed regret at severing the ties so pleasantly associated. The gathering broke up before midnight by singing "Auld Lang Syne."

THE SOCIAL WORLD.

Interesting Personal Items Gathered by Reporters.

Messrs. Milne Hamilton and E. S. Clarry spent Sunday in Millbrook.

Mr. Bert Richardson, of McMillan & Maguire's was in Toronto over Sunday.

Mrs. J. J. Lynch is visiting in Lindsay the guest of Mrs. W. C. Baker.

Mr. Jas. Kendry, M.P., with Mrs. Kendry, of Toronto, spent Sunday in town.

Mr. A. W. Scriver, late of the Examiner staff, left to-day for Hastings where he will in future reside.

Friends will be glad to see Mrs. Henry Akey, of Sherbrooke street, around again after her recent illness.

Mrs. J. W. Fairhill and daughter, Almina Marriel, of Camplix, B.C., are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dorris, 112 Aylmer street.

In the list of graduates of the Toronto General Hospital Training School, the name of Miss Margaret Isabella Wood of Millbrook, appears.

Miss E. G. Elliott, a former graduate of General Hospital, Portland, Maine, sister of Mr. J. J. Elliott, of town, and is the guest of Mrs. R. H. Leary, Peterborough.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt was in Fenelon Falls last week, in connection with the induction of Rev. A. S. Dicensokn to St. John's church. Mr. Langfeldt preached the sermon.

Mrs. R. F. McWilliams will receive in her rooms, Bank of Commerce Building, 393 Water street, on Wednesday afternoon and evening and Thursday afternoon, November 4th and 5th.

Mr. W. A. Stratton, K.C., who has been ill for some months, is sufficiently recovered to return and spend a few days at home. Mr. Stratton left to-day for the West, and will on his return take passage for Europe, where he will spend the winter months, in Italy.

The many friends of Mr. C. W. Bell, of the Ontario Bank staff, of Montreal, will regret to learn of his confinement in the Western General Hospital, with an attack of typhoid fever. Fortunately it is not a severe case and yesterday's reports are encouraging for a speedy recovery.

Mrs. George A. Cox, says the Globe, gave a very large at-home on Saturday afternoon at her residence on Sherbrooke street. Mrs. Cox was assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Ames and Mrs. Davis, in the reception of her many friends, and Mrs. H. C. Cox, Mrs. E. W. Cox and Mrs. F. G. Cox were the kindest of hostesses in the tea room, which were profusely decorated with chrysanthemums and ferns, while the large drawing rooms had masses of American Beauty roses with palms and ferns displayed in every corner possible. Huge bowls of lilies of the valley made the air fragrant with their scent, and the splendid paintings beautifully lighted by the electric sconces added much to the brilliancy of the gathering.

REGIMENTAL ORDER

Issued by the C. O. To-day—Sergt.-Major Brittain's N. C. Officers' Class.

The following order has been issued by Lt.-Col. J. W. Miller, commanding the 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers:—

TO OPEN BUSINESS IN PORT ARTHUR.

Mr. Ed. Dawson Leaves for That Town to-day.

Mr. Ed. Dawson, who for many years has been connected with the Davis-Thompson Company, attending to the business of the Canadian Express Company, for which Company the former has the local agency, left to-day for Port Arthur, where he will engage in the dry goods business with his brother. News of Mr. Dawson's departure will be received with sincere regret by the many friends, that his pleasing and courteous manner has made, and he will carry with him the best wished of his friends for the success that his integrity and faithfulness deserve.

Mr. Dawson was for years one of the most consistent and valuable members of St. Paul's choir, and few members of that organization have done as much for its success as has Mr. Dawson, and although he has not been connected with the choir in an active way for about three years, the members of it will share in the universal regret at his leaving town.

For about twenty-five years Mr. Dawson has been a trusted employee of the Davis-Thompson Company, who, in losing his services will experience a decided loss.

The Board of Trade will hold an interesting public meeting to-morrow evening.

THE DEATH OF MRS. GUSTAVUS WOOD.

One of the Early Settlers Passed Away on Saturday.

After an illness of about seven weeks' duration resulting from a paralytic stroke, Mrs. Gustavus Wood, of Emily Township, died in the Nicholls Hospital on Saturday night, at the age of 90 years. Mrs. Wood had been in the hospital about two weeks, having been brought there from her home, and her condition was such that little hope was held out for her recovery.

The late Mrs. Wood was born in Ireland in the County of Sligo, and lived there until 1855 when she came to this country. She was married to a Mr. Richardson, by which marriage she was the mother of two sons, one of whom, Mr. T. M. Richardson, of Peterborough, is still living. Her first husband died in 1851, and in the interval between that date and her removal to Canada she engaged in teaching. She was married in 1859 to Mr. Gustavus Wood, of Port Hope, who survives her. They came to Emily Township shortly after their marriage and settled near the present site of Oowan's Bridge. It was then a vast forest, and a great many hardships were endured by them in common with other pioneer settlers.

The funeral took place this afternoon at 1 o'clock from the hospital to Omemee Cemetery.

MINISTERIAL MEETING

Held This Morning—Visitation of the Nicholls Hospital.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Ministerial Association this morning. Among the business on hand was a proposal to take up the visitation of the Nicholls Hospital, as carried on some time ago by the association. The proposal met with much favour and the following scheme for November was drafted:

Nov. 2—Rev. Dr. Torrance.
Nov. 9—Rev. J. P. Wilson.
Nov. 16—Rev. A. H. Brace.
Nov 23—Rev. W. L. Armitage.
Nov. 30—Rev. J. G. Potter.

A Chance of a Lifetime.

Rev. J. J. Rae said yesterday that he had heard Rev. Mark Guy Pearse, and that it was worth 50 cents to see him leeture, and much more to hear him—that it was a chance of a lifetime. Others who have heard him are equally enthusiastic. George street Methodist church on Friday night next. Tickets, 25 cents. 1d

Changed Hands.

Sing Lung, proprietor of the Chinese Laundry on George street, who has been in Peterborough for two years, leaves this week for Toronto, where he will reside in future. Lung One of Toronto has purchased the business and will continue to give as good satisfaction as the previous proprietor. 1d

ST. JOHN'S DEDICATION FESTIVAL YESTERDAY.

Twentieth Anniversary of the Restoration Service.

All Saints' Day Celebration Combined With the Dedicatory.

The original of the present church of St. John's was erected in 1835, at a total cost of £2,150. This served the purpose of the congregation till the year 1882, when the church was restored practically to its present condition, and the consecration service was held on All Saints' Day, Wednesday, November 1st. The services of the day consisted of a communion service at 8 o'clock, and a service at 11 o'clock, at which there was a very large congregation. The weather of that day was greatly similar to that of yesterday, though much warmer, and as genial as Indian summer could be. There was a large attendance of the local clergy including Rev. J. W. R. Beck, then, and for many years previous and after, Rector. The Lord Bishop of the diocese preached the sermon, taking for his text, Zachariah ii, 5, "The glory of this latter house shall be greater than that of the former." At an evening service, which was largely attended, Rev. J. W. Burke, of Belleville was the preacher.

Yesterday, the twentieth anniversary of the re-opening, and the sixty-seventh anniversary of the first opening of the church, was observed in the form of a Dedication Festival. There were three services during the day, an early celebration, service, with Holy Communion, at eleven, and a special evening service. At Morning Prayer the hymns were of a dedicatory character. The Rector, who conducted all the services, preached the sermon, his subject being the duties and obligations of Christian fellowship and mutual helpfulness.

In the evening the service was of a bright and gladsome nature, the musical portion of the service being of an exceptionally bright and excellent character. The hymns, to stirring musical settings, were sung with great spirit and devotional effect. The processional hymn, to the air of the Old Hundred, was particularly inspiring. The full choir was assisted by a very capable orchestra under the direction of Mr. Gliddon, choirmaster. The Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, both beautifully intoned, were Turner's. The offertory anthem was Maunder's, "O Worship the King," sung by the choir and congregation, the latter joining in two or three of the stanzas of this majestic hymn. The solo, taken by Miss Ruth Dawson, was sung with much taste and feeling. The sermon was preached by the Rector.

The preacher spoke from Romans 1st Chap., 7th verse:—"To all that be in Rome, beloved of God, called to be saints." After speaking of what is thought to be one of the most solemn Christian festivals, All Saints' Day, Rev. Mr. Davidson turned the thoughts of his hearers to a spiritual and saintly life, to which we are all called, and in being called we think of it as being something more than a nominal Christian. What is a Saint; what are we called to be? We conceive of a saint as only dwelling in the midst of holy surroundings, and cannot imagine him doing the everyday work of the world, and as we think of ourselves doing that work we say we cannot be saints. Yet there are earthly saints. There are men and women whose example on earth is writ down on the calendar of the mind's eye. As we look into the mists of bye gone years, it is the tender unselfish love of men and women, who did not triumph over their fellows, which enchains us now. In the kind of saintship which can be lived to-day and to which all are called, it is courage in men and tenderness in women which help to count. We are indebted to every manly man and womanly woman who have lived, but we are more indebted to those who have shown us how to live nearer to God. We are all called and there are many doors in this life which seem to be closed to many people, but the avenue to saintliness is open to all. The way is narrow but all can press in, not alone but by loving co-operation.

THE CHURCHES.

ALL SAINT'S CHURCH.

At the morning service at All Saints, in recognition of the day, the Rector, Rev. W. L. Armitage, in the sermon spoke of the communion of saints, from the text, Hebrews xi, 13, "These all died in faith." In the evening a special sermon to men was given on "True Manhood," from the text, "Quit you like men." The anthem was, "What are these?" by Stainer, and was sung at both services. In the evening the male quartette sang at the offertory, the old hymn song, "Where is my Wandering Boy?"

CHARLOTTE STREET CHURCH.

At Charlotte street church yesterday morning, Rev. Jas. Mathewson, of Toronto, preached. The evening service was taken by the pastor, Rev. W. J. Jolliffe. The musical service was of an enjoyable nature, the morning anthem being "Just as I Am." During the offertory, Miss Clara Belleghem sang very sweetly, "A Song of Trust." In the evening the anthem was "There is a Holy City," A soprano solo in it being taken by Miss Belleghem. Mrs. T. D. MacGregor sang a solo, "There is a Green Hill," which was thoroughly appreciated.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST.

The pulpit in the George street church yesterday was filled by Rev. J. J. Rae of Oshawa, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. J. P. Wilson, who was preaching anniversary services in the Simcoe street church, Oshawa. Mr. Rae's sermons were much enjoyed. The music was an enjoyable feature. In the morning the anthem was Burridge's "Fear Not, O Land," while at the offertory, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," was sung unaccompanied. The evening anthem was "O Lord, How Manifold," by J. Barnby, "Saviour, Breathe an Evening Blessing," was very effectively rendered. Mrs. P. A. Kerr took the organ, her playing been much enjoyed.

Tally-cards of all kinds—the newest is "Point Euchre." Playing cards from 5 cents up, and all the new games at Sailsbury's.

SERIOUS STRIKE AT NIAGARA

Affecting the Entire Construction Work of Power Companies.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 2. — A strike occurred this morning effecting the entire work of construction of the three big Canada Power Companies, employing about 1,500 man, being the result of the contractors reducing the wages of the men from $1.75 to $1.50 per day. The reduction principally effected the muckers Italian and Hungarian labourers. About 40 per cent. of the men refused to go to work for the new per diem wage, and went out. On one contract the men refused to go out, whereupon men from other works swooped down on them, pelted them with rocks and chased them off the works.

LABRADOR BRANCH OF DEEP SEA MISSION.

The Local Secretary Throws Light on its Objects and Aims.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Miss Greenshields, of Toronto, the Hon. Sec.-Treas. for Ontario of the Labrador Branch of the Deep Sea Mission gave a very interesting address before a number of the ladies of Peterborough, a short time ago upon the object of the Mission, the work being done and the need for help. She put the latter so strongly that before the meeting adjourned it was resolved that a cot should be maintained by the ladies of Peterborough in the new hospital—St. Anthony—which is being erected on the coast of Newfoundland. This will cost fifty dollars per year. As very little seems to be known of this mission I think it better to make use of the press in order that the general public may have some idea of the mission and its requirements.

This mission began its career fourteen years ago in London, England.

The mission is international. All mission workers are voluntary, with the exception of the medical staff.

Its object was to reach the thousands of fishermen connected with the fishing fleets in the north sea. These fleets are permanently at sea, summer and winter. Exposed to constant danger, liable to terrible accidents, cut off from all the blessings of the land thousands of men and boys lived out their perilous and cheerless lives with no effort to help them, until this Mission commenced its operations.

It commenced its work by sending out one small fishing vessel to labour amongst the fishermen.

To-day the mission fleet consists of eleven fine vessels. Four of these are hospital ships, with a properly qualified staff of medical men. These ships are the churches, temperance halls, club rooms and floating hospitals of the north sea. Beds at the London Hospital are also secured for special cases sent home from sea, while branches are at work among the Scotch, Irish, Manx, and Dutch fishermen.

In addition to the spiritual and medical work, much other work had to be done. Among many families the poverty was so great that they were forced to face the inclemencies of a long Arctic winter in miserable hovels, both naked and hungry. Owing to the precarious nature of their sole source of revenue to the wretched "truck system," which everywhere prevails, to the isolated condition of the people with the consequent high price of goods, and to the relentless barrenness of the soil, most piteous cases of absolute destitution were continually being met with.

To cope with this terrible state of things Christian friends, interested in the work, have each year collected bales of warm clothing, and these have been distributed by the nurses and doctors.

I shall be pleased to accept any contributions for the Peterborough Ladies' Cot at St. Anthony's Hospital. There is a magazine published quarterly at 40c per year which tells of the work done by the different branches of the mission. I hope to get a good many subscribers for this magazine as it is one way of helping the mission.

GOING TO INDIA.

Mr. Walter Turnbull Soon Leaves to Take up Missionary Work.

Mr. Walter Turnbull leaves shortly to enter the mission fields of India, where his brother is at present engaged in the same work.

Last night before a large audience of the Bethany Mission Mr. Turnbull gave an interesting and thoughtful address on mission work.

He will in all probability work in the province of Oudh, where the need of such help is very keenly felt, missionaries, when compared to the vast population being very scarce and having too large a field of work. The Examiner, as well as Mr. Turnbull's many friends, will wish him every success in the philanthropic work which he is about to undertake.

ENORMOUS DEMAND FOR DR. CHASE'S REMEDIES.

148,575 Boxes Sold During September in the Dominion of Canada Alone.

Making a Grand Total of 1,783,800 Boxes in One Year.

Estimating the population of Canada at 5,500,000, and allowing five persons to each family, this figures out more than one and a half boxes for each household throughout the entire Dominion.

There would scarcely need to be better evidence as to the esteem in which these great family medicines are held by the people.

And why this wonderful confidence in Dr. Chase?

Because of his extraordinary ability and skill as a practising physician; because of his integrity and honesty of purpose as a man; because of the reliability of the world-famous receipt book, and because of the proven merit of the great family medicines which he so generously placed on the market, so that all might benefit by his experience and the result of his life work as healer of the sick.

The manufacturers of Dr. Chase's remedies have such confidence in these medicines that each one was introduced by means of free samples. Hence the wonderful popularity of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, Ointment, Nerve Food and other preparations.

Just now Dr. Chase's Backache Plaster is being introduced into Canada. They are sold by dealers at 25 cents each, but in order that all may test their extraordinary control over pains and aches of all kinds we will send one plaster free of charge to anyone who will enclose five cents in stamps or silver and mention this paper. Edmanson, Bates & Co., 32 Colborne street, Toronto.

Violin and Mandolin.

There have been many enquiries about the classes in violin and mandonlin, which start at the Y. M.C.A. on Wednesday, Nov. 4th, under Mr. Sidney Rogers' leadership. It should have been stated before that the classes will be divided into two sections, one for beginners, and the other for advanced pupils.

UNCLE SAM'S ELECTIONS.

Eleven States Have Exciting Contests For Various Officers Tuesday.

New York, Nov. 2.—Elections will be held in eleven states to-morrow. Full state tickets are to be voted for in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maryland, Ohio, Kentucky, Iowa and Mississippi, while in New York, Pennsylvania, Nebraska and Colorado, a justice of the upper court, regents of the state university, or minor state officers are to be chosen. Municipal officers are to be selected in Greater New York, San Francisco and Salt Lake. The most interesting contests are in Greater New York between Tammany and the fusion forces, the fierce battle in Maryland and the effort of Tom Johnson to save his political life in Ohio. Indications point to a close race in Greater New York and both sides are claiming victory. In Maryland the battle is between the national administration and Senator Gorman. Chairman of state committees have made their final statements and all parties are ready for the ballot.

SCHWAB AND OTHERS ROASTED.

Receiver Smith Characterizes Organization of U.S. Shipbuilding Co.

New York, Nov. 2.—Sensational allegations of misstatement, falsification, swindle and fraud in the organization and floatation of the United States Shipbuilding Company, are contained in the report of Receiver James Smith, jr., of the Shipbuilding Company, made public to-day.

The report concludes with the recommendation that suit be brought against all persons who received stock of the company without paying full value therefore, including the promotors of the constituent plants, and Charles M. Schwab, to recover from them such amount as in necessary to pay the debts of the company in full.

Receiver Smith recommends the sale of subsidiary plants not now in operation, to avoid further loss by depreciation. The organization of the company is characterized as an "artistic swindle," that the figures showing the value of plants and earning powers was affected by "dummies," that for property worth $12,-441,516 the company paid $67,-997,000, that millions in stock and bonds were given to a few persons and that the earnings of the Bethlehem plant were withheld in a deliberate attempt to wreck the United States Shipbuilding Company.

AIKENS, TRAIN HAND, KILLED.

Wreck on London Branch of G.T.R. Near St. Mary's.

St. Mary's, Nov. 2.—A wreck occurred on the London branch of the G.T.R. about a mile south of here, Saturday night. A freight train in charge of Conductor McQuade climbing the grade at the Horse Shoe Quarry ran into several cars of stone in charge of Way Freight Conductor Frost. Fireman Aikens of Windsor, was killed and Engineer Morrison received injuries from which he is not expected to recover. His leg was badly fractured. Both were of Conductor McQuade's train. Fireman Aiken's wife arrived a few hours after his death and now awaits the conclusion of the coroner's inquest to-day before removing the body to her home in Windsor. Engineer Morrison has been taken to his home in Sarnia.

Chinese Greatly Disturbed.

Pekin, Nov. 2.—The Chinese Government is greatly disturbed at the re-occupation of Mukden, the capital of Manchuria, by Russian troops. The Foreign Office is appealing to friendly foreign legations for help and advice, admitting its own helplessness in the matter.

Line Up of Nations.

London, Nov. 2.—The talk of a new triple alliance of Great Britain, France and Italy, with the United States in the background, has become so rife that a revival of the league of the three emperors has been suggested in opposition to it.

Nail in His Brain.

Applehill, Nov. 2.—George Sterling, a fifteen-year-old boy, was fatally injured Saturday while shooting at pigeons. The breech of his home-made gun flew out and buried a wire nail in his skull and brain.

Once More, the Level Crossing.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 2.—Samuel Hunkin, aged 55 years, a contractor, well known throughout the country, was instantly killed last night, and a woman companion, Miss Mattie Fitzsimmons, so badly injured that she died while being taken to a hospital. While attempting to cross the tracks their rig was struck by the Erie flyer.

Sarsaparilla "Floors Them."

"Of all the drinks asked for at this counter," said the soda water clerk, "these doctored up with sarsaparilla are most frequently mispronounced. Not one person in ten speaks that word correctly. Most people call it either 'sasaprilla' or 'sasaprella.'

"Even people who know how to spell the word don't seem to be able to twist their tongues around the combination of syllables and make 'sarsaparilla' out of them. They may be able to pronounce words much harder without a stammer, but 'sarsaparilla' floors them every time."

A Creature From the Fire.

Aristotle believed that some creatures were capable of supporting life even though confined to the devouring element. He says: "In Cyprus, when the manufacturers of chalcitis (lime) burn it many days in the fire, a winged creature something larger than a great fly is seen emerging from the stone and leaping and walking about in the fire. These creatures perish immediately upon being removed from the furnace."

THEIR AUTO ELOPEMENT

By IZOLA L. FORRESTER

...Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure...

"We can't do a blessed thing," cried Daisy hopelessly. "Something broke when that last bump came, and we may be here in the road for hours before help comes, and I expect to see papa whis around the corner any minute. It's dreadful."

"Don't cry, sweetheart," said Ralph.

"You'll make your nose red, Daisy," added Mrs. Lambert merrily, "and then what a moist, forlorn little bride you'll be. Stop petting her, Ralph, and talk sense. Can't you fix it?"

Carewe shook his head despairingly.

They were on the New York and Boston pike. Here and there an apple tree lay in the sunlight like a great pink and white puffball. The grassy footpath along the pike was splashed with bright gold where dandelions and buttercups elbowed each other, and through the bars of a pasture on the right a couple of red and white calves were watching them with lazy interest. Mrs. Lambert drew in a deep breath of appreciation.

"Isn't it lovely?" she said. "Daisy, sit up and look at your wedding day. I see a little white spire over the top of those hazel bushes, Ralph."

Carewe climbed to the top of the stone wall for a survey.

"By Jove, Aunt Ruth, you're right!" he called gayly. "Come on, sweetheart."

Daisy flushed rosily as the eager, boyish arms lifted her to the ground, and she cast a half frightened glance down the smooth, dusty road. Any minute at all the judge might come. He was sure to follow, and they were only a few miles from home.

Mrs. Lambert was looking at her green and gold chatelaine watch.

"You ought to be back here in half an hour," she said, her blue eyes as full of excitement and happiness as Daisy's. "I'm not a bit afraid to stay here and face the judge. You two children run for the white spire, and heaven bless you both."

"Aunt Ruth, did any one ever tell you you were an angel?" exclaimed Ralph, giving her hand a clasp that parted the seams of her neat tan gloves.

"Several," laughed Mrs. Lambert. "but all selfishly. One is never an angel until one is a guardian angel. An impersonal angel is not recognized, I have found. If you should happen to run across a village blacksmith and can think of earthly things you might tell him there is work for him on the pike."

She sank back among the cushions of the auto with a sigh of sheer content and watched them run cross lots hand in hand, trampling the dandelions and buttercups. They were such precious children, and it was the first elopement she had ever shared! As for the judge? She leaned back her head and looked up at the blue sky through half closed eyes and smiled. The judge really did not matter in the least.

They had been neighbors for twenty years, the Nortons and Carewes, and it was at Mrs. Lambert's that the judge's only daughter had met and loved her nephew, Ralph. He was a good boy, and there was no reason why he should not woo and win Daisy. But the judge had thought differently, and Ruth Lambert, sitting alone in the sunshine and fragrance of the May-time, wondered whether any old preying bitterness over his own defeat twenty years before had influenced the judge against Ralph's suit.

It had been the same story. Jack Norton had wooed her against her father's wishes. He was a student then, with only his name and grit to win his way, and she had not known how much she cared until he had gone out of her life. If he had been brave and dared all like Ralph—

She sighed and roused herself from the day dream. Down the road a light cloud of dust appeared, and Mrs. Lambert sat erect when she saw it. Before she could more than settle herself back comfortably among the cushions the other auto was abreast of her, and she heard the judge give a sharp order to the chauffeur to halt. He was frowning and warm as he bent toward her and raised his cap.

"How do you do, Mrs. Lambert?"

"Very well, thank you." Mrs. Lambert smiled at him graciously.

"You have had an accident?"

"Just a slight one, I believe. I have sent for help."

"Ah!" The judge's tone was all comprehensive. "Carter, get down and see what's the trouble."

The chauffeur obeyed.

"Water run out, sir," he said briefly. "Got a little strain also. Some one running it who wasn't experienced."

"I shouldn't wonder," said the judge grimly. "Go hunt some water somewhere."

When the man was out of hearing he turned to Mrs. Lambert, and there was war in his glance.

"Perhaps you will kindly tell me where my daughter is, Mrs. Lambert?"

Mrs. Lambert pointed one dainty, gloved hand in the direction of the white spire.

"Right over there, judge," she said sweetly. "And Ralph is with her. They have gone to be married."

There was a dead silence except for the clear, sweet song of a bluebird hidden somewhere among the blossoms. Mrs. Lambert stole a look at the judge. He was staring down the narrow vista of the pike. There was the same clear cut, purposeful profile and thick, wavy hair that had belonged to Jack Norton. The years had only added silver to the hair and strength to the profile. He turned his head, and their eyes met. Some electric spark of thought affinity, long dead, seemed to flash to life. The color slowly rose in Mrs. Lambert's cheek. The judge's voice was almost gentle when he spoke at last.

"Is it quite fair to me? She is all I have, Ruth."

"But she loves him so." Mrs. Lambert leaned forward eagerly, with tender, pleading eyes. "Ralph is a good boy. You don't know how they love each other."

The judge's mouth relaxed. Mrs. Lambert was a charming counsel for the defense.

"You aided and abetted them, Ruth."

"All the time," confessed Mrs. Lambert happily. Her voice was lower as she added hesitatingly, "It did not seem right that they should suffer through any animosity which you bear to me."

The judge was already standing in the road beside her, and in his eyes was the earnestness that had been in Jack Norton's.

"I know what you mean," he said. "But it is not that. There is no bitterness, Ruth; only"—he paused and took courage from the bluebird—"only regret for me. Daisy is a child"—

"She is eighteen," said Mrs. Lambert.

"And I thought the boy a trifle overbold and precipitate."

"It is a good quality."

The judge looked up with a sudden thought.

"Perhaps if I had possessed a little of those qualities years ago I might have met with his success."

She smiled down at him through eyes that sparkled with tears.

"Perhaps you might have, Jack."

A figure appeared on the hillside. It was the chauffeur with water. The judge laid his hand firmly over the one in the tan glove that was nearest to him.

"Am I too late, Ruth?" he said gently. "May we not seek the white spire yet?"

When Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Carewe came cross lots they found the chauffeur alone.

"Where is papa?" asked Daisy. And there was no fear in her voice, only joy and pride and new fledged dignity.

"Mrs. Lambert and he have gone on down the pike together," said the chauffeur. "They left word to you to take this auto and go where you pleased, but not to follow them."

The bridal pair looked in each other's eyes and smiled.

"Let's go home," said Daisy.

And when the judge and his wife came by an hour later only the crushed flowers and scattered dust bore witness to what had been, but among the blossoms somewhere the bluebird was still stinging to its brooding mate.

How We Locate a Sound.

The detection of the direction of a sound by the sense of hearing is, like the rapid focusing of the eye on objects at different distances, one of those instinctive operations which are continually done without any conscious method.

Sound waves traverse the air as ripples stir the water, and the ear, by experience, acquires some slight power of detecting the direction in one case, as the eye does with far greater accuracy in the other. Usually we unconsciously receive assistance from other senses as well. Often we fail to locate at once some hidden source of sound, such as a singing bird, and then our instinctive ingenuity displays itself.

The intensity of sound is, of course, by no means so great behind a screen as in front of it, and every one carries with him the screen of his own head, which may prevent a particular sound from being heard so well by one ear as by the other. If, then, the head is turned until this inequality disappears, and both ears hear equally well, we know that we must be directly facing or turned from the source of sound, and our previous rough idea of its whereabouts generally prompts us to face it.

When Linen Is Translucent.

The whiteness and opacity of dry linen, as of writing paper, are due mainly to the fact of repeated reflexions at the surface, so that the light is wasted in these reverberations before it can reach to any depth.

The body of linen is a network of transparent fibers not in optical contact, which intercept the light by repeatedly reflexing it. Now, if the interstices of these fibers are filled by a body of the same refractive index as the fibers themselves the reflexion of the surface is destroyed and the linen is rendered more transparent. Water does this; hence linen when wet is darker, but more translucent, just as is the oiled paper used for tracings by architects and engineers.

The same holds good with ordinary glass and ground glass, the repeated reflexions of the latter making it far less transparent. To a similar cause are due the whiteness and opacity of snow, of salt and of pulverised glass.

The Logical Waitress.

At a London restaurant the other day a middle aged woman entered the place and, taking a seat at one of the tables, carefully scrutinized the bill of fare. She concluded to try some ice cream pudding. After it had been served she looked it over carefully and, calling the waitress back, said:

"Do you call this ice cream pudding?"

"Yesanm, and it's very nice too."

"But where is the ice cream?"

"Oh, that's only the name given that peculiar make of pudding. We are making a specialty of it. I'm sure you'll like it when you taste it."

"It seems to me that you ought to give ice cream with it as long as you say it is ice cream pudding."

"We don't give cottages with cottage pudding," quickly replied the witty waitress. This retort convinced the middle aged woman, and she ordered a second plate.—London Telegraph.

Her Lost Opportunities.

Mrs. Noolywed—And if I had really thrown you down then would you have given me up?

Noolywed—I should say not. I would have kept right on trying to win you even if you had thrown me over half a dozen times.

Mrs. Noolywed—My, what a lot of fun I missed!

Rank Heresy.

He—So the engagement is broken off?

She—Yes. He told her he thought she should stop reading novels and read something more substantial—something that would improve her.

He—Well?

She—Well, the idea of a man intimating to his fiancee that she could be improved in any way!

Read what Miss L. L. Hasson, Waterside, N.B., says: "I feel it my duty to express the benefit I have received from Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. A year ago last spring I began to have heart failure. At first I would have to stop working and lie down for a while. Then I got so bad I had to give up altogether and go to bed. I had several doctors attend me but they did me no good. I could get no relief until urged by a friend to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Before I had used three quarters of a box I began to feel the benefit and by the time I had taken three boxes I was completely cured."

MASTER OF THE VESSEL.

A Story of Farragut in Command When but Twelve Years of Age.

The story of a boy of twelve years acting as commander of a ship seems rather wonderful, yet Farragut was but twelve years and four days old when he was put in command of the Barclay, a prize ship taken by Captain Porter. In consideration of his tender years, says the author of "Twenty-six Historic Ships," the former English master of the vessel was sent in her for the possible benefit the young prize master might find in his advice. Farragut tells the story of the queer division of authority in his journal as follows:

"I considered that the day of trial had arrived, for I was a little afraid of the old fellow, as every one else was. But the time had come for me at least to play the man. So I mustered up courage and informed the captain that I desired the main topsail filled away in order that we might close up with the Essex Junior. He replied that he would shoot any man who dared to touch a rope without his orders. He would go his own course and had no idea of trusting himself with 'a blasted nutshell,' and then he went below for his pistols.

"I called my right hand man of the crew and told him of my situation. I also informed him that I wanted the main topsail filled. He answered with a clear 'Aye, aye, sir,' in a manner that was not to be misunderstood, and my confidence was perfectly restored.

"From that moment I became master of the vessel and immediately gave all necessary orders for making sail, notifying the captain not to come on with his pistols unless he wished to go overboard, for I really would have had very little trouble in having such an order obeyed."

A Paradox Explained.

Why does not a man weigh a pound more immediately after eating a pound weight of food? A little reflection will readily explain this apparent mystery. During the process of mastication, deglutition, etc., certain muscles are brought into active play, and the exercise of any muscle necessitates a temporary waste of its tissues, and a certain amount of carbon is eliminated and passed off during the course of the meal. This loss, however, is trifling as compared with that due to respiration and perspiration, both of which are increased during the various operations of making a meal.

The length of time one may take to consume a pound of food makes but little difference to those losses, for if it is eaten leisurely there is but slight increase of respiration or perspiration, whereas if it is hurried through both are abnormally accelerated. Hence by the time the pound is eaten the consumer has lost appreciably in moisture and carbonic acid.

He Was His Own Grandfather.

Of all genealogical curiosities the one set forth below is probably the oddest—a singular piece of reasoning to prove that a man may be his own grandfather! Here it is: There was a widow (Anne) and her daughter (Jane) and a man (George) and his son (Henry). This widow married the son, and the daughter married the father. The widow was therefore mother (in law) to her husband's father and grandmother to her own husband. By this husband she had a son (David), to whom she was, of course, great-grandmother. Now, the son of a great-grandmother must be grandfather or granduncle to the person to whom his mother was or is great-grandmother, but in this instance Anne was great-grandmother to him (David); therefore David could not be other than his own grandfather.

She Guessed Right.

"Did the spiritualistic medium tell you anything that was true?" asked the willing believer eagerly.

"Oh, yes," replied the hard headed individual.

"And that was"—

"That I spent my money foolishly, which was right. You see, I had paid to hear her tell me that."

Delightful Prospect.

"Do you," said the learned counsel, "swear that you will tell the truth, the whole truth and"—

"Oh, how lovely!" the fair witness interrupted. "Shall I really be allowed to talk all the afternoon if I want to?"—Tit-Bits.

A REAL FALSE FACE

By ALEC BRUCE

...Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure...

"Gustave Vernon, Theatrical Supplies and Fancy Costume Maker." Above the door in big gilt letters that is monsieur's sign, and but for it any one passing along the dingy alley would wonder why the enterprising agent had not invaded with his monotonous "For Rent." Against the paint blistered door and windows a cheap green cheese cloth, crumpled and faded, screens off the broad interior. To street view there is nothing on display, nothing save the intricate weavings of the spider and the inevitable remains of his unwary victim.

Inside, however, all is different. The store is large, low in the ceiling and when without artificial light very dark, for the alley is narrow, and the buildings on the opposite side are high. But if it is dark monsieur is saving in his light bill, and there is a luster, a mysterious sheen, pervading the entire room. On varicolored pedestals rising in tiers on every side from floor to ceiling stand hundreds of glittering figures. Some are wax, some wooden, some papier mache, warriors in burnished coats of mail, kings and knights in purple and gold, queens and ladies in silver and silks, crowns and coronets, spears and shields, serpents and dragons—everything in the world of tinsel and spangles. And here and there, cunningly shaded beneath powerful reflectors, a few ruby electric bulbs do duty for a fifty light chandelier, and the effect is mellow, pleasing, not dazzling, as monsieur would like it to be.

In the false face corner, the darkest in the store, sits a girl, a mere silhouette against the yawning archway leading to the gallery above. She is a small, trim figure in a dark blue skirt and white shirt waist. Her face is small and pale, set in a wealth of jet black hair twisted smooth and high, with a glittering butterfly aigret fluttering in it, and she is painting, painting whiskers on bluff King Hal. On the table before her she has all the colors and implements in the professional artist's box, and she paints with the Japanese deftness of touch—one, two, three, a curl, a curve, a daub, and the thing is done.

In the store all is quiet, not the ticking of a clock, not the purring of a satisfied cat, not even a street urchin whistling in the alley outside, just an occasional little sniff from mamselle's sensitive nose.

Suddenly a door opens out from the wall above. Unless you saw it open you wouldn't believe it was a door. It has been very carefully cut in the partition, and the partition is stained a dull olive green. There are many such cunning little stage traps in Gustave's, and it was Gustave himself who popped out his crisp, curly head.

"Ah, mon pere," she breathed, smiling up into his face, "surely you are early, mine. M. Nugent, he will not come until 4, and I give heem one hour. M. Hammond, he will come at 5, and"—

"But eet is 4 now, Junie, past 4, my child," said Gustave softly.

"Hush! Footsteps! Ma foi, mon pere, he comes! In, in, monsieur!"

Click! The partition door closed tight. Svengali and the pope swung outward to the length of their strings and still moved when Mr. Nugent came up to the little table.

"Junie," he began, very tenderly.

"Oh, M. Nugent!" she responded, with a swift upward glance, and went on retouching the royal Bluebeard.

For a moment he gazed dreamily on the smooth, black hair coils, bent a trifle lower than need be. Was it the ruby light? No! At least so he promptly decided when he caught sight of the widening tinge of pink on her rounded cheek.

"Junie," he repeated earnestly.

"Monsieur," she whispered, warningly and with a roguish twinkle in her eye, "you see I am very busy. Mon pere is behind. But iv eet is enyzing you want to buy sen of course I am here to attend."

"Junie," he murmured, and his voice trilled and trembled, "you know that what I want is priceless. I cannot buy it. No man can ever buy it. Junie, I want love, your love, my Junie," and, throwing discretion to the winds, he came perilously near the table.

She laid King Henry aside and disposed of the paint brush where it could do no harm.

"Hush, hush, monsieur," she cautioned, and her eyes traveled swiftly over the gallery of masks. Why that faint, flickering smile? Was it a smile? Involuntarily, but only for an instant, his gaze followed hers. Yes, it was a smile, and it spelled encouragement for him. With a confidence born of the dark and solitary corner, he seized her small white hand and looked hungrily into her eyes. Indignant, she tried to jerk it away, but he only clasped it tighter, drawing nearer, nearer, till she felt the warmth of his breath on her face.

"I love you, I love you!" he cried passionately. "No, no, do not shrink from me, Junie. You used not to shrink from me." He made to kiss her, but she turned her head away. "Junie," he pleaded, "you kissed me last night. Why—ah! perhaps you do not receive me, but I have money, dearest. It will be yours—yours and—and mine, Junie. And we will go away, far away"— He stopped suddenly when she hung her head and allowed her hand to rest quietly in his.

"And we will be married, monsieur?" she whispered.

For a moment he did not answer. A dark flush stained his cheeks, spread quickly to his neck and ears as she brought her sparkling orbs to his.

"Ye-es, Junie."

"And tonight you will ask mon pere, monsieur?"

"Junie!" His quick tones held surprise and pique. "Surely, that is—is needless. T-this is a secret, dearest, I"—

"Ahem!"

It was a very loud cough, and it came from the gallery of masks.

"Y-your father," whispered Nugent, dropping her hand and staggering a little on the polished floor. "I—I will see you again tonight—tomorrow, Junie!" And in a flash he was gone.

But the door had scarcely closed and Junie had just time to snatch up her work and begin where she left off when Dick Hammond, with heavy step and a hearty voice, announced his welcome presence.

"Mamselle Vernong," he said, playfully enunciating her name, "you said mensieur might come tonight, and he is here. Where is meng pere? I want to see him. Tonight? Yes; tonight. I want his Junie. When he says 'Oui' we will hupt a priest, my dear. The license, see!" And joyfully he flourished a pale yellow slip before the girl's dancing eyes.

"Ahem!"

Hammond started, straightening up to his full height, which was 6 feet 2 in his stocking soles. For a moment he stood alert. Then, stepping back a few paces, he stared fixedly at a face protruding from the wall above.

"By jiminy, Junie," he gasped, "iv that ain't the cutest fis I ever saw I'll swallow my collar stud! Jee' look at 'im. See 'im wink. See 'im grin. Jiminy, Junie, how much for the shit?"

"Dick, Dick!"

Mamselle was in his arms and shaking with laughter. The grin on the face was spreading perceptibly, and the tense features twitched and quivered convulsively.

"How much?" persisted Hammond.

"Monsieur, monsieur, eet is not for sale. Non, non! Eet is a real false face!" gulped the muffled voice against his breast. "See, now, eet is gone! Eet is gone! Eet was mon pere—mon pere Gustave Vernon," she cried breathlessly, peering round and up as far as his imprisoning arms would allow.

And Dick Hammond laughed loud and long. Then, seated on his knee, mamselle told him the why and the wherefore of it all. Mon pere had fancied Nugent because he had wealth, and theatrical supplies were not booming just then. But Junie would have none of him. "And why? He is one scoundrel, Dicky," she explained. True! Mon pere did not believe it so. So she had devised a plan. She had to do something, and the plan was the real false face.

But now mon pere is satisfied. He only smiled and said, "Oui; ah, oui!" when Hammond asked, "May I have her, Gustave?"

Houses In Fez.

In Fez, the capital of Morocco, most of the houses consist of several stories, each being provided with a light veranda running round it and connecting the rooms. All the windows and doors open out into the patio, or courtyard, the window openings in the upper stories being covered with close trellis-work. All the houses have flat roofs, with a wall some four to six feet high running around, and from 4 p. m. until sunset the roofs are given over to the ladies exclusively, who can then walk about and take the fresh air without being seen by any of the opposite sex. This reservation is a law which is never broken, and no man would be guilty of being seen on his or on any other roof during the forbidden hours. Owing to the fact that the women of the house are not allowed to be seen by any other man than their lord and master all domestic offices are situated away from the house proper. In many of the larger houses, besides the water fountains, others playing scent or scented water are to be found. Sections of the courtyard also are slightly sunk, and these portions are filled with scented oil, which is used to perfume the rooms. The Moors are exceptionally particular in discarding their foot gear before entering a room or crossing a rug or carpet. They even change slippers before entering the courtyard from the street. Thus the houses are kept beautifully clean and sweet and are not, as many people would suppose, musty or close.

His Distinguished Uncle.

A young lady, the beautiful daughter of a western congressman, was introduced on her arrival in Washington to a dapper young government official, a relative of the late Thomas F. Bayard. During their talk about the Delaware statesman she pronounced his name as it is spelled, giving the first "a" its long sound. The young man felt it his duty to correct her, saying that the name was pronounced "Byard." A few days later he sent her a note asking for the privilege of entertaining her and some friends who were visiting her from the west by taking them to dinner at his club. In the reply that she wrote she said she would have been pleased to accept his invitation, only the messenger that he had "hayard" seemed very "tayard" and had dallied upon the way, so that she had entered into another engagement before the note reached her. However, if he "desayard" her company at some future time she would be "al-fayard" glad to hear from him again.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Canine Intelligence.

A striking instance of canine intelligence is reported from Paris. A male schoolteacher named Dillax was waylaid one evening near Charenton bridge by two roughs, who set upon him and, after rifling his pockets, flung him into the Seine. A collie dog that happened to be near, without being encouraged to do so by any person—indeed there were none who saw the circumstance—at once plunged into the water and, catching the man by the coat, aided him to keep afloat until the river police, attracted by his cries, arrived to his assistance. M. Dillax was subsequently able to furnish the police with a description which led to the arrest of his assailants.

When the Poor Ride In Coaches.

In the east side tenement house region coaches are associated with only two things—weddings and funerals. The coach is an indispensable feature of the wedding, and only the very poorest are buried without the attendance of a mourning coach.

The whole block knows when a wedding is to take place, and everybody is on the watch when the coach and pair come dashing around the corner to receive the bride. The vehicle draws up before the narrow entrance to a tenement and presently is entered by the bride, half hidden in her white veil and all nodding with orange wreaths, while a gaping crowd looks on. The horses are lashed, the coach turns another corner, and in three minutes the bride is at the place of ceremony. The ceremony over, the coach this time swallows up both bride and bridegroom. Everybody is charmed at the sight. The gossips are busy for a day.

ODD ROCK FORMATIONS.

Two Queer Freaks of Nature on the Island of St. Helena.

There are at least two queer freaks of nature on the island of St. Helena—or rather four, for one of them is a group of three figures—known the world over as the "Devil's Nose" and "Lot and His Daughters." Any one who is able to study the island as it is and not run wild over the Napoleonic legends which have clustered about that "seabound rock" since the days when the "Little Corporal" was housed there in his living grave will find much that will repay for investigation, time and study.

The queerest of the natural formations are the oddities above alluded to. The first of these imitative forms is a rocky promontory which has been known by names which signify Old Nick's nasal projection since May 22, 1502, when Juan Castella and his men sighted the island just in time to see the devil disappear beneath the waves in the best harbor, leaving his nose as a reminder of what might happen should the venturesome Spaniard seek to take possession of his Satanic majesty's favorite haunts.

"Lot and His Daughters" are three conical rocks which can only be conjured into representing a man and two women by a strong play of the imagination. According to the views of some writers they are weather worn statues of colossal size, probably the work of some aborigines of the island. Their gigantic size, however, would seem to preclude this idea. When or by whom they were dubbed "Lot and His Daughters" no authority has ventured to say.

The Hoopoe Bird.

The hoopoo is essentially a bird of the desert. A pretty tradition regarding the crest upon this bird's head tells that the crest was a gift from King Solomon in gratitude for shelter from the midday sun provided by a flight of hoopoos. The first decoration was a crown of gold, but as this brought unwelcome attentions from fowlers the monarch changed the crown to a crest of feathers.

The characteristic note of the hoopoo is produced as follows: The bird swallows as much air as possible and then taps its beak upon the ground. The escaping air produces the "hoo-hoo-hoo" which has earned for the bird its popular name.—London Mail.

Drummers In King Henry's Time.

King Henry V. had a band which discoursed sweet music during his expedition to Harfleur, each member being recompensed for his services with the sum of 12 pence per diem. When the citizens of London were mustered in the thirty-first year of the reign of Henry VIII. we hear that "before every standard was appointed one dromslade at the least." Each company of 100 men at this time possessed a couple of drummers.—All the Year Round.

Moslem Women's Freedom.

There has been a vast amount of pity wasted upon the Moslem woman. It may surprise even the woman suffragist to learn that the laws of Mohammed confer upon women a greater degree of legal protection than any code of laws since the middle Roman law. Only the more recent liberties and protection granted to married women by the laws of divorce and the exclusive property rights now in force in the United States can be properly compared to those in Turkey. Under the Moslem laws the provision for securing to the wife the free and uncontrolled possession of her property is minutely stipulated in the marriage contract. A suitable sum is also arranged for her maintenance in accordance with her husband's rank.—Century.

Various Sources of Silk.

Silkworms are not the sole source of the production of silk. It is also obtained from several vegetable substances, but of an inferior and less durable description. Excellent colored silk is obtained from the prepared and finer fibers of the bamboo, which is much in demand for clothing in tropical countries from its lightness and porosity. Another form of silk is obtained from the pods of the silk cotton tree, of which there are several varieties in existence, the material obtained from them being known as vegetable silk.

Went Her One Better.

"I was just thinking how unusually pretty yours looks. Did you make it yourself?"

Unfortunate.

Moneybags—How did your banquet go off, Banklurk?

Banklurk—Not as well as it might, you know. The toastmaster called on a gentleman who had lost an arm and a leg to answer to the toast "Our Absent Members."

Political Economy.

"Children," asked the school committeeman, "what is political economy?"

"Political economy," answered the precocious son of the district boss, "is getting men to vote for you as cheap as you can."

Hardened.

Pretty Niece—Uncle Henry, I think every old bachelor ought to be taxed at least $500 a year.

Bachelor Uncle—Well, Myrtle, that would be cheaper than marrying.—Chicago Tribune.

There was a cry in the streets. People rushed from their doors and strained their eyes on the struggling balloonist fighting for life. Even the poor, panting sufferer in the sick room was forgotten while the family gazed breathless at this strange tragedy of the air. Then they went back to the sick room to tell of the terrible struggle for life they had just witnessed. It did not occur to them that under their very eyes a more terrible, more pathetic struggle was going on daily.

There can be nothing more pitiful than the struggle the consumptive makes against disease. The greatest help in this struggle is gained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures obstinate coughs, weak and bleeding lungs, emaciation, and other ailments which if neglected or unskillfully treated find a fatal termination in consumption.

"In 1898 one of my daughters was suffering on account of a severe cough, hectic fever, wasting of flesh and other symptoms of diseased lungs," writes Rev. Joseph H. Pesperman, of Barium Springs, Iredell Co., N. C. "I promptly gave her Dr. R. V. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with gratifying success, and she now enjoys excellent health. This being true, I hereby heartily endorse your medicine."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets assist the action of the "Discovery."

WALL STREET MARKET.

The Wall street market was somewhat quiet though very strong this morning, there being particular strength displayed in the Traction issues. Mann, for instance, jumping up to 136 1-8, BRT to 36 5-8, and Twins jumped from 85 to 87. C.P.R., too, showed considerable strength and rallied to 118 3-4. Copper was the most active of the industrials and made a considerable gain over its closing quotations of Saturday. It sold to-day as high as 39 7-8. Dominion Coal sold at 73 1-2.

The market closed very strong, the highest prices for the day in many instances being recorded.

Messrs. McMillan & Maguire have issued the following letter:—

New York, Nov. 2. — Nobody objecting; traders bid up number of stocks in first hour. On the assumption that no news is good news the store has never been so full of bull arguments, but commission houses report that light investment business, principally in bonds, represents extent of public interest. Hoffman house crowd was about most active element in market; they bid for St. Paul and Penn, and probably had something to do with strength elsewhere. Gould brokers were reported moderate buyers of Wabash issues. Tractions showed considerable strength. It is claimed these properties are doing well enough to endure very severe decline; at present administration remains in control of municipality, while all the traction issues might fairly be expected to boom in event of a Tammany victory.

VERY LENGTHY SHAVES.

Razor Travels Many Miles Over the Average Man's Face.

The distance a man shaves in an average lifetime, or the distance his razor travels over his face, will be a surprise to most people. From a multitude of examples an average measurement around the chin from ear to ear is found to be twelve and one-half inches. From where the beard starts on the throat to the chin and thence to the edge of the upper lip is four and one-half inches. You must reckon that it is necessary to give two strokes of the razor to each inch or fraction of an inch in order to cover all the surface and go over each section of the face twice in order to secure a clean surface.

So, multiplying the number of strokes by the number of times the razor is passed over the entire face, you get the figure 4, and four times the two above mentioned measurements gives you the figures 50 and 18 respectively, which, added together, produce 68. Therefore the average man, whether dark or fair, shaves 64 inches every twenty-four hours. With these figures we arrive at the result that every man wearing only a mustache shaves 2,068 feet 4 inches per year. Taking, then, the average life at seventy years and that the fair man starts shaving at eighteen and the dark man a year earlier, or at seventeen, we have the following result: That a fair man, if he lives till he is seventy, will shave in the course of his life 20 miles 650 yards 4 inches. The dark man, if he lives till he is seventy, will shave in the course of his life 20 miles 1,340 yards 1 foot 8 inches.

The Foot Astray.

William F. Cody was once relating a story which concerned an Indian who had met with an accident in a Buffalo Bill show. It was necessary to amputate the Indian's leg, and in the description of this operation Cody was interrupted frequently by a young doctor who injected technical and medical terms into the straight vernacular of the scout. He was irritated, but ignored the doctor. "A few days after the operation," continued the narrator, "the Indian learned that his leg had been buried. With a whoop, he leaped from his bed and jumped upon the doctor with both feet."

"Jumped with both feet after an operation?" shouted the doctor, exulting in his exposure of the great scout's absurd story.

"I said upon the 'doctor with both feet,'" explained Cody, "in order to distinguish him from the other hospital physician, who had only one foot, having put the other into people's affairs so often that he lost it."

The Way Home.

When the bishop of Truro, Dr. Gott, was dean of Worcester his absent mindedness was so notorious that he earned for himself the sobriquet of "Dean For-Gott."

On one occasion he had invited some friends to dine with him. On their arrival, a short time before the dinner hour, he suggested that in the interval of waiting his friends would perhaps like to walk through the grounds.

After spending about a quarter of an hour in admiring the flowers, shrubs and greenhouses they suddenly came upon a door in the garden wall.

"Ah!" said the dean to his astonished guests. "This will be a much nearer way for you to go home than by going back to the front!" And, forgetting his invitation, he opened the door and bowed them out.

Damaging Admission.

"The baby weighs twelve pounds, does he?" said the proud young mother. "Are you sure the scales are correct?"

"Correct!" exclaimed the equally proud young father incautiously. "Of course they are. They're the scales I always use for weighing the fish I catch."

THE EXAMINER'S SPORTING NEWS.

THE VICTORIAL TOOK THE SECOND GAME.

Score was 3-1 and Game an Interesting one—Teams Very Evenly Matched.

For the first time in the history of Rugby in Peterborough, since its inception, four years ago, the home team was defeated on its own grounds on Saturday afternoon by the Victorias of Toronto, in an Intermediate O.R.F.U. game, before a small crowd of spectators, the meagerness of the attendance being accounted for doubtless by the fact that the weather was anything but promising, in fact, while the game was in progress a number of heavy showers of rain fell, and considering the most unpromising weather the attendance was very good. The rain of the morning had made the grounds somewhat soft, but not sufficiently so to affect the playing to any appreciable extent. While the game on Saturday resulted in a defeat for the home team, it was on the whole a most satisfactory result, and there is no cause for depression among the supporters of the local team. When a week ago the Victorias played the Wellesleys, and administered to the latter such a severe drubbing it was felt that the chances of the Peterborough team were very slim, but the game of Saturday demonstrated that in all but perhaps one particular the locals were at least equal to the Victorias, and the smallness of the score indicates that the winning team had no walk over, as indeed was the case.

The game throughout was a splendid exhibition of Rugby, the best seen on the local grounds for a long time. It was the kind of a game spectators like to see, plenty of kicking—at least as far as one team was concerned—and the ball was in sight practically all the time. There was some good punting and spectacular rushes, all of which helped to make the game an interesting one to watch.

Although the score was but 3—1, an exceedingly small one, the winning margin being an extremely narrow one, even that does not fairly represent the difference in the playing abilities of the two teams. It was remarked that but for the slightly superior kicking of the visitors, the home team was equally strong, and a close observer of the game would be led to this conclusion. But this superiority gave those possessing it the game, and the one thing, perhaps, above all others that should be impressed upon the members of the local team is the absolute necessity of kicking when an opportunity presents itself. The Victorias gained each of their three points by the exercise of this ability, and, had the home team kicked the ball on different occasions when splendid chances were given, they would not have gone down to defeat. The wings of the Peterboroughs were equal to those of the visitors; they could run as well, and their tackling was almost as good, although, as a whole the Victorias were the better dodgers. During the first half they lost considerable ground through off-side plays; they gradually settled down, however, and in the second half very few off-side plays were reported. The locals had a good chance to win out in the second half. For fully the first half of this period the play was never beyond the centre into the locals' territory, but was confined to the vicinity of the visitors' end, once the play being within a few yards of the coveted line. The visitors gradually worked it back, however, to a less dangerous quarter, and before they could recover themselves secured two points on the home team in succession by long kicks over the dead line, netting one each. The Peterboroughs made a great fight at the finish, and only the timekeeper's whistle saved the visitors from defeat. The homesters were playing a superb game, and had they displayed this form earlier in the game the result recorded would have been different.

Capt. Crowley was now on the half back line, and on different occasions made rushes which looked good for a touch down, but the excellent work of the visitor's back division saved the day for them. The one point credited to the home team was gained shortly before time was called, and a gallant effort was made to win out by a garrison finish, the attempt, however, proving futile. The players are by no means disheartened and will go to Toronto next Saturday determined to take a second win from the Wellesleys. They are still in the running for the championship, and with Burnham on the team, as is expected he will be in the two Toronto games, they hope to win from each of the teams.

The teams lined up on Saturday as follows:—

Peterborough.	Victorias.
Back.
Lee	Tooze
Right Half.
Morgan	Robinson
Centre Habf.
Ford	Gowans, (Capt.)
Left Half.
Shortell	Cotton
Quarter.
Graham	Henderson
Centre.
Hurtubise	Yeaman
Wings.
Noble	Palmer
Meagher	Yorke
Dillon	Browne
Deannard	Pitchard
Rickey	Whale
Crowley, (Capt.)	Shepherd

Goal umpire—A. Hogg.

Touch line judge—T. Clegg, G. Pascall.

Referee—R. L. Biggs, Toronto.

Umpire—H. B. H. Kenner.

Time keeper, E. Howell, Peterborough.

During the first half of the game neither team secured any material advantage, and, although in the early stage the play was confined for the most part to the Peterborough end, the best the visitors could do was to score a rouge, the half ending 1—0. At half time a shift was made in the home team, Crowley went back to centre half, and Lee and Ford exchanged positions, Shortell and Deannard retired, the latter having been injured, and Craig and Cameron went on the wings. This change gave the locals additional strength on the back division, and Crowley and Lee did some excellent work, the former making some of his famous runs, and the latter frequently prevented scores being made by his kicking, in which department he shone. Some good combination playing was also seen, a running combination play by Ford, Meagher and Hurtubise would have proved effective for a score with a less formidable back division than that of the Victorias. Crowley and Morgan made a spectacular run which would doubtless have resulted in a touch down had the touch line judge not declared the runner beyond the line. Morgan secured the sphere and worked it to within a yard of the goal line. It was not transformed into a score, however, and the Victorias by two long kicks over the dead line by Gowans, added two points to the one scored previously, making the score 3—0. The locals, however, recognizing the desperateness of the situation, put more and more ginger into their playing and about five minutes before time was called Morgan got a kick over the goal line, forcing Tooze to rouge. This ended the scoring, however, and the home twelve suffered their first defeat on local grounds.

The game was very fast and clean, only one player being penalized for rough play.

The game Saturday placed the standing of the teams in the series as follows:

	Won.	Lost.
Victorias	2	0
Peterborough	1	1
Wellesleys	0	2

Next Saturday the Peterboroughs play the Wellesleys on the latter's grounds.

THE OPENING GAMES OF BASKETBALL.

Y. M. C. A. League Opened on Saturday Evening.

The first game in the Y.M.C.A. Senior Basket-ball League was played on Saturday night between the Athletics (white) and the Harriers, last year's champions, the Athletics winning by a score of 25 to 23. The game was a good exhibition of basketball, the teams being very evenly matched, while the playing of both sides was of A1 quality. A keen rivalry has existed between these two teams, the Athletics having been the runners-up in last year's series, so that considerable interest has been aroused during the past month as the time for the opening game drew near. In the first half of the play the Athletics with Cavanah and Robertson on the forward line and Harold Dunsford at centre, seemed to score at will, while their two giant backs, Ed. Dillon and Terrot Glover, kept the Harriers from doing much of the necessary scoring.

In Cavanah and Robertson the Athletics have a good pair of players. The former scored 7 of the 10 fouls made by the Harriers and also made two baskets, while the latter scored two baskets, one in the first half and one in the second. In Harold Dunsford they have a good centre. He is a great combination starter and has the passing down to a science. He scored four baskets—two in the first half and two in the second. In Dillon and Glover they have two good backs. Dillon scored a basket from a long throw. For a team only playing together for one season they have the game well under control. All of them except Robertson, who was the star player of the Maple Leaf team last year, played on the Athletics last year.

The Harriers have played together for two seasons before this and certainly know the game. Every one of them plays his position well and not one in particular can be named for honours. Walter McGuire is taking Chester Kemp's place on their forward line and is filling the gap well, and with Ross Dobbin, the Harriers have a forward line hard to beat. Jack Laing is holding up centre for them and knows how to play his position. Jack has a long throw which he used to perfection, scoring three baskets from behind centre, and also scored on a neat pass from Campbell in the last half. The Harriers have Campbell and Richardson watching their citadel and it is in good hands. The team is a very light one compared with the Athletics but the members are very heavy checks. The game started at a quarter past eight and after two minutes' play Cavanah scored a basket. Play was resumed and, after a minute of play Glover fouled McGuire and Campbell scored a point on the try. After about two minutes' play Robertson scored a basket, and, after another minute's play Cavanah scored a try on Richardson's foul for holding Dunsford, making the score 5 to 1 in the Athletics' favour. Robertson fouled Campbell and the latter failed to score on the try. Richardson made a fine throw from behind centre and again scored making it 5-3.

Dunsford then scored a basket, while in the next five minutes Cavanah made three of the Harriers' fouls count one each, making the score 10-3. The Harriers then took a break for a few minutes and both Lang and McGuire scored baskets, making the score 10-7. Dunsford scored a basket on a throw from behind centre and shortly afterwards Dillon scored one on a long threw, making the score 14-7. Campbell, on fouls made by Dunsford and Cavanagh scored two points. Cavanagh then scored another basket, making the score 18-8, and shortly afterwards scored on a foul. Time was nearly up and the play was very fast when Laing scored a basket on a long throw from near his own goal, making the score at half time 17-11 in the Athletics' favour.

After ten minutes' rest the teams again lined up, both determined to win. The play was even swifter and cleaner, and some very neat combination plays were worked by both teams in their endeavour to score. The Harriers, however seemed to have the best of the play in this half and were always after the ball at their man. They scored 5 baskets in this half, Richardson, 1; Laing, 2, and Dobbin 2, while Campbell scored a point on a foul by Cavanah. The Athletics did not seem so determined as at the first of the game, though they made things very interesting for their opponents. Dunsford scored two baskets in this half and Robertson, one, while Cavanah made good two of his opponents' fouls, the game ending with the score 28-23 in the Athletics' favour.

ARROWS 40, ALERTS, 30.

The second game started at 9.15 and from start to finish was a fairly good exhibition of basket ball. The Arrows played together in last year's intermediate series and gave a good account of themselves. They are well built youngsters and play the game well. For their size and age they are wonderfully well developed, giving evidence of the good work done in the physical department of the Y.M.C.A. For a forward line they have Bruce Gillespie and Ed. Fitzpatrick, and they know how to do the necessary to apparent perfection. The former scored four baskets in the first half and one in the second, while the latter made seven baskets in the first half and one in the second. Both are very clean players, no fouls being counted to their credit. At centre the Arrows have Alf. Hodgson who is also their captain. He is a good man and plays his position well, keeping the forwards well fed. They have two good backs in Alex Gillespie and Fred Richardson. Both play their positions well. As a team they work together well and should show up near the top at the end of the season.

The Alerts are a new team. This is the first year they have played together and when they have had more practice and experience should make the best of the league teams hustle. In George Morgan they have a find. For a new man at the game he does exceedingly well, playing his position like an old timer, and is pretty sure shot. Fred Howson played on last year's Colts and is a good player. He is a well developed young man and is a good asset of the Y.M.C.A. physical department's work. George Hall makes a good centre man and is a hard worker and also a good player. Bert Caniff played on one of the intermediate teams last year and shows up fairly well. Rinton is a new man at the game and after a little more experience should make a good check. He also did his share of the scoring. The Alerts, considering the time they have played together, did credit to themselves and need in no way be ashamed of their play Saturday night.

N. Miller refereed the game, while Robt. Hall, also of the Brownies, umpired. In the first half seven fouls were called on the Alerts, Fred Richardson making three of them count to his team's credit; while three fouls were called on the Arrows, two of which Morgan made count for the Alerts. The Arrows scored twelve baskets to the Alerts' four. The score at half time was 27-10 in the Arrows' favour. The second half was swift and close, the Alerts putting up as good a game as the Arrows. Morgan and Hall got in some very nice plays and made things warm for the Arrows' backs, each scoring two baskets, while Renton also took a hand and scored a basket. The Arrows also put up a stiff argument but the Alerts were right after them, and held them down well, so that they were unable to score as many points as in the first half.

For five cents the spectators, who numbered about one hundred, got the worth of their money. The gallery will hold over 300 persons and if the quality of baske tball is as good in the future as it was Saturday night, there should be no trouble in filling it. Next Saturday night the Arrows and Athletics (blue) play from 8 to 9 o'clock, and the Brownies and Alerts play from 9 to 10 o'clock. and as all the different teams are anxious to win the championship, good exhibitions of the game should be the result.

WIT BUBBLES IN TOASTS.

Some Humorous Sentiments Pithily Expressed at Banquets.

A publisher once gave the following: "Woman, the fairest work in all creation. The edition is large, and no man should be without a copy."

This is fairly seconded by a youth who, giving his distant sweetheart, said, "Delectable dear, so sweet that honey would blush in her presence and treacle stand appalled."

Further, in regard to the fair sex, we have: "Woman, she needs no eulogy; she speaks for herself." "Woman, the bitter half of man."

In regard to matrimony some bachelor once gave, "Marriage, the gate through which the happy lover leaves his enchanted ground and returns to earth."

At the marriage of a deaf and dumb couple some wit wished them "unspeakable bliss."

At a supper given to a writer of comedies a wag said: "The writer's very good health. May he live to be as old as his jokes."

From a law critic: "The bench and the bar. If it were not for the bar there would be little use for the bench."

A celebrated statesman, while dining with a duchess on her eightieth birthday, in proposing her health said:

"May you live, my lady duchess, until you begin to grow ugly."

"I thank you, sir," she said, "and may you long continue your taste for antiquities."—London Tit-Bits.

Drinking and Smoking.

"The prevalent idea that drinking and smoking are companion vices is altogether wrong," said a physician who has made a special study of dipsomania. "I find, on the contrary, that the habitual drunkard is not abnormally addicted to the use of tobacco. He may use the weed as a lesser stimulant when not strongly under the influence of alcohol, but when the drink gets firmly intrenched in his system he cares nothing for tobacco, for then it has lost its force and its influence upon his nerves. Of course I mean in extreme cases.

"On the other hand, it is a rather curious fact that in the case of the moderate drinker, who also smokes, the cutting off of his supply of tobacco will increase his appetite for alcoholic beverages, and while at first the liquor will not affect him nearly so much as when he is smoking, in the end it will do him up. Consequently it is safe to assume that the man who always used liquor and tobacco in moderation will, if he gives up tobacco, take more strongly to liquor. In fact, this is no assumption; it has been demonstrated on numerous occasions."

Prodigality of Life in Ancient Egypt.

The reckless prodigality with which in ancient Egypt the upper classes squandered away the labor and lives of the people is perfectly startling. In this respect, as the monuments yet remaining abundantly prove, they stand alone and without a rival. We may form some idea of the almost incredible waste when we hear that 2,000 men were occupied for three years in carrying a single stone from Elephantine to Bais, that the canal of the Red sea alone cost the lives of 120,000 Egyptians and that to build one of the pyramids required the labor of 360,000 men for twenty years.

The Inside Work

Plays an important part in the style and fit, and stay-in-shape qualities of the Garments you get made by Simons & Co.

Careful Sewing, best of Workmanship, the fine touches of hand work in Collar, Canvas, Linings, and the like, all help greatly towards the results you see and admire.

Don't be caught without a good serviceable Raincoat. We will make you a swell one that will take the place of an overcoat, thoroughly waterproofed or, if you prefer, we will tailor you a good warm Overcoat of any kind of cloth you pick out.

AYLESWORTH ON THE ALASKAN CASE.

Lord Alverstone Constituted Himself a Sort of Umpire.

Rousing Welcome Home Function to Canada's Counsel—Reviews the Boundary Award, but Distinctly States we Ought to Accept it, Although he Still Believed the Findings Were not Judicial.

Toronto, Nov. 3.—Last night the dining room of the King Edward was the scene of the Canadian Club banquet tendered Canadian Commissioner, A. B. Aylesworth, K. C. There were 350 covers laid. There were requests for three times as many more. Two great flags, the Union Jack and the colors of this colony, were conspicuously displayed. The very absence of other decorations contributed to the appropriateness of these two symbols of the Empire. The glitter of cut glass and the profusion of flowers added to the brilliancy of the occasion.

It was a gathering unique in more ways than one. As Mr. Aylesworth observed, it was a scene seldom witnessed and was surrounded by circumstances peculiarly interesting. But it was the young crowd rather than the "old guard" so frequently seen on such occasions. No member of the Government was present. There was no disposition to make it other than a purely social function and a testimonial of the admiration of the Canadian Club for the guest of the evening. There were no civic features. Col. Denison was not there, but to the left of President Macdonald sat Judge Hodgins, who first registered his stern protest against the decision.

The Maple Leaf Forever.

There was no mistaking the enthusiasm with which the "Maple Leaf Forever" was greeted, but no less turbulent was the scene when the assembly arose to respond to the national anthem, "God Save the King." That the gathering bristled with enthusiasm was evinced when the guest of the evening made his appearance. To the strains of the orchestra, concealed by a bower of flowers, Mr. Aylesworth walked in, accompanied by the club's president. Cheers and hand clapping continued for several minutes. The guests were arranged at individual tables, except for the table at the south of the dining-room, where sat the most distinguished members. Here sat President Macdonald between Mr. Aylesworth and Judge Hodgins.

The menu was disposed of hurriedly. There was an evident desire to get down to the good things as soon as possible. The tasty bit of cardboard decorated with maple leaves in autumn tints, and the picture of the guest of honor, was passed over in forty minutes. In response to the applause over the "Maple Leaf Forever," Mr. Blight rendered "His Majesty the King" amid more applause.

Color in the Speech.

The speech of the evening was pleasing in every particular. There was just sufficient analysis of the dry details of the dispute to give the color required, and there were many bits supplied that casts much light on the position in which the Canadian Commissioners found themselves. It required but few words for the speaker to secure the prime sympathy and attention of all present. In fact, for nearly two hours he spoke, interrupted with occasional spontaneous outbursts.

Mr. Aylesworth's speech was careful and weighty, and with marked avoidance of the language of passion or sentiment. He spoke highly of all his colleagues, denied that there had been any friction among them and emphasized his high opinion of Lord Alverstone. He repeated the declaration already published, that he and Sir Louis Jette declined to sign the award, because upon two points, the division of the islands in the Portlan Canal and the location of the line parallel to the coast, there was not an adjudication, but a compromise. But he said that he and Sir Louis were actuated not by irritation but by a simple sense of duty. He imputed no motives to the majority of the tribunal.

Lord Alverstone as Umpire.

He made, however, the important statement that Lord Alverstone approached the case with a different view of his duties from that taken by the Canadian jurists. Lord Alverstone believed that he was to act as an umpire or judge between contending views. Mr. Aylesworth believed that it was a meeting of delegates from Great Britain and the United States, each having a "natural and inevitable bias" for his own country. For himself he admitted that bias, though he honestly endeavored to arrive at a right decision.

Mr. Aylesworth declared that the award, wrong as he conceived it to be, must be accepted, and the only part of his speech into which passion entered was his earnest repudiation of the idea that Canada should harbor any resentment toward Great Britain. In fact, the speech showed clearly an earnest desire to allay resentment. Mr. Aylesworth made an emphatic declaration of loyalty to the Empire, quoting Sir John Macdonald's words: "A British subject I was born, a British subject I will die."

"God Save the King" concluded one of the most spirited gatherings of the kind in the history of the Dominion.

ACCIDENTS IN TORONTO.

Man Buried Under Falling Wall—Penny Gallinger May Die.

Toronto, Nov. 3.—John Egan, 77 Bellevue avenue, working at Clarke's stable on Adelaide street, tearing it down, when the wall came down unexpectedly, and he was caught beneath, the bricks covering him entirely. He had his leg fractured, and a large cut that required several stitches in his head.

Rev. Dr. Robert Cade was knocked down at the corner of Queen street and Cowan avenue on Saturday by a bicyclist traveling at a rapid rate. His injuries amount to a scalp wound, requiring several stitches, and some smaller cuts.

Nelson Huntley, an employe of the King Edward Hotel, fell from a fourth-storey window of the hotel and alighted on the porch over the main entrance on King street. His head was fractured on the left side, and he suffers considerable pain from his back and ankle joints.

Frank Foster was driving his horse and wagon down the Winchester street hill when one of the hind wheels of the conveyance came off, precipitating him to the ground. He struck on his head, causing concussion of the brain.

David Tweedie was driving in with patatoes from Highland Creek to the city, when a King street car struck the wagon, precipitating him into the road, breaking his leg and shaking him up generally.

Percy Gallinger, who was injured in a Street car accident on Saturday evening, is still unconscious at his home at 107 Cowan avenue.

Mrs. Ronan of 944 West Bloor street, in trying to get off a car at the corner of Spadina avenue and College street, while the car was moving, fell, striking the pavement heavily. She tried to avoid the force of the fall with her arm, and it was broken near the shoulder.

Fell From His Barn.

Listowel, Nov. 3.—Robert Cleland, jr., of the 4th line of Elma, was cleaning the roof of the barn after threshing was over and fell some twenty-eight feet to the ground. How long he remained on the earth unconscious is not known, as when his wife, who, being alarmed at his long absence, found him in the barnyard, he was still in a stunned condition.

Leg Badly Smashed.

Listowel, Nov. 3.—W. Ellison was lowering a pulping machine when something went wrong with the elevator, and its huge burden of some three or four hundred pounds fell upon his leg and smashed it so badly that amputation may be necessary.

Drowned in a Pond.

St. Catharines, Nov. 3.—A fatality took place in Grantham Township on Saturday afternoon, at the home of Peter Beckett. Harry Leroy, a little two-year-old son, was playing about a shallow pond, just a short distance from the house, when in some way he fell into the water. Nothing was known of the accident until the lifeless body of the little one was found.

One Killed; Four Injured.

Pittsburg, Nov. 3.—One trainman was killed and four others seriously injured yesterday in a collision of the Butler passenger accommodation and a freight engine.

BOMBAY RIFLES ENGAGED.

Fighting Is Now Quite Serious in the Hinterland.

Aden, Nov. 3.—The report that an officer and several men of the Bombay Rifles have been wounded in a skirmish in the Hinterland has been confirmed. The fighting is now quite serious. A small British force was surrounded by tribesmen at Sualik and soon ran short of ammunition. Strong reinforcements were sent out from Dthala and effected a release of their comrades after a sharp fight. Eight British soldiers were killed and an officer and a number of privates were wounded.

THE DEAD ARE 250.

Earthquakes Demolish the Persian Town of Turshiz Near Turbat-I-Haidari.

London, Nov. 3.—A despatch to The Daily Mail from Simla, India, says terrible earthquakes have occurred at Turshiz, near Turbat-I-Haidarf, in Persia, in which 250 persons were killed and numbers were injured. One hundred and eighty-four carpet factories were destroyed and only 32 stalls were left standing in the great bazaar. The entire town was practically demolished.

Hotelkeeper Loses an Eye.

Hamilton, Nov. 3.—Several weeks ago Harry Deans, who runs a saloon at the corner of Murray and James street, was the victim of a savage attack at Freelton fair. He has been in the City Hospital ever since, and the doctors found it necessary yesterday to remove one of his eyes.

German Garrison Annihilated.

Beauport, West Cape Colony, Nov. 3.—It is reported that the German garrison at Warmbad, in German Southwest Africa, has been annihilated by the Hottentots. The report has been confirmed in Cape Town.

Both Shout Victory.

New York, Nov. 3.—With every indication of a close struggle to-day, the eve of the political battle in New York city found the leaders of Fusion and Tammany loud in their predictions of overwhelming triumph.

Another club woman, Mrs. Haule, of Edgerton, Wis., tells how she was cured of irregularities and uterine trouble, terrible pains and backache, by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—A while ago my health began to fail because of female troubles. The doctor did not help me. I remembered that my mother had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on many occasions for irregularities and uterine troubles, and I felt sure that it could not harm me at any rate to give it a trial.

"I was certainly glad to find that within a week I felt much better, the terrible pains in the back and side were beginning to cease, and at the time of menstruation I did not have nearly as serious a time as heretofore, so I continued its use for two months, and at the end of that time I was like a new woman. I really have never felt better in my life, have not had a sick headache since, and weigh 20 pounds more than I ever did, so I unhesitatingly recommend your medicine."—MRS. MAY HAULE, Edgerton, Wis. THE SHIP-BUILDING COMBINE SWINDLE.

History of Greatest Confidence Game of the Century.

"Great" Names Like Pierpont Morgan, Gates and Schwab Associated With the Public Robbery.

The revelations which have been made in the legal proceedings in New York to have a permanent receiver appointed for the United States Shipbuilding Company have been little short of astounding. They have disclosed the most unscrupulous methods as having been resorted to in working off upon the public the huge quotations of great New York financial manipulators and trust creators, at whose feats the whole world was agape not long ago.

One of the most extraordinary of these revelations is the confession of Kenneth K. McLaren, Secretary of the Corporation Trust Company, of New Jersey, and one of the incorporators of the United States Shipbuilding Company, that he was one of the three incorporators of the Franklin Syndicate, the 520 per cent. "get-rich quick-swindle," which robbed several thousand credulous people of several million dollars. It will be remembered that William F. Miller and Robt. A. Ammon, the two chief conspirators in the Franklin Syndicate, are now in Sing Sing prison; and in view of the present revelations, the question presents itself whether there is any swindler undergoing punishment to-day who resorted to more nefarious methods than did some of the men who are involved in this Shipbuilding Trust scandal.

The combined capital of the companies absorbed by the Trust, exclusive of the Bethlehem Steel Company, was $4,508,000. There was already $14,000,000 of "water" in the Bethlehem concern when it was taken in; the total amount of "water" upon which interest would have had to be earned in the Shipbuilding Trust exceeding $50,000,000. A youth named Lewis P. Daily, a clerk, testified that he was one of the directors of the Trust, one share of the stock, for which he did not pay, having been entered in his name to qualify him. This young man, along with several other dummy directors—who, under cross-examination, have been shown to be so ignorant of the Trust's affairs as actually not to know where the various plants of the concern are situated—met, and following the instructions of the "captains of finance," voted away $71,000,000 of Shipbuilding Trust securities.

They authorised the $10,000,000 bond issue to Charles M. Schwab, giving him a first mortgage on the Bethlehem steel plant, and a second mortgage on all the other plants of the Trust. This $10,000,000 of bonds and the $20,000,000 of stock they have voted to Mr. Schwab gave him complete control of the United States Shipbuilding Company. He owned $30,000,000 out of a total of $55,000,000 of the securities having a voting power.

Another result of the court proceedings is to show that Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, in consideration of $5,000,000 in the stock of the Shipbuilding Company, and an agreement that his holdings should be unloaded before any others of the company's securities were sold, put his name and prestige to an undertaking whereby the investing public was to pay $30,000,000 for the Bethlehem property, which had been acquired for $7,200,000.

According to the evidence of Mr. Dresser, who finds himself ruined through his connection with the Shipbuilding Company, Mr. Schwab was not only the chief wrecker of that company but also the intimate associate of Harris, Gates & Co., of Wall street, the leaders of the "bear" campaign against the steel trust, of which Mr. Schwab was until recently president. Who supplied them, it is now asked, with the "long" stock which they were able to pour so plentifully upon the market? Mr. John W. Gates, of the firm named, is himself a trust organizer of renown. He moved to the front rank of the Wall street "captains of finance" when he carried through successfully a "bear" raid on his own Steel and Wire Company, which involved the throwing of several thousand of men out of employment, in order that Mr. Gates might win out.

It was not long afterwards that the highly respectable Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan publicly declared that he considered Mr. Gates a "dangerous" man and unfit person to have in control of the Louisville and Nashville Railway; and yet it is now found that the firm which signed an agreement to work off on the public the stock of Mr. Morgan and Mr. Schwab, managers for the United States Steel Underwriting Syndicate, ahead of any other stock of the steel trust, was none other than Harris, Gates & Co.

There does not seem to be anything particularly new about the "new finance," except the huge scale on which it planned to make the investing public pile up prodigious fortunes for a few manipulators. The prospectus issued by the promoters of the Shipbuilding Trust to beguile investors into the purchase of inflated stocks and bonds, representing properties which aggregated only a small fraction of their presented value, was backed by some of the greatest names in finance, commerce and industry in the United States. It was the endorsement of these great names, commanding the confidence of the public, that carried the huge flotation through to the partial success marking its culmination. Payment, to the extent of many millions of dollars was exacted for the endorsements of these names, which gave the fictitious stocks and bonds their currency. The proceedings of the dummy directors who voted on the disposition of millions of dollars without knowing, or caring, what they were about, the division of other millions among promoters who never gave $1.00 in return, the award of enormous salaries to those on the inside, and all the other transactions of like character, which have been disclosed in open court, stamp shame and disgrace upon the ill-gotten gains of the promoters who resorted to such methods to add millions to the millions they already possessed.

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding and Protruding Piles. No cure, no pay. All druggists are authorized by the manufacturers of Pazo Ointment to refund the money where it fails to cure any case of piles, no matter of how long standing, ordinary cases in six days; the worst in fourteen days. One application gives ease and rest. Relieves itching instantly. This is a new discovery and it is the only pile remedy sold on a positive guarantee, no cure no pay. Price 50c.

If your druggist hasn't it in stock send 50 cents (Canadian stamps accepted) to the Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo., manufacturers of Laxative Bromo Quinine, the celebrated cold cure.

C.P.R. Workers Laid Off.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—The desire of the Canadian Pacific Railway to reduce its operating expenses caused a large number of men employed on the line on the Ottawa division to be laid off yesterday. The same retrenchment is being practiced elsewhere by the big corporation. In Ottawa a reduction of staff has been made in the car, locomotive, mechanical and bridge departments.

Jews and Russians Clash.

Berlin, Nov. 3.—A despatch to The Tageblatt from Posen says that a bloody conflict between 500 Jews and a force of Russian gendarmerie took place at Warsaw Saturday, during the enlisting of recruits. The wounded on both sides numbered over forty persons, several of them sustaining fatal injuries.

Ferry Went Ashore.

Windsor, Nov. 3.—The C.P.R. ferry went ashore near Sandwich yesterday in a fog. The G.T.R. ferry had a hard time also.

"THE MISSION OF A NATION."

Address by Rev. W. R. Tandy, M. A., at Teachers' Convention.

Nations as Well as Individuals Have Missions—A Thoroughly Appreciated Literary Efforts.

At the Peterborough County Teachers' Convention in Norwood Model School on Thursday afternoon, an address on "The Mission of a Nation," was given by the Rev. W. Tandy, M.A., Incumbent of Havelock and Belmont. At the conclusion of the address a resolution, formally put and carried, called for its publication and the sending of a copy to every teacher in the county.

Mr. Tandy began by remarking that he had himself been apprenticed to the teaching profession in the old Kingston Model School and that he considered himself a teacher yet—"an humble messenger and ambassador of Him who sent forth his servants long ago to teach all nations." "I speak to you this afternoon," he proceeded," on the Mission of a Nation. For nations, as well as individuals that amount to anything in the world have a mission. They are sent forth by God to do some definite work; and until that work is completed or they have shown their unfitness to do it, they live on in defiance of chance or change. Moreover the nation with a mission to the world, like the man with a mission to his fellows, is generally conscious of it—not perhaps from the first, but sooner or later the consciousness dawns. The man or the nation says 'I am not here by accident. God sent me. He has given me this work to do that lies before me, and I must do it or die." Looking back over human history, there is one nation above all others that had this consciousness of a mission, and the issues of its life have amply justified that consciousness. You will guess at once that I mean the people of the Jews, and I ask you to pause here and look with me at this extraordinary people that we may see what their mission meant to them, or at least, what it means now to the world; so that our vision may be the clearer for the national mission, if there be one, that God has entrusted to us.

THE EXILE NATION.

The legend of the Wandering Jew, restless, ubiquitous, powerless to change or disguise his identity, is a picture to us of all his people, The Jews of to-day, exiled from his own land, scattered abroad among the nations, so that there are said to be more Jews in London, than in all Palestine, is yet as distinct and unmistakable a type as in the days of his own patriarchs. His hospitality, when he can afford it, and when you have his entire confidence, is as princely as that of Abraham himself. His business acuteness is as strongly marked and sometimes as unscrupulous as that of Jacob in his dealings with Laban. Of course the moral character of the Jew as of the Gentile varies with the individual. Heredity alone does not make the Jew. Environment comes largely into play. And it is interesting to notice that national environments have tended in some cases to produce what may be called subtypes of the Jewish character. Great Britain for instance, while harbouring also the Jew of the Ghetto, offers to our study a unique national sub-type in its famous aristocratic Hebrew families. It was in Britain that D'Israeli, a Jew, found it possible to become Prime Minister and the chief financial butresses of the British throne to-day are the Rothschilds and other great Jewish bankers, who are held in honour in the blotherland as patriotic upholders of British interests. This sub-type, if I may use the term again, has not tended, I am afraid, to repeat itself to any great extent in the Jew of the New World. It is dangerous to generalize. But it must have struck more than one of us that the Jew in the United States, while often very rich, is often very selfish, living mainly for his own gratification and advancement—neither an eminently patriotic not an eminently religious man. In many cases indeed he has lost all hold of the remnant of his ancient faith that survives, and is left practically without God, without high ideals and without hope in the world.

The Jewish people that we meet in Canada retain in the main, in one or other of its two modern forms, what is left to them of their ancestral religion. It may be said of them that they have neither the outstanding greatness that has been achieved by some of their kinsmen in Great Britain, not the objectionable characteristics that have sometimes been manifested by the wealthy Jew of the United States. The Jew in Canada comes here from the various lands of his wanderings. We have met, most of us, the British Jew, the German Jew, and even the Spanish Jew, each with some characteristic of speech or habit to mark him off from the others. In our cities there are, of course, many Hebrew families of the highest education and the greatest refinement who take the place in good society that is naturally theirs. But the remarkable thing is that the Jew is a surviving national type at all; that after enduring persecutions and hardships and tyrranous exactions that would have exterminated most peoples a dozen times over, the Jew is still here, as unmistakably a Jew and as proud of his exiled nationality as ever. It has been truly said that "The haughtiest noble who boasts of Norman blood, has not an ancestry half so renowned nor a lineage half so pure as the poor Jew peddler on whose vagrancy he thinks with pity, or whose sordidness he rebukes with scorn." This Jew that sojourns among us, a self-confessed stranger even where his possessions are greatest, is the scion of the people older than Rome or Greece or Babylon. The fragments of Antiquity that the explorer is unearthing to-day in ancient Babylon may have been the work of Jewish captive hands. The pyramids of Egypt that are the wonder of the world for massiveness and age, are probably enough the work of the enslaved people whom Moses led out at the Exodus. Upon the walls of the royal tombs at Thebes one sees painted the very same Hebrew contour of face with which we are all familiar. Every nation in Christendom has insulted and persecuted the Jew. Even the annals of England are stained with the story of Jewish suffering; of robbery and torture and even murder and massacre practiced upon a defenceless people. Sir Walter scott's historical novels show us all too truly how Saxon thane and Norman noble alike thrust them from the courtesies of life; and how even the swine-herd and the jester dared insult the velvet gaberdine with ribald oaths and with unseemly scorn."

SHAKESPEARE'S JEW

Shakespeare, whose mental life was almost as catholic and many-sided as the universe itself, gives us his great study of the mediæval Jew in his character of Shylock. Here for the first time in English literature we find a plea for the Jew. Previously the Jew had been not simply the villain but the monster of every literary work in which he figured. Marlowe had written his "Jew of Malta," but, as Charles Lamb justly says, "Barabas, the Jew of Malta, is a mere monster brought in with a large painted nose, to please the rabble. He kills in sport, poisons whole nunneries, invents infernal machines. He is just such an exhibition as, a century or two earlier, might have been played before the Londoners by the royal command, when a general pillage and massacre of the Hebrews had been resolved by the Cabinet. Shylock, on the other hand, in the midst of his savage purpose, is a man. His motives, feelings, resentments have something human in them." "The Merchant of Venice" was written for the stage, not merely for study. The audiences to which it was presented had all the limitations and prejudices of its day. Even if Shakespeare could have attained for himself a complete freedom from those prejudices, he could not have dared to present the Jew in an entirely sympathetic way. So he makes his Shylock vengeful even to the point of hatefulness—he tricks him and robs him of his daughter and holds him up to ridicule. And yet he makes a plea for the common humanity of the Jew, that was far in advance of the standpoint of that day. This is the reason that modern critics see in "The Merchant of Venice" not a mere comedy, but, in its inner meaning, a tragedy; and the Jew its real hero.

"You call me misbeliever, cut-throat dog, and spit upon my Jewish gaberdine and all for use of that which is mine own. Hath not a Jew eyes? Hath not a Jew hands, organs, dimensions, senses, affections, passions? Fed with the same food, hurt with the same weapons, subject to the same diseases, healed by the same means, warmed and cooled by the same winter and summer as a Christian is? If you prick us do we not bleed? If you tickle us do we not laugh? If you poison us do we not die? And if you wrong us shall we not revenge? If we are like you in the rest, we will resemble you in that."

Heinrich Heine, the German poet, himself a Jew, sees in Shylock the Jew of all the ages. "When I saw this play at Drury Lane," he writes, "there stood behind me in the box, a pale, fair Briton, who, at the end of the fourth act, fell a-weeping passionately, several times exclaiming 'The poor man is wronged.' When I think of those tears I have to rank the 'Merchant of Venice' with the tragedies, although the frame o fthe piece is decorated with the merriest figures of masks, satyrs and of cupids."

"Wandering dream-hunter that I am" Heine goes on, "I looked 'round everywhere on the Rialto to see if I could not find Shylock. But I found him nowhere on the Rialto, and I determined to seek my old acquaintance in the synagogue. The Jews were then celebrating their Day of Atonement. Although I looked all 'round the synagogue I nowhere discovered the face of Shylock. I saw him not, but, towards evening, when, according to Jewish belief, the gates of Heaven are shut and no prayer can then obtain admittance, I heard a voice, with a ripple of tears that were never wept by eyes. It was a sob that could come only from a breast that held in it all the martyrdom which for eighteen centuries had been borne by a whole tortured people. It was the death rattle of a soul, sinking down deadtired at Heaven's gates. And I seemed to know the voice, and I felt that I had heard it long ago, when in utter despair it moaned out, then as now, 'Jessica, my child!'"

A FULFILMENT OF PROPHECY

I dwell for a moment longer upon this undying national tragedy. Long centuries before the Christ came, Hosea had uttered a remarkable prophecy: "For the Children of Israel," he said, "shall abide many days, without a prince, and without a sacrifice, and without an image, and without an ephod and without Teraphim." In every particular we find the prophecy fulfilled in the Jew of to-day. He has no king. He has no high priest, for the genealogies are lost and no one now knows who are of Aaron's family or who of Levi's. His system of sacrifice passed away forever, by what must seem, even to himself a strange coincidence, within a few years of the sacrifice of our Divine Lord on Calvary. The rabbis, who are his spiritual guides make no claim to be a priesthood and are officers unknown to the law. The ancient land of promise which the Jew still loves so dearly that his last wish is to be buried there is in the hands of hated strangers. The sovereign Turk, the Arab, the Christian even, have rights in the Holy City that are recognized, while the presence of the Jew is barely tolerated there; and in other lands where he has been compelled to make his home, what fate does he meet? He is gashed by Turkish scimitars or transfixed by Russian bayonets. Even tolerant, thoughtful Germany has its outbursts of Anti-Semitic mob fury. And among the Anglo-Saxon peoples, where his life and property are at length safe, the ancient prejudice finds vent in social scorn and in the coarse flings of supposedly comic papers. How it all recalls to us that word of Jeremiah, himself a Jewish prophet: "God hath" delivered them to be removed into all the kingdoms of the earth for their hurt to be a reproach and a proverb, a taunt and a curse, in all places whither I shall drive them" How it all seems to echo at the same time that it fulfils the dreadful cry that rang through the Praetorium 1900 years ago: "His blood be upon us and on our children."

Now this persistence of the Jew, of which we have been thinking is the great miracle of history. The Indians of America have all but died out before the invaders. The Jew lives on, spite of all. He is himself the burning bush—blazing, yet unconsumed—a beacon of warning to other nations that may neglect the day of their visitation. I am reminded of the young German ruler who asked his tutor to give him in as few words as possible, a proof of the truth of Christianity. The tutor simply replied: "The Jews, your majesty."

LENDRUM'S

STRIKE AT NIAGARA

Men Driven From Work in the Wheel Pit by Showers of Stones.

EIGHT HUNDRED NOW IDLE.

Militia Called Out. After the Strikers Had Practically Done as They Pleased All Day Monday — The Local Police Force Unable to Do More Than Look on — No Serious Injuries.

Niagara Falls, Nov. 3.—The strike of 800 laborers on the three Canadian Power Companies' construction work as a result of a reduction of 25 cents a day in wages has resulted in a complete tie-up of the company's property. The calling out of the militia and the swearing in of 30 special constables to guard the premises, which are threatened with violence from the angry mob which showed threatening symptoms all day yesterday, and well into the night. Last week the Ontario Power Co., the Canadian Niagara Power Co., and the Toronto Power Co. posted up in prominent places about their premises a notice that a reduction from $1.75 a day to $1.50 would go into effect yesterday. When the 450 laborers went to the Ontario Power Co.'s works yesterday morning they refused to go to work at the wage offered. They walked out of the works and down to the Toronto Power Company's works, and then to the Canadian Power Co., in each case inducing the laborers to join their ranks.

Rocks Hurled Down.

At the Canadian Power Co.'s wheel pit where Dawson and Riley have charge of the operation, the strikers compelled the workmen to desert from work by hurling rocks down at them a distance of 170 feet. In gangs of two and three hundred they patrolled up and down the river shore to see that no one went back to work. Several assaults were committed. William Young, a foreman on the fore bay of the Ontario Co.'s works made an attempt to repel the mob from gaining access to his men to intimidate them. He was knocked down and severely kicked about the face and body.

Frank Liblonde, a timekeeper, was also brutally assaulted and a young Italian who refused to quit at Dawson & Riley's was beaten nearly into insensibility.

Men Buy Revolvers.

In the afternoon the men invaded the village of Niagara Falls, buying up all the revolvers and knives for sale. In fear of further depredations being committed by the rioters, the three companies ordered the works shut down. All night long, No. 1 Company of the 44th Battalion and a detachment from Lundy's Lane Rifle Corps patrolled the river bank. Word had been received early in the evening that strikers had secured a quantity of dynamite and were likely to make an attempt to wreck the coffer cribs that hold the water back from the partially completed construction. One shot was fired between the Ontario Company's plant and the Canadian Niagara Company, but by whom could not be discovered. Several Italians, who largely compose the strikers, were discovered prowling about, but upon being challenged made off into the park. They could be seen hanging about in small groups all through the park in the vicinity of the power companies, conversing excitedly.

Mostly Foreigners.

The 800 workmen are composed of Italians, negroes, Hungarians, Poles, Crotians. The Italians and Poles are said to be the disturbing element. Their boarding-houses are on the top of the hill overlooking the three works. They have been drinking freely, and it was thought would make some lawless demonstrations.

But up till 2 o'clock no further acts of violence had been committed. One drunken Italian, however, got into a dispute in Niagara village with a young man named James Hamilton and drew his knife, which he plunged into Hamilton's face, inflicting a terrible wound. He made off in the direction of the boarding houses on the hill and is still at large.

Militia Called Out.

Requisitions were sent in to Col. Cruickshank early last night for military protection. Orders were issued to remove all the powder and explosives to a place of safety. Every man in the three companies' employ who had business around the plants were supplied with firearms and their meals sent to them, so necessary was it considered that every man should be on the spot to avert impending trouble.

Several of the officials of the companies involved were interviewed and it has been positively stated, however, that the rate of wages to these kind of laborers shall not exceed $1.50 per day. It was also stated by an official that if Wednesday is reached without a definite settlement of the trouble, something would be done that would guarantee the continuance of the works without any further trouble. The laborers, however, are to be paid to-day, according to a statement made at the Ontario Company's office last night, and it is then, when they obtain possession of their money, that trouble is looked for, if at all.

Dr. Shoop's
Rheumatic Cure

Costs Nothing If It Fails.

Any honest person who suffers from Rheumatism is welcome to this offer. For years I searched everywhere to find a specific for Rheumatism. For nearly 20 years I worked to this end. At last, in Germany, my search was rewarded. I found a costly chemical that did not disappoint me as other Rheumatic prescriptions had disappointed physicians everywhere.

I do not mean that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure can turn bony joints into flesh again. That is impossible. But it will drive from the blood the poison that causes pain and swelling, and then that is the end of Rheumatism. I know this so well that I will furnish free a full month my Rheumatic Cure on trial. I cannot cure all cases within a month. It would be unreasonable to expect that. But most cases will yield within 30 days. This trial treatment will convince you that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure is a power against Rheumatism—a potent force against disease that is irresistible.

My offer is made to convince you of my faith. My faith is but the outcome of experience—of actual knowledge. I know what it can do. And I know this so well that I will furnish my remedy on trial. Simply write me a postal card for my book on Rheumatism. I will then arrange with a druggist in your vicinity so that you can secure six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure to make the test. You may take it a full month on trial. If it succeeds the cost to you is $5.50. If it fails the loss is mine and mine alone. It will be left entirely to you. I mean that exactly. If you say the trial is not satisfactory I don't expect a penny from you.

I have no samples. Any mere sample that can affect chronic Rheumatism must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs for it is dangerous to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood. My remedy does that even in the most difficult cases. It has cured the oldest cases that I ever met, and in all of my experience, in all of my 2000 tests, I never found another remedy that would cure one chronic case in ten.

Write me and I will send you the book. Try my remedy for a month, for it can't harm you anyway. If it fails the loss is mine.

Address Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.

Mild cases not chronic are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

Soldiers Have Ammunition

E. D. Bartl, construction engineer, said that not over 50 per cent. of the men were in favor of a strike, but were urged through intimidation to lay down their tools and join their excited fellow-workmen. The police have spotted the ringleaders of the gang and are only waiting for the proper opportunity of rounding them up. The soldiers have been supplied with a full round of ammunition and will remain encamped in the various companies' premises till peace is restored. Capt. Coulson in command; Jas. Wilson, superintendent of the park, who has detailed his entire staff of constables to look after the threatened property, is of the opinion that the situation is quite dangerous and developments might be looked for at any moment.

The excitable nature of these foreigners, he thinks, might lead to almost any acts of violence if they were once thoroughly aroused. The most critical moment will be when they are paid to-day at 9 o'clock in the morning.

Startling Revelations.

It frequently happens that people suffer for years from kidney derangements without knowing the cause of their backaches, aching limbs and other bodily sufferings. Suddenly the truth is revealed to them that they are the victims of serious kidney disease and in imminent danger. There is no remedy that gives such prompt and lasting relief for every form of kidney disease as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are positively effective even in the most chronic cases.

Notes From Ottawa.

Murder at Sarnia.

Sarnia, Nov. 3.—At 7 o'clock last evening John Christie, caretaker at Bayview Athletic Park, just north of the town, discovered a man in a dying condition in the stable adjoining the race course. The man is about 50 years of age, slightly bald, and wore a heavy black moustache. Two bullet wounds were in his forehead, and three other shots from a 32-calibre revolver had been fired into the woodwork of the stable.

Hallowe'en Fatality.

DELIGHTFUL ADDRESS ON LORD TENNYSON.

First Regular Meeting of the Young Men's Guild of St. John's Church.

There was an interesting meeting of the Young Men's Guild of St. John's church in the Sunday school room last night, when the Literary Committee furnished an excellent programme, the feature being an address on Tennyson by Mr. F. D. Kerr.

The speaker dealt with Lord Tennyson as a poet of the highest order. He spoke of his boyhood, his university career, and showed how, although at first a lover of freedom and a strong writer in that cause, yet as he grew older he became more conservative, and thought, and wrote, on little outside of British concerns. Mr. Kerr read several beautiful passages from his poems, pointing out how clearly and in what musical language he couched his thoughts.

At the conclusion of the delightful address a vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Kerr for the pleasure it had afforded, and the interest he had shown in the new organization.

The next regular meeing of the Guild will be held on Monday, November 16th, which date all young men are asked to bear in mind.

The executive will meet next Monday, November 9th, in the Sunday school room, at 8 o'clock. A large attendance is requested.

NEW CASH CARRIER SYSTEM INSTALLED

In Store of Richard Hall & Sons, George Street.

Richard Hall & Son, with their usual progressiveness, are now installing in their store on George street, a system of cash carriers which they believe to be the most modern in existence. It is the Lanson system and is being installed by Mr. Alf. Willey, travelling linesman for the Lanson Consolidated Store Service Company, of Boston, Mass. The system being installed here is the only one of the kind in this part of Canada, the nearest city having an identical system being Montreal. The plan is a new one, and the system is operated by an electric motor. There are about 2,000 feet of steel track in the store, which includes the second story, and on this track a carrier runs propelled by a cable, which is in continuous operation. From the furthest point in the store the carrier will reach the desk in seven seconds. 1,000 feet of cable will be used, and 2,000 feet of track, which is six feet four inches from the ground. The whole service will be in operation to-morrow. A new till is also being used in connection with the system, by the adoption of which, change will be made much more readily, as it is always open.

The Chosen Friends will meet next Thursday Evening in S. O. E. Hall; Members will please attend and receive their policies. dt

An Electrical Contract.

Mr. Cyril Wilhelmy has been awarded the contract for installing in the different works of the Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company, including the machine shop, foundry, carpenter shop, etc., a complete system of electric lights. Mr. Wilhelmy now has a staff of men at work on this contract which calls for about 140 lights.

Last Night's Fire.

The fire brigade was given an unnecessary run to the Lock Works last night shortly after six o'clock. There was a small blaze, but it was quickly extinguished without the assistance of the brigade. A workman was carrying a torch, which it was necessary to use, because of the gas having failed, when he stumbled, and the torch ignited some Japan. The blaze was, however, of a very insignificant extent and was extinguished by means provided for the purpose.

The Musical Event of the Season.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. have arranged to present one of the best concert entertainments ever given in Peterborough in the opera house on THURSDAY evening, Nov. 19th. The array of artistic talent, musical and elocutionary, is a strong one, consisting of HAROLD JARVIS, the great tenor, in a programme of entirely new songs; OWEN SMILEY, elocutionist and musical entertainer, and MISS ALICE DEAN, a distinguished violinist. Think of the possibilities of musical enjoyment represented by a trio of such artists! Read Friday's local advertisement. Reserved seats, 75 cents and 50 cents; general admission, 25 cents. 1d

AN ACCIDENT TO MRS. R. McWHINNIE.

Injured While out Driving This Afternoon—A Shunting Train Caused the Accident.

This afternoon, about 2.30 o'clock Mrs. Robert McWhinnie, of 198 London street, accompanied by her daughter, was driving on Aylmer street, near the Cordage Works. The horse she was driving became frightened at a shunting engine and bolted, overturning the vehicle. Both occupants were thrown out. Mrs. McWhinnie striking on he head was rendered partially unconscious and received a slight cut on the head. Dr. McNulty was called and rendered the necessary surgical attention. The daughter was comparatively unhurt. Mrs. McWhinnie was conveyed home in the ambulance, and will, it is expected, soon recover from the shock of the accident.

C. D. A. LECTURE BY PROFESSOR HUTTON

To be Given on November 20th in Y. M. C. A. Hall.

The C.D.A. has been extremely fortunate in securing Professor Hutton, principal of Toronto University, to deliver a lecture here under the auspices of the above society ,on Nov. 20th. The secretary has received word that Professor Hutton will arrive here on the evening of the 20th. The lecture he will give is "The Wit and Wisdom of Herodotus," which is spoken off very highly wherever it has been delivered. The affair will be held in the Y.M.C.A. Hall, and in addition to the lecture a number of musical numbers will be introduced, making the event one of the most enjoyable of the season. More specific announcements will be made later.

DROPPED DEAD AFTER AN OPERATION.

Mr. W. Philp, Formerly of Peterborough Died in Toronto.

Word has been received in town of the death of a young man, a former resident of Peterborough, under more than ordinarily distressing circumstances. Mr. W. Philp, whose parents were formerly in business here, but who for the past 8 or 9 months have been living in Manitoba, is the victim of an untimely death. The young man has been suffering for some little time with an abscess and had gone to Toronto to be operated upon. The operation had been successfully performed at the General Hospital, and the young man was walking out of the building when he dropped dead. the cause of his death being given as heart failure. The news of his death will come as a severe shock to many of his friends here, with whom he was very popular.

LOST FOR A YEAR, FOUND YESTERDAY.

Mr. K. G. Loch Finds a Canoe After a Year's Search.

Mr. K. G. Loch and Mr. Cochrane, High Constable, made a trip to Burleigh yesterday in quest of a canoe which the former lost from McCracken's Landing about a year ago. The canoe in question mysteriously disappeared and for nearly a year no trace was to be had of it. But recently Mr. Loch learned that a boat answering to the description of the lost one had been seen in that part, and the owner with Mr. Cochrane went out yesterday in quest of the canoe. It was found in the possession of Mr. Robinson, who ,of course, did not know it had been stolen when he had purchased it from another resident of the same township. He gave the boat to Mr. Loch, who returned last night with his property.

NON-JURY SITTINGS

Of the High Court of Justice Held To-day.

The non-jury sittings of the High Court of Justice are being held to-day at the Court House, Mr. Justice MacMahon presiding.

There were two cases, the first being Mrs. A. Yelland and Mr. W.G. Yelland, executors of the will of the late Dr. Yelland, against Wm. Irwin, W. Shepard and R. R. Hall, Irwin and Shepard being trustees of a timber syndicate. Mrs. Yelland claimed that her husband had a twentieth interest in the timber limit, which latter was sold to the trustees for $40,000. After this transaction a defendant visited Mrs. Yelland and induced her to sell her husband's interest for $1,200, not telling her of the sale of the timber limit.

Mrs. Yelland claimed $2,200, the sum which she would have realized. D. W. Dumble for the plaintiffs. W. R. Riddell, Toronto, for R. R. Hall, and Hall & Hayes for Messrs. Irwin and Shepard.

The other case was that of Stratton vs. Donohue over a promisary note for $2,500. Judgment in favour of the plaintiff, A. H. Stratton.

STRANGE FREAKS OF AN ELECTRIC CURRENT.

House in Emily Township Destroyed by Lightning.

Mr. W. J. Perdue's New House Struck by Lightning—By Remarkable Chain of Circumstances no one was Killed.

There is a pretty thankful family over in the township of Emily, just across the line between that township and Ennismore, about 11 miles from Peterborough, and, according to the statements of Mr. W. J. Perdue, the head of the family, they have every reason to be thankful, even though they did meet with a severe loss. That they are still alive after the experience through which they have passed is nothing short of a miracle.

On Saturday afternoon last, Mrs. Perdue was working in the kitchen, performing her usual Saturday duties, and with her were her three children, all of them small. About four o'clock a thunder storm occurred, and although it was of short duration, it was sufficiently severe to work considerable damage to the property. One bolt of lightning struck the chimney on the Perdue house, completely demolishing it, and scattering the bricks to the four winds; so great was the force of the stroke that bricks were hurled 500 yards from the scene. The current, according to the story of Mr. Perdue, who is the authority for the facts narrated here, appeared to separate, one portion leaving the chimney and passing out through the south wall of the house, which is a frame structure, and comparatively new, having been erected but three years ago. The result of this separation was that the wall of the house through which the current went was blown completely out. The other portion continued its way down the chimeny and through the stove pipes, carrying destruction in its wake. The line of pipes was cut and twisted into almost unrecognizable shapes, and the stove blown to atoms. This stove it must be remembered, was in the room in which Mrs. Perdue and her children were, and how they escaped with their lives is wonderful. Every bit of furniture in the room was destroyed, a chair, from which a boy who had been sitting on it, fell, was broken into a dozen pieces, but the boy, fortunately was merely stunned. After having smashed things generally in the kitchen, the electric fluid continued its way through the floor into the cellar, where it seemed to explode, as the result of which, the kitchen floor and everything in the cellar were destroyed. It passed out through the foundation wall and into the ground.

The house, Mr. Perdue says, is a complete wreck, and will have to be torn down to be repaired. One wall is entirely blown out, and the interior of the house torn up, together with the furniture contained in it. Mr. Perdue's loss will be heavy as he carried only a small amount of insurance on the house, and none whatever on the furniture.

Mr. Perdue, who was ploughing at the same time, about 50 yards from the house, was thrown down by the shock and remained insensible for some little time. The team ran away with the plough, but were unhurt. Mr. William Nurse, who lives on the next farm, was also ploughing in his field, about 40 rods from Mr. Perdue's house, and was knocked down and stunned, but otherwise was uninjured. A barn, about 80 yards from Mr. Perdue's house, was not struck, and no other buildings in that vicinity came within the range of the current.

The house was visited on Sunday by over 100 persons, and when the results of the destructive power of the lightning were seen, it was almost incomphrensible that those who were in the house at the time were not killed or that the building was not burned.

The house was a very comfortable one, and Mr. Perdue will suffer considerable loss and much inconvenience. It was insured by the Davis-Thompson Company, of town.

THREE SUBJECTS ARE DOWN FOR DISCUSSION.

Meeting of the Board of Trade Will be Held This Evening.

A meeting of the Board of Trade that ought to be of interest to the general public and that will no doubt attract a large attendance of citizens generally will be held this evening in the Council Chamber. The Alaskan Boundary will be dealt with by Mr. Fenwenden. The Chamberlain preferential policy will be taken up by Mr. Kendry, M.P., who will come down especially from Toronto to speak against it. The conservation of the waters of the Northern Lakes will be the third subject. These three subjects certainly will furnish food for a useful discussion, more especially the last, which will be of more immediate interest to the people of Peterborough than the other two. In view of the fact that the county is so thoroughly roused over the Boundary question it will be interesting to hear what the discussion will bring forth.

The public generally is not only invited to attend, but express their views.

DRESS GOODS STORE

Our Dress Goods stock is both immense and select. Here you will see a decidedly different assortment of Dress Goods to what you see in other stores.

The citizens of Peterborough have been particularly enthusiastic over our Dress Goods Assortment this season. They compliment us on having an assortment that for both variety and values surpasses any of our previous efforts. You had better come and see our assortment.

Broadcloths at 85c All the good, desirable colourings for this season, Browns, Navy Blues, Myrtle, Greens and Black, 46 inches wide and with weight enough to make a handsome coat and skirt and a finish that looks more like goods you pay $1.25 per yd. for. Our price only 85c per yard.

Boucle or Curl Cloths One of the prettiest of this season's fabrics is a curl cloth in plain colours such as Reseda Green, Myrtle, Grenat and Navy Blue, a lovely cloth for either dresses or suits; 46 inches wide, our price, $1.15 per yard.

Flake Suitings Pretty colourings and entirely different to what you see elsewhere. Our importing facilities enable us to show you exclusive designs, prices are decidedly low; you must see them.

Ladies' Neckwear We have just placed in stock an elegant assortment of American designs in Neckwear. It's an early shipment of our Christmas Assortment. You will do well to come and see them. The assortment is large and the styles new—everyone of them.

Millinery Another new lot of felt shapes for trimming just to hand, in Browns, Beavers, Navy, Green, Red, Black and White. Another new lot of trimmings in Wings, Birds and Pom Poms just received. Leave your orders early in the week. You will get better attention than in the rush at the end of the week.

Jackets This is the weather for jackets. Our assortment is such that you can depend on getting just what you are looking for here. Ladies' Misses' and Children's Jackets in an immense variety and values better than you can imagine.

A CANADIAN ON CUBA'S PROSPERITY.

Mr. Bernard Tate Interviewed on Monday Morning.

Good Prospects for a Farmer With Capital—The Products and Commerce of the Island.

"For the farmer who is looking for some place to begin," said Mr. Bernard Tate to an Examiner reporter yesterday, "there is in my opinion, no place like the Island of Cuba. The climate is as near to perfection as it is possible to be. From July to September is what is called the rainy season, which is also the warmest part of the year. A great many people have a very exaggerated idea of the rainy season. They imagine that it does nothing but rain from morning until night, for two or three months. In this they are mistaken. Sometimes, for a week at a time it will rain every day, at the same hour, and rain hard for about two hours. Then the sun comes out brightly, and within an hour one would never know it had rained. But as a rule, it rains about three times a week. I was in Cuba all through the rainy season and never saw more than two days that were gloomy all day. As to the temperature if one is in the sun it is certainly hot, but as soon as you step into the shade it is delightfully cool, nice cool breezes blowing all the time. A person never experiences that stifling heat which we feel here in summer. The evenings are always cool, making sleep most refreshing.

"Land in Cuba can be bought for from $2 an acre up, the price depending upon the location. The land in the immediate vicinity of Havana is the most expensive. All the land in Cuba is very fertile and will probably yield three or four times as much as any ground in the United States or Canada. Another great advantage is that the land can be worked from year's end to year's end unceasingly, and some things will produce two and three crops a year. Big money is being made every year in truck farming—growing vegetables for the winter markets in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and other American markets, and those engaged in the business will tell you that they clear $400 and $500 per acre at truck farming alone.

"Fruit growing is fast becoming one of Cuba's most important products, pine apples already being shipped from there in large quantities and more are being planted yearly, and judging from the extent of the orange groves being set out, Cuba in a few years promises to out do Florida, California and other orange producing sections. The Cuban grown oranges are thin skinned and juicy and possess that fine flavour so much sought after in oranges. Grape fruit and lemons are also being set out in large numbers.

"The Cuban Government is succeeding far beyond the expectations of the United States or even of the Cubans themselves, and law and order are perfectly maintained by a very efficient police force. In fact policemen are scarcely necessary as the tendency of the people on the whole is towards peace and quietness. All the Cubans confidentially expect to see the reciprocity treaty with the United States passed during the special session of the Congress next month and the merchants claim that as soon as that question is settled, no matter which way it goes, the already good business standing will be greatly augumented.

"Large numbers of Americans and Canadians are going to Cuba to indulge in some or other of her enterprises, chiefly farming or fruit raising and on the whole the island is rapidly progressing, and in the near future we may confidently expect to see Cuba take her stand with the other great commercial countries of the world."

Mr. Bernard Tate, together with Mr. Steven Borrodaile left yesterday for New York where they will tomorrow noon embark upon the steamer "Mexico," of the Ward Line, for Havannah, which they will reach on Friday afternoon or Saturday morning.

Mr. Bernard Tate has been home for a short visit of two or three weeks and has been in Cuba for the past six months.

SURVEYORS RETURN FROM THE FAR NORTH.

Interesting Incidents of a Trip to New Ontario.

The Country is Well Timbered and Soil of Good Quality—Encounter With Shipwrecked Sailors.

The Cameron surveying party, consisting of Messrs. A. J. Cameron, O.L.S., J. A. Patterson, J. Cameron, J. Byrnes, of Peterborough, F. Caddy, Jas. Emlough, and F. Anderson of Campbellford; B. Holmes and Walter McGregor, of the School of Practical Science, Toronto, and two Indians and a guide from Mattawa, have just returned after having spent four months in New Ontario, surveying in the new townships about to be thrown open for settlement by the Ontario Government. The Peterborough section of the party reached here on Friday night, having left the township of Walker, in which they were working, on October 13th, the time in the interval having being occupied in making the journey.

Mr. J. A. Patterson, one of the members of the party, in a pleasant interview with the Examiner, gave some very interesting information in reference to the country and its resources. The incidents of the trip need not be dealt with, as that feature has been well described in the letters by Mr. J. A. Fife, which the Examiner has been publishing periodically.

The journey from Klock's Depot to the township of Walker was made entirely by canoes, and occupied nearly two weeks time. The country traversed is all very thickly timbered and in some places quite rocky. For more than half the distance the trip was made through the province of Quebec through a chain of small lacks and connecting rivers, including Quinze, Barrier, Long, Island, and Upper Lakes, passing over the height of land, where a portage of a mile was necessary, until upper Lake Abitibi was reached. This is a body of water of considerable size, about thirty miles long, and a most treacherous lake, as much so as Rice Lake. From this lake to the scene of the party's operations the trip was made through the Lower Abitibi Lake and the Abitibi River which flows northward into James Bay.

Walker township was reached on July 28th, and within a few days Mr. Fife left the party to return home. Mr. Cameron had been assigned two townships to survey, those of Walker and Clergue, but beyond running a base line across the latter, their operations were confined entirely to the former, where the side lines and concessions were all laid out.

The land is described as being of a clay loam, and apparently particularly adapted to agriculture, the vegetation growing so rank that in some places it is difficult to walk through it. The country is well wooded, spruce, popkar and balsam being the principal woods, with a sprinkling of white birch. Another feature of it which is of special importance to the intending settler, is the fact that it is well watered, springs of refreshingly cool water are found everywhere in abundance, and the party never lacked good water. The land here is said to be even better than that in the vicinity of New Liskeard, and the building of the new Government railway through this section, and the Grand Trunk Pacific, which is also expected to pass through this part, will open up for settlement a portion of the province as productive as any of the older and more thickly populated portions. That the good quality of the land and the desirability of the country generally is being recognized is proven by the fact that during the whole time the party was there prospective settlers were coming to the townships being opened and thoroughly investigating the conditions there, and, with the advance of the railway, a rapid settlement is bound to take place. The great future of this northern part of the country is entirely incomprehensible, but that a wonderful development is bound to result is an absolutely assured fact.

The Abitibi River, which flows northward for a distance of over 200 miles, emptying into James Bay at Moose Factory, flows through a country uninhabited by white men, except by a few Hudson Bay Company's posts, and is bounded by banks heavily timbered for the entire distance.

One incident of more than usual interest occurred shortly before the party left Walker to return home. One morning, on arising, the members of the party were surprised, and at first considerably disturbed, to see five or six large canoes, each manned by about a dozen men, coming up the river. Their fears, however, proved to be groundless, for as those in the canoes disembarked, it was found that they were not bent upon an errand of destruction, but were shipwrecked sailors on their way to Quebec. They told a pitiful story of hard luck. It appears that they formed the crew of a steamer sent out from France to Hudson's Bay by a company that proposed to enter into competition with the Hudson's Bay Company in the north. They brought a steamer loaded with provisions and a costly cargo of dry goods and fancy articles, with which they hoped to catch the trade of the Indians. Unfortunately, however, their steamer was wrecked in Hudson's Bay and very little of the valuable cargo was saved. They were in such a plight that the project of establishing trading stations throughout the country had to be abandoned, and the great question was How to get back to France? Here they were wrecked on the shores of a country, the majority of the inhabitants of which were in the employ of a company to which they were proposing to establish themselves in opposition, and without whose assistance it would be almost utterly impossible to return to the country from which they came. They were able, however to procure from the Hudson Bay Company the canoes, six in number, and by the way they were Peterborough canoes, about 30 feet long, and large enough to carry twelve men with baggage and provisions, in which to make the long and perilous journey, over 200 miles up the Abitibi River to the lake of the same name, and for another 100 miles before they reached a point where they might take a steamer on Lake Temiskaming, and eventually reach Quebec, where they hoped to get a boat back to France. When they reached the camp of Mr. Cameron's party they had been travelling nearly a month against the swift waters of the Abitibi River, and in all that journey they had not seen a white man's face, until they saw those of the Cameron party. A very short stay was made by the travellers because their provisions were short, and they still had many miles to go before they would reach another Hudson's Bay Company's post where they were to obtain a fresh supply. They related that they had been obliged to leave behind at a point on the Abitibi, a French prince and his wife, who had accompanied them from France. On the long canoe trip the lady had taken ill, and had been compelled to take a rest. About a week following the passing of the main body, the prince and his wife, in a 35-foot birch bark canoe with their attendants, passed up and would probably overtake those who had preceded them.

Mr. Cameron's party, which was the last one to leave that country, started for home on October 13th, and already the weather was becoming quite cold, and ice had formed on the shores of the lakes. This was doubtless the expression in that region of the little shiver of winter we had a few days ago. The members of the party express great confidence in the future of that portion of the province, and it is anticipated that when railway connection is given, it will settle very rapidly.

COULD NOT GET WATER IN UNTIL NEXT SPRING.

A Meeting at the Board of Health was Held this Morning.

A meeting of the local Board of Health was held this morning at 9.30 o'clock, in the committee room, with the following in attendance: Messrs Wm. Eyres, A. Parker, G. Schneider, Mayor Roger, Drs. Burnham, McNulty and Bingham, and Chief Rossel, Sanitary Inspector.

In the absence of the chairman, Mr Robert Neill, Mr. Eyres was on motion, appointed to preside.

Mrs. Hall, Queen street, whose well was ordered by the Board to be closed, appeared and stated that after receiving her notice she had the next day applied for water, but that the connections could not be put in this winter.

Mr. Munroe of the Munroe House, informed the Board that he only used his well, which the Board had ordered him to close, for watering the horses of his customers, and that he had been informed by Mr. Henderson that water connection could not be laid until next spring.

Mr. O'Shea, of the Commercial House, repeated Mr. Monroe's remarks in regard to his own well, which, however, had already been closed,

Mr. Cavanagh, of the Phelan House, said that although his well was used mostly for watering purposes yet the neighbours came and got the water to drink sometimes.

After all had been heard it was moved and seconded that those who have applied to the Water Commissioners for water, be allowed to remain open until they can get the town water, provided the water from the wells used for drinking purposes, be boiled.

It was moved and seconded that the Water Commissioners be advised of cases in which wells have been condemned, and which the excuse is given that they cannot provide town water, and that the Commissioners be requested in the interests of the public health to supply them as soon as possible, and that the Council be advised of the difficulties with which the Board is confronted in providing for the public health in this respect, and that the chairman and Mr. Eyres be a deputation from the Board to report this resolution to the Water Commissioners and the Council.

It was moved and seconded that the accounts of the Nicholls and St. Joseph's Hospitals be paid.

A communication was read from Sister M. Agatha, of St. Joseph's Hospital, offering in reply to the proposition of the chairman, to treat diphtheria patients for one year, to November 2nd, 1904, for $1500.

On motion it was resolved that the communication be received and laid over for consideration, and that St. Joseph's Hospital be asked to take diphtheria patients in the meantime on per diem charge until the matter is settled.

The Board then adjourned until Monday morning next at 9.30.

THE GRAND TRUNK CONSTRUCTS SIDING.

Planning for an Extension of Business With the Cereal Co.

The Grand Trunk Railway yesterday began work widening the roadbed of their line from the tool house at Auburn southward to Smith street. Two long sidings will be put in, one on each side of the present line for the accommodation and facilitation of transfer of cars to the Cereal Company. The sidings will be somewhat similar to those on the C.P.R. spur line, but the G.T.R. will not be able to effect an entrance to the Cereal Company's mills over their own rails until the new dam is completed when a line of track will be run over the cement piers. A construction train is busy on the scene and is assisted by a number of teams with scrapers. It is said that the Cereal Company will have their own shunting engine, and will transfer the cars from both the C. P. R. and G. T. R. sidings

NOTICE.

All those having accounts owing the late W. A. Sanderson, watchmaker and jeweller, will please call and settle their accounts at the store, on or before the 15th day of November, 1903, as after that date the estate will hand them over to their lawyers for collection. 3d101

THE WASPS HAD LEFT THE NEST

And High County Constable Cochrane Secured a Prize.

Mr. George Cochrane, High Constable, took a trip to Burleigh yesterday, and, in addition to the business which took him there, incidentally did some prospecting on his own account, and as a result brought back a wasp's nest which, for size and quality, will be hard to beat. It measures in circumference 34 and 40 inches, and is in a good state of preservation. Needless to say, there were none of the former inhabitants in it when Mr. Cochrane secured it.

LEOPARD INJURES OFFICER.

Major Leckie, Canadian, May Lose His Life in Somaliland.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—A well-known Canadian officer, Major Leckie, has been seriously, if not fatally, injured by a leopard in Somaliland. This news is embodied in the following cablegram received here yesterday from Lord Strathcona:

"Lord Lansdowne sends me the following telegram from Col. Swayne: 'I regret to inform you that Major R. G. R. Leckie dangerously mauled by a leopard.' In conveying news to relatives please say how deeply I sympathize, and that I will immediately cable any further despatches received by War Office."

Major Leckie comes from Tarbrook, N.S. He served in Strathcona's Horse, and afterwards in the 2nd Canadian Mounted Rifles.

THE STRENUOUS LIFE

A Great Strain.

No one disputes the fact that we are living in a "rapid" age; it is rush, rush, rush, from morning until night, and competition is so fierce that the struggle does not cease until the machine is worn out. .

Women, too ,even when surrounded by every comfort, become infected by the common spirit, and what with their clubs and many social duties, have no time to give thought to their physical well-being, until they are suddenly brought to a sharp realisation of the fact that nothing is so important as attention to correct or rational living.

It may surprise the reader to learn that women are more prone to piles than men, and in most cases because it is difficult to impress upon them the importance of regular movement of the bowels; irregularity means straining at stool, and straining means piles, with the certainty, under the usual methods of treatment, that the sufferer will "have them always with her;" by "usual methods" is meant the application of salves and lotions, or (as a last resort) a surgical operation.

If there is a complaint which entails more distress and suffering upon those afflicted than piles or hemorrhoids, it is not known to the writer; fortunately however these are learning that there is a remedy that effectually cures all forms of piles; it is known as the Pyramid Pile Cure, is in suppository form, is applied directly to the parts, and does its work quickly and painlessly; it is sold by druggists at 50 cents a package, or will be mailed by the makers to any address upon receipt of price.

Mrs. L. M. Joliff, Pharisburg ,Ohio, says, "I feel it my duty to acknowledge the great benefit I have received from the use of Pyramid Pile Cure. For several months I suffered untold agony from the bleeding piles and was finally advised by a Columbus doctor to get Pyramid Pile Cure at once, which I did, and one box completely cured me. I advise all sufferers to use it." Write the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., for their little book on the causes and cure of piles.

Nothing Against Levy.

Montreal, Nov. 3.—Judge Hall sentenced Backrack and Blakely to a fine of $100 each and two hours' confinement. The Crown proceedings against Levy will be dropped.

500 Thrown Out of Work.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Five hundred men engaged in making meat tins at the stock yards have been thrown out of work by the strike of the canners.

VIEW OF MR. FOSTER

Need of Protection in Britain Stronger Than He Imagined.

BLUR OF COBDENITE BELIEF

Ex-Minister of Finance Says Canada Favors the Chamberlain Plan—Britain Would Welcome Mr. Tarte—His Participation in the Fiscal Would Cause Delight—Sir Gilbert Parker's Mission Abroad.

London, Nov. 3.—(C.A.P.)—The dependence of Mr. Chamberlain upon Canadians is the marked feature of the present fiscal contest. It is not generally known that Mr. Chamberlain before announcing his policy sent Sir Gilbert Parker abroad to study the effects of protection and see leading men and firms. Hon. George E. Foster is styled "excessively clever" by the British press. He starts his speeches on Wednesday night, giving his days and his nights to add to the literature of the great question. Hon. Mr. Tarte's possible arrival on the scene is hailed with delight, as adding picturesqueness to a campaign which is filled with dull figures.

A leading emigration and shipping agent of the Midlands, writing Mr. Chamberlain, said he was in possession of undated inquiries from agriculturists as to the prospect held out by the colonies as regards grain farming. The letters were inspired by the fiscal policy, the writer said, and he was pressing upon the correspondents the superior claims of Canada for their enterprise.

The Morning Standard beseeches Mr. Chamberlain at Birmingham on Wednesday to endeavor to meet the arguments of his opponents and not to dispose of them by a rhetorical appeal to the emotions. There was nothing in the economic crisis to necessitate his resignation from his office and he should have remained to legislate the difficulties. It fails to see the proofs of the Empire's peril.

The falling of the shipbuilding trade has caused employers on the Tyne, Wear and Tees to give notice of a reduction of 5 per cent. on piece rates and 36 cents per week in time wages. There are 14,000 men affected.

H. Forster, M. P., second Government whip, said he would be a free trader if it were possible, but the whole policy of other countries made it absolutely impossible.

Mr. Foster gives to yesterday's Express a long interview regarding Canada's attitude toward tariff reform. He says: "The Cobdenite belief casts an awful blur upon the people's mind. The country had just as much right to make defensive tariffs as to call armies to the field in the time of war, and that Canadian feeling where alongside a powerful and well-protected neighbor. Canada had to struggle as best she could from an absolutely unassisted commercial point of view by the Mother Country, was that Canada heartily favored the Chamberlain scheme." The Daily Express says that Mr. Foster made a quick, clear, direct speech, and exhibited all the qualities of a man of affairs.

London, Nov. 3.—Hon. George E. Foster, speaking to the Canadian Press representative, said: "Since coming to England I find the need of protection stronger than I imagined. England, barehanded, is fighting the whole world, entrenched, and armed with sabre and rifle. For the first time in the history of Great Britain she is thinking, and her veneration of Cobden staggers. Judging from the Liverpool meeting I believe the working class of England is with Chamberlain."

In the Air.

London, Nov. 3.—The St. James' Gazette commenting on Sir Richard Vernon Harcourt's speech at Rawtenstall, says: "The resolution of the Toronto Board of Trade and Canada's offer to South Africa show that commercial union of the Empire is in the air."

Getting Up Early.

"I can't get up early," said a wealthy gentleman to his doctor.

"Oh, yes, you can," was the reply, "if you will only follow my advice. What is your usual hour of rising?"

"Nine o'clock."

"Well, get up half an hour later every day, and in the course of a month you will find yourself up at 4 in the morning."

Misers.

"Did you ever notice that almost all the misers mentioned in the papers are single men?" asked Mr. Watts.

"Yes," answered Mrs. Watts. "Married misers are too common to be worth mentioning."

Everything comes to him who waits, but this doesn't include books that have been borrowed.

Kidney trouble was the trouble.

Doan's Kidney Pills

Cured Mr. George Graves, Pitts Ferry, Ont., of a very bad case of kidney trouble.

He tells about the cure in the following words: "I cannot recommend Doan's Kidney Pills too highly. I never took anything that did me so much good. I had a severe pain in the small of my back and could scarcely get up or down without help. I could hardly urinate, but when I did the pain was terrible. I was in the Hotel Dieu, Kingston, last winter and when I came out I was some better but not cured. It was then I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised. Since taking them I have been completely cured and have not had any trouble with my kidneys since."

NOT UNDERSTOOD.

Not understood. We move along asunder
Our paths grow wider as the seasons creep
Along the years; we marvel and we wonder
Why life is life, and then we fall asleep—
Not understood.

Not understood. We gather false impressions
And hug them closer as the years go by
Till virtues often seem to us transgressions
And thus men sin and fall and live and die—
Not understood.

Not understood. Poor souls with stunted vision
Oft measure giants by their narrow gauge;
The poisoned shafts of falsehood and derision
Are oft impelled 'gainst those who mold the age—
Not understood.

Not understood. The secret springs of action
Which lie beneath the surface and the show
Are disregarded. With self satisfaction
We judge our neighbors, and they often go—
Not understood.

Not understood. How trifles often change us!
The thoughtless sentence or the fancied slight
Destroy long years of friendship and estrange us,
And on our souls there falls a freezing blight—
Not understood.

Not understood. How many breasts are aching
For lack of sympathy! Ah, day by day,
How many cheerless, lonely hearts are breaking!
How many noble spirits pass away
Not understood.

O God, that men would see a little clearer
Or judge less harshly when they cannot see!
O God, that men would draw a little nearer
To one another! They'd be nearer Thee,
And understood.

DANGER IN SODA SIPHONS.

They May Explode and Cause Injury to Those Who May Be Near.

Do you know that the siphon bottle ordinarily used for vichy, soda water and other effervescent drinks is usually charged with a pressure of from 120 to 160 pounds to the square inch? The danger likely to result from an explosion of one of these little household articles is by no means inconsiderable, and yet the average person handles a siphon as though it were the most harmless thing in the world.

There are two or three things to remember in handling siphons; Never keep your siphons near the range, for the unusual heat is more likely than anything else to cause an explosion. Don't subject the bottle to any sudden change of temperature whatever. For instance, if you keep your siphons in the ice box and that is the best and safest place for them—don't grasp the glass part of the bottle with your warm hand, for the sudden change of temperature is apt to cause an explosion. The best way to carry a siphon at all times is by the metal top at the head of the bottle. It is needless to say the greatest care should be taken not to drop a siphon, for an explosion is the inevitable result. When empty, the siphon is, of course, quite harmless.

That these bottles are considered a great source of danger is evidenced by the fact that the courts inevitably hold the bottlers strictly liable for all damages resulting from the explosion of one of them if even the slightest defect in the manufacture of the bottle can be shown.

An Offensive Cravat.

A good story of Whistler and his peculiarities is told in the Free Lance. A gentleman went to Whistler with a letter of introduction and sent up his card with the letter. The servant presently brought down the card with a note in pencil on it—"Who is the greatest painter?" The visitor promptly wrote "Whistler" and was immediately shown upstairs. An amusing scene followed, arising out of the fact that the visitor was wearing a red necktie. Whistler declared it interfered with the color scheme of his room and "put him off" a picture he was painting in quite a different "key." Finally he obliged him to take off the offending cravat before he would condescend to exchange another word with him.

Lucky Man.

In crossing the ocean a father and son both became very seasick. The father recovered quickly, but the son was so exhausted with the attack that he sank into a state of apathy, from which it seemed impossible to arouse him.

The steamer physician, thinking he would try a sudden shock, said: "I have bad news for you. Your father is dead!"

The son, raising his expressionless eyes to the doctor, replied, "Lucky man!"

A Remarkable River in Spain.

There is in Spain a river called the Tinto, which has very extraordinary qualities. Its waters, which are as yellow as a topaz, harden the sand and petrify it in a most surprising manner. If a stone falls into the river and rests upon another they both become perfectly united and conglutinated in a year. It withers all the plants on its banks as well as the roots of trees, which it dyes of the same hue as its waters. No fish live in its stream.

This Horse Knew.

A doctor was returning home from visiting a patient late one night in company with a clergyman, when the horse stopped short at one of the most dangerous grade crossings within the city's limits. Absorbed in lively conversation with his clerical friend and seeing no gate down, he mechanically touched the horse with the whip and urged it by his voice to go forward. But the spirited animal for once would not respond and instead of obeying stepped briskly aside and turned his head as far as possible from the train which just then whizzed by at the rate of forty miles an hour.

It was a close call for the occupants of the carriage, who sat breathless through the moments of terrible suspense, but the horse maintained its attitude of a half circle until the danger had passed. It seems the gatekeeper was asleep at his post and had neglected his duty, but the delicate ears of the horse had detected the sound of the coming train.

A Double Test of Quality.

We placed side by side in our workshops two silver-plated Pudding Dishes, one made by a large Canadian wholesale silver-plating firm, the other made by Henry Birks & Sons.

Our purpose was to strip each of its silver, and ascertain the quantity of silver on each piece.

We did so.

The result astonished us.

Marmalade Pot with Spoon, Glass Bowl, Cover and Spoon—an example of this heavy Silver Plating. We will send it prepaid to any address for the above price.

Exactly five times more silver was found on the piece of our own manufacture than on the one made by the wholesale house.

To assure ourselves of the correctness of the test, we took two Teapots in the same way, and found four times as much silver on the one of our own manufacture than on the other.

This fine quality of silver-plating is what we offer the people of Canada through our Mail Order Department.

There is no keener agony than that which results from the itching, burning, stinging sensations of eczema, salt rheum, tetter and other forms of Itching Skin Disease.

In despair you feel that you could tear the skin from the flesh if it would only bring you relief and allow you rest and sleep. But in spite of the best efforts of leading physicians these torturing diseases often grow worse instead of better, until they seem to to almost incurable.

It is not claimed that Dr. Chase's Ointment performs miracles, and yet many of the cures brought about by this famous preparation are truly marvellous.

When Baby Millar became a victim of eczema her parents did everything that could be done to get her cured. Three doctors tried every means in their power, but without success, and then all sorts of remedies were used with the vain hope that something would bring relief from the disease that seemed to be burning up the living flesh.

This case, which is certified to by a prominent school teacher and Sunday school superintendent, further confirms the position of Dr. Chase's Ointment as first among all soothing and healing preparations.

Dr. Chase's Ointment is standard the world over, and it is for this reason that when a dealer offers you any other ointment he tries to make a sale by saying it is just as good as Dr. Chase's.

MARY MILLAR.

The record of cures brought about by Dr. Chase's Ointment is unparalleled in the history of medicine, and you cannot afford to experiment with substitutes.

Mrs. Wm. Millar, St. Catharines, Ont., writes:—"My daughter Mary, when six months old, contracted eczema, and for three years this disease baffled all treatment. Her case was one of the worst that ever came to my notice, and she suffered what no pen can ever describe. I had her treated by three different doctors, but all to no purpose whatever, and all sorts of balms, soaps and lotions were tried with no beneficial results.

"Finally I decided to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and to my surprise she began to improve immediately, and after regular treatment for a time the disease of so long standing completely disappeared. As that was four years ago, and not a symptom of this distressing ailment has ever shown itself since, the cure must certainly be a permanent one. At the time of this cure we were living in Cornwall, Ont., and the doctors there feared that if she was not cured of eczema she would go into a decline."

Mr. S. Richardson, jun., Superintendent Christ Church Sunday School, St. Catharines, Ont., writes:—"I am acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Millar and believe they would not make any statement knowing it to be in any way misleading or untrue."

The K. and L. EXPRESS ROBBERY

By W. BERT FOSTER

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

One of the most peculiar cases that ever came under my notice, said Captain Spink, was the K. and L. express robbery, which occurred when I was a member of the old steamboat squad. My work consisted mostly in investigating river piracies and keeping a sharp eye upon that small but exceedingly active fraternity of smugglers who operate in New York harbor.

The K. and L. Express company had an office on Long wharf, at the foot of Jones street, and, doing a foreign business only, as they did, their storage rooms were on the wharf too.

The storage shed was a two story building of brick. The office, which adjoined it, was at the extreme end of the wharf. It was built of wood and corrugated iron.

Craft were passing the end of the wharf all night long. There was a ferry slip near by. Every vessel at the dock had its keeper, and the property of the company itself was watched by an old and trusted watchman. Besides, the gates of the wharf were locked at 7 o'clock in the evening, and if a lighter had left the place it would have been spied by one of the police patrol boats which ply up and down the river all night long.

Yet that shanty was broken into, and out of it was removed a safe weighing a couple of tons and containing money packets and valuables to an amount that made the entire downtown police department wake up with a decided sheck.

The K. and L. people were wild, and well they might be. The chief took hold of the matter himself, and I was one of the men selected to go down to the scene of the robbery with him. And I tell you frankly I was sorry to be put on the job, for as soon as I heard the circumstances surrounding this break it looked to me like a blank wall that would be mighty hard either to climb over or dig through.

The first report we got was that the two story office had been blown half to pieces by the force of the charge of dynamite which the robbers had used to try to force the safe. And yet nobody along the water front had heard the explosion!

That was bad enough for a beginning. And when we got to the wharf we learned that, despite the wreck of the building, the burglars had evidently been unable to force the safe and had finally carried it away with them.

The corner of the structure was torn away, and as soon as the chief learned that the safe in question had stood right there where the floor was gaping and the walls blown out he declared it to be his belief that the force of the charge used to open the safe had blown the iron box clean through the wall and that it was at the bottom of the river. He was so sure of this that he sent over to the Navigation company's offices for a diver to go down and poke about in the mud near the dock.

It was between 7 and 8 o'clock in the morning when we had first been informed of the mystery, so the job was not many hours old. The company's watchman was already in custody and was scared blue. It seemed that he had been sitting up daytimes with his sick child for the better part of a week, and he had just keeled over on this night and slept like a log in the storage building—was sleeping, in fact, when the longshoremen came to work. He swore the robbery could not have been committed before midnight. He had made his regular rounds until after that hour.

Then I made the discovery by talking to the first clerk who had arrived on the scene that the door of the office building had been locked the same as usual, nor had there been a window unfastened. Therefore, added to the rest of the mystery, was the question, How had the robbers entered the office and mounted to the second floor, where the safe was kept? But the chief was so confident that the safe really had not been stolen, only blown through the wall and had fallen into the water, that he would do nothing until he had heard the report of the diver.

But I looked over the wreck again. The force which had carried the safe away must have been irresistible. Chairs were smashed; one desk was a mass of wreckage. I picked up in a corner a piece of what I supposed to be a part of a picture frame, for one side of the stick was heavily gilded.

"Where's the rest of the picture?" I asked the head clerk, and I showed him the bit of gilded wood.

"Why, there wasn't a picture on the wall," he declared. "I don't know where that came from."

Now, that was a little thing, but it was too odd to be overlooked. I set my mind at work upon that broken piece of wood.

As it was not a picture frame and there had been nothing in the office that was gilded, I could not understand how it got there. As I stood in the wrecked room and looked through the ragged hole in the wall which gave me a clear view of the river my eyes rested upon a big vessel being towed in to her dock.

It was a clear day, and the sun flashed from her brass work and trimmings and glittered upon her massive figurehead. And the sight sent an illuminating ray into the fog of my mind.

The diver had arrived with a truck load of paraphernalia, but I took a trip along the docks, going aboard each vessel in the neighborhood and interviewing as many of the watchmen or sailors who had been in the vicinity during the night as I could find.

I learned several things. First, there had been a heavy fog during the evening and for at least two hours after midnight. Then the wind changed and the sun had risen clearly.

It was quite true that nobody seemed to have heard such an explosion as must have occurred when the safe of the K. and L. company was blown through the office wall. But one watchman on a cattle ship two slips from the express dock had heard a noise between 2 and 3 o'clock which he had not attributed to the mystery of the lost safe, however.

"There no explosion, officer," he told me. "That I'll be willin' to swear to."

"What did it sound like?" I asked.

"Sure, 'twas more like a heap o' lumber fallin' down. I thought 'twas in the lumber yard on the next block."

"Was anything going on out in the river at the time?"

"Sure, iv'rything was quiet. I'd gone below to light me pipe at the cook's lantern when the noise came to me."

I telephoned the ship news office down on the Battery, and soon I had jotted down the list of the vessels that had gone to sea since 6 o'clock the previous evening. Among them was the Rotterdam of the Bremen and New York line, and, although she should have sailed earlier, I learned by calling up the office of the company that, owing to the fog, she had not started for the Narrows in charge of the tug Charles B. Goodwin until after midnight.

By this time it was midforenoon, and the early editions of the afternoon papers were being cried on the street with elaborate accounts of the robbery of the K. and L. safe. One enterprising sheet had even "faked" a picture of the diver going over the edge of the dock into the river to hunt for the lost safe.

Nevertheless I believed that that bit of gilded wood I carried around with me was the clew to the true explanation, so I called up the towing company that owned the Charles B. Goodwin and discovered where the tug would be likely to land upon her return from her trip outside with the Rotterdam. I was on the wharf when the tug came in.

I went aboard and saw the captain. "Mister," I said, "I've come to hear about it. Have you got the safe?"

"What safe?" asked he, looking wise.

"The one your tow happened to carry away from the K. and L. dock this morning," I said.

Then he laughed and showed me the safe and several bits of broken office furniture, which he had covered with a tarpaulin up forward. And his story was interesting, as I supposed it would be.

When the fog showed promise of lifting and the wind changed the tug had pulled the big steamship clear of her dock and started down stream. But they kept inshore, and just off the K. and L. Express company's dock a ferryboat ran out and got in the way of the Goodwin.

"We had to slack our engines," said the captain of the tug, "and of course the towline dropped. The tide swung the bow of the Rotterdam plumb into the end of the dock.

"By hokey, you should have seen it! Her bowsprit punched a hole in one of the express company's buildings like a spear into a fat hog. We steamed ahead quick, and that yanked the ship's bow out before it did more damage. But the corner of the shanty came with it, and I reckon a good deal of what was in the office clattered down on the old Rotterdam's for'ard deck. The Bremen and New York line will have to pay a nice little sum for damages, I suppose. But it warn't our fault.

"When we got down the harbor the captain of the Rotterdam told me that along with the other wreckage which had fallen on his deck was the safe yonder, and I took it aboard before I left her outside.

"Thought they'd been burglarised, did they? Well, I reckon it was about as queer a case of piracy as ever happened along this river front."

And he certainly was right. A queerer thing never happened under my notice, nor did I ever evolve a theory from a more unpromising clew than from that bit of gilded wood which, as I suspected, had been broken off the figurehead of the outgoing vessel.

Boils were so painful could not sleep at night.

APPEARED ON NECK, LEGS AND ARMS.

It is well-known to all that bad blood is the direct cause of all skin diseases and it is necessary for the blood to be cleansed before the eruptions will disappear. For this purpose there is nothing to equal Burdock Blood Bitters as the thousands of testimonials we have on hand will testify.

Mr. Willard Thompson, McNeill's Mills, P.E.I., writes us as follows: "I wish to state to you what Burdock Blood Bitters has done for me. Some time ago my blood got out of order and many boils appeared on my neck, legs and arms. They were so painful that I could not sleep at night. After having tried many different remedies without any success, I finally decided, on the advice of a friend, to use Burdock Blood Bitters. Before I had quite used two bottles the boils had completely disappeared, and I wish to emphasize the fact that I think Burdock Blood Bitters the best blood purifier on the market to-day."

Not Honor Men.

One of the characters of the old navy was Captain Percival, familiarly called "Mad Jack," whose waggish and irascible sayings amused his contemporaries. At one time the son of one of his old friends was appointed a midshipman.

As there was no Naval academy in those days at Annapolis, the lad was drafted to Captain Percival's ship.

The father wrote at once to his friend to announce the fact that his son was on shipboard, and after the usual parental recommendations to mercy he closed the letter with:

My son has entered upon a profession where he will go down to his grave wept, honored and sung or unwept, unhonored and unsung.

The young midshipman had not been on board long before he aroused the wrath of his commander, who at once sat down and wrote to the lad's father:

My Dear Sir—Your son is going to the grave unwept, unhonored and unsung.

At another time, when Captain Percival was a member of the board for the examination of candidates for midshipmen's warrants, a son of another friend came before the board. After the examination Percival, wishing to announce the result to the boy's father, wrote, with delightful implication:

Dear Old Messmate—Your boy has passed. Do you recollect our taking the Columbus out of dock? She just grazed.

Not His Mind.

"Would you die for me?" she asked fearnily.

"Oh, say," he retorted in a matter of fact way, "if you haven't any more ambition than to be looking for dead ones you're not the girl for me!"

There have been times when the wild beasts have been more merciful than human beings, and spared the woman cast to them in the arena. It is astonishing how little sympathy women have for women. In the home the mistress sees the maid with the signs of suffering she recognizes so well, but she does not lighten the sick girl's load by a touch of her finger. In the store the forewoman sees the pallor and exhaustion which mark womanly weakness, but allows nothing for them. It is work or quit.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

They have the most remarkable record of cures made by this world-famed remedy ever placed to the credit of any preparation especially designed for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the most desirable laxative for delicate women.

DUCKS WERE DECEITFUL.

Ingenious Fraud Practiced by the Heathen Chinee.

The ingenuity of the Chinaman is wonderful, surpassing at times the belief of his European and American brothers. A striking instance of it, not unmixed with guile, was brought to light recently during the trading transactions of two foreigners at Boone Road market.

This husband and wife, having decided that duck should figure on the menu of the day, went the round of the market in search of a fat, plump, well flavored bird.

After awhile two were purchased. They were beautifully dressed ducks, young, but plump, and promised to show up well at the evening table.

When the domestic pair got home the lady chanced to puncture one of the birds with a sharp knife, and it collapsed like a toy balloon. The other, subjected to similar treatment, followed suit. Their erstwhile inflated bodies became flat and bony and mere ghosts of the ducks that had been bought.

Investigation showed that a thin piece of wire had been fastened round the birds' necks and elsewhere, and everything pointed to the conclusion that the ducks had been blown up with a bicycle pump.

How the ducks had been drawn and then made to stand the strain of the air pump is evidently an oriental trade secret.

When the young couple again go shopping for ducks they will take a skewer along with them.

Stewed Snapper.

"Stewed snapper," said the proprietor of a restaurant that makes a specialty of the toothsome dish, "is almost as distinctively Philadelphian as scrapple and pepper pot. Prepared by the same formula as terrapin, with a liberal seasoning of sherry, snapper is quite as palatable as the diamond back, provided the meat comes from a young turtle. In fact, I defy any one but an epicure to tell the difference. The snappers that come to Philadelphia are mostly caught in the muddy bottomed creeks that flow into the Delaware up the Jersey side, and just now they are coming in very plentifully. The snapper is a difficult catch to handle, but the Jerseymen know how to turn the trick and get them to market alive. They run in weight from four pounds all the way up to forty pounds, the smaller ones being naturally more tender and consequently better meat. Some few are shipped to Trenton and New York, but most of them come to Philadelphia."

A Common Weakness.

Dr. Joseph Le Conte was an authority, recognized by the world at large, on the science of vision. One day he was showing a class how to detect the blind spot in the human eye. He took two coins and held them, one in each hand, before him on the table.

"Look at both of these steadily," said he, "and gradually move them in opposite directions. Presently they will pass beyond the range of vision. That is due to the blind spot. Continue the movement, and the coins will again emerge to view."

Then the philosopher and naturalist had his little joke. "You can experiment for yourself at home," said he. "But if you are unsuccessful try some other object instead of a coin. Some people have no blind spot for money."

Making a Will.

Always call in a lawyer to make a will. If one cannot be procured then write your wishes in the simplest words you can. Never try to use what you may consider "legal terms." Few persons realize how difficult it is to make a will. A classic example is the celebrated Lord St. Leonards, at one time lord chancellor of England. He was the foremost conveyancer of his day, and yet when he died an informal will was found in his coat pocket, hurriedly written when he was at the point of death. This will occupied the courts for years and served "to point a moral and adorn a tale."

Comforting.

A man who had buried three wives took to himself a fourth lately, and, as is wont in Lancashire, the pair went for a walk one Sunday afternoon. On the way they called at the cemetery where the three former wives reposed in the one grave. The new wife read the inscriptions with some interest, but her feelings may well be imagined when she came to the usual text from the Scriptures. It ran, "Be ye also ready."—London Standard.

Almost Wrecked.

A clergyman who was totally devoid of knowledge of seamanship once preached to a congregation of sailors. Thinking to impress his lesson upon his hearers more distinctly, he pictured a ship trying to enter a harbor against a head wind. Unfortunately for the success of his metaphor, his ignorance of seamanship placed the ship in several singular positions.

"What shall we do next?" he cried.

"Come down off the bridge," cried an old tar in disgust, "an' lemme take command, or ye'll 'ave us all on the rocks in another arf a second!"—Spare Moments.

Blocking Him.

"My boss has promised to raise my salary on the 1st of next month," said Slyman.

"Sorry, old man," interrupted Newitt, "but I've had to borrow some money myself this week."

His Day Off.

"Misery likes comp'ny, don't he?"

"Yes, but w'en I sees him comin' I never is at home."

BLOOD POISON

On account of its terrible effects, blood disease is called the king of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted; so while it may not be a crime to have the disease, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrofula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, sickness of the skin, eruptions or blotches, ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, disordered stomach, and a general depression of the system. If you have any of these symptoms don't neglect yourself. You have no time to lose. Beware of "old fogy" treatment—beware of mineral poisons—beware of Quacks and Fakirs. OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure this disease, never to return. Bank Bonds will protect you. Our treatment is not injurious in any way, but reaches the very root of the disease and eliminates all poison from the system. The symptoms of disease gradually disappear. The blood becomes pure and enriched, the whole system is cleansed and purified, and the patient feels prepared anew for the duties and the pleasures of life. THE EXAMINER'S SPORTING NEWS.

RUGBY.

In the report of Saturday's Rugby game between the Victorias and Peterborough there were some statements made in the Globe which were entirely unfounded. One of these was to the effect that Mr. Kenner, the umpire was a member of Club, and the other that the visiting players were made targets for rotten apples and other missiles. Mr. E. S. Clarry sent a letter to the Globe on the matter, which is published below:

Sporting Editor of the Globe:

Sir,—Referring to your account of the Rugby match here on Saturday between the Victorias of Toronto and the Peterborough team, in which you state that Mr. Kenner, the umpire is a member of the local club, I beg to state that you are misinformed. Mr. Kenner is not a member of the Peterborough Rugby Club, and has no connection with the organization in any way, and and his interest in the team is only that of any ordinary citizen of the town. His reputation as to impartiality in affairs of the kind has never been questioned.

As to the statement that the visitors were pelted with rotten apples and stones when leaving the field, there is no truth whatever in the accusation. The players of both teams were interfered with to some extent by the crowd during the progress of the game, but the visitors suffered no more in this regard than did the Peterborough team. The fact that the crowd is hard to keep outside the playing limits is to be regretted, but it is a difficulty that we have to contend with in Peterborough through lack of properly fenced athletic grounds.

Yours truly,
E. S. CLARRY,
President Peterborough Rugby Club.
Peterborough, Nov. 2nd.

The Peterborough team, intermediate champions of the Ontario Rugby Union, will make their first local appearance of the 1903 season at Sunlight Park on Saturday, against the strong Wellesley team in a scheduled match. The game should be a good one, and a big crowd will likely be on hand to see them play. The Wellesleys lost by a single point at Peterborough and claim they should have won. They expect to prove conclusively on Saturday the correctness of their contention that they are the better team. The champions will send a reinforced team to Toronto, and will make a big effort to win out. About twenty-five of the Wellesleys were out to practice last night, and some good, hard work was indulged in.—Globe.

The City League executive, which meets to-night will consider the protest entered by the Britannias against the Rough Riders, and the question of the protested players' ages will be taken up. On the decision to-night practically the championship of the City League rests.

GOLF.

This week, beginning this afternoon at 2 o'clock, will see what will be undoubtedly the greatest gathering of lady golfers ever assembled in Canada. The occasion is the presence of the British champion, Miss Rhona Adair, as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Austin. She will play all during the week on the Lambton links. Miss Adair arrived in Toronto from Boston yesterday afternoon accompanied by her sister. Play will be indulged in every afternoon closing on Saturday with a mixed foursball game. The play will be over the gentlemen's course, and two rounds each day will be played after the qualifying round has been cleared up this afternoon. On one of the days but one round will be played to permit the contests in approaching and putting and driving. Besides all the Toronto ladies who have any pretensions to golf excellence in the Toronto Hunt Club, Rosedale and Lambton clubs, there will be present as active participants in the play parties from all the golf centres in Ontario and Quebec. Some sixty ladies will play in the tournament.

Those who went from Peterborough to participate in the tournament were Mrs. R. M. Dennistoun, Mrs. Campbell, Miss J. Dennistoun and Miss Halliday. They left for Toronto yesterday afternoon.

SPRINTING.

THE KNOX-BELLAND FOOT RACE.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir: Considerable interest and I might say excitement have been aroused among those who comprise the sporting element of the town, due to the action of the referee and stakeholders of several of the side bets placed on the recent foot race between Messrs. Knox and Belland. Of course it is a fact well known to all that, when Mr. Belland failed to win, the referee, Mr. A. Rountree, called all bets off, and it is equally well known that Mr. J. M. J. M. Brooks was the maker of a pool in connection with the same race, and that several of the intimate friends of both these gentlemen had placed heavy bets on the loser.

Now, Mr. Editor, if I remember rightly, when this race was first advertised in your valuable paper it contained the assertion that "the public would be protected." Now, I should like to ask, did Mr. Rountree protect the public? Did Mr. Brooks protect the public?

In consideration of the fact that several of Mr. Knox's friends from Orillia, as well as in town, were losers by the decision of the referee, or I should rather say, by the heretofore unheard-of actions of Messrs. Rountree and Brooks combined, I am of the opinion, Mr. Editor, that in justice to the good name which Peterborough sports have always enjoyed, these gentlemen are bound to make some explanation of the stand they have taken. I am quite aware of the fact that there was "a little paper in the bank" which said that the referee's decision should be final, but I should like to know if that decision referred to the race or to the betting. But, even assuming that the referee should control bets, did the makers and signers of that paper suppose for one moment that the referee's decision would be anything contrary to common sense and justice? But what I cannot understand, Mr. Editor, is this: Some of our leading citizens, who have had every advantage that education and good society could give them, were stakeholders in connection with this affair, went down to the driving park and saw that race run. There were only two men in the race and these two did not reach the tape together. If they did not, one must have got there first. Then surely, that one must be the winner. Now these citizens mentioned above must have seen this. Then why, if they wish to lay the least claim to the title of gentlemen, did they allow the action of one or two persons to influence them? No plea of foul play or injustice can be trumped up, for the starter was a man who has been connected with athletics all his life, and is known throughout Canada and the States as a perfectly just and upright gentleman. Besides this, the two contestants were never near enough to interfere with one another; the race was not a close one for the winner had a splendid margin and the whole affair was governed by the Canadian Athletic Amateur Rules. In addition to what these stakeholders saw for themselves, may be added the decision of the two judges appointed and the opinion of ninety-five per cent. of the spectators. Then why, I ask again, did these gentlemen allow themselves to be influenced contrary to their own judgment and sense of honour, by the course of a few others interested in the race.

It is deeply to be regretted that such an unsportsmanlike affair should have occurred in our town; and I repeat that the originators of this action Messrs. Brooks and Rountree, are bound to give the public, whom they promised to protect, an explanation.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space, I am

Yours very sincerely,
FAIR SPORT.

THE CONVENTION A SUCCESSFUL ONE.

Peterborough County Teachers met in Convention at Norwood.

A Number of Interesting Papers Read and Addresses Given—Election of Officers.

The Teachers' Convention held at Norwood, Oct. 29th and 30th, passed off very successfully, the attendance being good and the papers given interesting and instructive.

Thursday morning's session was occupied by the report of the O. E. A., by Miss McEwen, and a paper on "Origin and Development of Kindergarten, and its Value to Public Schools, High Schools and University," by Miss Williamson, Directress of Ashburnham Kindergarten. Miss McEwen's report was full, concise and well arranged, and was heartily appreciated by the teachers. Miss Williamson dealt very clearly with the work of the kindergarten, the great corner stone of education and showed how it influenced all the after life of the child.

In the afternoon Inspector Brown gave a very instructive address on "The Public School Programme," which contained matters of great interest to the teachers.

This was followed by a paper given by Rev. W. R. Tandy, M.A., on "The Mission of a Nation." Rev. Tandy gave a very scholarly paper and at the earnest request of the Association consented to have it published so that the readers of these columns may look forward to a genuine treat in the reading of it.

Friday's session was opened by an intensely practical paper on "The School Cabinet," given by Mr. T. J. Wallace. At its conclusion it was moved by Inspector J Coyle Brown, seconded by Mr. Wallace, that Public Trustees be respectfully requested to provide suitable cases for objects in Natural History and other interesting and useful exhibits, and that teachers and pupils be encouraged to exert themselves in having these cases suitably filled.—Carried.

Mr. R. H. Leighton then led a very important discussion on "The Teaching Profession from a Financial Standpoint." The discussion was animated and showed that if higher standards were required, higher salaries would ensue. It was moved by Mr. R. H. Leighton, seconded by Mr. Wallace, and carried unanimously, that:

"Whereas the time has come when some important changes are necessary to place the teaching profession on a proper basis;

"Therefore be it resolved that this Association in Convention assembled, memorialize the Hon., the Minister of Education to propose such Legislation as shall bring into effect the following resolutions:—

(a) That the minimum age for all grades of certificate be fixed at twenty-one years.

(b) That the Model School term be lengthened so as to correspond with the Normal School term.

(c) That he use his good efforts to secure Inter-provincial certificates.

(d) That the qualification for a Public School Inspector be (1) A first-class certificate. (2) The degree of Bachelor of Pedagogy or some similar course.

(e) That the non-professional standing for all grades of certificates be a minimum of 40 per cent. on each subject and 60 per cent. on the whole."

At the afternoon session Mr. Morrison, B.A., gave a very interesting paper on "History," dealing with its different phases and the way in which it should be presented to the student.

The concluding number on the programme was an address by Mr. Fife, B.A., Peterborough, on "A Canoe Trip to the Far North." Mr. Fife's vivid narrative and excellent descriptive powers made this number one of the most interesting on the programme, and gave the teachers an insight into New Ontario, which will be of value to them in their school work.

Vocal and instrumental selections were given by Misses Courtney, Shea, O'Keefe and Donoghue, and violin solos by Mr. Miller.

Rev. J. McKee McLennan, Rector of the Church of England, and Rev. Mr. McLennan, pastor of the Presbyterian church delivered brief addresses.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to all those who had so kindly assisted in the programme.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:—

President — Mr. Leighton, Norwood.

Vice-President—Miss Courtney.

Secretary-Treasurer—J. W. Kelly, Peterborough.

Executive Committee—Miss McEwen, Miss Hutchinson, Miss Campbell, Mr. Smithson, Mr. Hill.

Representatives to O. E. A.—Mr. Somerville, Miss Simpson.

Auditors—Miss Coveney, Mr. Wallace.—Com.

ATLAS LOAN COMPANY.

Mr. A. E. Ames Tells of His Firm's Connection Therewith.

Toronto, Nov. 3.—The examination of Mr. A. E. Ames, the well-known stockbroker, was commenced yesterday at 11.15 before Mr. Thomas Hodgins, K.C., Master-in-Ordinary. Mr. Ames was represented by his counsel, D. E. Thomson, K.C., and Mr. W. M. Hunter appeared for the National Trust Company, the liquidators of the Atlas Loan Company. Mr. I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., represented a large body of creditors. A staff of clerks from Ames & Co. and from the National Trust Company were seated near by, with large numbers of ledgers before them.

Mr. Ames was under examination for nearly three hours in connection with the wreck of the Atlas Loan Company of St. Thomas. It will be remembered that Mr. A. E. Wallace, President and Manager of the Atlas Company, was also a partner in the firm of Ames & Company, and that the suspension of the two concerns took place almost simultaneously in June last. Mr. Ames' evidence showed that to all intents and purposes Wallace and the Atlas Loan Company were identical parties in the transactions with his firm. The examination developed the fact that the National Trust Company, as liquidator of the Atlas Loan Company, charges that the latter company have lost outright about $407,000 in cash and securities turned over to Ames & Company. On the other hand, Ames & Company at present claim that the Atlas Loan still owes them about $151,000, and retain 1,000 shares in the Metropolitan Bank, subscribed for by the company as collateral. In connection with these shares it transpired that several months before the prospectus of the Metropolitan Bank was issued it was arranged by Mr. Ames with Mr. Wallace that the Atlas Loan Company should purchase $100,000 of paid-up stock in the bank at 200.

LADIES' and GENTLEMEN'S

FUR-LINED COATS

Fashion decrees this year to be an essentially Fur-lined Coat year—and 'tis a sensible decree, for they're light, warm and very dressy.

Anticipating the demands of this year in Ladies' Fur-lined Coats, we had prepared during the summer a very extensive and well selected assortment of the newest and most up-to-date styles in these garments, which we offer at prices that it would be impossible for us to make them at now, owing to the advance in fur lining and cloth covering. We quote this lot of Ladies' Fur-lined Coats at from, each—

$15 to $100

IN FUR-LINED CAPES we show Plain Ladies' Cloth, Black Worsted Brocade and Silk covering, made in the new styles in and lined and trimmed with the different fur used or these purposes. Each..... $13.50 to $75

MEN'S FUR-LINED COATS are special with us. Our facilities for giving you a good fitting, dressy, well-tailored Coat are unsurpassed. Linings and trimmings of all kinds, from Marmot and Muskrat on up to Mink. Special prices from $25 to $250

STRIKE ENDED AND RINGLEADERS TAKEN.

Strike Situation at the Power Works at Niagara Falls.

Shots Fired Into the Pit by Strikers, but With no Result—Several Men Paid off and Leave for Buffalo—Men may Return to Work To-day—Contractors are Firm in Resisting Demands.

Niagara Falls, Nov. 4.—The laborers' strike at the power construction works of the three Canadian companies is practically at an end. Twenty Italians, the ringleaders of the rioters, were arrested yesterday afternoon and locked in the Niagara town jail. The man who made the murderous attack upon young Hamilton Monday night is among the number. The companies involved are determined to stick to their original declaration of wage reduction in the face of any opposition. The feeling favoring retrenchment is strong. With thousands of men available at the wage they offer, they declare they are prepared to dispense with every laborer at present on the job sooner than give in. The militia was reinforced and twenty more special constables sworn in. Early in the morning, however, the situation looked alarming.

About 800 strikers stood on Fairview Hill, overlooking Dawson & Riley's works, and fired several shots into the pit, where between thirty and forty men were employed. The shots were returned, and for a time it looked as though blood would be spilled, but fortunately the bullets from neither side took effect. Colonel Cruickshank, at the head of the soldiers of the 44th Regiment, with fixed bayonets, charged into the mob and soon had them routed in all directions. About 100 of them took the route leading to the Transformer Works, operated by Haas' Bros., on the brow of the hill. Here were some forty "muckers" at work. With stones tied in their handkerchiefs and drawn knives the strikers ran down upon them, and with shouts and curses frightened the men from the works, and had them on the double down the road in a twinkling. This occurred about 8 o'clock, and was the last act of violence to be committed.

Word was sent to the strikers on the Ontario construction works that they would be paid off at 10 o'clock. There were about 600 of these men. It was after these men had received their money that the real trouble was expected, but, awed by the squad of redcoats standing around them while waiting their turn at the pay wicket, at the Lafayette Hotel, they took their envelopes and quietly slunk away in groups of twenty or thirty to a safe distance, where they carried on their conversation in an excited manner. The saloons were visited by the town authorities and officials of the different companies, and arrangements made by which the sale of liquor to the strikers was curtailed.

Capt. Munroe arrived from Thorold with 25 men from No. 3 Company of the 44th Regiment early yesterday afternoon. The reinforcements were divided up among the three power companies' plants to relieve the soldiers who had done duty all night and part of the day. Col. Otter was also in communication with Lieut.-Col. Cruickshanks, offering military assistance from Toronto, but the lieutenant-colonel informed the D.O.C. that he felt that he had the situation pretty well in hand, and would not need any extra assistance last night at least.

Fully fifty per cent. of the men who were paid yesterday signified their intention of returning to work to-day. Others said they would like to return, but feared the violence of their angry countrymen. That the strikers are not anxious to repeat their performance of Monday is evidenced by the fact that every one of the seven contractors had a few men working yesterday afternoon.

The critical moment, though, is likely to be this morning when the plants will be in full operation again. The troops and police will be on the spot, and if anything should occur it is likely to go hard with the strikers. Each of the 75 soldiers is supplied with sixty-two rounds of ammunition, and the policemen are well armed.

Another sign of the wave of the strike was seen late in the afternoon. Nearly 100 Poles and Hungarians and a few Italians with their clothes in knapsacks thrown over their shoulders were sighted coming up the road in the direction of Suspension Bridge. All bought single tickets to admit them to the American side, and they wended their way across the bridge into the United States and away from the strike.

ISTHMIAN INDEPENDENCE.

Proclaimed at Panama Amidst Great Enthusiasm—An Uprising at Night—Serious Disturbances.

Panama, Nov. 4.—The independence of the Isthmus was proclaimed at 6 p.m. yesterday. A large and enthusiastic crowd of all political parties assembled and marched to the headquarters of the Government troops, where Generals Tevar and Amaya, who arrived in the morning, were imprisoned in the name of the Republic of Panama. The enthusiasm was immense, and at least 3,000 of the men in the gathering were armed.

Uprising at Night.

Washington, Nov. 4.—The following cablegram was received at the Navy Department at 10 o'clock last night from Panama:

"An uprising took place at Panama last night. Independence was proclaimed. The Colombian army and navy officials were made prisoners. A Government was to be organized consisting of three consuls and a Cabinet. It was rumored at Panama that a similar uprising was to take place at Colon."

Later the following official statement was made regarding the news from Panama:

"A number of confused and conflicting despatches have been received from the Isthmus indicating rather serious disturbances at both Panama and Colon. The Navy Department has despatched several vessels to these ports with directions to do everything possible to keep transit open and maintain order along the line of the railroad."

The sensational advices from the Isthmus were not entirely unexpected in view of other advices that had come to the department very recently. The reception of the news caused a sudden outburst of activity at the Navy Department, and at once on President Roosevelt's return from Oyster Bay, where he had been to vote he was made acquainted with the situation. Secretary Hay, Assistant Secretary Darling, Assistant Secretary Loomis and a number of others were summoned to the White House hastily and measures were taken at once for protection of American interests at the Isthmus.

FIFTY LABOURERS FELL FIFTY FEET.

Twelve are Reported Killed and Many Others Fatally Injured.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Fort Worth, Texas, Nov. 4.—Fifty labourers working on a bridge over the Brazos River on the Brazos and Trinity Railway near Choppel Hill, yesterday, were precipitated into the river fifty feet below. Twelve are reported killed and many others fatally injured.

BRITISH IGNORANCE OF CANADIAN CLIMATE.

If They Could Only see the Genial Mildness of These November Days.

If Rudyard Kipling, the audacious author of "Our Lady of the Snows," were in Peterborough now, he could be literally as well as figuratively, in hot water. He could have joined the Ashburnham boys who went swimming in the mill race in the village yesterday afternoon, November 4th, 1903.

The peoples of the murky and misty British Isles, looking through the mists and mist, get very distorted views of Canadian climate. A charming colleen from Ireland is at present staying in town. Her anxious friends at home are picturing her wandering waist-deep in Canadian snow, dodging Indian tomahawks and sleeping in a fur bag like a Klondyke miner. This is the dream. The reality is that the young lady is driving about in a luxurious trap behind a smart pair, in the mellow sunshine, the air as genial as that of an Irish, Scotch or English May, the pansies blooming in the borders and the grass of meadows and lawns as green as Ireland. Lord Alverstone is not the only Britisher who has an asinine misunderstanding of Canadians and Canadian climate.

Fifty-Year Franchise.

St. Thomas, Nov. 4.—The city street railway has secured a 50-year franchise over the following roads in Yarmouth Township: From St. Thomas to Port Stanley; from St. Thomas to Sparta; from St. Thomas to easterly limit of the township on the Talbot road to Aylmer, along Wellington street east as far as it goes, north along the sideroad to Talbot street returning along that road to the present line on First avenue.

Honors a Soldier's Widow.

London, Nov. 4.—(C.A.P.)—The King has offered a suite of rooms in Kensington Palace to Mrs. Kennett Henderson, widow of the late General Henderson, C.B., King's Royal Rifle Corps, the "60th," who died on the morning of His Majesty's coronation. The General had a distinguished career, having served through the Indian Mutiny and in China. Mrs. Henderson is of a distinguished French-Canadian family.

October Weather.

Toronto, Nov. 3.—October was 2.5 degrees warmer than last year; its warm temperature was 50.8, or 4 degrees above the average; there were 168 hours of sunshine, or 21 hours above average; and the rain fall was 2.46 inches or 0.28 above. The snowfall was 1.2 inches or double the usual amount.

Premier Combes Will Retire.

Paris, Nov. 3.—The Figaro yesterday morning says it has reason to believe that Premier Combes has quite determined to retire from office after the Christmas holidays.

Destitution in Labrador.

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 4.—Extreme destitution is reported from many parts of Labrador, owing to the shortage of the fishery catch. Unless relief be provided by the Government it is believed that the people will perish.

Cattle Maimer's Guilt.

London, Nov. 3.—The Great Wyrley cattle-maiming case has ended in Geo. Ernest Edalji being sent to penal servitude for seven years.

KIDNEY TROUBLE CURED.

General Health Greatly Improved by Pe-ru-na.

MRS. M. J. DANLEY.

Mrs. M. J. Danley, Treasurer of the Rebecca Lodge, I. O. O. F., writes from 124 First street, N., Minneapolis, Minn.:

"I was afflicted for several years with kidney trouble which became quite serious and caused me considerable anxiety. I spent hundreds of dollars trying to be cured, but nothing gave me any permanent relief until I tried Peruna. It took less than three months and only ten bottles to effect a permanent cure, but they were worth more than as many hundred dollars to me. I am fully restored to health, know neither ache nor pain and enjoy life."—Mrs. M. J. Danley.

This experience has been repeated many times. We hear of such cases nearly every day.

Mrs. Danley had catarrh of the kidneys. As soon as she took the right remedy she made a quick recovery.

DAIRY PRODUCTS IN BRITAIN.

(The Globe.)

There are some valuable hints for Canadian dairy managers in The Colonial Dairy Produce Review, issued by W. Wedded & Co., London. One of the changes advised for Canada is the adoption of borax as a preservative. In comparing our methods with those of other colonies, The Review points out that in Canada butter is made for rapid consumption, and therefore not enough regard is paid to its keeping qualities, while in Australia and New Zealand special care and attention are given to this feature in all butters for export. In Canada the Government authorities appear adverse to the use of boron compounds, which, if used in proper quantities, are perfectly innocuous to health, if not even beneficial. Their use has now been legalized in the United Kingdom, and they possess marvellous powers of preserving butter from undergoing any deteriorating change for many months. The scientific use of boric acid is the first and most important remedy that must be applied. Another improvement suggested is for Canadian manufacturers to make their butter drier, as dryness undoubtedly tends to improve its keeping qualities. This has already been taken up by the Canadian authorities, and the amount of water that may be left in butter is limited by law.

While much of the criticism of Canadian butter may not be pleasant reading, it is entirely friendly, and evidently sincere. Credit is given the Canadian factories for having lately adopted the practice of pasteurization, a system which has been followed by the Danes for some years. The results are said to be so eminently satisfactory that the system will spread and become practically universal. Although progress in the art of buttermaking in recent years has been very satisfactory, it is held that there is much leeway to be made up before Canadian butter can be placed on British markets as perfect as it should be, or in as good condition and of as good quality as that of its competitors. The adoption of refrigeration has enabled the most distant countries of the world to send their perishable produce to Britain, and in the case of dairy produce to send it in a very excellent condition. Full credit is given to Canadian cheese, the quality and condition of which have never been equal to what they were last season. The extraordinary high prices which prevailed — the highest since 1884—are attributed in no small degree to this circumstance. Parcels of heated cheese, or of a hot and objectionable flavour, were, if not absolutely, yet practically, unknown. The mild, sweet, palatable flavour with which the bulk of the cheese arrived, brought about a large consumptive demand, such as had not previously existed.

The success of last season is pointed out as a most important object lesson for Canadian cheese makers and shippers. It has thus been made evident that if Canadian cheese were to arrive regularly in a more mature condition, and free from the biting and heated character it sometimes possesses the extraordinary difference in value between English and Canadian cheddar would rapidly diminish, the Canadian product would be in greater demand, and would command far higher prices than heretofore.

The relative deficiency of Canadian butter is attributed to the long land haul in this country, and inadequate facilities for coping with it. Canadian butter should be shipped immediately it is made, and the shipping arrangements should be such as to allow it to go straight into consumption. It has hitherto been the custom in England to buy Canadian butter in the summer and put it into cold storage for winter use. When it comes out it is deteriorated in quality and its reputation is thus deteriorated in quality, and its reputation is thus far lower than it would be if it were consumed while comparatively fresh. Evidently the prime requisite is good quality, arriving in good condition, and friendly criticism should aid our present rapid progress towards that end.

SAD IS THE CHANGE.

Toronto Telegram.

At the Princess theatre last week the orchestra played between the acts a medley of British airs which roused loud applause three weeks ago.

The medley includes "God save the King," which should be left out of all selections that are played while an audience is seated. The first bar of the National Anthem ought to bring every Canadian audience to its feet, and for that reason "God Save the King" ought never to be played as an ordinary orchestral selection.

The painful truth is that perhaps for the first time in the history of Toronto, tunes dear to the hearts of Canadians, like "The British Grenadiers," and "Rule Britannia," roused little or no applause except from the students on Hallowe'en.

The contrast between the whistling and the applause that greeted these same tunes two or three weeks ago and the silence or little applause which greeted these tunes last week was impressive. The significance of the change may be over-estimated, but the change cannot be over-looked. Canada must have been wounded by the Alaska award when an audience at the Princess Theatre, representative of one of the most British-loving cities on earth, is not stirred by the meaning of "The British Grenadiers," and "Rule Britannia."

THE ATLAS WRECK.

Fictitious Sales and False Entries Enabled Transfer of Money.

Toronto, Nov. 4.—Some sensational evidence was given by A. E. Ames yesterday morning in his examination by Mr. W. H. Hunter in respect to the relations between his firm and the Atlas Loan Company. On examination of some of the books and accounts Mr. Ames admitted that certain sales of Twin City stock, through the medium of which some thousands of dollars had been transferred to the deposit account of the Atlas Loan in his office, were fictitious, and had never taken place. He blamed Mr. A. E. Wallace for this, and said the false entries must have been made under the latter's instructions. The fictitious sales also appeared on one of the quarterly reports of the Atlas Loan Company, prepared by Ames & Co.

Mr. Ames read a statement challenging the figures submitted Monday by Mr. Hunter as showing the losses of the Atlas Loan in the office of Ames & Co., and incidentally criticized the liquidator for permitting such a statement to have been made.

When the examination of Mr. Ames was resumed Mr. Hunter stated that he had not an opportunity of examining the statement prepared in answer to the figures offered by him as showing the loss of the Atlas Loan through their relationship with Ames & Co. He, therefore, did not desire to take up that branch of the inquiry till he had an opportunity of examining that statement.

Bretons to Canada.

London, Nov. 4.—(C.A.P.)—The Times publishes correspondence from Brittany giving particulars of a movement among ultra-Catholics of emigration to Canada. A Breton priest, Abbe Lefioch, spent last summer in the Canadian far west examining a suitable locality. Emigration is caused by the closing of monasteries, the proscription of the Breton language and the erection of a statue to Renan.

Vessels Ashore in Fog.

Buffalo, Nov. 3.—In a dense fog that prevailed over Lake Erie at dusk last night two big lake boats ran ashore on the Canadian side near Point Abino. They are the Mataafa and the C. W. Watson. The former is owned by the United States Steel Corporation, and has on board the largest cargo of grain ever carried by one boat between Chicago and Buffalo. The cargo approximates 269,000 bushels.

NORWOOD.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Norwood, Nov. 3, 1903.

Mrs. Geo. A. Grover, of Kingston, is spending a few days with friends here.

Mr. W. Ross Cameron, of the Union Bank Agency, of Haleybury, Ont., who has been in the hospital at Mattawa for some weeks past, suffering from a severe attack of typhoid fever, has recovered and is now home for a short time to recuperate.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Henderson and daughter, Miss Ruth, of Chatham, are the guests of the former's father, Mr. Henderson, Peterborough street.

Messrs. Roxburgh and Son shipped this week one carload of peas to Quebec, and exported five carloads to Liverpool, England.

The Rev. Mark Guy Pearse, the great preacher, author and lecturer, of London, England, gave a very interesting lecture on "Some Old Folks at Home," in the Methodist church here on Friday evening, Oct. 31st. The auditorium of the church was crowded long before the lecture commenced. It being such a good opportunity to hear Mr. Pearse that the surrounding villagers availed themselves of it. It was a decided success, being instructive, humourous, interesting and also as regards finances.

The auction sale of Mr. Daniel Sedgwick, lot 4 in the 10th concession, Dummer, which took place Oct. 22rd, the following prices were obtained:—One mare, 7 years old, $133.00; one mare 10 years old, $111.50; body harness, $15.50; eight grade cows, average, $36.37; gang plow, $17.46; buckboard, $15.75; lumber wagon, $21.50; eight pigs, 1200 lbs., $58.00. Total amount $970. Thomas Fraser, autioneer.

Miss Chris. Calder spent Sunday with friends in Peterborough.

Up to Nov. 2nd, 26 hunters' licenses and 18 permits have been issued by Mr. Thomas Fraser.

Miss M. Buck, of Belleville, is the guest of her uncle, Mr. H. G. Buck, Peterborough street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Brown, of Peterborough, were the guests at the home of Mr. D. Foster for a few days last week.

Rev. Mr. McKenie Young and wife, were the guests at the home of Mr. J. Thompson for last week.

MOUNT IRWIN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

On the 27th of October Miss Maggie Allen, daughter of Mr. John Allen, passed from our midst into that land from whence no one returns. Deceased had been ailing for some months, and although everything possible in the way of medical aid, had been done, it seems to have been God's will that she should be taken from us. Deceased leaves a father and mother, two brothers and four sisters, who have our sympathy in their bereavement. It is only a couple of months ago that Mr. Allen's brother, James, died. The funeral took place to the Roman Catholic Cemetery here on Thursday, the 29th, and was largely attended.

We are pleased to state that Mr. Henry Beckett is rapidly recovering.

Mr. Edward Allen had the misfortune to have his house burned on the 22nd of October. As the house was totally destroyed and only a part of the contents saved, the insurance will not nearly cover the loss. Mr. Allen had 250 bushels of potatoes in his cellar; these were a total loss. He expects to rebuild immediately.

A movement is on foot to build a cheese factory in this vicinity. If enough milk is guaranteed the factory will be ready the first of May. A cheese factory is just what we want and the only thing necessary is for some one to take the initiative and start the thing going.

OMEMEE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The weather has been unusually fine for saving the root crops, and for fall plowing, which is nearly all done.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Wood, formerly of Emily, took place on last Monday. The funeral services were conducted by Mr. Whitelaw at the request of Rev. Mr. Tooney.

The Choral Society concert on Thursday last was a great success. The several choruses of the Rose Maiden were especially fine. Toronto and Peterborough citizens present considered it one of the best efforts outside the cities. Mr. Owen Smiley gained great favour by his selections. Proceeds amounted to $70.

The anniversary services in connection with the Presbyterian church were most interesting and profitable. Excellent sermons were delivered by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Whitelaw, at 11 a.m., and 3 p.m., and in the evening by the Rev. Mr. Yule, of Bethany. Each and every service was largely attended. The collections were liberal, and the music rendered by the church choir delighted every one.

L.O.L. No. 294, at Switzer's, East Emily, intend having an oyster supper on November 5th. Many from here will attend. Rev. Mr. Whitelaw will address the meeting.

HALL'S GLEN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Messrs. D. Hatton and H. Dodds have recently returned from their trip to Manitoba.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Little of this village are taking up their residence in Lakefield, the former having transferred his property over to his brother, Mr. D. Little.

A number of hunters left this vicinity last week for the northern country in search of deer and other game.

Rev. H. McQuade, pastor of Warsaw circuit, is contemplating a series of revival services at Warsaw, this being the last appointment on the charge.

Miss E. Payne, of this neighbourhood, is making a visiting tour through the southern part of this country, calling on many of her friends and acquaintances. The vacation will doubtless be a source of great benefit to her.

An organization known as the Hall's Glen Literary Society was instituted in this village on Friday evening last. The officers-elect are as follows: President, Mr. Robert Payne; Vice-President, Mr. John Darling; Secretary, Mr. A. Nelson; Treasurer, Mr. A. C. Carveth. The society intends holding its weekly meetings on Friday evening in the Orange Hall.

An illustrated lecture, accompanied by a number of phonograph selections, was given in Zion church on Wednesday evening, the 28th ult., by Mr. Jas. Stubbs of Peterborough. The excellent lecture was listened to with interest and profit, and at the conclusion several expressed their satisfaction at the same. At the close presents were distributed to the juvenile scholars of the school, under whose auspices the entertainment was given. Mrs. W. J. Little was presented with a beautiful Bible in recognition of her past services as teacher of the Bible class.

ONLY A SUGGESTION.

But Has Proven of Interest and value to Thousands.

Common sense would suggest that if one wishes to become fleshy and plump, it can only result from the food we eat and digest, and that food should be albuminous or flesh-forming food, like eggs, beefsteak, and cereals; or in other words the kind which form the greater part of our daily bills of fare.

But the trouble is that while we eat enough, and generally too much, the stomach from abuse and overwork does not properly digest and assimilate it, which is the reason that so many people remain thin and underweight; the digestive organs do not completely digest the food forming beefsteak and eggs, and similar wholesome food.

There are thousands of such who are really confirmed dyspeptics, although they may have no particular pain or inconvenience from their stomachs.

If such persons would lay their prejudices aside and make a regular practice of taking after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, the food would be quickly and thoroughly digested, because these Tablets contain the natural peptones and diatase, which every weak stomach lacks, and by applying this want the stomach is soon enabled to reach its natural tone and vigour.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digest every form of flesh-forming food, meat, eggs, bread and potatoes, and this is the reason they so quickly build up, strengthen and invigorate thin, dyspeptic men and women and children.

Invalids and children, even the most delicate, use them with marked benefit, as they contain no strong, irritating drugs, no cathartic, nor any harmful ingredients.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the most successful and widely known of any remedy for stomach troubles because it is the most reasonable and scientific of modern medicines.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by every druggist in the United States and Canada, as well as in Great Britain, at 50 cents for complete treatment.

Nothing further is required to cure any stomach trouble or to make thin, nervous, dyspeptic people strong, plump and well.

CASE SHOT HIMSELF.

Hamilton Lad Admits He Concocted Lurid Burglar Yarn.

Hamilton, Nov. 4.—One of the recent shooting sensations has been exposed. Harold Case, the sixteen-year-old son of Mr. Edward Case, has admitted to Miss Buchanan of "Auchmar," Mountain Top, that he was not shot by prowlers on Miss Buchanan's farm last Wednesday evening, as given out by him, but that he did the shooting himself accidentally. He says he fired the two shots through his hat, and the wound in his arm was received while he was getting over a fence with his rifle in his hand. He is said to feel keenly the position in which he has placed himself. In view of young Case's admission Miss Buchanan has withdrawn her offer of $1,000 reward.

HALF A DECADE APIECE.

Highway Robbers, Ross and Rand, Sent to Kingston Penitentiary.

Toronto, Nov. 4.—"It was a clear case of highway robbery," remarked Colonel Denison yesterday morning, as he sentenced the two young men, Joseph Ross and William Rand, each to five years in Kingston Penitentiary. Rand and Ross held up a King street car on the morning of Thanksgiving Day and beat the conductor, William Howard, almost to death. Dr. A. J. Johnson went on the stand yesterday and declared that "they had nearly finished Howard." The two men pleaded guilty to the charge of highway robbery and also admitted that they had both served fifteen months in the Central Prison for snatching a lady's watch on a street in London, Ont., in 1900.

New Italian Cabinet.

The ministers took the oath yesterday afternoon.

Princess Sues Some More.

London, Nov. 4.—Princess Radziwill yesterday issued a writ demanding $7,000,000 from Lord Rosebery, Earl Grey and Messrs. Alfred Beit, Dr. Jameson, L. L. Mitchell and B. A. Hawksley, trustees of the estate of the late Cecil Rhodes, under an agreement alleged to have been made on or about June 20, 1899, between herself and Mr. Rhodes.

New C. P. R. Telephone Line.

Ottawa, Nov. 4.—A new line of telephones has been established between Ottawa and Montreal by the C.P.R., for use in connection with business between the offices in this city and the head offices in Montreal. The line is altogether different from the ordinary one, the company using one of its wires both for telegraphic and telephone purposes.

TAMMANY IS ON TOP

The Fusionists Snowed Under in Greater New York.

M'CLELLAN IS THIRD MAYOR

A Tremendous Change—Seth Low Defeated by Plurality of 70,000—Congratulates His Successor—End of a Remarkable Campaign—Fatal and Other Election Fights—Several Men Wounded.

New York, Nov. 4.—After a remarkable campaign in which there was united against him nearly all of the newspapers, and practically every minister of religion in the city, George B. McClellan, son of the civil war general, was yesterday elected third Mayor of Greater New York, over Seth Low, Fusionists, the present Mayor, by the large plurality of about 70,000.

Edward M. Grout was elected comptroller, and Charles V. Fornes, president of the Board of Aldermen. These two men were originally on the Fusion ticket, and were endorsed by Tammany, whereupon the Fusionists took their names from the Low ballots and nominated other candidates.

The result shows a tremendous change of public sentiment since Low's election two years ago, when he won by 31,687. At that time he carried all the boroughs but Queen's. His plurality in Manhattan and the Bronx being 56,668, Brooklyn 25,767, and in Richmond 763. In Queen's, Sheppard, Democrat, had a plurality of 561. Yesterday McClellan carried Manhattan and the Bronx by about 58,000, a gain of 63,000, Brooklyn by about 6,000, a gain of 8,000, and Queen's by about 5,000, a gain of more than 4,000. This makes a total net gain for McClellan of about 103,000 as compared with Sheppard's vote of two years ago. Low carried only one borough, Richmond, by about 200 votes. The result was known early, and at 9.15 Mayor Low sent a telegram of congratulation to Col. McClellan.

Barge Canal Carries.

New York, Nov. 4.—The latest returns indicate that the Barge Canal proposition to widen and deepen the State canals so as to admit of the passage of 1,000 ton barges has been carried by a majority of about 175,000. The proposition carries with it an appropriation of $101,000,000.

Tom L. Johnson Beaten.

Columbus, O., Nov. 4.—Chairman Dick has issued a statement that Herrick, Republican candidate for Governor, would have a plurality in excess of 100,000 in the State over Tom L. Johnson, and that the Republicans would have at least sixty majority on joint ballot in the Legislature.

Massachusetts Republican.

Boston, Nov. 4.—Although somewhat pushed by the exertions of their opponents, the Republicans yesterday re-elected Governor John L. Bates, and the Republican State ticket by practically the same plurality as last year. The Legislature is also strongly Republican. With returns complete from every town and city in the State, the total vote for Governor was: Bates, Republican, 199,393; Gaston, Democratic, 168,544.

Fatal Tennessee Row.

Bristol, Tenn., Nov. 4.—A fatal election row occurred in an election booth at Fairview, in Scott County, Va., yesterday. Two men were killed, one other fatally injured and one seriously. The dead are John Osborne and Ezekiel Nickels; the wounded, J. H. Catron, shot through the neck, will die; Alexander Keys, shot in the right hip. The trouble arose over objections being made to C. P. Roller serving as a Republican judge.

A Senator Arrested.

New York, Nov. 4.—Senator John C. Fitzgerald, Timothy D. Sullivan's successor at Albany, was arrested yesterday in the polling place of the first election district of the sixth Assembly district on complaint of Charles Brewster, a Republican watcher, charging him with disorderly conduct.

Shot in Troy.
